CABINET JOBS GO TO JESSE JONES, FRANK WALKER

Accept Posts Held by Hopkins, Farley.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and Frank Walker, former director of the defunct National Emergency council, today made ready to take seats in President Roosevelt's ever changing cabinet.

Jones, a Texan, will succeed Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins. Hopkins, who lives at the White House and is the closest man to the President in America, resigned on a plea of ill health. He probably will be given the post of business manager of the library Mr. Roosevelt is building as memorial to himself on his family estate at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Walker, a Pennsylvanian, will succeed Postmaster General James A. Farley, who broke with the President on the third term.

Walker a Reluctant Aid.

Walker's choice has not been announced officially, but it was learned authoritatively that he has agreed to accept the post, altho he would prefer to remain outside the administration.

In the two appointments, Mr. Roosevelt is making a desperate political bid for support from two groups to which Jones and Walker appeal. The Texan is the only man in the administration in whom business has any confidence, and Walker's appointment is a bid for the Irish Catholic vote alienated by published reports that Mr. Roosevelt had said that Farley stood no chance for the Presidency because of his religion.

No date has been set for the acceptance of Hopkins' resignation, but it is expected to come before Mr. Roosevelt acknowledges he is campaigning. So far, he has insisted his various tours are not campaign trips but surveys of military and naval defenses.

May Direct Campaign.

It is expected that Hopkins, in his new post, will master mind the President's campaign. He directed the third term drive at the Chicago convention.

Altho nothing definite is known about Hopkins' salary, it will be paid by the government. The President's mother gave land for the library site, funds for the building were raised by a committee which worked thru the Democratic national committee organization, and the President succeeded in having Congress agree that the government would maintain the memorial. Hopkins probably will draw $10,000 a year.

Jones, a multimillionaire, was brought into the Reconstruction Finance corporation at the time of its organization by President Hoover. At the outset of the New Deal, Jones was given the chairmanship of the body, which has been more successful than any alphabetical agency. When the reorganization program brought the RFC under the Federal Loan agency, Jones was made director of the latter body.

Urged as Running Mate.

Before the Chicago convention, conservative Democrats were urging Jones' nomination for the Vice Presidency as a gesture to business. Mr. Roosevelt insisted he would stand or fall on the New Deal, and chose Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, an avowed New Dealer, as his running mate.

Since the Chicago convention the administration has been given the jitters by early polls showing mounting popularity for Wendell Willkie, and many have urged modification of the President's attitude.

Walker, a theater magnate, whose home is at Scranton, was one of the heaviest contributors to the Roosevelt preconvention campaign of 1932 and after the nomination directed Democratic finances. Early in the New Deal he organized the National Emergency council. He left the body and was recalled to it and left again, preferring to conduct his chain of theaters.

Notre Dame Trustee.

Because Walker is the nearest approach in manner and appearance to Farley in the Democratic ranks, he was urged to take over the Democratic national chairmanship. He refused on the ground he lacked Farley's ability. He then was prevailed upon and reluctantly agreed to take the Farley cabinet job. Walker is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and a member of the university's board of trustees.

BERMUDA TOLD IT WILL PROVIDE U. S. AN AIR BASE

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 24 (AP).—The Great sound of Bermuda will be made available to the United States for an air base and possibly for a naval base, on a 99-year lease, Major General Denis Bernard, governor of Bermuda, informed a special session of this British colony's assembly today.

[This is the first specific news of where United States bases on British territory in the western hemisphere might be established. Responsible officials in Washington, D. C., said nothing about it, altho they presumably knew. British Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons last Tuesday that Britain was discussing such bases with the United States, and Foreign Minister Lord Halifax told the house of lords that agreement already had been reached "in principle" with Washington.]

Chief Water Entrance.

Great sound, chief water entrance to Bermuda, is a landlocked, island-studded body of water at the western end of Bermuda Island, the largest of the British colony off the coast of North Carolina—nearly 800 miles southeast of New York and 570 east of Cape Hatteras.

The entrance to the sound is from the north, between Ireland Island on the west and Spanish point on the east.

Protected water from the sound's mouth opposite Ireland Island to the southern shore of Little sound, at its innermost reaches, is about three miles. At its broadest, between Somerset Island on the west and the harbor of Hamilton, Bermuda's chief port, on the east, it is about five and one-half miles.

Bermudans "Deeply Disturbed."

Previous to Gov. Bernard's announcement, the Bermuda assembly had received assurances that the unprecedented step would have no effect on Bermuda's status in the British empire.

A memorial sent to the governor for transmission to Lord Lloyd, British secretary of state for colonies, declared that "the people of Bermuda are deeply disturbed lest some new conception of American hemispheric defense may affect the status of this ancient colony as an integral part of the British commonwealth."

It asked assurance "that nothing be allowed to prejudice our constitution, our government, or our complete happiness and contentment under British rule."

"Unswerving Loyalty."

Reaffirming "unswerving loyalty" to the crown, the memorial recognized that the British government's consideration of the defense proposals was intended "only to further the interests of the empire at this critical juncture," and pledged support of any agreement.

The governor's message, in reply, said the memorial had been answered reassuringly by Lord Lloyd, who declared "there is no question of Bermuda or any part of it being separated from the British empire or of the people of Bermuda ceasing to be British subjects."

As far as Bermuda is concerned, the message said, the negotiations so far are confined to provisions for an air base for which the waters of Great sound would be made available.

"It is, of course, possible that a request for naval bases may be made by the United States," the governor's message added, "and should this be forthcoming, the governor is sure that by giving them most sympathetic consideration he would be furthering the wishes of the people of Bermuda."

JAMAICA TO GET 4,000 REFUGEES FROM GIBRALTAR

New York, Aug. 24.—Private advices reaching here tonight said that hundreds of laborers were employed at Mona, near Hope Gardens, just outside of Kingston, Jamaica, in building a small town for the accommodation of approximately four thousand refugees from Gibraltar. The civil population of Gibraltar originally was moved to French Morocco, but after the capitulation of France it became necessary to find a new haven for them. Finally they were sent to Jamaica.

A final tabulation yesterday showed that 5,246 contestants had entered 12,491 sketches in THE TRIBUNE'S $7,500 fashion design contest, sponsored as a means of encouraging and developing American styles for American women.

The huge totals were taken as an indication that style designers over the whole United States are fully aware of the opportunity to make America the world's mistress of fashion, now that French couturiers are deprived of their long held supremacy by the Nazi invasion.

Inquiries from 46 States.

In every sense this was a national contest. Inquiries about the rules and procedure [a total of 1,877] were received from every state except Nevada and Arkansas. No tabulation by states of actual entries is possible, as entries are kept anonymous until judging is completed, but The Tribune contest department is confident not a state is without representation. The event even evoked queries from Canada and Mexico.

Preliminary judging of the sketches is now being carried out by a committee of experts headed by Mrs. Grace Pickering of New York and Chicago, a noted style authority. From the entries they are to choose 40 models. These will be made up into actual garments which will be displayed on the stage of the W-G-N audience studio on the evening of Oct. 2, and probably on other dates.

The judges who will determine the winners will be selected later.

Mrs. Pickering and her associates have been astonished, not only by the tremendous response to THE TRIBUNE'S prize offering, but also by the multiplicity and originality, the beauty and the coloring, of the ideas advanced. They are sure that these ideas will have an important influence in women's dress trends in the near future. Street, afternoon and formal dresses, suits and sports models have all been dealt with adequately in the contest.

Well Known Experts Compete.

Some of America's best known professionals competed. They are on the same footing, however, as the thousands of talented amateurs whose work gets its first recognition thru the contest. The designer of the best garment will receive $3,000 and of the second best $2,000. There also will be three prizes of $500 each and 20 of $50 each.

Announcement of the competition was made in THE TRIBUNE of July 21. Dress manufacturers and merchants were enthusiastic about the prospects and gave their hearty cooperation. They felt that it was patriotic as well as economically sound to put the designing of women's clothing in the hands of Americans—and they believe the results would be excellent.

So great was the interest displayed that, to accommodate designers in distant states who were late hearing of the contest, the deadline for receiving entries was changed from midnight of Aug. 15 to midnight of Aug. 22 [last Thursday].

Entries Weigh Over a Ton.

Rules required that the sketches be on illustration cardboard 14 by 20 inches. The entries weighed far more than a ton. The quantity and the variety of designs will place a heavy burden on the judges. It has been requested that no requests for return of sketches be made before Oct. 2.

Apparently Illinois and New York were the states most interested. Information requests were received by mail from 630 Illinoisans and 439 New Yorkers. Other states prominent in the list are Wisconsin, 131; Michigan, 70; Iowa, 58; Ohio, 47, and California, 53.

DUCHESS' GOWNS GET RUSH CLEANING IN N. Y. TO MAKE RETURN BOAT

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—All the way from Nassau, the Bahamas, to a cleaning establishment in Manhattan yesterday came a bundle of clothes from the duchess of Windsor.

The package, labeled "Her Royal Highness," arrived on the steamship Acadia. Customs authorities, noting that the gowns were not declared on the ship's manifest, held them at the pier until a steamship official posted $500 covering bond. Then the package was rushed uptown, where a crew of cleaners worked late into the night on the garments.

A few minutes before the Acadia sailed again today, a representative of the cleaners dashed breathlessly back to the pier, the customs passed the bundle and her highness' gowns were Nassau bound.

QUITS U. S. POST; TELLS DISTRUST OF THIRD TERM

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP).—Edward Caffery, United States consul at Niagara Falls, Ont., announced tonight that he had resigned his post and in a prepared statement said he had a "deep distrust of a third Presidential term."

Caffery said he, a "life-long Democrat," was joining his brother, John Caffery, Democratic member of the Louisiana state senate, in declaring themselves for Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President.

He concluded 18 years in the diplomatic service last night, serving assignments in Rumania, Cuba, Costa Rica, and at this border point.

5,000 Felons May Escape Devil's Island

Miami, Fla., Aug. 24 [Special].—The plight of 5,000 desperate criminals—convicts in Devil's Island prison, forgotten by the war torn French government—was revealed here tonight by eight men who left the prison in two canoes May 7.

The story contained the possibility that at least some of the convicts, with the vigilance of guards relaxed because no food nor supplies have been received, might be allowed to escape.

2 Towns; 3 Islands.

The prison has become known thruout the world as Devil's Island, but the name is a misnomer. The prison colony is divided between the towns of Cayenne and St. Laurent, on the mainland of French Guiana, and three islands, of which Ile du Diable [Devil's Island] is the smallest. French Guiana is on the north coast of South America.

The eight men made their way to Trinidad in 12 days. There residents outfitted them with a 26 foot sloop, and they went to Puerto Rico. At Puerto Rico they obtained a map and decided to sail to Canada. They were picked up in Biscayne bay, off Miami, by the coast guard. Lieut. K. P. Maley turned them over to immigration authorities.

The men insisted they were libérés—discharged convicts who had completed their terms but had no way of getting to France for their official release. Their leader identified himself as Jolly Constant, 47 years old, a Breton sailor, who was in the French navy in the world war. He talked thru an interpreter.

Tells His Story.

"The guards did not try to stop us," said Constant. "The French government has sent no food or supplies to the prison in several months. The guards received no money.

"There are 4,800 or 5,000 prisoners, including the libérés. They will all leave or starve. We were told to get food and boats and leave. We did.

"We want to go to Canada, then to England and fight."

The Guiana prison was established in 1852. Since then France has sent to it its most dangerous criminals. Escapes have been few.

He'd Save Razor Blades for Safety of the Nation

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 24 (AP).—A new suggestion on the old problem of what to do with used razor blades comes from Bernard M. Nelson. He has written national defense leaders suggesting a nation-wide movement to establish receptacles for collecting old blades as a means of recovering "valuable material now going to waste."

MILLIONS ROUSED IN NIGHT BY THIRD RAID IN 24 HOURS

TERROR IN SKY, TRAGEDY BELOW: HE SEES BOTH

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

LONDON, Aug. 25, Sunday (AP).—On the streets of air raided London this morning I came upon a little old man watching the scene where an incendiary German air bomb had wrought havoc.

Bobbing his cloth capped head, he complained querulously, "It didn't make half an explosion. It musta been one o' these 'ere incendiary bombs.

"I fell on the floor when I 'eard 'er come whistling down. Then I went out in the street."

An air raid warden ran up, shouting, "Better stand in a shelter, Jack. There's another of those bloody Germans!"

Hear German Planes.

Off to the east, searchlights poked up thru the sky. We could hear the German plane, but couldn't see it. We stood there.

Presently a woman walked past. Tragic eyed, dressed in night-clothing and a man's old greatcoat, she clutched a baby to her breast. There was silence while she passed. The men's faces reflected only a fierce anger.

A man came pounding up the street, bawling, "Stretcher party! Stretcher party!"

His cries soon brought four men carrying stretchers. One of the stretcher bearers was immaculately clad in evening dress.

He Gets a Taxi.

In a few minutes they trudged past in the opposite direction, their stretchers occupied. A limp arm dangled from one. A bloody tunic was thrown across the legs of an unconscious man.

The little old man in the cloth cap muttered curses.

Spotting a cab at the corner, I hailed the driver to ask if he could take me to the office thru the black-out.

"Hell, yes, this ain't nothing," and away we went.

HOPE 'BERLIN'S BLAZING'

BY WILLIAM H. M'GAFFIN.

LONDON, Aug. 25, Sunday (AP).—"I hope to hell Berlin is blazing now," cried a spectator early today as firemen battled a great blaze started by a German incendiary bomb.

"That's right, they better get something for this," another watcher replied.

"Yep, this war's getting serious," agreed a third.

"It looks like indiscriminate bombing to me," said another.

Fire Started Quickly.

I was just coming out of a West End restaurant when a German bomb whistled down and exploded. Fire flared up not far from me almost immediately.

[These references to the West End and to London proper were the only inklings of the raid's location which escaped the British censor's ban.]

Crowds seeped in from the dark, narrow streets about this area, which had been nearly deserted, as usual, on the British week-end. They talked among themselves, quietly but bitterly.

The presence of soldiers, carrying gas masks, gave wartime trimmings to the scene. Policemen let me thru the firelines when I shouted: "American reporter."

Want America Told.

"Go ahead, boy. Tell America about it. Best thing you can do," they shouted.

Just as the firemen got the flames under control, a gutted brick wall started to totter, and the sirens suddenly shrieked again. The throng ran for shelter, falling over tangled firehose, then pulled up abruptly as the police yelled:

"It's just the clear signal. The raiders have passed."

HEARS EXPLOSIONS

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 25 [Sunday].—Most of the 9,000,000 residents of the London area appeared to maintain their calm thru the German air assaults that continued on into this morning. During the third of the German raids, which started around midnight, I heard five explosions and then the whine of airplane motors.

The scream of the air raid sirens yesterday morning, which was the

LONDON, Aug. 25, Sunday (AP).—Germany's air warriors hurled their first direct assault of the war against the heavily protected city of London last night and early today, leaving part of the heart of the British empire in smoking ruins after a furious and prolonged bombing.

The Nazi bombers kept up their work in sporadic attacks on into the dawn but the big raid of the night was upon the city itself. That huge onslaught was the third time in 24 hours that Londoners had scurried for air raid shelters by alarms in the metropolitan area.

First reports, however, told of no serious damage of military importance. The Nazis dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs on the London area, starting several fires. One daring raider swooped in alone in spite of the fierce glare of searchlights beating on him and loosed a big incendiary bomb. A moment later a dull red glow flared up in the sky.

Overhead the din of many airplane motors and gunfire and explosions of bombs brought out London's millions who watched the air battles in the night, or scurried to air raid shelters. Men wearing tuxedos rushed about with the rescue squads answering calls for aid.

Drop Scream Bombs.

Nazi dive bombers were participating in the attack, dropping scream bombs as the battle wore one. The third alarm, sounded at 11:35 p. m., last night, still was in effect three hours later.

It followed closely on mass air attacks on the great naval base at Portsmouth and the bombardment of Dover by long range guns. Wales likewise was under air attack.

There was no immediate indication of how many planes were used in the third attack on London, but the air ministry said the Germans had used 500 bombers and fighters against Portsmouth and the bombardment fighters had been used for yesterday's assaults on southeast England.

Land in Open Fields.

In the earlier attacks on London, bombs fell in the capital's eastern suburbs, but were reported to have caused no damage because they landed in open fields.

While the third air raid warning in the London area still was on, red flashes were reported in the sky over the French coast from Calais to Boulogne, indicating that the royal air force was striking again at German held channel ports and emplacements for the big guns which shelled Dover.

Spurts of flames from the waterline, seen by watchers on the English shore, showed that German anti-aircraft guns were in action against the British bombers.

Casualties at Portsmouth.

In the Portsmouth attack the British said the Germans, driven off from their military targets, loosed their bombs indiscriminately on a residential and working class section of the city. An undetermined number of casualties were caused.

A movie theater was reported smashed and a number of its patrons trapped. Several factories were wrecked. Fires sprang up in the city.

Up to 9:30 p. m. last night, 45 German planes were officially put down as destroyed, against 10 British fighters acknowledged missing.

British Guns Answer.

The long range German guns across the English channel shelled the British coast in the morning and again for 45 minutes in the evening. British coastal guns answered heavily.

The shells from last evening's bombardment fell mostly in rural coastal areas. At first they came five minutes apart, but the interval then lengthened.

An official British announcement acknowledged "considerable damage" from bombs to the Manston airdrome and said there was lesser damage from both shells and bombs in the towns of England's "Hell Corner," across the Dover straits from France.

The air raiders struck hard all over southern England, but smashed particularly at the area of the Thames estuary, the waterway to London.

They thundered first to London's gates yesterday morning, while hundreds of thousands of civilians were going to work. They were beaten off, only to return again in midafternoon and then at night. Squadron after squadron of British Spitfire fighter planes went up to meet them.

Attacked Three Times.

Ramsgate, a modest little seaside resort town about 50 miles to the east, was assaulted by a single force of 21 bombers.

One English town was attacked three times. Fires sprang up after the first raid and while the townspeople were working to extinguish them a second wave of German bombers appeared and pounded the area hard. At last, after the town had been savagely hammered in a third raid, Spitfires chased the Nazis off and the residents set up a cheer.

The Germans came over both the south and southeast coasts. During the day two parachutes, which apparently had not been manned, were found in the industrial Midlands.

A Nine-Hour Attack.

The fury of the Nazi air raids was illustrated by the fact that in one channel area intermittent attacks were made over a period of nine hours. In one East Kent village, while fighter planes battled bombers overhead and antiaircraft guns boomed, a cricket match continued, the only concession being the umpire's decision to wear a steel helmet.

Aerial action was intense over the channel, too. The admiralty announced last night that the British naval trawler Arctic Trapper had shot down two German bombers and damaged two others with three rounds of antiaircraft shellfire.

The air ministry last night made its customary daily announcement of British counterblows over German territory. This time, it was said, R.A.F. bombers in raids Friday had attacked some 20 airdromes and seaplane bases in German occupied Holland and France; "other targets" at Boulogne, Dieppe, and Brest, France; an oil refinery in the industrial German Ruhr, and supply depots in the Rhineland.

Too, it was announced, British bombers penetrated to the outskirts of Paris early yesterday, raiding the big military air base at Villa-Coublay for the second time in a few days. Bombs dropped in low attacks were seen to burst across the airdrome.

HEAR STRASSER, HITLER ENEMY, IS IN PORTUGAL

VILLA DO CONDE, Portugal, Aug. 24 (AP).—Otto Strasser, German archenemy of Adolf Hitler, was reported in refuge tonight in this fishing village.

[A well informed German source in Berlin declared a month ago that Strasser had fallen into Nazi hands in Paris, but German authorities declined comment.]

Strasser is seeing no one here while he is said to be waiting for a brother, Bernard, a Benedictine monk, to arrange for them to cross the Atlantic. Bernard has booked passage on the Pan-American airways for next Tuesday, but there is no booking for Otto. It was believed in Lisbon that Otto might go to Brazil.

[Otto Strasser, a founder of the Nazi party, broke with Hitler in 1930, organized the "Black Front" opposition, and began a campaign against the Nazis.

Otto fled from country to country while plotting against Hitler, was expelled from Greece and Switzerland, was jailed in Czecho-Slovakia, had many hairbreadth escapes, and finally entered France. After the Munich beer hall explosion of last Nov. 8, the Nazi GSP [secret police] charged that Strasser organized the plot as an attempt on Hitler's life with money supplied from Berlin.]

FRENCH MOTHERS GIVEN PRIORITY IN RATION LINES

VICHY, France, Aug. 24.—Mothers with three children under 14 years of age will be given priority when standing in line—which means a lot these days in France when it is necessary to stand in line in the markets for nearly every product that is scarce. Mothers of two children under 4 years of age also will have a right to obtain the cards, as will all mothers decorated with a family medal.

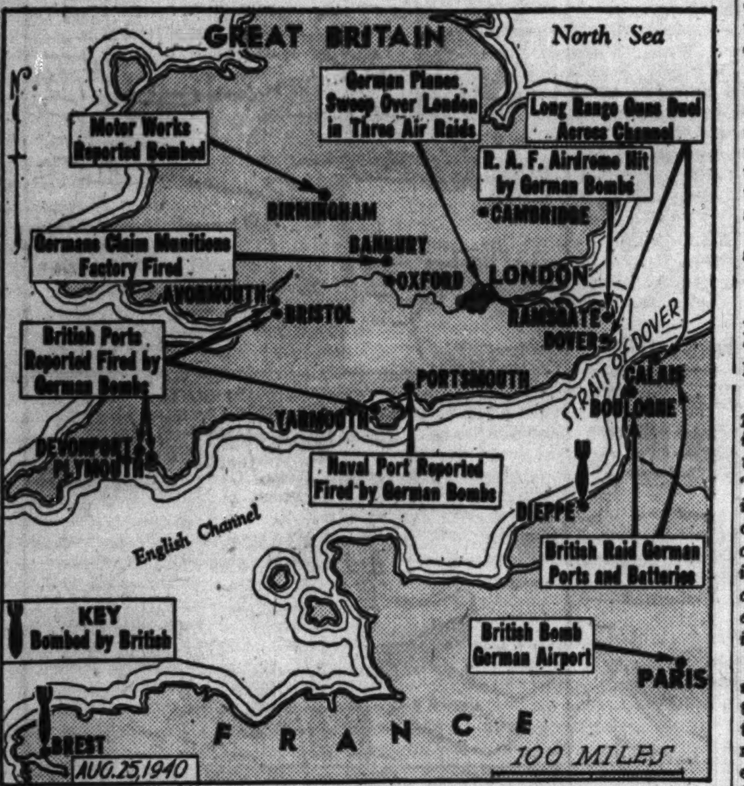
[Wide World Radiophoto.]

This photo, sent from Berlin by radio, shows, according to the German censor approved caption, a German "flying shark" raiding plane as it wings across the English channel. The German censor said this plane is the terror of British flyers.



Principal events of yesterday in renewal of intensified German aerial warfare against Great Britain and of British air force's attacks on German-held territory are indicated on the map.

first day light alarm since last Sunday and the 11th of the war, caught many people during the rush hour. Trains carried on and so did many bus and tram services.

Breakfasts Interrupted.

The sirens interrupted many breakfasts, however. People who had started off to work finished their meals in shelters or under the stairs of their houses. According to the Evening News, "work girls caught in the streets went quietly to the public shelters and many began to sing songs."

Going to a shelter is optional, and a considerable portion of the passengers arriving at stations in the London area preferred to continue on to their offices as tho nothing unusual were happening.

The streets, however, cleared gradually, but there was no sign of fear. The afternoon raid served only to reduce traffic and pedestrian activity to that of a quiet Sunday afternoon.

Some Drivers Halt Buses.

Because many bus drivers operating in the suburbs and other parts of London refused, despite the appeals of passengers, to continue on their routes, a "test case" as to the right of bus drivers to halt service during air raids was predicted in the Evening Star.

The London Transport, which owns the services, has issued instructions to bus drivers to continue to run unless there is a raid in the immediate vicinity. In this case, they must pull up at a shelter, halt near the curb, or turn into a side street.

Early this week the central bus committee on transport of the General Workers' union instructed its members to halt their buses at the nearest shelter when sirens sounded, advise their passengers to take cover, and do so themselves. The committee has pledged to support any member against whom disciplinary action may be taken as the result of his decision to cease driving.

SEES DOVER BATTLES

BY WILLIAM HUMPHREYS.

DOVER, England, Aug. 24 (AP).—German cross-channel guns opened their second bombardment of the day against the Dover area this afternoon while in a brilliant, cloudless sky countless dogfights raged between British fighters and swarms of fighter escorted German bombers.

The bombardment, a resumption of an early morning shelling which caused some deaths here, inflicted little damage. Most of the shells fell harmlessly in open country nearby.

The air tussles raged so high the presence of the fighters was detected only by the rise and fall of the sound of their motors, interspersed by the chatter of machine guns.

I saw two of the planes, just little dots at first but growing bigger and bigger, plummet out of the skies. One crashed into the sea just a few feet off the beach front, its pilot bailing out and coming down far out to sea.

Among the spectators were American born Mrs. Reinier Van Der Woude, the former Mary Wendell of Boston, and her 19 year old son, Gerritt Northam Griggs, American Red Cross representative. They had ringside seats in the garden of her home at nearby Eastry.

Whole Coastline Shudders.

The whole coastline shuddered with falling bombs. Even the war hardened south coast people said:

"This appears to be a day of days."

On the way home, apparently from a bombing expedition, one German plane shot down two balloons over a southeast coast town.

Later in the evening, another German came over on his way home. He ran thru heavy antiaircraft fire. During the afternoon one could hear the thud of falling bombs on the French coast and it appeared that the bombing there was heavier than any other up to this day. At any rate, the German artillery barrage was silent for a time.

NAZIS WARN NEUTRALS AGAINST SUBMISSION TO BRITISH BLOCKADE

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP).—Authorized German sources issued a new warning today to nonbelligerent shippers, asserting that "submission" to the British navicert system is "an unneutral act."

Britain has expanded this system, under which neutral ships' cargoes are approved by British authorities at ports of origin for clearance thru the blockade.

"England is no longer in a position to exercise effective, airtight control of the sea," the German spokesman said. "Therefore, if neutral shipping voluntarily puts itself under British control by letters of safe conduct it does so without compelling necessity."

PART OF ENGLISH NAVAL BASE SET AFLAME: BERLIN

German Raiders Pound at Airports, Too.

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP).—German sources asserted tonight that some of the harbor facilities of the English naval port of Portsmouth had been left in flames today in heavy Nazi air raids over Britain and that the British had lost 50 planes to 18 for the Germans. The fire in Portsmouth was declared to have spread to the city proper.

Airports in southeastern England, especially at Canterbury and Manston, were reported raided "with success."

Nazi sources said "weak" British fighter forces "were almost all shot down" in morning raids on the south of England, and that subsequently the bombers rriding military objectives in the London vicinity "encountered no British fighter defense whatsoever."

Antiaircraft fire was declared light and badly aimed.

Believe Foe Weakened.

The Germans said they believed British fighter strength had been "considerably weakened" by recent losses.

[The National Broadcasting company said last night that both the Italian and British radios had reported that Adolf Hitler had left for his "front line headquarters" somewhere in France "where large military operations are taking place." A special German broadcast, likewise heard in New York, said that 70 bombs were dropped last night on a British troop encampment at Dover, setting buildings afire.]

Authorized Germans said British shipping was jammed helplessly in the west coast harbors, terminals for trans-Atlantic shipments. DNB, German news agency, said photographic evidence proved that the first week of Germany's "total blockade" had paralyzed shipping around the British Isles.

Attack West Coast Ports.

Waves of 20 or more bombers and 10 fighters were declared to have breasted the British southeast coastal defenses during the day, sending a dozen British fighters into the water after spectacular dogfights. Then, according to the German version, the bombers methodically blasted at airports and other military objectives in Kent, southeast of London. "Effective hits on hangars" were reported.

During the previous night constant, widespread attacks were reported to have fired and damaged the west coast ports of Bristol and Avonmouth; Devonport, near Plymouth, and Great Yarmouth, on the jutting Norfolk coast. Arms factories and troop concentrations also were blasted. Cambridge, the university town 57 miles north of London, was specifically mentioned. A munitions factory at Banbury, north of Oxford, was said to have been set afire.

The Morris Motor factory at Birmingham also was "successfully bombed" in the night raids, DNB reported.

Submarines Active.

Submarines, the high command reported, sank more than 100,000 tons of "enemy shipping space" in eight days and a Nazi raider was declared to have dispatched the British "armed" merchantman Turakina in the Tasman sea.

[A New Zealand announcement Friday said the Turakina had not been heard from since she reported she was under a raider's fire Tuesday night.]

DNB further said that five steamers, totaling 21,000 tons, were damaged in an air attack on a convoy near Moray Firth in Scotland and two totaling 15,000 tons must be presumed to have sunk, the agency said.

NAZIS DESCRIBE NAVY OF FRANCE STATIONED IN TOULON HARBOR

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP) [via radio].—French naval units tied up at Toulon, a Mediterranean base, include the battleship Strasbourg, the seaplane carrier Commandant Teste, 10 cruisers, 24 destroyers, 12 submarines, and a number of smaller vessels ,the German wireless declared tonight.

The magazine Das Reich, said all the ships appeared newly-painted and were flying the French tricolor. The Strasbourg is surrounded by scaffolding intended to protect it from British aerial torpedoes, the radio reported.

The Strasbourg, the Commandant Teste, the destroyers Volta, Kersaint, Le Terrible, and Lynx, along with some submarines and torpedo boats, were listed as the only vessels escaping the fight with the British at Oran, Algeria, early in July. Cruisers named in the broadcast as safe at Toulon included the 10,000-ton Algerie, Foch, Dupleix, and Colbert.

REPORT BISHOPS SOON WILL URGE AID FOR HITLER

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP).—Informed quarters declared today that the conference of Roman Catholic bishops of greater Germany at Fulda would publish next month a pastoral letter admonishing all German Catholics to support Adolf Hitler's "fight for Germany's freedom." These sources said the letter would ask the civil population to bear war's hardships cheerfully because sacrifices demanded of civilians were slight compared with those of the soldiers. The bishop's session began on Aug. 19.

KING CAROL ACTS TO AVERT WAR AS PARLEY FAILS

Hungarians to Resume Talk on Transylvania.

TURNU SEVERIN, Rumania, Aug. 24 (AP).—Pressure from King Carol's palace, reported to have actually originated in Berlin, appeared tonight to have opened the possibility for a resumption of the Hungarian-Rumanian conference over Transylvania, which had collapsed earlier in the day.

King Carol.

After the delegates had announced there was no possibility of continuing their negotiations and were even at the railroad station waiting to go home, a new communique was issued jointly by the Hungarians and Rumanians expressing "hope that the negotiations will be resumed in the shortest time."

No decision was reached as to when and where the arguments would begin again over Hungary's demand for the return of Transylvania, lost to her after the world war.

Withdraw Communique.

The original communique, which was formally withdrawn at the request of the Rumanian delegation after it had been public for hours, had read:

"In view of the fact that no common basis can be found for continuing the discussion, on the request of the Hungarian delegation, the conversations have been declared closed."

Later, while the Hungarians were preparing to leave, the Rumanians conferred over the telephone for hours with Bucharest. The new communique followed.

PREPARE FOR DEFENSE

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 24.—Despite announcement late today expressing hope that Rumanian-Hungarian negotiations over Transylvania "will be resumed in the shortest time," all Rumanian army leaves were canceled and reserve officers ordered to report for service. Rumania has neglected no preparedness measures in recent days.

Rumanians say they are convinced the Germans are behind them in their refusal to meet exorbitant demands, which they are determined to defend themselves if necessary.

Inhabitants of Arad, which is one of the disputed towns, have received instructions for antiair raid drill, and in both Arad and Oradia Mare, another disputed town, work on air raid shelters has been pushed as fast as possible in the last couple of weeks.

Demands Toned Down.

Hungary originally demanded two thirds of Transylvania with a total of 3,700,000 inhabitants, nearly one-fifth of Rumania's population, of which, the Rumanian's say, only some 1,700,000 are really Hungarians, and they would take 65,000 square kilometers of territory [26,000 square miles].

After visiting Budapest and learning that the Germans also considered these demands unreasonable, the Hungarians last night modified their demands to 40,000 square kilometers [16,000 square miles]. That was so far beyond the 14,000 square kilometers [5,600 square miles] which the Rumanians might consider that the talks collapsed.

Hungary also has rejected an exchange of populations, which the Rumanians consider essential to any settlement—transplanting Hungarians from other parts of Rumania to the ceded areas and the bringing back of Rumanians from those areas.

They Want no Hungarians.

The Rumanians say there still would be more than 200,000 Hungarians left in Rumania, and the Rumanians do not want any.

Hungary's original demands would have taken from Rumania the important towns of Cluj, Oradia Mare, Arad, Bistrita, Albaiulia, and Brasov. Today's modifications would have spared Brasov and Albaiulia.

Informed sources in Bucharest believe the only outcome is for the Germans to tell the Hungarians how far they can go and halt them there. The best guess is that in the end they will get no more than 30 per cent of what they lost at the end of the world war.

Both Sides Call Reserves.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 24 (AP). Friction over the dispatch of two Rumanian army divisions to Transylvania this week was reported to have figured in the threatened collapse of the Turnu-Severin conference.

In Budapest the news of the failure was followed quickly not only by the summoning of army reservists—as Rumania had done—but by other warlike steps. Additional soldiers were put on guard about the national railway system. Auto bus and taxicab companies restricted their regular service to have military transport available.

The Rumanians already face a serious loss in the anticipated cession of South Dobruja to Bulgaria, final details of which now are being worked out by delegates at Cariova. Rumanians are reported willing to give up the city of Silistra if Bulgaria will consent to a free zone at the port of Balcic on the Black sea, with an open path from there to Constanta.

Strive to Avert Balkan War

The map locates Turnu Severin, Rumania, where Rumanian and Hungarian diplomats have been negotiating over Budapest's demand for a slice of Transylvania. After the conference had broken up in disagreement, King Carol applied presure for its renewal. The map also shows how large a proportion of territory Rumania has lost to soviet Russia and may lose to Hungary and Bulgaria if the demands of the latter countries are fully met.

6 Degrees Below Freezing Temperature in New York

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP).—New York residents awoke today to find topcoat weather as the temperature tumbled to below freezing levels in some sections and established new records for the date. The mercury touched 28 at Dexter airport, base for airplanes at the recent war maneuvers, and 26 at Wanakena in northern New York. Syracuse's 42 and Watertown's 36 were the lowest on record for the day, while Albany's 45 equaled the previous mark.

BELGIAN CABINET IN EXILE PLANS TO QUIT, REPORT

VICHY, France, Aug. 24 (AP).—The refugee Belgian government of Premier Hubert Pierlot plans to resign, informed sources here said today, since it is impossible to function under existing circumstances.

The premier and most members of his cabinet, which attempted to carry on from unoccupied France after King Leopold's surrender, previously offered their resignations, but the king refused to accept them. Now, Belgian sources said, they were determined on unequivocal resignation.

With the great homeward trek of Belgian refugees well under way the ministers' families have returned to Belgium. The ministers themselves are said to have decided to remain in southern France after disbanding the cabinet.

U. S. Refugee Ship Past Danger; Docks Wednesday

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—Army officials said tonight that the United States army transport American Legion, carrying 897 American refugees from Petsamo, Finland, was off the coast of Newfoundland and would dock here Wednesday on schedule. Col. F. L. Whitley, executive officer of the New York port of embarkation, said the vessel, safely past mined areas, had steamed thru heavy fog for the last 48 hours. Among the passengers are Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, minister to Norway, and Princess Martha of Norway and her three children.

NAZIS SEE GREEK ISSUE STIRRING UP WAR CLOUDS

Hint Athens to Get Rome Ultimatum.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—War clouds are gathering over southeastern Europe, it was indicated here tonight. In official circles it was said Germany has not heard of any Italian ultimatum to Greece, demanding bases and a revision of the border in favor of conquered Albania, but it was believed that Italy soon will file "definite claims against Greece."

Dispatches telephoned from Athens said the Greeks were determined to resist any "attempt on their territorial integrity." Greek and Turkish diplomats are the only ones in southeastern Europe who speak with a certain confidence of the "promise of protection given to them by England."

[Fascists have warned that occupation by Britain of the Greek islands of Corfu and Crete would be followed immediately by an Italian invasion from Albania.]

Greece to Mine Gulf.

ATHENS, Aug. 24.—The Greek fleet at noon tomorrow will mine the entrance to the Gulf of Arta between Prevesa and Actium, the southernmost region believed coveted by Italy. It was learned also that foreign governments have been informed of the regions over which airplane flights are banned.

Italy Is Silent.

ROME, Aug. 24.—Silence is being maintained here about Italian-Greek affairs. Not one word of all the alarming reports being printed abroad has been allowed to get into the press or radio.

Official circles assert there is nothing new about relations with Greece and that everything is "normal." Movement of Italian troops to the Greek-Albanian frontier is denied.

Tells of Somaliland Fight.

The Italian high command today issued a long account of the campaign in British Somaliland, which was captured by Italians. This showed that three "groups" of forces were used under Generals Bertoldi De Simone and Bertoldi Nasi, who commanded the campaign as a whole. There were seven native brigades, aided by some Blackshirt battalions.

All technical services — artillery, tanks and armored cars, motorcyclists, police and machinegunners — were commanded by Italians. The bulk of the Blackshirts were used by the left wing, which took Zeila and moved down the coast.

The general strategy was to fix the enemy wings by pushing forward with the two outer columns in a pincer movement and attacking with Gen. De Moine's central force, which bore the brunt of the fighting.

There were three phases of the campaign. In the first, from Aug. 3 to Aug. 6 the troops moved forward, taking Zeila, Hargeisa and Oadweina. In the second, from Aug. 7 to Aug. 15, contact was made with the British force near Adadleh and in four days of fierce fighting the British were defeated. The last phase, from Aug. 16 to Aug. 19, consisted of overrunning the second British line and pursuing the fleeing troops into Berbera.

Attack Italians with Bayonets.

An enemy [Italian] working party about 100 strong was observed and raided in the Fort Capuzzo [in Libya near the Libyan-Egyptian border] area by a small patrol of officers. A detached portion was surprised and rushed with bayonets. Ten were certainly killed and probably 10 more. Seven prisoners were brought back. We had no casualties. On Aug. 23 an ineffective raid was carried out on the outskirts of Khartoum, in the Sudan, by a single aircraft. There was one civilian casualty.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BRITISH INVASION PROBLEMS BARED BY TRIBUNE MAP

These distances, when analyzed, reveal the problems that the Germans face in bombing the British from the air. The narrowest strip of water between England and France is the Strait of Dover, only 21 miles wide at its narrowest point. Here the Germans have the quickest route to the enemy. Because of the short distance across the water, their bombers can carry the maximum loads of bombs, since relatively little motor fuel has to be used to get them to England and back again. So close is England to the Germans here that the Nazi bombing planes in some instances can glide back to friendly soil if they climb high enough when dropping their bombs.

Channel Width Important.

As the English channel widens out to the west of the strait and the North sea widens out to the north the need of more fuel for the round trip of the bomber becomes apparent. From Havre to Southampton the distance is 174 miles and the round trip distance 348 miles, and from Amsterdam to Yarmouth the distance is 120 miles, or 240 miles for the round trip. For each additional mile of flight the motor fuel supply must be increased, and in the same ratio the bomb cargo must be reduced in weight.

Therefore, the problem of bombing that part of England that lies near by is much simpler for the Germans than the problem of bombing the remote parts of England, not taking into consideration other factors.

As the North sea widens out toward the north, distances become much greater. The air distance from Stavanger, Norway, to the Firth of Forth, for example, is 410 miles, which means a round trip of at least 820 miles. And from northern Denmark to Hull the distance is 500 miles, making a flight of at least 1,000 miles necessary to complete the round trip.

Nature Provides Handicap.

An additional handicap presents itself against bombing England and Scotland from Norway and Denmark. That handicap is provided by nature itself in the form of uncertain weather. Over the North sea fogs, mists, and rain occur at all seasons.

With prevailing winds blowing from southwest to northeast, the German bombers from Norway and Denmark would have to buck the winds while crossing over to England and while laden with their heavy cargoes of bombs.

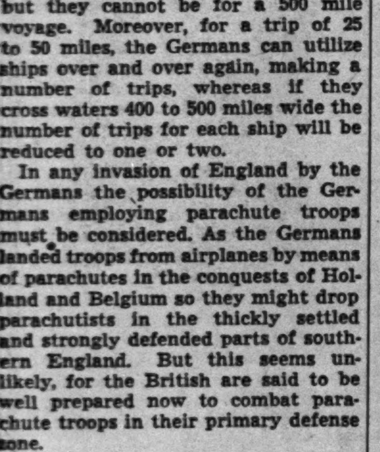
Obviously, if the Germans attempt to invade England by means of surface seacraft, they can carry troops across narrow waters more quickly than across broad waters. If they use transports or vessels of other descriptions to ferry troops across the narrow Strait of Dover or across other short stretches of the channel they can load these craft more heavily than they can vessels to be sailed across the broad expanse of the North sea.

Distance Complicates Job.

Men can be packed in solidly for the short trip of a couple of hours, but they cannot be for a 500 mile voyage. Moreover, for a trip of 25 to 50 miles, the Germans can utilize ships over and over again, making a number of trips, whereas if they cross waters 400 to 500 miles wide the number of trips for each ship will be reduced to one or two.

In any invasion of England by the Germans the possibility of the Germans employing parachute troops must be considered. As the Germans landed troops from airplanes by means of parachutes in the conquests of Holland and Belgium so they might drop parachutists in the thickly settled and strongly defended parts of southern England. But this seems unlikely, for the British are said to be well prepared now to combat parachute troops in their primary defense zone.

It appears rather more likely that the Germans might send parachute troops across from Norway to the Shetland and the Orkney Islands. That far north the North sea narrows to 220 to 310 miles, and, furthermore, the Shetlands and the Orkneys are sparsely populated and perhaps less well protected from troops alighting by parachutes. If the Shetlands and the Orkneys could be taken by means of parachute troops they could then be utilized as bases for attacks on Scotland.



Again this year BALDWIN was chosen to accompany the artists at the Chicagoland Music Festival and the Grant Park concerts.

Bermuda Base Available to U. S.

BYRD DEMANDS EXPLANATION OF DEFENSE DELAY

Only 343 Planes Ordered for 1942 Delivery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Senator Harry Flood Byrd [D., Va.], who consistently has supported the administration's foreign policy, altho he has taken sharp issue with its spending, tonight called upon the New Deal to explain the delay in national defense contracts.

In May, he recalled, President Roosevelt set as the ultimate goal of this nation an air force of 50,000 planes. The senator said he was astonished to learn that so far, 100 days later, only 343 combat planes have been ordered by the army, navy, and marine corps combined and that none of these will be delivered until 1942.

Congress Provides Money.

"Congress is not to blame for this delay," Byrd said, "because every single appropriation requested by the executive branch for national defense has been granted. Two years ago the navy was authorized to purchase 3,000 airplanes and only a part of these have been delivered.

"Those in authority owe an explanation at once as to why no more than 343 fighting airplanes have been ordered in the last 100 days, the period in which Belgium and France were destroyed and England seriously menaced.

"If red tape is to blame the country should know it. If the blame is due to inefficient burocratic administration it should be known. If it is due to the refusal of business enterprise to accept contracts from the government we should know it."

Byrd said it is obvious that a lack of coördination and effective coöperation exists between the different agencies of government in military preparations. He said he had no desire to criticize, but feels he would be derelict in his duty if he did not ask for an explanation of the delays thruout the defense system.

Tells Danger in Weakness.

"I am not an alarmist, but no sensible person can view the world situation without the conviction that in this day of brutal force only the strong will survive," he said. "If America remains a weak military nation, as we are today, we may go the tragic way of those nations conquered by superior force whose manhood and freedom and the right to live their lives have been ruthlessly destroyed by brutal dictators.

"It would be not only futile but foolish to require military training without having adequate mechanized equipment for that training. The battles of Europe have not been won by bravery. They have been won by mechanical coördination of implements for war on land and implements of war in the air—the products of long and effective military preparation."

Byrd said the United States must not make the same fatal errors of delay made by Britain and France, altho she appears to be doing so. He reminded that little has been accomplished in the year the European war has been raging in actual acquisition of equipment.

Prospects for a final vote next week on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill grew today when the senate agreed to restrict debate. Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, obtained unanimous agreement that no senator should speak more than 15 minutes on a proposal by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] to limit to 800,000 the number of conscripts who might be placed under training at any one time.

Barkley told the senate that he had been unable to get all senators to agree to curtail their speeches on the whole bill and for that reason would not seek to set an hour for the final vote. He predicted that the bill would pass by a comfortable margin by next Thursday.

IRELAND SETS UP CENSORSHIP OF ALL WAR NEWS

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 24 (AP).—Rigid new censorship regulations were enforced in Ireland today, making impossible the publication of war news without the government's permission.

If hostile acts of war have taken place in the territory of Ireland, including Ulster [Northern Ireland], or at sea within 50 miles of the coast, the news accounts must be submitted to censorship before publication.

News of attacks or war damage sustained by merchant ships or commercial aircraft, and news relating to attacks on ships or aircraft in transit to or from any Irish port also are to be censored.

Newspapers are forbidden to publish pictures of "wars in progress or lately terminating in any part of the world" without previous censorship. Maps which do not carry captions of a propaganda nature are excepted.

One Dublin newspaper today was required to submit its entire issue, including display and classified advertising and editorials, for approval.

Two Are Killed by Logs When Truck Is Wrecked

Robinson, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—Two men were killed in a truck accident 12 miles northeast of Oblong last night. They were Roy Wade, 35, Willow Hill, driver of the truck, and John Bolander, 31, Newton lumberman. The men were hauling logs to Newton when the truck crashed in a ditch. The logs broke loose from the truck bed and crushed the pair.

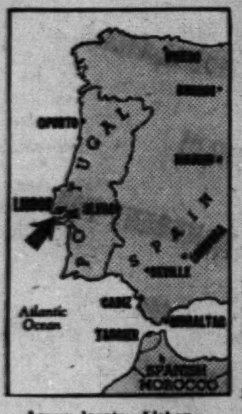
LISBON NOW HUB OF EUROPE AS A RESULT OF WAR

Gateway to Continent Is a Teeming City.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 20 [By Air Mail].—The war may have crippled Lisbon's fair, commemorating its freedom from Moorish and Spanish rule, but it has made this capital of neutral Portugal the hub of Europe's commerce and travel. Often called the most beautiful city in Europe, after Istanbul and Naples, Lisbon today is a thriving, teeming city, as full of noise and its people as carefree as ever.



Arrow locates Lisbon, gateway to Europe.

Because Lisbon, eight miles up the Tagus river from the sea coast, is the last big port of western Europe left open to travelers coming to and leaving the continent, it is swamped with visitors.

Visitors Help Financially.

Boats of all descriptions sail in and out of the harbor, air lines connecting Italy, Spain, England, and the United States use it as a base and railroads converge upon the city from all directions.

These travelers who are spending their money in Lisbon are aiding the country in weathering the financial blow sustained when the war kept the rest of Europe away from its fair.

Because of the present crush of travelers some difficulty in arranging transportation in and out of the country is experienced. There are 250 Americans alone in Lisbon waiting for transportation home. Visa and passport officers, customs officials and police departments are not accustomed to such an abundance of business and consequently are not prepared to speed up their systems.

Best Hotels Filled.

All the city's best hotels have been filled for months and innkeepers have taken advantage of the influx by boosting prices. Persons who arrive without hotel reservations usually have to visit at least half a dozen of the second class hotels before finding a place to sleep. The rates in these hotels have been increased to $5 a day.

Despite these inconveniences, however, Lisbon offers the visitor every opportunity to enjoy himself in attractive surroundings.

Cobblestone streets, echoing the rattle of carts drawn by horses and mules, the blasts of automobile horns, and the shouts of street hawkers, give the city its reputation as a noisy center.

Most of the streets, as well as the sidewalks, are narrow. The main business section is in a flat hollow between the crests of the ridge on which the city is built. Some of the streets rise sharply upward some 400 feet.

Modern Movie Houses.

There are a number of modern movie houses nestled among the city's 18th century buildings and interesting old churches. A zoo, bull fight stadium and unique museums offer other amusements.

The bull fights here probably would please American humane societies. They are quite different from those in Spain and Mexico, where the animals are not only tortured but killed. Here the bulls are only tortured.

When the bulls have completely tired of their fighting and have five or six arrows sticking out of their shoulders they are let out of the ring and their wounds are permitted to heal before they appear in another session.

Benevolent Dictatorship.

Politically, the country is termed a benevolent dictatorship. While Gen. Antonio Oscar Carmona is president of the republic and Dr. Antonio Salazar is prime minister, it is another Italian type setup. Salazar, in reality, is the absolute dictator. The great difference between Salazar and other dictators is the fact that he has been, as some people phrase it, "sentenced to the job."

Salazar, a lawyer who was dividing his time between the legal profession, teaching finance and economy and studying for the ministry was drafted. Since taking over, he has put the country's finances on a sound footing, balanced the budget, set up a surplus and kept its industries, particularly shipping, running profitably.

With an area of 41,328 square miles, Portugal has an estimated population of 7,460,000. The country is hilly, with numerous rich valleys.

Grains, wine, olive oil, cork, sardines, resin, and turpentine are the country's chief products. The standard of living is low, due to low wages, but food prices are kept in proportion. Gasoline, however, costs about 50 cents a gallon.

WAR'S WIZARDRY MAKES 2 PLANES APPEAR AS ONE

British Camouflagers Do It with Paint.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The British have developed some new camouflage technique, especially as it is applied to aircraft. A significant example of this is their method of creating an optical illusion which makes two planes appear as one. This is done by painting the underside of a plane's right wing silver and the underside of its left wing black. When flying in close formation at a great height two planes thus painted often appear as one because half of each plane's total wing surface seems to disappear.

Most warplanes have the topsides of their wings painted drab browns and greens in irregular patches so that a plane flying at a low altitude may blend with the earth's surface enough to avoid or hinder detection from above. The underside of a low flying plane is usually painted in light colors to make it less conspicuous against the sky, while night flying bombers always have the undersides of their wings painted a dull black to produce minimum reflection of enemy searchlight beams.

Tint for Sea Is a Secret.

The British have not revealed the secret of the color they use to blend their planes with the sea surface, but it is said to be unusually effective. The only clew that can be given to the color is the fact that both belligerents agree that its opposite is bright yellow. In other words, bright yellow is the color used for small rubber boats and life saving vests, known as "Mae Wests" to the British, because that color is the easiest to see on water. These yellow boats and vests are now supplied all German and British airmen operating regularly over the sea and they have on numerous occasions enabled injured flyers to be rescued promptly.

Camouflage for near and distant vision varies considerably and consideration of the distance from which the enemy will first view a camouflaged object is important. Pillboxes along winding roads are sometimes painted to resemble surrounding trees. The same painted greenery would be useless as distant camouflage, however, because the outline of its structure could be seen much farther than the details of its coloring.

Break Outline for Distant View.

For distant camouflage it has been proved best to paint large diagonal or irregular patches to give a false impression of the general outline, using tints of the surroundings. If real foliage is used it should be changed at least once daily so that it will retain the freshness of the growing foliage around it, otherwise it might betray to keen eyed scouts the position it is used to protect.

The only restraint on camouflaging being enforced in Britain is the recent order for civilian automobile owners "not to paint their cars with what is known as disruptive camouflage [gray and khaki jazz patterns] because they might be mistaken for service vehicles." Dark or neutral shades other than khaki and gray are being recommended by the ministry of transport.

Japs Free British Soldiers After Expression of Regret

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 24 (AP).—Two Seaforth Highlanders [British soldiers], arrested twice last night in Japanese-occupied Hongkew on charges of assault and battery, were released by Japanese today after Maj. S. R. Hunt, liaison officer of British forces, expressed regret for their misconduct. The Japanese press had predicted authorities would demand an apology. The men were accused of striking six Japanese and Chinese,

AIR RAID ALARMS SOUND IN BERNE, GENEVA TWICE

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 25 [Sunday] (AP).—Air raid alarms sounded twice last night and early today in Berne and Geneva. The first alarm in Berne lasted 50 minutes. On several previous occasions when alarms have been given in Switzerland, it was officially stated that British planes were crossing this little country toward Italian and German objectives, with second alarms when the planes returned toward home.

NAZIS TAKE OVER CONTROL OF HIGH DUTCH OFFICES

Assume Right to Oust Queen's Appointees.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Aug. 24 (AP) [via Berlin].—Germany's iron grip on Holland was tightened another notch today with an announcement that high officials formerly appointed by Queen Wilhelmina henceforth will be named by Reichscommissioner Arthur Seyss-Inquart. He also will have the power of dismissal formerly exercised by the queen.

Officials affected include the secretary general of administration; members of the state council; the president, vice president, and attorneys general of the Supreme court and other high courts; heads of the Dutch government police; heads of municipal police; commissioners of provinces formerly called "commissioners of the queen"; mayors of provincial capitals and of towns with more than fifty thousand population, and the president of the Netherlands bank.

Move One of a Series.

The German move was the latest in a series which, since the occupation of Holland by German troops last May, restricted civil liberties and sharpened German control over the conquered country.

Last month decrees established the death penalty for Dutchmen convicted of giving aid to the British, created special courts to try cases involving Germans or Dutchmen accused of offenses against the reich, prohibited listening to foreign broadcasts, put Leftist parties under the control of commissioners, and authorized confiscation of the property of individuals or organizations agitating against the reich.

Japs Name East Indies Envoy.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 24 (AP).—The government announced today it has decided to send Commerce Minister Ichizo Kobayashi as a special envoy to the Dutch East Indies, instead of Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, exponent of an aggressive Japanese policy in the South seas.

Gen. Koiso had predicted friction between the United States and Japan over the Dutch East Indies' rubber and raw materials and had indicated his appointment as special envoy depended upon the government's acceptance of his program.

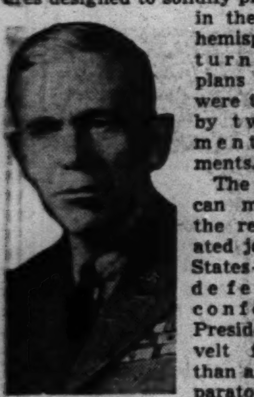
CHIEFS OF STAFF OF 20 REPUBLICS INVITED TO U. S.

Name La Guardia to Head Joint Defense Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Measures designed to solidify preparedness in the western hemisphere and turn defense plans to reality were taken today by two governmental departments.



Gen. George C. Marshall.

The six American members of the recently created joint United States—Canadian defense board conferred with President Roosevelt for more than an hour preparatory to leaving for Ottawa tomorrow for the board's first meeting Monday.

About the same time Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, disclosed that he had invited the chief of staff and one officer from each of the 20 Latin American republics to visit the United States in October and inspect this country's military establishments.

Itinerary for Visitors.

The tentative itinerary of the South and Central American visitors includes Washington, D. C., the infantry school at Fort Bennings, Ga., air corps centers at Barksdale, La., and San Antonio, Tex., as well as ground troop activities at San Antonio, the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla., Fort Knox, Ky., and the military academy at West Point, N. Y.

The inspection tours will be made by airplane in two groups, one from Oct. 1 to 14 and the other from Oct. 16 to 30. The first group will include representatives from Bolivia, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay, Panama, the Dominican republic, Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatemala, and Colombia. The second group includes officers from Ecuador, Chile, Haiti, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Venezuela, Mexico, Brazil, and Cuba.

Confer at White House.

The White House was the scene of the conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the American members of the permanent board of defense for the western hemisphere set up last week by the President and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada.

Also present at the conference were Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, among the leading interventionists in the official family. These two cabinet members are said to be strongly in favor of releasing 50 or more American destroyers to Canada and thence to Great Britain.

After the conference the defense board members retired to a White House reception room for their first organization meeting. They elected Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York their chairman.

Report Destroyer Promise.

It has been reported in official circles that President Roosevelt already has promised Winston Churchill, the British prime minister, that the 50 destroyers sought by England will be delivered. Plans for turning them over to Canada have been agreed upon, it is said, and await only Mr. Roosevelt's final approval.

A device for giving the deal a cloak of legality is seen in the new defense agreement between this country and Canada, of which the joint board is an important integral. The presence of Stimson and Knox at the meeting today gave added weight to these reports.

Hull Issues Statement.

Meantime Secretary of State Hull appealed to the American people for united support of full preparations to defend the western hemisphere. He issued the following statement:

"I feel constrained to reëmphasize the view upon my return from the Havana conference that the possibilities of danger to the American republics are real; that a threat to any important part of the Americas means a threat to each and all of the American nations.

"The conclusion is, therefore, inescapable that full and adequate preparations for hemispheric defense cannot be completed too soon. I desire again to appeal for the fullest possible measure of unity on the part of our people in support of such program of defense and of related foreign policies."

Launching Sponsor

[Acme Photo.]

Carlota Sepulveda Chapman.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 24—[Special].—Miss Carlota Sepulveda Chapman of Los Angeles, descendant of an old Spanish family in California, will be the sponsor next Wednesday at the launching of the Moore-McCormack line's new ship, the Mormacsun. This ship, built for Pacific coast service, will be launched in the yards of the Moore Shipbuilding company in Oakland. It is a 12,000 ton craft, one of three sister ships.

COUNT OVER 1,200 NAZIS, FASCISTS NOW IN PANAMA

PANAMA, Panama, Aug. 24.—Police investigation of persons here illegally revealed many from totalitarian countries and others with passports of countries now dominated by Germany, it was reported today.

It was noted that few Germans now use German passports, preferring those of the Netherlands, Norway or Denmark.

The checkup indicated the presence in the republic of more than 1,200 Nazis, Fascists and persons with passports of countries conquered by Germany, with more than 900 in this city and in Colon, near the terminals of the Panama canal. These persons were said to be living in the best apartment houses, and apparently keeping under cover as much as possible.

Child Killed, Six Persons Injured in Auto Crash

Paxton, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—Nelda K. Hari, 4 years old, of Rankin, Ill., was killed and six others were injured this morning when the car in which they were riding crashed into a concrete culvert and overturned, one mile west of here. Among those injured are the parents of the dead girl, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Hari, and their son, Eldon 8.

NAZI DOUGHBOYS' FIRE POWER: 840 SHOTS TO U.S.480

Squad Is Smaller, Ratio of Arms Is Greater.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 24.—Comparison of American and German infantry organizations, insofar as the latter are known, indicates that the Nazis have obtained greater weapon power per man than has the United States.

At the base of the infantry organization is the squad, which in the German army is 10 men. Each of these 10 men is armed with a semiautomatic rifle containing a clip of eight cartridges. In addition the squad has a light machine gun operated by three members of the squad, while a fourth carries ammunition.

Thus the maximum combined fire power of the squad is the sum of 600 rounds per minute by the machine gun plus the fire of six semiautomatic riflemen, who fire an estimated 40 shots per minute. This sum would be 840 shots, plus the explosive effect of 30 hand grenades, for each man carries three of these.

12 Men in U. S. Squad.

Tables of organization call for 12 men per squad at war strength in the American army. It is proposed that each man shall be armed with the Garand semiautomatic rifle, tho only a few in the regular army and hardly any in the National Guard now have it.

Presuming that the American soldier also fired 40 shots per minute with a Garand, the American squad would have a fire power of 480 shots per minute, compared with the German squad's 840.

This does not take into consideration the fact that the American soldier does not, in peace time, carry grenades. Troops do take a grenade course of a few weeks in which they fire the American pineapple type grenade.

Nor does it take into consideration the fact that the American army at peace strength has only eight men per squad, and that in many cases squads are not now up to peace strength, even.

Battalion Setup Kept Secret.

The number of men in a German battalion appears to be secret, but the battalion is thought to have four—maybe only three—companies. The American setup is three rifle companies and one heavy weapons company per battalion.

Rifle companies are supposed to have one 60 mm. mortar section—13 men at war strength with three mortars, one of which is for defense situations only. Actually there are no 60 mm. mortars. None has been issued.

Each rifle company also is expected to have a light machine gun section of 16 men at war strength, with four light machine guns. Actually no light machine guns have been issued and the army has been forced to use the Browning automatic rifle as a substitute. In many cases even this weapon is not the modified weapon now considered desirable—that is, with a bipod rest and cyclic control mechanism which slows the rate of fire.

Slower Fire; Better Aim.

The American army stresses aimed shots and considers this end more easily attained with this weapon if the fire rate is slowed down with the cyclic control mechanism.

Both the American and German battalions have a heavy weapons unit. The German unit has the following weapons: 12 heavy machine guns of 14 mm. caliber [about .55 inch]; six mm. mortars; six 60 mm. mortars.

In the Americal battalion the heavy weapons company has 16 .30 caliber machine guns; two .50 caliber machine guns; two 81 mm. mortars.

Thus the German battalion's heavy weapons unit has six times as many .50 caliber machine guns as the corresponding American unit. It has three times as many 81 mm mortars.

Unique German Unit.

The Germans also have in the infantry regiment a unit not contained at all in the American regiment. It is a supplementary regimental unit containing this impressive armament: Two 150 mm. howitzers; four 110 mm. gun howitzers; six 75 mm. gm. howitzers; six 80 mm. mortars; six 60 mm. mortars; six 37 mm. antitank guns, and 12, 14 mm. machine guns mounted in pairs as antiaircraft or antitank weapons, or for adding to infantry machine gun fire.

The only thing in the American infantry regiment which might be compared with it is the antitank platoon of the headquarters company, which is supposed to have six 37 mm. antitank guns.

Supporting the German infantry regiments is a special artillery regiment containing an unknown number of guns of 420 mm. [about 16 inches]; of 210 mm. [about 8 inches]; of 150 mm. [about 6 inches]; of 105 mm. [about 4 inches]; of 75 mm. [about 3 inches].

Outclassed in Artillery.

Compared with this array, the American divisional commander has within his command only two types of artillery: 75 mm. guns and 155 mm. howitzers.

In the square division [two brigades of two infantry regiments each] he has 48 of the 75 mm. guns and 24 of the 155 mm. howitzers. In the triangular division he has 36 of the 75 mm. weapons and 16 of the 155 mm. howitzers.

In each of these regimental artillery units, therefore, the Germans have not only the two kinds of artillery which an American divisional commander has—the 75's and the 155's [German weapon is 150 mm.]—but also the 105's. The German divisional artillery regiment, furthermore, includes weapons of a size which only army or G. H. Q. has in the American setup—that is the 16 and 8 inch weapons.

German divisions also have units not provided for at all in American divisions—units equipped with flame throwers and mine detectors. There also are batteries of antiaircraft weapons, which are corps artillery in the American army.

CORPS EXERCISE AT CAMP M'COY IS BEGUN IN RAIN

Biggest Maneuver of 2d Army Training Period.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 24.—Under overcast skies from which rain fell intermittently, the 2d army today began the biggest maneuver of the three weeks training period. This time it was corps against corps—the 6th corps of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin against the 5th corps of Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, and Kentucky.

It was from concealed bivouacs set up yesterday that the first elements of the two forces moved out at the starting time—12:30 p. m.

The 6th corps, including the 33d division of Illinios, the 32d division of Wisconsin and Michigan, and the 5th division of the regular army, was in the general area of Black River falls. The 5th corps was in the area just west of Necedah.

Thus at the start the two forces were about 40 miles apart.

Move to Meet Invaders.

The 6th corps—Reds—and the 5th corps—Blues—each had a mission which will bring them together in a battle along a line to be determined by the handling of the two forces under the commands of their respective generals—Maj. Gen. Irving A. Fish of the Michigan-Wisconsin National Guard in the 6th corps, and Brig. Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, 5th corps area commander, in the 5th corps.

Known as Training Exercise No. 5, the problem presupposes that Red forces crossed the Mississippi river north and south of Dubuque, Ia., last Monday. They had moved out to meet the Blues, who are considered to be the advance detachment of a larger Blue force which supposedly landed from Lake Michigan near Milwaukee to invade the territory defended by the Reds.

A war bulletin announced that advanced elements of the Blues, consisting of motorized infantry and scout cars, were struck on the flank by scout cars of the Reds. The Blues detrucked and the Reds were forced to withdraw, the umpires holding the Blues were superior. This contact was made at road junction 989, near Purdy school on Purdy Valley ridge, indicating both sides hoped to control that high ground.

The problem presupposed that Blue bombing aviation had destroyed the highway and railroad bridges over the Mississippi river between Lacrosse and Wabasha in an effort to cut communications behind the Reds in the Black River falls area.

Screening the advance of the Reds was the 53d cavalry brigade, which includes Illinois troops, under command of Brig. Gen. Robert Immell. Screening the advance of the Blues was the 54th cavalry brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen Newell C. Bolton of Cleveland, O.

Gen. Fish gave the 33d division of Illinois the task of advancing with strong reconnaissance forces and occupying high uplands to screen part of the remaining Reds.

The 53d cavalry brigade, assisted by the 33d division on its reconnaissance mission, moved in a generally eastward direction. Reinforcing the brigade were engineers, field artillery, and a platoon of the 23d cavalry [mechanized] of Springfield, Ill.

Urges Closer Contacts.

Col. Ralph Talbot Jr., chief of staff of the 6th army corps, urged improvement in the means of informing staff intelligence of plans and training officers of data gathered by intelligence agencies. He warned that field orders should not be taken too close to the front and recalled that in the preceding problem one side captured an operation plan of the other side and later seized a code book which resulted in sending fake messages.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, 2d army commander, in commenting on the preceding problem, asserted that it showed marked improvement in camouflage. He said he flew twice over the command post without seeing anything there to give away its identity until a motorcycle and trucks disappeared in the woods near the location. He warned that under such circumstances vehicles should be forced to continue on to some other place so as not to give away command post locations.

Gen. Ford stressed the need for troop security when marching along the roads. Troops should take cover immediately when hostile aviation is near, he said.

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, arrived at 4 o'clock by plane from Washington, D. C., to visit Gen. Ford and observe the maneuvers.

KENTUCKY'S HORSE CAVALRY REGIMENT TO LOSE THEIR MOUNTS

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 24 (AP).—Informed that they were to be unhorsed, troopers of the 123d Cavalry regiment, Kentucky National Guard, greeted the announcement today with such comments as "imagine a Kentuckian without a horse."

Sen. Alben Barkley [D., Ky.] wired public relations headquarters of the Second Army, in training here, confirming reports that the 123d would be converted into a miliary police battalion and a separate automatic weapons battalion.

Adj. Gen. John A. Polin, commanding the regiment, is at Camp Williams, Wis. Reached in the field, Polin said:

"We're against it. The recent maneuvers in Louisiana as well as our experience in the swamp terrain of the Wisconsin maneuvers have convinced us of the need of horse cavalry in the American army. The United States has much terrain where only horse cavalry is practical. We Kentuckians are used to our horses and while we take our orders and like 'em, we want to keep our mounts."

FALLS DEAD ON STREET.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—Rubin Miner, 79 years old, lifelong resident of Kankakee county, fell dead of heart disease today on the street near his home in Momence. Funeral services will be held Tuesday in the Momence Baptist church. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Cook of Chicago Heights.

ADMIRAL URGES AID FOR BRITAIN AND CHINA, TOO

War in Asia Vital to U. S., Yarnell Warns.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 24 [Special].—The scope of war mongering was expanded by Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, U. S. N., retired, tonight to include China among the troublous foreign fields in which interventionists are urging this country to exert influence.

He was the second retired admiral recently to advocate such action. Admiral William H. Standley, former chief of naval operations, urged in a radio appeal two weeks ago that the United States release naval vessels to bolster the resistance of Great Britain.

Opposes Draft Program.

Altho Admiral Yarnell supported the efforts of New Deal interventionists, he slapped at the administration's draft program by asserting he saw no need for the proposed army of 2,000,000 men. He contended that efforts should be concentrated on building up the fleet.

Admiral Yarnell commanded the United States' Asiatic fleet for three years until his retirement last year. His service was marked by frequent clashes with the Japanese. The most serious incident was the sinking of the American gunboat Panay and the shelling of the cruiser Augusta at Shanghai. His last official act before returning to the United States was his refusal of Japanese demands that he take his fleet out of Swatow harbor.

"Two Great Despotisms."

In urging tonight all possible aid for Great Britain and China, Yarnell told an audience at a reunion of the Second Naval District association that the future of the United States as a nation depends on "the overthrow of the two great despotisms in the west and in the east."

"If Great Britain and China are defeated," he said, "our own future safety and existence as a nation are in far graver peril than they are today. And make no mistake, the outcome of the war in Asia is as important to us as that in Europe."

He advocated that this country send planes, destroyers and other necessary naval craft to Great Britain and repeal the neutrality and Johnson acts so that food and munitions may reach her.

Must Open Burma Road.

"As for China," the admiral continued, "we can stop war material going to Japan, insist on the opening of the Burma road, make the necessary loans to support the nationalist government, and strengthen the Asiatic fleet, basing the reinforcements at Singapore."

Citing speeches by Adolph Hitler and Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka of Japan as evidence of Fascist intentions to rule the world, Admiral Yarnell warned that if the liberties won by bloodshed in past centuries were lost now, the world will revert to the dark ages as far as the rights of man are concerned.

"The primary defense of this nation rests with the navy," he said, "so we must have a fleet complete in all its elements that can seek out the enemy fleet in time of war and destroy or immobilize it. We must maintain command of the seas for ourselves.

Blasts "Defense Only" Idea.

"This requires the spirit of the offensive which is the only spirit that will win in war. It is a pernicious idea to imagine that the fleet can protect the nation by remaining on the defensive in our own waters.

"Personally, I cannot see any necessity for an army of 2,000,000 men which has been proposed. Outside of garrisons for outlying and temporary bases, we should not send troops in numbers outside of the United States, either to Europe or Asia. It would be much better to spend the money on a navy of sufficient strength to render invasion out of the question."

Hopkins Resigns

EXPECT LEGION TO AVOID STAND ON CONSCRIPTION

Danville, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—A recommendation for enlarged land, sea, and air forces—without mention of conscription—tonight headed defense proposals before the 22d annual Illinois convention of the American Legion.

As a record breaking influx of delegates and visitors milled thru streets and hotel lobbies, a Legion committee waded thru 151 resolutions.

So far, officials said, not a single resolution deals with the highly controversial subject of conscription. Maj. Omar McMackin of Salem, chairman of the convention national defense committee, said he did not believe the convention would be asked to take a stand on the subject.

Instead, Maj. Macklin said, his committee would recommend enlargement of the three main arms of the service. Commander L. N. Bittinger of Onarga will call the first official session to order tomorrow night.

NEW HARD-RIDING CANADIAN CYCLE SQUADS FORMED

LONDON, Aug. 24 (AP).—New motorcycle reconnaissance squads made up of hard-riding sharpshooters have given the Canadian active se[rvice] force in England a new striking and scouting force.

Adapted to counter the German motorcycle raiders who dashed through France, tearing up and firing the countryside, each of these squads is composed of three heavily armed men who ride a motorcycle and side car.

A large number of the cycles manufactured in the United States for the French army were diverted to the Canadians.

EPISCOPALIANS OF JAPAN OUST FOREIGN BISHOPS

Britons Out; Americans Expected to Resign.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 24.—Three British bishops of the Japanese Episcopal church have been forced to resign and three American bishops who are in the United States attending the Protestant Episcopal convention will be expected to resign when they return.

The Britons are Bishops Samuel Heaslett, John Charles Mann, and John B. Simpson. The Americans are Bishops Charles S. Reifsnider, Norman S. Binstead, and Shirley H. Nichols. The Americans' resignations were promised by Japanese bishops who had not consulted them.

Henceforth no foreigner may occupy any executive position in the Japanese church and the church may not accept financial help from abroad.

House of Bishops Rules.

The decision on the resignations was made by the Japanese house of bishops on Wednesday. The house of bishops is the highest authority of the Nippon Seikokwai, an amalgamation of churches founded by American and British Episcopal missionaries. The proceedings that led to the house of bishops' meeting began when seven Japanese Salvation Army chiefs were arrested on July 31.

When the American bishops return they will be in the position the British bishops now occupy, deprived of their authority and reduced to waiting until their Japanese colleagues invoke their services. The British bishops do not expect to remain in Japan.

A religion bill, which is now being prepared, will require all religions, Christian, Buddhist, and Shinto, to fit into the framework of Japan's new national structure.

Eighty Years of Service.

American missionaries have given Japan 80 years of service and raised millions of dollars for religious, educational, medical, and philanthropic enterprises. The church institutions were built up on lines that contemplated the eventual transfer of authority to Japanese, and Japanese have been trained to administer them.

When the American missionaries go they will leave monuments to Christianity behind them, including St. Luke's hospital in Tokio, the construction of which was the life work of the late Rudolph Bolling Teusler of Richmond, Va., and St. Paul's University of Tokio, both Episcopal; Aoyama college in Tokio, created by American Methodists; Women's university, established by Presbyterians, and scores of colleges, schools, orphanages, and settlements.

BULLITT DENIES PROMISE OF U. S. HELP TO FRANCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] today made public in the senate a denial from Ambassador William C. Bullitt that he had promised France that this country would enter the European war.

Then denial took the form of a letter protesting "many misstatements" in a newspaper article by the senator's sister, Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson. Similar statements had been made in the senate by some critics of the ambassador.

"Paul Reynaud did not become French premier until more than six months after France had gone to war," Bullitt wrote. "Never, at any time, to any French premier or any one else, did I write a letter indicating or intimating that if Frence went to war, she would be followed in a short time by the United States."

The ambassador said a published statement that he sat in French cabinet meetings was "fantastic nonsense."

Clark also placed in the record an explanation from Mrs. Thomson that her article had been based upon published reports she regarded as authentic.

FEATURE EVENTS SET FOR TODAY IN SAILPLANE MEET

15 Pilots Go Up Despite Rain on Opening Day.

A drizzling rain fell and the weather was generally murky, but this didn't prevent 15 glider pilots from going aloft yesterday and inaugurating the third annual American Open Soaring meet at the Lewis School of Aeronautics airport, on highway 66, six miles north of Joliet.

These 15 pilots participated in a spot landing contest. Other features such as distance, altitude, and duration fights were canceled, but today—depending on favorable conditions, all scheduled events will be held, starting at noon.

Watch Spot Landings.

Several hundred spectators yesterday were rewarded with thrills as the pilots went thru their paces. One by one they were pulled aloft to an altitude of 600 feet by winches powered by automobile motors. Then, on their own, they tried to land their planes in a circle 15 feet in diameter.

Lyle A. Maxey, a railroad shop foreman of Detroit, Mich., landed his Franklin glider only four inches from the bull's eye, or center of the landing ring. Stanley Corcoran of Joliet won second honors by stopping his Frankfort Cinema glider 27 inches away. Laurence Edgar of Wauseon, O., hit the circle's edge to win third place.

Events on Today's Program.

Today's scheduled events include duration, distance and altitude flights, more spot landings, a parachute jump from a two place sailplane, a demonstration of how a glider is towed by a power plane, and an hour's demonstration of how youths are taught to fly power planes under the federal civilian pilots' training program. Radio transmitters will carry conversations of instructors and students, from high overhead, to spectators.

Thirty glider pilots, including a woman, Mrs. Helen Montgomery, are participating in the meet, a 10 day affair sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization. Cash prizes totaling $3,000 will be awarded. To the contest champion will go the single largest cash award, $500 and a trophy, presented by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Admission to the airport is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Aides of Senator Robert La Follette [Prog., Wis.] said today that the Work Projects administration notified them President Roosevelt had approved a $7,605,825 project for improvement of parks and recreational areas in Milwaukee, Wis. The project may be undertaken at the discretion of the state WPA administrator.

Army Approves 50 Flying Cadets from Chicago Area

More than 50 Chicagoans and suburban residents have been approved as flying cadets in the United States army, Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, announced yesterday. Also approved are 50 other young men outside the immediate Chicago area. The entire group will report for active training duty Sept. 11.

POLICE AND FIRE GROUP TO FIGHT PENSION CHANGE

A delegation representing the police and fire departments will leave for Washington, D. C., today to oppose a bill before congress which, it was said, may jeopardize the pension rights of civil service employés of the city. The bill, introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], would place all city, county, and state employés under provisions of the federal old age pension law.

John L. O'Malley, president of the Chicago Patrolmen's club, said the bill as now drafted might wreck the civil service employés' pension system.

"City employés now have one of the best municipal pension systems in the country," he said. "They contribute 4½% per cent of their salary each year to that pension fund and do not want it tampered with."

Others in the delegation will be Capt. Patrick Kelly of the fire department and John F. O'Malley, secretary of the police pension board.

Capt. Read Assigned as Naval Attache at Ottawa

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—The navy today assigned Capt. Oliver M. Read as naval and air attaché at Ottawa in another move toward closer defense relations with Canada. Capt. Read, now on duty at the navy department, is the first to fill the post. The army assigned an attaché to Ottawa for the first time earlier this year. Read is a native of Beaufort, S. C., and won the navy cross in the world war for service as commander of a submarine operating in European waters.

Rush to Pay Realty Tax; Collect $457,473 in Day

Property owners thronged the office of County Treasurer John Toman yesterday and paid $457,473 on the second instalment of their 1939 real estate taxes. Collections for the week totaled $3,697,057. Deadline for the payment of the second instalment is Sept. 1. The county treasurer's office force will be increased this week to handle the crowds.

POLICE RESCUE DESTITUTE WIFE AND 3 CHILDREN

Police found a destitute mother and her three children wandering at Harrison and Wells streets yesterday. Capt. Thomas Duffy and his men contributed $10 to the family at the Central station and established the wanderers in a hotel. The mother is Mrs. Eva McBride, 32 years old. The children are Juanita Joyce, 9 months old; James, 5 years old, and Patricia Ann, 11. Mrs. McBride said her husband, Guy, is destitute and jobless in St. Louis, Mo. Arrangements were made to bring him here to rejoin his family.

THE CORONATION, FAMOUS BRITISH ENGINE, SCRAPPED

LONDON, Aug. 24.—One of Great Britain's most famous locomotives, the Coronation, predecessor of the engine at the head of the train Coronation Scot, now on view at the New York World's Fair, has been withdrawn as obsolete and will be broken up for scrap to be used in the national war effort.

It will yield more than 50 tons of metal after salvage of usable parts.

The old engine, which formerly hauled the royal train, was named in honor of the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary 29 years ago. It had traveled 1,013,610 miles. The modern Coronation Scot was built and named in honor of the present king and queen.

VENEZUELA, RICH IN OIL, GUARDED BY ANTIQUE ARMY

Air Force Most Effective Arm of Defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 24.—This country could muster roughly one division—12,500 men—to the defense of its 2,000 miles of rugged coast and its 8,000 equally rugged miles of mountainous interior border should an enemy attempt an attack against the world's richest producing oil deposits around Lake Maracaibo and along the northeast shore line.

This estimate of Venezuela's military defense represents the opinion of president. Gen. Eleasar Lpoez Contreras, who, before becoming dictator of the country in 1935, was the senior military commander. Today he is the only major general in Venezuela and remains the active military head. A report reflecting his views has been prepared by army authorities for transmission to the American military intelligence unit at Washington.

Full details of this report were withheld, but the gist of it was revealed with presidential approval. Many facts, hitherto carefully concealed even from Venezuelans, were disclosed.

Army of 13,500 Men.

The average Venezuelan always has believed his country's standing army numbered 27,500 men. The new report places the number at only 13,500 for all five branches of the army. Two infantry regiments, totaling 8,000 men, form the backbone of the forces. There is one regiment of cavalry of 2,500 men; one regiment of light artillery, 2,000 strong; an air regiment and a regiment of engineers of 1,000 men. The air force totals 45 pilots and about 500 men.

Tables of organization in these units are based upon a company of 125 men, and a brigade comprising from two to four companies. The infantry is armed with 7 millimeter Belgian rifles of an 1890 vintage. The cavalry carries a somewhat newer Spanish carbine of the same caliber.

Machine Gun for 20 Men.

Both the cavalry and infantry carry one light machine gun for every 20 men. These guns also fire 7 millimeter ammunition and are either Mendoza weapons manufactured in Mexico or Breda guns purchased from Italy. The field guns are French of 75 millimeter caliber. With the artillery regiment there is a pair of mountain gun units with Vickers dismountable one pounders and portable mortars.

The only motorized—not mechanized—units in the army are with the artillery. These have light armored Ford trucks capable of carrying up to 14 men each and a quantity of ammunition and supplies. Motorized units are not needed in Venezuela, the report states, because the country has only a few passable roads. The greater part of the country is so precipitous that tanks or tractor vehicles could not operate.

"The army is primarily designed as a police force for work in the interior," the report states. "It could fight only a delaying action from the borders either inland or on the coast."

Air Pilots Are Efficient.

The air arm deserves special mention because in addition to military training the pilots of the air regiment have operated a commercial air transportation service for more than two years without injury to a passenger or crew member. Both Italian and American airplanes are used in the military service, but the air transport line has been operated entirely with American airplanes and engines.

Primary training of pilots in the military air school at Maracay is conducted in Stearman, Waco, and North American airplanes. Pilots graduate into Fiat-32 fighters or into Savoia-Marchetti S-79 trimotored low wing monoplane bombardment planes of the type now being used by Italian aviation units against the British in the Mediterranean.

The trainers are identical with those used in the United States army air corps training centers. The Fiats are biplanes with radial 14 cylinder Fiat air cooled motors of 900 horse power. They have a top speed of 250 miles an hour and fuel tanks for only 2.5 hours of fight at cruising speeds.

Fast Bombers in Use.

The bombers are fast machines with 9 cylinder radial engines of 950 horse power. They are said to be capable of flying 275 miles an hour and have a maximum range of nearly 3,000 miles. The Venezuelan pilots report that they are easy to fly and that they land slowly with the aid of controllable wing tip slots and flaps.

None of the military airplanes are flown away from Maracay airport or from the excellent field at Maracaibo where a small detachment is stationed. But the pilots get their cross country flight training in twin motored Lockheed Electras or Lockheed 14s. The airline, Compagnia Aeropostal Venezuelana, has bought six Electras and two 14s.

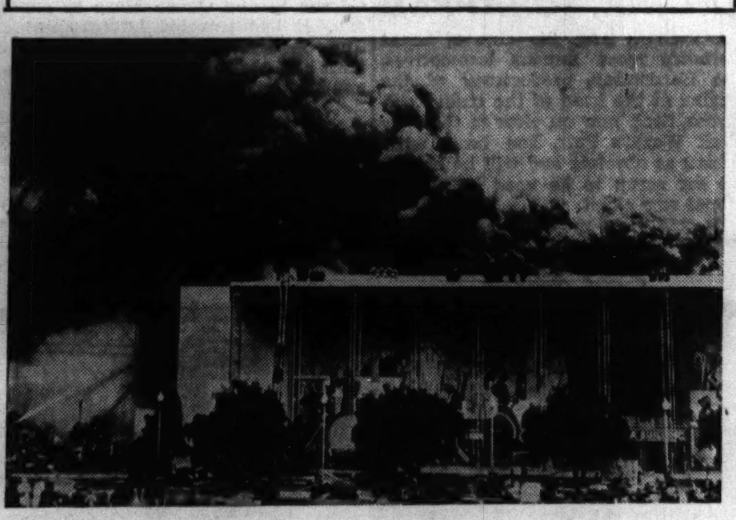
In 1939 they made 3,669 flights, flew 2,978 hours, carried 10,420 passengers and 4,824 grams of gold from inland factories that are just getting into production of ore here. The military crews who maintenance the airplanes attempt no motor overhauls, sending the engines to the Pratt & Whitney factory at Hartford, Conn., for major repairs every 450 hours of flight.

Indians Are Conscripted.

In Venezuela all young men are legally liable for military service with the army for two years. Recruits, however, are obtained by conscripting Indians from the interior by force—at times. American military attachés and oil men stationed here have seen boatloads of Indians brought to Caracas from other points in Venezuela to serve their military terms, and most of these new recruits were handcuffed together.

Maneuvers by units of the army are unknown here. Army authorities said that drilling consists chiefly of marching maneuvers. Target practice is prohibited by presidential order.

Fire at San Francisco Fair



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Firemen atop the California building at the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco yesterday pouring water on flames which a moment later forced them to flee for their lives. Valuable exhibits already had been taken from the building.

Cost $350,000

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP).—Fire swept thru the huge California building at the Golden Gate exposition today, but exhibits valued at $150,000 were carried to safety before the roof collapsed. What caused the fire was not determined. The frame and plaster structure, most important on Treasure Island, cost $350,000 to build. However, insurance on the building amounted to only $55,000 because coverage was on a sliding scale. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings. Six firemen were injured, none seriously.

PASSPORT LAW EASED TO SOLVE BORDER TROUBLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The state department tonight moved to facilitate border difficulties caused by its recent order requiring all aliens to obtain passports before entering the United States. The ruling produced confusion on the Mexican and Canadian borders.

Today, American consular and diplomatic officers in Canada, Newfoundland and Mexico were authorized to issue nonresident alien's border-crossing identification to citizens of the countries named.

The cards will be valid for visits not exceeding 29 days and permit any number of such visits during the year without registration and finger printing.

The passport regulation was adopted a few months ago to curb the entry of fifth columnists. Reciprocal action was not taken by Canada, Newfoundland or Mexico so that Americans can enter these countries without a passport, although they will encounter difficulty in returning unless they can show birth certificates.

ARGENTINES VOTE 170-1 TO UPHOLD PRESIDENT ORTIZ

Crowds in Streets Cheer as Crisis Is Passed.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 24.—President Roberto M. Ortiz tonight received a vote of confidence from a joint session of congress, dissolving a political crisis that threatened to end constitutional government here.

Roberto M. Ortiz.

The vote of 170 to 1 against acceptance of his resignation followed hours of debate during which a throng on the city streets battled the police and surrounded the capitol building, shouting their support for the executive.

Before the vote the country feared a military junta would attempt to seize the power of government, as in 1930. Army chiefs were reported in a secret session on Thursday to have considered a coup d' etat at the moment the president issued his resignation. That brought congress' action today.

Reports current now are that only the refusal of coöperation from the naval ministry prevented the coup.

Expect Cabinet Shakeup.

Confidence of the senate and deputies was expressed in an almost unanimous rejection of Ortiz' resignation during a joint session. In the debates the members praised the president, but said his cabinet needed reorganization. A complete realignment of ministri's is expected to follov. soon. The action postpones only temporarily a change in government which politicians deem is inevitable.

President Ortiz has been critically ill [acute diabetes] and confined to his home unable to fulfill his duties since June. Dr. Ramon Castillo, vice president, has been acting president.

Ortiz' resignation was a development of a congressional investigation into land purchased for expansion of El Palomar military airport, which involved 1,000,000 peso profit [nearly $300,000] for four government officials. Several former officials were involved. Congressman Victor Guillot, named as a profiteer, committed suicide on Friday.

The committee criticized War Minister Carlos Marquez and Mario Terzanos, chief of the federal accounting board, for approving the purchase.

Ortiz Resented Criticism.

Ortiz, saying the criticism reflected on his honor, submitted his resignation with a stout assertion of his innocence and with charges that political enemies were utilizing the scandal to discredit him.

The joint congressional meeting was a dramatic event. All 185 senators and deputies were present. It lasted six hours with continuous oratory. Socialists, radicals [liberals], National Democrats [conservatives], antipersonalists [Ortiz' party], and independents [pro-Fascists] all expressed confidence in Ortiz. Many declared he had misplaced confidence in his cabinet. Some asserted his physical condition prevents him from the proper execution of his duties.

As the afternoon wore on, crowds filled the streets, mounted palace guards armed with sabers and pistols surrounded the congress building, and soon singing thousands, estimated at 20,000, gathered outside the lines. Many banners carried the demands, "Down with Fascism!" "Hold Ortiz! He Stands for Peace, Liberty, Democracy."

Violence in Streets.

So loud became the demonstration that congressmen plainly heard it above the oratory. Several street clashes occurred, and a number of times the police drove their horses into the crowd, injuring several men and arresting several.

President Ortiz and seven ministers in his cabinet awaited the verdict of congress in the former's home, and went into session after hearing the vote, indicating there may be cabinet changes at once.

FASCIST ARGENTINE RULE FORECAST BY NEWSPAPER IN ROME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 24.—The Rome newspaper Il. Giornale D'Italia has injected a discordant note into the Argentine political situation by printing a dispatch from its Buenos Aires newspaper declaring President Roberto M. Ortiz' resignation was due to "deep seated trouble in Argentine politics."

Asserting that Argentina is now likely to link up with the totalitarian axis, the paper forecasts Vice President Ramon S. Castillo will assume power and will appoint a pro-Fascist senator, Sanchez Sorondo, as minister of foreign affairs and ex-President Augustin P. Justo minister of the interior.

MARTIN ASSAILS 'SWAGGER STICK' NEW DEAL STAND

Urges 'Right-Way-Willkie' Course for Voters.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—The United States needs an administration that "will speak softly and carry a big stick, rather than talk big and carry a swagger stick," Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], chairman of the Republican national committee, declared in a speech here tonight.

"We must have a business administration," he said, "which will take the American people into the confidence of its executive, whose diplomacy will be a part of the people's business and not the private affair of the little White House clique of schemers."

Illinois Republicans stormed Peoria today to hear two addresses by Martin at rallies sponsored jointly by the 16th congressional district organization and the state's Republican editors.

Will Fly to Oregon.

A large welcoming group, including numerous high G. O. P. state leaders and candidates, met Martin upon his arrival at the Peoria airport. He expects to fly to Salem, Ore., Sunday for the acceptance speech of Senator Charles L. McNary, Republican Vice Presidential nominee, and then visit Seattle, San Francisco, and Los Angeles before returning to Washington.

Martin spoke first at a dinner meeting of the Republican Editorial Association of Illinois, which was attended by more than 150 editors. A few hours later he delivered a longer address at a public massmeeting which drew a crowd of several thousand persons.

The Republican leader told the mass meeting audience that America, indeed, is at the parting of the ways. The right or the wrong road will be taken by the nation next November, he said.

"Will with Willkie," His Cry.

"It will go forward with Right-Way-Willkie or it will go astray with Wrong-Way-Roosevelt," Martin declared. "If the American people want to restore sanity, morality, economy, efficiency, and high integrity in government, then they will with Willkie, but they won't with Roosevelt."

He asked what can the New Deal do in the next four years to solve any of the grave fundamental problems of the country, domestic and foreign, that it has not done in the last eight years.

"If the New Deal, in power for eight years with all the tremendous controls at its command, failed to do something that it can do in the next four years, then it has been criminally negligent," Martin charged.

"If, on the other hand, the New Deal has done everything it could do in the past eight years to solve these problems, then, I ask you, what claim has it to another four years of power on the ground it can solve some of these problems?

Charges Pledges Broken.

"How can we judge what to expect under four more years of the New Deal? We cannot judge by the 1932 Democratic platform, because Mr. Roosevelt, after declaring that platform to be a sacred covenant with the people, proceeded to disregard it completely as soon as he was elected. The same thing happened again with the 1936 platform. Therefore, we may expect the same thing to happen so far as the 1940 platform is concerned.

"We Americans judge each other by the way we keep our promises. We judge a man by the validity of his pledged word. We judge a business by the way it keeps its promises to its customers. That is the only way we can judge an individual or a business or a public official. On that basis, what is to be said of a President who has made and broken 57 major promises in eight years?"

In his talk before the editors, Martin charged that "Franklin D. Roosevelt didn't ask for a third term nomination—he took it."

PISTOL SHOT CAUSES ARREST.

John B. Ballue, 59 years old, 1722 North Kimball avenue, was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday when police investigating a reported pistol shot found a revolver in Ballue's basement.

Chicagoan Drowns at New York World's Fair

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—John Frisco, 48 years old, 1843 North Fairfield avenue, Chicago, was drowned yesterday in Liberty lake at the world's fair. Frisco, an employé of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks company for more than 25 years, fell from a boat while setting up a target for use in a mock bombing attack. His widow survives.

DRAFT-SHY N. Y. COUPLES STORM WEDDING BUREAU

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—Police were called out today to restore order at the Brooklyn marriage license bureau as draft wary young men rushed to get wed lest they be conscripted for the army. No less than 1,200 young couples appeared at the bureau.

The jam smashed all records for a single day's attendance at the bureau.

Each Saturday since debate started on the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill has witnessed a similar phenomenon. Every marriage license bureau in the metropolitan New York area has been jammed, altho this city has been the center of war propaganda.

Coincidentally, the army recruiting bureau has been experiencing difficulty in meeting its quota, bolstering the opinion that, tho the shouts of the eastern interventionists are the loudest, the youths of the east want no part of military service.

Some couples were in line at the Brooklyn office as early as 6:20 a. m.

At the municipal building in Manhattan the clerks, arriving for work, virtually had to fight their way thru the crowd to get into their office.

248 ISSUED HERE.

There were 248 marriage licenses issued yesterday at the bureau in Cook County Clerk Michael J. Flynn's office, bringing the month's total to 4,582. The high record for August is 4,664 licenses, established in 1936.

Police Find Burglary Loot Under Seat of Squad Car

Walton, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—A string of pearls and other jewelry taken in the burglary of an Alton home were found today under the seat of a police car in Wood River, Ill. Alton police said Wood River officers picked up two youths Thursday night, without knowing of the Alton burglary earlier that evening, and took them to headquarters for questioning. Later they were released. En route to the station, the youths apparently stuffed the jewelry under the seat of the car.

REFUSES TO LET REDS ENSHRINE TROTSKY IN U. S.

State Department Bars Body from Country.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The state department tonight announced it would refuse to permit the body of Leon Trotsky, assassinated Russian revolutionist, to be brought to this country from Mexico for burial.

Trotskyite sympathizers in this country have been seeking to make a martyr of the red, whom Stalin forced out of Russia, by making his tomb an American shrine.

"In response to an inquiry from American Consul George P. Shaw in Mexico City," said the announcement, "the department has informed him that it perceives no reason for bringing Trotsky's body to the United States and that it would not be appropriate to do so."

Woman Ends Hunger Strike.

MEXICO City, Aug. 24 (AP).—Sylvia Ageloff of Brooklyn, N. Y., detained for questioning in the assassination of Leon Trotsky, broke a 30 hour hunger strike tonight on the appeal of her brother, Monte of Merrick, N. Y., who arrived today by plane.

The police chief's office announced that papers were ready to be filed against her friend, Frank Jackson, charging him with having killed Trotsky.

Both Jackson and Miss Ageloff remained in a hospital, where they have been held since Jackson assaulted Trotsky with a pickax on Tuesday. She has denied any knowledge that Jackson intended to slay the exiled Russian.

Informed of the United States' refusal to allow Trotsky's body to be taken to New York, Albert Goldman, of Chicago, who was attorney for the Russian exile, said he would make a statement later.

Russians Told of Death.

MOSCOW, Russia, Aug. 24 (AP).—The soviet press, giving the Russian people their first word today of the death of Leon Trotsky in Mexico City last Wednesday night, proclaimed it the "inglorious end" of "a murdered traitor and international spy."

It was the first mention of the attack since a brief dispatch on Thursday reported that an attempt had been made on the life of the exiled communist leader by one of his followers.

TWO DOWNTOWN TAVERNS CLOSED ON POLICE ORDER

Two downtown taverns were closed yesterday following revocation of their licenses by Police Commissioner Allman on the recommendation of Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Central station. They are the Yes, Yes club, 452 South State street, owned by Chester Michael, and the Subway café, 84 West Madison street, operated by Ale Vlahos. Capt. Duffy said he had learned women were employed to solicit drinks from patrons in the taverns. Capt. Duffy ordered his men to keep close watch on all taverns in the 400 and 500 blocks on South State street, to question any patrons who appear to be police characters, and to make arrests where indecent shows are given.

Forest Fire Threatens French Base at Toulon

VICHY, France, Aug. 24 (AP).—A stubborn blaze that has destroyed 11,000 acres of forest land in five days threatened today to spread to the naval base at Toulon. French troops were summoned to aid civilian fire fighters. Cinders carried by high winds were raining on the Mediterranean base from flames six miles away.

BURGLARS LOOT BUTCHER SHOP.

Burglars yesterday forced their way into the butcher shop of Ludwig Janisch at 1933 West 63d street and took his stock of meats, a scale, a slicing machine and the empty cash register. The loss was estimated at between $600 and $900.

Denies Vassar Connections

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Kitty Davis and her husband, Danny, as they held their press conference yesterday to explode the myth that she is a graduate of Vassar—or even a former student there. She attended the King School of Oratory in Pittsburgh for six years, she said.

Proud of Alma Mater

Kitty Davis, whose drinking place at 245 South Wabash avenue is now closed [by city order], held a press conference in her lawyer's office yesterday. Out of it came an admission from Kitty which shattered the old legend that she went to Vassar college.

"I never told any one I went to Vassar," she said. "I went to the King School of Oratory in Pittsburgh—put in six years there—and I'm proud of it."

Her husband, Danny, who is secretary-treasurer of her saloon business—she's president—interjected that the mortarboard and gown which she wears for advertising purposes were the idea of a press agent.

Then Kitty's lawyer, John H. Gately, said that tomorrow he will seek again to have Mayor Kelly's revocation of the licenses issued to Kitty's place upset. On Friday the city license appeal commission upheld the mayor's action, finding that the bar had operated gambling devices and sold liquor to minors.

THIEF CAPTURED WITH $475 TAKEN IN LOOP STORE

Claude Parks, colored, of 4715 Langley avenue, gave some other people a run for their money yesterday. He grabbed a bundle of banknotes from a basement cash cage in Goldblatt Brothers loop store, then fled with Miss Anna Thomas, the cashier, screaming at his heels. Customers joined her.

Parks ran up the steps and into Van Buren street. Then he ducked into the Sears, Roebuck & company store across the street, out again, in again, and finally back out into State street. Here Richard Encaper, 23, of 2448 Taylor street, fleetest of the panting pursuers, brought him down with a flying tackle.

Detectives Arnold Bloom and Leo Wolff, attracted by the hue and cry, took Parks into custody. Parks admitted taking the $475 found in his pocket. Police also found a toy pistol, which Parks said he had bought for his wife.

DRUGGIST TO QUIZ TRAINMEN TODAY ON WIFE'S DEATH

Edward von Hermann, prominent Chicago druggist, will be at the La Salle street station this morning to question passengers and crew members from the Californian, crack Rock Island flyer. It was from this train that his wife, Alice, fell to her death in California at midnight Thursday.

Edward von Hermann.

Attorney Morris Sider, representing von Hermann, said the druggist had demanded a complete investigation of the tragedy. The attorney added that von Hermann, his two daughters, and a son insist the death could not have been suicide.

The family, it was stated, hopes that fellow passengers of Mrs. Von Hermann or trainmen will be able to shed light on their theory that she accidentally fell or was pushed from the speeding train.

Her body was found beside the tracks a few hours after the Californian had passed thru Redlands, Cal., about 70 miles from Los Angeles. Attorney Sider said he wired the coroner at Redlands for a transcript of evidence taken at an inquest yesterday, but had not received an answer.

George Booth, 6721 Paxton avenue, Von Hermann's son-in-law, said Mrs. von Hermann had visited her other daughter, Mrs. Herman Windenhus, in San Francisco, and then had gone to visit a friend from Milwaukee, Mrs. C. U. Smith, in Beverly Hills. Booth said Mrs. Smith had put Mrs. von Hermann on the train, and that the family here had not known she was on her way to Chicago.

Mrs. von Hermann was 48 years old. Her son, Edward Jr., still is in San Francisco with his sister. The family home is at 6756 Oglesby avenue.

MOTOR VEHICLE TRAVEL TO LOOP CONTINUES GAIN

Trends Revealed in Tenth Count of Riders.

More people are entering Chicago's central business district in automobiles and motor buses than ever before. Because of the greater use of private automobiles, the number of vehicles crowding downtown streets is at an all time high this year, altho 10 per cent fewer passengers are being carried on the streets than in peak years.

These trends are shown in the results of the 10th cordon count of riders and vehicles entering and leaving the central district, as reported yesterday by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

The 1940 count was taken under the direction of Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, in coöperation with Robert H. Nau, traffic engineer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and staffs of the various transportation companies.

Typical Weekday Chosen.

As in previous years, except for 1939, a 12 hour period from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. on a typical weekday in May was chosen. The 1939 count was made in January. The first count was made in 1926, followed by tabulations in 1928, 1929, 1931 and the years from 1935 to date. The "cordon" for the area was the Chicago river on the north and west, Lake Michigan on the east and Roosevelt road on the south.

A total of 184,062 vehicles came into the loop area on the day of the 1940 count, compared with 178,712 in 1938 and 132,913 in 1926.

The 1940 count shows that 827,238 persons rode into the central area on the day tabulated, an increase of 15,105 as compared with the 1938 total, but 97,909 below the total of 1929, peak year. A breakdown of the count into modes of travel showed that street car riders into the loop area fell off in 1940 while other kinds of transportation showed increases, compared with 1938 figures. The breakdown follows:

	1940.	1938.	Increase.
Elevated	197,046	193,005	4,041
Motor coach buses	60,753	57,270	3,483
Steam railroads	100,246	94,208	6,038
Passenger autos [inc. taxis]	256,150	239,414	16,736
Totals	827,238	812,133	15,105

*Decrease.

The change in riding habits since 1926 is indicated by a comparison with that year. In 1926, only 19 per cent of the riders entering the loop area came by automobile. By this year the percentage of auto riders increased to 31 per cent of the total. Bus travel is the only mode other than the private car showing a gain since 1926. From 1926 to 1940, street car travel into the central area fell 27.8 per cent, elevated traffic dropped 23.1 per cent, and steam railroad riding declined 15.7 per cent. Travel in Chicago motor coach buses gained 36 per cent for the period.

Total Drops 5 Per Cent.

Hewitt pointed out that the total number of riders into the central district dropped 5 per cent from 1926 to 1940 in spite of an increase in population.

The detailed comparison for 1940 and 1926 follows:

	1940.	1926.	Increase.
Elevated cars	197,046	256,286	*59,240
Motor coach buses	60,753	44,391	16,362
Steam railroads	100,246	118,857	*18,611
Passenger autos	256,140	166,367	89,783
Totals	827,238	870,859	*43,621

*Decrease.

"Business leaders have advanced several reasons for the decline in travel into the central business district," Hewitt said. "They say chain stores thruout the city and branches of the department stores have built up trading in the outlying territories. Also, some of the larger industries have moved their offices outside the cordon count area, and some large hotels and restaurants are now outside the loop area.

"Other reasons advanced are the development of neighborhood theaters and the tearing down of loop office buildings."

The study also showed that more passengers enter the central district between 8 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. than during any other half hour of the day. The total was 98,990 riders on the day the count was made this year. The heaviest outgoing period was from 5 to 5:30 p. m. when 111,968 left the area in vehicles. For the entire day the most heavily traveled spot was the Centennial [outer drive] bridge, over which 38,922 vehicles either entered or left the central area.

Willkie to Make 2 Hour Visit to Tri-City Area

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for President, will stop in Rock Island, Moline, and Davenport for 2 hours and 20 minutes the afternoon of Sept. 14 on his trip en route to Coffeyville, Kas., where he opens his campaign, the Rock Island Argus said today. The announcement was made by Werner Schroeder, Chicago national committeeman.

Candidates' Views on Labor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—For the first time in the 1940 campaign President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie, his Republican opponent, have traded punches on a campaign issue. The two debated the labor issue in the American Federationist, official monthly magazine of the American Federation of Labor. The President set forth his views in a signed letter to William Green, president of the federation, and Willkie gave his in a signed article. The two sides follow:

Candidate Willkie came out flatly for reform of the Wagner national labor relations act, which the administration has administered to favor the organization's rival, the Congress for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis, who contributed more than $500,000 of his workers' money to the Roosevelt campaign in 1936 but has nice broken with the President.

Candidate Roosevelt hailed the act as it stands. He said nothing on the ticklish question of modification, which the administration has fought in congress.

Urges Wagner Act Changes.

Said Mr. Willkie:

"I sympathize with the criticism advanced by the American Federation of Labor, against the national labor relations board and with the federation's emphasis upon the necessity for better administration of the labor act.

"To achieve the desired end some changes in the Wagner act are necessary, but I believe that the more important need is a new attitude in Washington. If the New Deal is continued, I believe it will only be a matter of time before the American labor movement becomes completely dominated by the government, and in the place of the old, discredited company union we shall have government unions as in Nazi Germany. For my part I pledge myself to help the principle of free unions."

In his article Willkie said that every person owes a debt to organized labor, because of its success in bringing about improved working conditions, higher wages and shorter hours for all.

Defends Mass Production.

Willkie said that American society has its roots in mass production. The savings effected by such production should prove a blessing, he said, but at times have produced a curse in providing society with one of its most persistent and important problems.

These savings can be passed on in three ways, he continued, stating the owner of the machine might take them all, in which case he exposes himself to a competitor who is willing to take less; the owner can pass a portion on to the consumer in the form of cheaper prices, which is good; and all the savings might go to the workers, which at first glance seems feasible but which would actually be destructive because industry would become stagnant thru lack of increased consumption.

Savings All Three Ways.

"Indeed, if our economic system is to flourish, the savings derived from mass production must be passed on in all three ways," said Willkie. "It is impossible to say that one is more important than the other, because if any one of them is stopped something will go wrong with the system.

"The consumer must get his share, in the form of lower prices, so that the business may constantly grow. The man who provides the machines must get his share, in the form of profit, so that he will be constantly disposed to provide better machines, to increase the productive power of the workers still further.

"And the workers themselves must get their share, in the form of higher wages, so that they can participate in the success of the business, raise their own standard of living, and build better lives for themselves. If our way of life is to succeed, every worker must obtain those rewards from his day's work."

Candidate Roosevelt hailed the Wagner act as it stands. He said nothing on the ticklish question of modification, which the administration has fought in congress.

Said Candidate Roosevelt:

"If any one asks the question as to the future policy of the administration toward labor, the answer is that we shall hold steadfastly to every advance gained and not permit present safeguards to be whittled away by yielding to the specious arguments of those whose lip service to labor is loud and eloquent before election, but whose ears are deaf to all appeals to justice the rest of the time.

"This administration is willing to be judged—as to future policy—by past performance. The achievements of the administration since 1933 shall be witness to its good faith in the future."

Mr. Roosevelt's thesis was that organized labor owes a debt to the New Deal for effecting improved working conditions, higher wages, and shorter hours.

Cites New Deal Laws.

Mr. Roosevelt did not give his labor philosophy, but confined himself to the administration's labor legislation. He pointed to social security, unemployment insurance, old age benefits, the wage and hour program, the public contracts acts, and the Wagner labor relations act.

"By that record we are willing to be judged," he concluded, "and we offer it to the country as a basis of judgment and as a witness and a pledge of faith to American wage earners."

NEW DEAL PILOT SCHEME CALLED AIR BOONDOGGLE

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—Harry F. Guggenheim, aviation division chairman of the Republican national committee, today described as an "aviation boondoggle" Assistant Secretary of Commerce Robert H. Hinckley's proposed program for the training of 65,000 pilots.

"This is just another of Franklin D. Roosevelt's smoke screens, designed to lull the American people into a false sense of his administration's capacity to organize aviation for national defense," Guggenheim said.

Asserting the proposed training was too elementary to be of practical use, Guggenheim charged that the civilian pilot training already under way failed to provide advanced instruction in blind flying and other courses that would fit pilots for the army, navy, or commercial units.

YOUTH PAINTS 'HAIL HITLER' ON AUTO; 30 DAYS!

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 24 (AP).—Kenneth Metzmeier, 19 years old, was fined $50 and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a disorderly conduct charge today for having "Hail Hitler" and swastikas painted in two places on the front bumper of his 1930 model automobile.

The youth, a metal worker, pleaded guilty to the charge after police admonished him that the words "might incite a riot."

"Hail Hitler" and swastikas were painted in red on each end of the bumper. In the center, in larger letters, was "Kenny" and below, "Louise." Metzmeier explained Louise was his girl friend.

Kenneth told the court he was sorry and "didn't mean anything."

DIXON LIFE RESIDENT DIES AT 70.

Dixon, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—Michael J. Halligan, 70 years old, retired farmer and life resident of this locality, died today. Funeral will be Monday.

WILLKIE URGES CONSOLIDATION OF AIR FORCES

New Deal Floundering on Defense, He Charges.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Prompt consolidation of military and naval aeronautics—for which the late Gen. "Billy" Mitchell fought so hard—was proposed today by Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee.

In the long run, Willkie said, all of the country's armed forces should be under one head, and he will work toward that end if elected. Meanwhile, it is important that a new cabinet post of secretary of air forces be created to speed defense, since that is the most vital branch of the service. The Roosevelt administration is "floundering," he declared, in preparing the air arm.

Repeats WPA Charges.

The nominee made his proposal during a press interview at which he also repeated his charge that WPA rolls are being stuffed for political purposes. He supported this by quoting the country-wide weekly WPA increases during July, which he said totaled 89,071.

"I think we are hopelessly unprepared as to airplane construction, the training of men, and the gearing of our industrial plants to produce airplanes," Willkie asserted.

"We are floundering along, and most of the failures are due to faults of organization. We have sat as spectators of the greatest tragedy in history. Having seen that spectacle, I don't want to continue with obsolete machinery in this most important arm of the service."

Holds Air Strength Vital.

Willkie said that ever since the war began in Europe last fall, it had been demonstrated that the strength of a nation today rests primarily on its air strength.

"The reason Germany was able to crush France and the other countries," he continued, "and is presently bringing England such great distress, was because she had developed so highly the production of planes, the training of men to operate them, and, in addition, chiefs of air forces who understood modern air war.

"It is very important that there be created promptly a new cabinet position corresponding to secretary of war and secretary of the navy, in charge of the air forces of the United States.

"I really think it would be much better if we had one secretary in charge of all military and naval air forces, with perhaps men under him in charge of the separate units.

"But since it would take considerable time to do this, in the interim we should have a cabinet member in charge of aeronautics. I recommend this so that the emphasis in the development of military strength will be upon that branch of the service which today is most important, instead of, as today, merely collateral to the other branches.

"If elected President I will attempt to obtain legislation to put all the forces under one head. If I couldn't get that immediately I would get a special cabinet officer for air."

"Be Strong at Home."

Willkie said he was "not surprised" when told that Washington reports claimed only 33 planes had been ordered so far in the preparedness campaign. He closed this part of the interview by declaring, "I have said many times that our best foreign policy consists of being strong at home economically and in a military way."

As reporters gathered around his desk at the opening of the interview the nominee picked up a sheet of paper.

"I want to follow what I said yesterday by reading you the weekly WPA roll increases during July," he said. "These figures are from official WPA press releases."

He Reads Them.

Willkie read the figures as follows:

Week ending July 3........1,611,213
Week ending July 10........1,618,968
Week ending July 17........1,659,294
Week ending July 24........1,689,448
Week ending July 31........1,700,284

"The total increase during July totals 89,071," Willkie said, "and this corresponds to the WPA rise in previous election years. It is exactly opposite to the decline in nonelection years and, as I said yesterday, it ought to be investigated by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson for violations of the Hatch act."

The nominee will spend a quiet Sunday here tomorrow, he said, and plans to return to Rushville, Ind., which will be his campaign base, next Tuesday.

He is spending as much time as he can on speech writing in advance of his formal opening at Coffeyville, Kas., Sept. 16. This address may contrast the speed of recovery from the current depression with others in American history.

WPA Issues Challenge.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—The Works Projects administration challenged Wendell Willkie today to follow up his criticism of the WPA employment record by answering these questions:

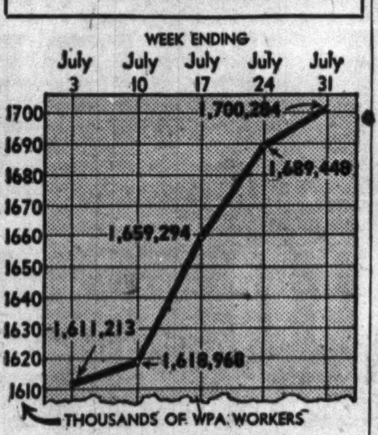
"1. Is the WPA hiring too many people?

"2. If so, how many should we fire?

"3. Specifically, in what places should they be fired?"

Howard Hunter, acting WPA commissioner, posed the questions in a statement after the Republican nominee reiterated in New York that WPA had increased its rolls by 90,000 in July and contended that the administration was seeking "to pack the relief rolls" for political reasons.

Swell WPA Rolls



Rise in number of Work Projects administration workers during July, cited by Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President, yesterday to support his contention that the rolls are being augmented to swell Roosevelt vote. Willkie said he obtained the figures from official WPA press releases.

Roosevelt Takes Party on Chesapeake Cruise

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt came here late today from the White House and boarded the yacht Potomac for an overnight cruise on Chesapeake bay and the Potomac river. He expects to land at the Washington navy yard tomorrow evening. Guests on the trip are Harry L. Hopkins, James V. Forrestal,, new undersecretary of the navy; Gov. Burnet Maybank, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Maybank; Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, naval aide, and Miss Marguerite Lehand, personal secretary.

Valparaiso Woman Killed, Three Injured in Crash

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 24 [Special].—Miss Myra Lerch, 45 years old, was killed and Miss Margaret Coplin, 44, and Guy Kitchen, 28, were seriously injured in a headon automobile crash west of here today. Police said a car driven by Berlin Fishburn skidded into the one driven by Miss Lerch. Fishburn was injured.

ILLINOIS GUARD MAY BE MOBILIZED NOV. 15 IN ROCKFORD CAMP

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan said before leaving for the Wisconsin maneuvers today that the Illinois National Guard might be mobilized in Camp Grant, near here, about Nov. 15.

He disclosed that he had suggested that date to the war department. The 12,000 officers and men of the guard have not been informed where they will train, altho Camp Clarke, an old cavalry base in Texas, has been suggested as a possible site.

There are few facilities for winter training in Camp Grant, altho plans are completed for new barracks and training quarters if they are needed.

SEEK TO DEPORT PRISONER OF WAR FLEEING CANADA

International Falls, Minn., Aug. 24 (AP)—Deportation proceedings were started today against Manuel Fischer, 29 years old, a German war prisoner who was captured at Virginia, Minn., after fleeing from a Canadian internment camp.

Authorities were hesitant about discussing their plans, but it was learned they were considering the possibility of deporting Fischer to Spain, of which country he is a citizen. No action being expected before the first of next week, he was held at immigration headquarters here pending determination of his fate.

He was captured last night by Robert Hodgson, Minnesota border patrolman at Virginia, after Fischer's German accent had aroused the suspicions of a woman whom he questioned after getting off a freight train in which he had traveled there from International Falls.

JOHN F. CALLAHAN SR. DIES.

Vermilion Grove, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—John F. Callahan Sr., 79, a retired farmer, died yesterday. He had lived in this community 30 years. Surviving are 8 children and 20 grandchildren.

THE CAMPAIGN Both Sides of it

REPUBLICAN

Willkie Has Licked Them Before

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

Early in 1934 several of us newspapermen were waiting outside the President's office for a group of hapless utility men. The country had been sold on the idea that next to the bankers, the utility officials constituted the lowest form of animal life.

Browbeating business men had long been a Washington specialty on the part of congressional committees. Apparently the theory was that members of congress were representatives of the people and business men were not people.

Mr. Roosevelt had now carried the browbeating to the White House, and made the browbeating that had gone before insignificant in comparison. He had put the browbeating on a higher and more devastating plane. Such browbeating as had been engaged in in the pre-New Deal era was not of a nature to destroy a whole industry. It was usually aimed at a particular individual and was reasonably harmless; just a Washington pastime more or less. It had become pretty apparent after but a few months of the New Deal that the browbeating was calculated, that it was part of a well formulated plan to "make the country over."

One Stands His Ground.

Well, the utility men presently came out of the President's office and we descended upon them. They drew back in terror mumbling they had nothing to say to any one. Business men in general and utility men in particular had long followed a rule of saying just as little in public as they possibly could.

We say they backed away in terror. All of them did but one. A big fellow with a questioning twinkle in his eyes pushed thru his fellows and, addressing the group of newspapermen, asked:

"Gentlemen, what is it you would like to know?"

This was our first encounter with Wendell Willkie; the first experience the Washington newspapermen had had with him.

The man sort of got our admiration. Personally, we had begun to get disgusted at the way business men were being beaten around. It was no longer a harmless little diversion. We were hearing of too many business men dropping dead from high blood pressure trying to meet pay rolls. With newspapers reducing salaries and laying off men right and left, we were developing a wholesome respect for the boys who brought in the business.

Willkie Wins Attention.

Undoubtedly it was this attitude of ours that caused Willkie to attract our attention. Thereafter, we watched him as he moved thru the hostitlity of Washington. Heavens knows, it was bad enough in those days for a man whose business consisted only in selling shoes or hats or groceries. For a utility man to be pressing his way around it took downright courage.

The more we saw of the man and the way he operated the more he fascinated us. We decided that he either had no skeletons in his closet or that they were so deeply hidden they would never come out, because he never gave any quarter, and he never asked any. The way to make a business man's hair stand on end is to hint that he appear before a congressional investigating committee, even just to say howdy-do to the committee members. Instead of being afraid of these committees, Willkie was always trying for an opportunity to appear before them.

The New Dealers used to have, and still have, a way of passing out little smearing items to the Washington newspapermen—little items from the feed trough—"Of course, you can't quote me, but it's the lowdown."

Studies His Washington.

Willkie studied his Washington. He got it down pat. Pretty soon, when one of these little items would appear against him he was able to spot its source immediately. And instead of running for cover as another one in his place would have done, then would go directly to the source and figuratively take him by the collar.

We have never known him to let an unfair or inaccurate statement get by. After a time, naturally, the New Dealers dropped this method of attack against him. This meant he was by way of scoring a clean victory over them because the smearing and whispering tactics have always been their greatest weapon. Without it they aren't effective at all. In fact, they are well nigh helpless. Notice how warily they are approaching the campaign now.

Make no mistake about it, the New Dealers were not the only enemies Willkie had. The New Dealers have taught that all the employers are lined up on one side of the road fighting the employés lined up on the other. In the case of Willkie, there were fellow utility officials on his neck all the time. He's ruining us with his continual controversy, they would whine. We've got to get rid of him. Had he not won his fight against the New Deal his associates would have been on top of him like a pack of wolves. But he won.

Breaks Down Hostility.

It was a study in ability and courage to watch him break down the hostility of the Washington correspondents. In those days they had become quite New Dealish along with the rest of the crowd. But he pressed right on, his head never down, none of that hang dog expression of other business men. Then one bold member of the famous Gridiron club invited him to one of the club's dinners. At the following dinner another guest did likewise. It came around to his being an honored guest at every dinner.

Several weeks before his nomination at Philadelphia when very few thought he would get the nomination, he appeared at the National Press club to a greater crowd than turned out for Anthony Eden. And he was given a great ovation.

Washington sees so many phonies that it likes a bona fide when he comes along.

DEMOCRATIC

Huge Fleet Built by Roosevelt for Defense

Altho the administration's program of social reform usually gets top billing, historians of the future may single out President Roosevelt's work in building the fleet as his greatest contribution to the nation's welfare.

A few years ago, the public knew virtually nothing about naval affairs and the general feeling was one of apathy. The United States, so every one thought, was secure from attack, and there were too many immediate problems to bother about defense. Mr. Hitler quickly shocked the country out of its complacency.

With the British fleet in danger of annihilation or capture, anxious citizens are now demanding why something wasn't done. A few unscrupulous politicians have played on their fears by charging the administration with neglecting defense problems entirely.

For some reason, President Roosevelt has paid little or no attention to these charges, preferring to go on with his work. Yet the fact remains that because of his wise foresight, a program of rebuilding, started seven years ago, has given the United States the strongest fleet in the world—and the navy is still the first line of American defense. Fair minded Republicans, especially those on the naval committees of congress, admit this to be a fact.

A Mighty Armada.

The United States fleet now consists of 395 fighting ships—15 battleships, 6 aircraft carriers, 18 heavy cruisers, 19 light cruisers, 101 submarines, and 236 destroyers—the largest destroyer fleet in the world. The navy has under construction 138 warships, all of which will be finally completed in two years, and the bulk of them in one year. The battleships Washington and North Carolina have already been launched. These figures do not include the two-ocean navy program which was projected because of the unexpected collapse of Britain's allies in Europe.

Naval building is slow, difficult, and costly. Construction work was practically abandoned during the three Republican administrations which preceded the advent of President Roosevelt, and if this nonbuilding policy had been continued, the fleet would be in a dangerous state of inefficiency today. The record shows that as early as June, 1933, the administration ear marked 238 million dollars of relief funds for naval building. In all, 500 million dollars in WPA funds were spent for that purpose.

The navy personnel has been expanded under this administration from 90,000 to 145,000 men, and the naval air force from 933 planes to 2,863 planes. All this has been excellent insurance for national security. A hostile fleet, facing such a battle array after crossing the Atlantic, would find landing here a hard task. The excellent fight put up by Britain against Hitler's forces, based just across the channel, proved that.

Starving the Fleet.

For some undisclosed reason, President Hoover and his Republican predecessors in the White House considered it safe to starve the navy in the interests of economy. Under the terms of the Washington naval treaty, we destroyed 17 battleships then under construction. The uncompleted vessels had cost 250 million dollars, and an additional $27,000,000 was spent to do the sinking. That might have been justified in the interests of peace.

But the starvation diet handed out to the navy after that can hardly be justified an any grounds. Building was practically halted; ships were laid up in drydock, with only a skeleton crew to man them, in the interests of economy. Personnel was reduced, and many graduates of Annapolis were turned loose without being commissioned. The marine corps was cut from about 18,000 men to 14,000 men, and an effort was made to abolish the corps entirely. These economies were carried on despite a solemn pledge in the Republican platform of 1928 to build up the navy to full treaty strength.

President Roosevelt was "navy-minded" years before other public men awoke to the problem. The nation owes much to his vision and practical statesmanship.

59 New Police to Start Training Course Tomorrow

School will begin tomorrow morning for 59 newly appointed members of the police department who were sworn in yesterday by Donald S. Hinckley, acting secretary of the department. The new policemen will take lessons for 10 weeks under Sergt. James Hackett and Patrolman Joseph Shaughnessy in the Central police building before beginning their six months' probationary period.

CONN. DEMOCRATS PICK R. A. HURLEY FOR GOVERNOR

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 24 [Special].—Robert A. Hurley of Bridgeport won the Connecticut gubernatorial nomination at the Democratic state convention here today by a vote of 704½ to 358½ over former Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, who appointed him commissioner of public works three years ago.

Hurley had the backing of the party organization led by Homer H. Cummings, former United States attorney general, and David E. Fitzgerald, national committeeman. Dr. Cross, a former professor at Yale, was supported by groups led by Senator Francis T. Maloney.

Hurley was placed in nomination by Cummings, who declared that "democracies are prostrate everywhere"; that "the American way of life is under challenge," and that "no folly would be more disastrous to America than to take risks at such a time."

Hurley, 45 years old, is a graduate of Cheshire academy. In 1917 he enlisted in the navy and saw service in foreign waters. He is a former WPA director of Fairfield county.

Insurance Company Clerk Weds Chas. Schwab's Niece

Elmsford, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP).—Mary Jane Schwab, niece of the late Charles M. Schwab, multimillionaire steel magnate, and John Wassung Jr., identified by friends as an insurance company clerk, were married today.

AMERICA IS NOT READY FOR WAR, FOOD MEN TOLD

"America is not ready for war" was the keynote of an address given yesterday by Col. Karl J. Stouffer, superintendent of the Theodore Roosevelt Military academy of Aledo, Ill., before 200 delegates to the annual convention of the National Food Distributors in the Hotel Sherman.

"But we have suddenly become awakened to the value of military training," he added, "and, for the present, legislation on other questions has gone into eclipse."

The colonel deplored the fact that public attention is focused on military schools only during periods of war. He said military training for youth is just as essential in peace time as when war threatens.

"The military school develops in the boy resistance to influences and 'isms' which are destructive," he concluded.

FIVE MACHINE GUNS INSTEAD OF FOUR.

By cutting out unnecessary refinements in design the British government has increased its output of Bren machine guns by 20 per cent without decreasing in any way the effectiveness of the weapon, Minister of Supply Herbert Morrison announced the other day in London.

The same number of men and the same machines in a British armament plant now make five machine guns where they formerly made four. To hard pressed Britain, increases in industrial efficiency such as these may well represent the margin between defeat and victory.

The British speedup was accomplished when civilian production engineers took over the plans of military designers. THE TRIBUNE has repeatedly urged that the plans of our army and navy designers be submitted to similar revision before they go into production, by our civilian production engineers, whose mass production achievements mark them as the best in the world.

When an officer or ordnance expert sits down to design a new weapon his one impulse is to make it the best weapon in the world. Cost of production is to him a minor consideration, if it is considered at all. This policy and the companion policy of requiring manufacturers to adhere to the last line of the government designer's blueprint in executing the order is reflected in the extravagant cost and slow production rate of most of our arms and all of our naval craft.

The civilian designer, set to planning a new automobile, refrigerator or lawn mower, would also like to turn out the world's best product in that line. All designers are perfectionists, which within limits is a good thing because it is their efforts that are responsible for the constant improvement of our tools, military and civilian.

But the automobile designer does not have a free hand. He does not design the best automobile that can be built regardless of price, but the best automobile that can be built at a certain price. His fondest hopes go out the window if the production men find that they are too costly.

The failure to enforce a similar policy on armaments has loaded most of our weapons with expensive and nonessential gadgets. A middle western aviation expert estimated recently that on large bombing planes the addition of these gadgets, desirable, perhaps, but not essential, had increased costs by $50,000 a plane. Among them was a hot and cold running water system. It is doubtful that the effectiveness of bombing raids would be diminished if the crew drank from canteens and waited until they got home for their baths.

Cost should be an even more important consideration in armament procurement than in peacetime manufacture, because even the most essential purchases are placing a tremendous strain on the nation's finances. In addition to cost there is the time factor. Every unnecessary operation of manufacture, every needless refinement, every gadget slows down production and delays the day when this nation will be prepared to defend itself.

SATISFACTIONS FROM LARGE INCOMES.

A young man with a name well known to the University of Chicago is on its list of learned doctors. David Rockefeller, grandson of John D. Rockefeller and son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., receives the degree of Ph. D. in economics. For his thesis Dr. Rockefeller, who is twenty-five, chose the subject: "Unused Capital Resources and Waste."

It is trifling with his disquisition to select only one observation from the 225 pages released by the university, but this one seems to have a relation to family experience as well as to economic research. "In the absence of further information," the author remarks, "some degree of equality in income distribution seems likely to be more desirable than extreme inequality. This is probable because there is no conclusive evidence that people with large incomes are capable of greater or less satisfaction, unless there are other offsetting factors to be considered."

There is a doctor of philosophy reserve in this observation—an apparent desire not to overstate the matter and crawl out on a limb—but Dr. Rockefeller seems to be intimating not only that you can't take it with you but that there's a lot of it you can't really cash in personal enjoyment. This law of limitation doesn't stop many people who see a way of getting it. The conclusion that some degree of equality in distribution seems likely to be more desirable than extreme inequality does not make a Rockefeller the successor of Huey Long in "Share Our Wealth." It will be regarded as tepid by the sockers of the rich. A hereditary bent might keep any Rockefeller from going too far.

THE PAVING RACKET.

The cost to the community of racketeering by contractors and so-called labor leaders was suggested the other day when bids for street paving were opened. The low figures were found to be from 15 to 20 per cent under the prices which have recently been current. Three times the ordinary number of firms competed. Work which will cost the city $376,000 would have cost from $56,000 to $75,000 more if recent unit prices had remained in force.

It may be only a coincidence that the fall in construction costs came soon after the death on Aug. 4 of Michael Carrozzo, boss of the paving unions, but the probability is all the other way. Contractors have admitted in private that it has long been their custom to pay to Carrozzo 6 per cent of the contract price. When this payment was overlooked they could expect strikes, the assignment of incompetent labor, and a multiplicity of accidents to their machinery. It has also been said that these misfortunes were likely to befall any contractor outside a charmed circle which seemed to divide the bulk of the business hereabouts.

The excessive costs, it cannot be repeated too often, were of no benefit to the men in the unions. They got no part of any rake-off which may have been taken. In fact, they were the victims of it. The city each year has only so much money to spend on paving. The lower the unit cost, the greater the quantity of paving that can be undertaken and the larger the number of jobs. The higher the cost, the fewer the jobs.

SCHOOL DAYS.

School opens in a few weeks.

The youngsters in the grammar grades are lucky. Everybody knows why they are in school. They are there to learn to read, to write, to become familiar with the ordinary arithmetical processes and their everyday uses. The children are expected to become acquainted with the outlines of the history of their country and to acquire some understanding of the rights and duties of a citizen. Perhaps some other items might be added, but it remains true that parents, teachers, and the children themselves are pretty well agreed on what education in the grades is expected to accomplish.

From the time a child leaves the grammar school and until he enters a professional school—if he does—his education lacks clearly defined objectives. He doesn't know what high school and college are expected to do for him and his parents and teachers are in the same fix. It is universally agreed that a child must learn to read; but there can be no such agreement on his learning Latin, geometry, the laws of thermodynamics, or the history of the drama in the 18th century. All that can be said of these subjects is that they will be more or less valuable to some students and more or less a waste of time to others.

The parents know this and so do the teachers and the pupils. The consequence is that high school and college education tends to be diffuse and meaningless, and that the young people who are subjected to it are not getting a fair return for the eight years spent in high school and college.

In the professional schools all this aimlessness comes to an abrupt end. Everybody knows the purpose of a medical school; it is to train doctors. It is no accident that the greatest progress in education in our era has come in the grade schools and the professional schools. Because the purposes of the grade schools are sharply defined it has been possible to devise greatly improved methods of instruction and to raise the standards of accomplishment materially. The average child today is a better reader than his father was at the same point in his schooling. The average graduate of a medical school today is far better equipped for his career than were the graduates of an earlier day.

From this it does not follow that children, except those who are planning to enter the learned professions, should be discouraged from going to school beyond the eighth grade. If that were desirable, which it is not, it would still be impossible of accomplishment. It is a fact, reinforced by law, that most of the children in this country will spend at least 12 years in school and in increasing numbers they will go on to college.

What is needed is a lot of hard thinking by every one concerned to determine what a high school and beyond it, a college education, are supposed to accomplish. It is not likely that there ever can be any such agreement on the answer as there can be regarding the goals of elementary and professional training, but certainly much of the prevailing confusion can be eliminated. Indeed, it would be helpful if an understanding could be reached on what secondary education is not supposed to do.

A few suggestions concerning the curriculum can be made which may be helpful. Children emerge from high school knowing altogether too little about government and, in particular, about their government. That is bad for them and bad for their country. They ought to know much more than they do about the structure and functioning of political organizations. The future of democracy in this country would be a great deal more secure if there were a wider and deeper understanding of our governmental forms, and of the obligations they impose. Politically, we are an illiterate people.

Probably not much good comes of teaching economic theory in the high schools, but every boy and girl ought to know bookkeeping. For lack of this knowledge a great many people go broke who needn't and a great many others fall for the Townsend plan.

The ignorance of American history in America is appalling and serves to explain a great many of the queer things which happen from time to time, and in particular, the willingness of many Americans to sacrifice the welfare of their own country to that of other nations. Because of ignorance of our own past, its triumphs and its mistakes, there is a widespread feeling that America has contributed little to the world except gadgets, and has little to contribute now.

It would be well, too, if high school children upon graduation knew more than they do about the human body and what to do about it.

Children should be encouraged to choose their vocations early. The sooner they know what they want to be, the sooner their education can be made to serve a purpose.

FAST AMERICAN CRUISERS.

[Springfield, Mass., Republican.]

In a recent discussion of new types of warships, suggested by the sinking of the Italian cruiser Colleoni by the British cruiser Sydney, it was said that the Colleoni, of 41 knots speed, had no counterpart in the American fleet. No one has risen to dispute the statement, but it was not altogether accurate, being made in inadvertent neglect of the four ships of the new Atlanta class which were ordered last year and two of which are building at Quincy. These ships will be of 6,000 tons, compared with 5,093 for the Colleoni. They will have more armor protection, the Colleoni having none, and slightly more gun power. Their designed speed of 38 knots would not rival that of the Colleoni, but the Colleonis were designed as 37 knot ships in their original specifications and it is possible that the Atlantas will so far exceed their contract speed, altho an excess of three knots is unusual in the American fleet, as to wrest the speed record from the Italians. The Atlantas are classed as leaders of destroyer flotillas and are an experimental type. Whether the four now building will be added to, in view of the fact that the Italians have 9 Colleonis left, and 12 others of smaller dimensions under construction whose speed may go as high as 44 knots, is an interesting problem.

GENESIS OF THE BLITZKRIEG

BY HUGH M. COLE.

[Department of History, University of Chicago.]

As demonstrated by Hitler's armed forces the blitzkrieg has been so astounding in its successes that the very name now has a connotation of dark military magic and strategic secrets pulled out of a top hat by Nazi generals. But like every revolutionary idea, technique, or institution, the blitzkrieg has beginnings which can be traced beyond its first dramatic appearance in the Polish campaign of 1939.

The ideological father of the lightning war was an Italian, Gen. Douhet, a military upstart, whose criticism of the Italian high command during the world war landed him in prison.

From 1921 until his death in 1930, Gen. Douhet wrote in support of one thesis: That the next war would be fought and won in the air. Thousands of planes would decide the fate of nations by bombing the enemy civilian population into subjection. Then, for the first time, the foot soldier would cross the frontier to occupy the enemy country.

But Douhet remained a prophet without honor until Hermann Goering and his colleagues appropriated his ideas and made them realities. Even today two of Gen. Douhet's pet ideas remain in the realm of hypothesis: [1] the bombing of enemy capitals by thousands of planes; [2] the wholesale use of liquid gas literally to drench metropolitan streets. Since the blitzkrieg has thus far been tailored to fit the particular enemy it may well be that the Nazi heirs of Douhet are reserving these two items for England.

Gen. von Seekt and the leaders of the small professional reichswehr left to Germany at Versailles, were the next contributors to the blitzkrieg theory and technique. Since the reichswehr was so small, only about 100,000 in number, Seekt believed that the future enemies of Germany must be defeated before they could mobilize their conscript armies of millions. This would require extreme mobility for the lightning and decisive stroke, and so automotive locomotion was utilized on a scale known in no other army. Mobility was useless without striking force and so the fire power of the reichswehr was greatly increased by added machine guns and Luger machine pistols. These pistols were shown in a preview of blitzkrieg fire power when in 1919 a small detachment of the reichswehr used them to defeat a much larger force of Poles armed with rifles and field artillery.

Gen. Ludendorff, whose tactical genius had been demonstrated in the German offensives of 1918, also fathered the blitzkrieg in his postwar writings.

The work of these three military leaders might never have been crystalized into a really formidable war technique if it had not been for the onetime corporal, Adolf Hitler. His first official act, when he became chancellor, was to visit the Berlin barracks and thus identify himself with the army. Subsequently German soldiers took a personal oath of loyalty to Hitler, tho this was hard for the old officer class to stomach. However, no price was too high to pay for rearmament.

The remilitarization of the left bank of the Rhine, contrary to the Versailles restrictions, gave the green light for wholesale production of arms and trained soldiers. Hitler was now prepared to give the blitzkrieg the added features of shock and momentum. This required the re-creation of the mass army of millions denied Germany after 1918.

The blitzkrieg has shown German superiority in manpower during each of its victories. Bombing squadrons and panzer divisions have been starred in the blitzkrieg productions, but have never had the stage to themselves. In Poland the Germans had at least 65 infantry divisions available alongside their 10 mechanized and motorized divisions. In operations on the western front the Nazis had at least 204 divisions, of which 188 were infantry.

We have yet to explain why the blitzkrieg should have been fully understood and developed only in Nazi Germany. This cannot be ascribed solely to the stupidity of Polish, French, and English leaders in the postwar era. Hitler and his advisers were able to comprehend the new face of war because they were the products of a revolution in politics and society. This naturally made for revolutionary changes in military thinking and organization. Hitler's future enemies retained in command old soldiers with old ideas because the political institutions and civilian leadership of England and France remained nearly intact as a result of military victory in 1918.

The very severity of the iniquitous Versailles peace helped make the blitzkrieg German property. France stripped the reichswehr of its heavy machine guns and artillery. Germany produced new air-cooled machine guns, superior to those France had left over from the world war, and thus increased the fire power of its infantry. The 77-mm. field gun, taken from a crushed German army, was replaced by a new 105-mm. cannon—one of the main features of the blitzkrieg armament. When the French general staff forced the reichswehr to accept a disproportionate percentage of cavalry, on the theory that cavalry was now useless, the framework was laid for the famous mechanized forces—the cavalry of 1920 turned into panzer divisions. Denied heavy artillery, high explosive shells, and tanks for infantry support, the postwar German infantryman was taught to advance against the enemy with only his own resources. Today the German infantry squad is expected to advance and capture ground with only such covering fire as it possesses in its own rifles, automatic weapons, and trench mortars.

Altho beaten in 1918, or perhaps because of that very fact, the German soldier brought to the study of military science and history a will to learn and an eye to see. Pacifism, senility, false security, all had weakened the desire to learn in other military circles. The German, reading his own history, concluded that his predecessors had won by superior mobility, under the Great Frederick or Moltke the Elder.

The Schlieffen plan seemed to the student the certain way to victory—failing in 1914 only because it had not been properly understood and utilized. The failures of the world war were studied, on the assumption that conditions of immobility and deadlock could never exist again. The double penetration in Flanders which cut the allied armies to pieces in 1940 was close to an exact duplicate of Ludendorff's initial plans in the battle of Picardy, 1918. Victory was made possible by the superior mobility, shock and fire power of the blitzkrieg.

Unlike their enemies, the Germans learned from others. Before 1939 the written works of Gen. Guderian, chief of the Nazi mechanized arms, were heavily documented by references to the writings of a little known French colonel, Charles De Gaulle. Quite probably more Germans read De Gaulle on mechanized tactics than did Frenchmen. Nothing escaped the scrutiny of the Germans who were building the blitzkrieg. The English and French discounted the lessons in aerial and tank warfare, taught in Spain because the Ebro was not the Rhine.

Lastly, it can be said that Germany streamlined the blitzkrieg while it was actually in operation. Tank columns broke down en route to Vienna in 1938. A year later three mechanized divisions ran out of fuel east of Warsaw. Neither the tanks nor their fuel supply failed in Flanders. The Junkers bomber, Ju-88, was built for trial use over Poland. It was put into mass production and made available against England only after its success in 1939. One must remember that what the blitzkrieg taught in Poland, Norway, Flanders, and France remained largely German property. Over each stricken battlefield the curtain came down as the Gestapo moved in—and the victims of the blitzkrieg could hardly analyze the technique that had killed, imprisoned, or demoralized them.

Today the blitzkrieg is still in the making.

HEAD INJURIES: KEEP QUIET FOR 48 HOURS.

IN THESE days of reckless disregard for life on our highways, physicians are obliged to do all that they can to mend badly broken and maimed bodies. Head injuries in particular ueserve the great-juries in particular deserve the great-likely to be followed by concussion. Although the senses are lost, there may be no bleeding within. Later, however, the victim may complain of headaches and dizziness. Convalescence occurs eventually in most instances and the individual is as good as he was before the mishap.

But there may be a contusion—with bruising or tearing of the brain itself—and there is usually some oozing beneath the covering membranes. Here we may have a profound stupor with a slowing of the pulse and the respiration.

The purpose of this discussion is to emphasize forcefully that any one who has experienced a head injury must be kept under strict supervision for 24 to 48 hours. It is not the fact that a bone has been cracked that is of such importance. It is what has happened within the skull that concerns us most. Of course, if a segment of the cranium has been depressed—so that pressure is exerted on the brain—that is another matter. If a small bit has been pushed inward, immediate repair may be required.

Of equal significance is discoloration about the eyes or over the mastoid [behind the ear] that comes on several days after the casualty. If the impact has been powerful enough to rip the scalp, the condition of the underlying structures must be determined. X-ray examinations made hurriedly may not tell the entire story and many a patient has developed meningitis or an abscess because this precaution was neglected.

We must recall that the envelope within the cranium is richly supplied with blood. A heavy bump in the region of the ear, for example, may tear one of these vessels so that a situation similar to apoplexy is presented. If, after several days or weeks, eyesight begins to fail—the sufferer sleepy or drowsy—we must think of a blood clot which may call for surgery.

The urgency of critical observation is illustrated by the history of a man who recovered consciousness in a hospital after a collision. He insisted upon going home because his wife would worry. He was told that it would be unsafe—that he should remain under constant supervision for at least 24 hours. This he refused to do, stating repeatedly, "I am quite all right. I feel fine." The next morning he was found dead in his bed at home. A post mortem revealed a ruptured artery with hemorrhage.

Morphine should never be given to one who has employed his head as a battering ram. All symptoms are so clouded by this drug that inferences, vital to welfare, cannot be made. In extreme cases of restlessness, mild sedatives are recommended. Many mistakes are made by assuming that alcohol is universally responsible. Not infrequently the victim of an assault—with a fractured skull—is allowed to "sleep off" a supposed jag in a cell.

Here are a few do's and don'ts that may be useful: When any one is struck on or about the head the part should be elevateu unless there is profound shock or should breathing be interfered with by the maneuver. Sometimes mucus should be cleared out of the throat and bronchi by means of suction. Without undue delay the patient should be taken to the nearest hospital where expert medical attention may be obtained. The journey should be accomplished with the greatest caution and—while speed is essential—every unnecessary jolt or jar should be avoided.

CHICKEN BREAST.

E. P. writes: What is a chicken breast? Can the chest be made normal again?

REPLY.

So-called pigeon or chicken breast results from a childhood disease—rickets. The bony parts become misshapen. After adult life has been reached correction is out of the question. If detected early, however, exercises involving posture, etc., will be helpful.

A CHILD IN YOUR HOME.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—In your paper and other popular journals I have seen letters similar to this: Why give sanctuary to British war refugees when our own American slums are full of children whom we could take into our homes?

From experience I would reply: A person in moderate circumstances cannot get a child from the American slums. The parents will not give them up, even if they seem to at first.

Thru church affiliations I was able to contact two children whom I took into my home at different times. The first I cleaned up and kept for five months. This child wanted to stay with me, but I had the family on my doorstep day and night. When I wanted to move out of the neighborhood they took her away.

The second child I kept for five weeks, giving her piano lessons and special clinical attention on account of her feet. She was literally naked when she came to me in bitter early March weather. The parents were willing for me to wash and dress her, but they wanted her to spend most of her time with them on the other side of town, and when I objected they took her away.

In an effort to find a third child I contacted between 12 and 15 state and church institutions in Chicago, and even telephoned THE TRIBUNE about a Spanish refugee! Finally, after writing to friends in 11 large cities in the central west I found an 8 year old girl in a small Illinois town. She was not a slum child, but, for family reasons, was not welcome in her father's home.

She has been with me now for a year and five months, and I hope to keep her always. But I cannot adopt her because, according to a reputable agency, [1] my $23 a week is not adequate [2] there is no father in the home; [3] my apartment does not provide for a separate room for her—only a separate bed. I am told, also, that if anything happens to the child while she is with me the parents can sue me for damages. Already she has been turned down for insurance by one leading company as being of no blood relationship, and I am still negotiating with others.

So, all things considered, it would appear that if anybody really wants a child in his home he should snap up a British refugee while he gets a chance. I have heard of would-be foster parents paying as high as $1,000 each for American waifs and strays, so scarce are they.

CHICAGO HAS IT.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—I think all Chicagoans are hoping our fair city may be favored by the National Advisory committee as the preferred location for the building of the government's $8,400,000 airplane engine research laboratory. We are told the laboratory is to build airplane engines, also seaplane engines, perhaps torpedo engines, etc. If in the process of development our engineers found that their engine was better suited for a speedy torpedo boat, a sub, or a patrol boat, what an advantage for Chicago to have a lake in her back yard to give the boat and engine a workout.

What other inland city affords better accessibility to centers of scientific and technical activities? Chicago has plenty of skilled labor and all other necessary facilities. In short, Chicago has IT. Need the committee look elsewhere?

JOHN H. SOLLER.

AN HOUR A WEEK FOR DRILL.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Industrial organizations could do their bit toward coöperating with the government on national defense by setting aside one hour a week for instruction in the rudiments of army drill. The American Legion and similar organizations would no doubt be glad to assign men to large organizations, and employés of the smaller firms could be consolidated and handled in conveniently managed groups. This instruction would serve primarily to acquaint the men who might be subject to draft with the manual of arms and other elementary drill regulations. Classes in first aid, nursing, etc., might even be considered for the women employés.

This preparatory training would not only lighten the task of the government in subsequent instruction, it would also prove helpful to the state in the establishment of home defense.

I am sure most any business organization would be willing to donate one hour of each eligible employé's time to this patriotic cause.

ROOSEVELT FOUR YEARS AGO.

Glencoe, Ill., Aug. 20.—"We know, too, that vast armaments are rising on every side and that the work of creating them employs men and women by the millions. . . . Such employment is false . . . it builds no permanent structures and creates no consumers' good for the maintenance of a lasting prosperity. We know that nations guilty of these follies inevitably face the day when either their weapons of destruction must be used against their neighbors, or when an unsound economy, like a house of cards, will fall apart."—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Dec. 1, 1936.

FROM A GRAVEDIGGER.

Blue Island, Ill., Aug. 19.—THE TRIBUNE says: "Few pay rollers expected to be taken by draft." The article says that men in occupations deemed necessary for the public health, safety, and interest will be deferred.

In my opinion all persons who work in cemeteries should be deferred, because that will fall directly in line with public health, safety, and interest. Deceased persons cannot be left unburied very long.

I hope THE TRIBUNE will check up on the facts of this and publish it in this column.

A GRAVE DIGGER.

FANNIE BLOOMFIELD ZEISLER.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Your excellent article on Fannie Zeisler in today's TRIBUNE recalls an amusing incident.

I was a steady guest at her monthly dinners at her house for years, and in response invited her to my house with her husband and Milinkoff, prime minister of Russia. Her conversation and mine was largely on music. Milinkoff looked at her in surprise and asked in German: "Do you play the piano?"

"Yes," she answered, "if they goad me into it."

DOC KUH.

HOUSEMAID'S PHILOSOPHY.

Winnetka, Ill., Aug. 18.—To "Disgusted": Sit down and have a heart to heart discussion with yourself. Possibly you were at fault in at least one of the 15 positions you have held in the last six years. With so many unemployed in our country, you should consider yourself fortunate to have had the privilege of 15 chances to success.

I have been a maid for 4½ years. During that time I have held three positions. Each change has been to better myself financially, and only during my first six months' experience did I work for the wages you quoted. I have had many problems. Who hasn't? They weren't solved by discussing them behind my employer's back.

Talk things over with the lady of the house. Express yourself clearly, frankly. Nine out of ten women will appreciate suggesions and coöperate with you in working out a systematic routine.

Housework is no child's play. It requires an intelligent person, willing to accept responsibility and meet emergencies calmly.

Change your attitude!

THE MICE GAME CRUELTY.

Maywood, Ill., Aug. 17.—Some time ago I attended a carnival sponsored by the Maywood group of the American Legion and saw the popular mice gambling games. I objected to the man operating the game and he said: "You wouldn't want them in your home; you would kill them, wouldn't you?" Naturally no one wants the pesky little creatures and they should be destroyed humanely, but why deliberately go out of your way to torture them?

Each mouse is supposed to run for 10 minutes and have a rest period, at which time they are kept in half pint glass jars that have a few holes punched in the covers for air.

Our state veterinarian does not want to consider the act as one of cruelty, but I don't know what else it can be called.

FAIR PLAY.

AMATEUR AND SEMIPRO.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Altho dozens of well played amateur and semipro baseball games are played in Chicago during the week the only pictures the newspapers ever print are those of the big league games. Papers in other cities always print action pictures of local games at all times. Such pictures do more to encourage the game than the exclusive use of only big league pictures.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 25, 1270

King Louis IX. of France, known as St. Louis, died of the plague in Tunis, en route to Jerusalem on his second crusade. Louis was remembered as one of the greatest rulers of the middle ages. Altho he was ascetic, he was physically powerful, standing a head taller than any of his knights and excelling them in bravery. After his first crusade he adopted simple, monklike garments, traveled in the company of priests, and gave haircloth shirts to his friends as gifts. He built hospitals and visited and tended the sick himself. He was said to give charity to at least 100 beggars daily. He was canonized in 1297.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Ten years ago my wife and I furnished a quitclaim deed to my wife's mother and father on a piece of property in Lake county, which we had held as tenants in common up to that time. Since that time my father-in-law has passed away, leaving a will which, by the way, was never recorded, said will providing for his daughter [my wife] to receive two-thirds interest in the property, the other one-third to be divided by his other daughter and son.

1. Can you advise me as to necessary legal steps that will safeguard my wife's interest?

2. Quitclaim deed was signed by myself and wife and property recorded in Lake county.

J. A.

1. Probate is necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to real estate.

2. It is not clear what importance you attach to the means by which the deceased acquired title. On the bare facts stated, it would seem that this property would be in the same position as any of his other assets.

DUPLICATE WILL.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A few years ago my mother made a will which she destroyed later. 1. I presume the attorney who drew up the will has a duplicate [2] which is recorded. She left some real estate bonds that are registered in her name. There are seven children and the total estate amounts to about $1,000.

3. Does the law require that this will be probated and, if so, about how much will it cost?

4. What steps are necessary to liquidate the bonds registered in her name?

C. R.

1. It seems possible that he has a duplicate.

2. You are mistaken in assuming that it would be recorded. We see no importance to proving the copies in view of the destruction of the original, which would work a revocation.

3. No.

4. The transfer officer can insist on probate. The only way to ascertain whether he is willing to waive probate is to take the matter up with him.

CLAIM ON ESTATE.

Kewanee, Ill., Aug. 15. [Legal Friend of the People.]—Can one collect a debt of $30 from an estate in probate in Chicago without the aid of an attorney? If so, please tell me who to ask for in that department.

W. H. B.

Depends on whether the personal representative of the estate is willing to mark the claim to be allowed and, if not, on whether the claimant is prepared to keep in touch with the case and be present to prove up when the case is reached. We suggest that you first get in touch with the personal representative.

A TOUGH MOVES TOWARD THE END OF CRIME TRAIL

Ex-Convict Is Seized as Brawl Slayer.

James Capello, alias James Romano—auto thief, burglar, and convicted stickup man—stood a step nearer the end of the crime trail last night. He faced murder charges following the death of a machinist who was shot in a saloon brawl.

The machinist, Wallace Petzolt, 26 years old, 1320 North La Salle street, died in Henrotin hospital. Before he died, Petzolt said Capello shot him. Police have five witnesses who say the same thing. Capello denies it, in the snarl of a professional tough.

The shooting occurred early yesterday in the Show Boat tavern at 1300 North Clark street. Capello did not know Petzolt, police said, but that did not prevent his picking a quarrel with him.

Wife Entertainer in Tavern.

Petzolt's wife, Neva, is an entertainer at the Show Boat. It was presumed by investigators that she was the subject of the quarrel.

Capello was ordered out of the place. He returned two hours later. He had more swagger, more assurance. He had "the difference"—a revolver—in his pocket. He reopened the quarrel. Again the tavern proprietor told him to get out.

Capello went out and Petzolt went with him. On the sidewalk, according to witnesses, Capello drew his gun and shot Petzolt. Tavern patrons and passers-by seized Capello and held him for police. A revolver lay a short distance away.

Beneficiary of Parole System.

Now 48 years old, Capello said he lived at 1335 Larrabee street and was a taxi driver. Police records revealed him to have been a beneficiary of the Illinois parole system.

He was arrested in 1931 for stealing an automobile. He served four months in the Bridewell. On his release he shifted from cars to holdups. Police caught him Aug. 1, 1932.

Capello and two companions had held up Morris Stein of 829 Aldine street as he was putting his car in a garage behind 1337 North Halsted street. The other two bandits never were captured, because Capello would not talk.

Paroled in Three Years.

For this $39 robbery Capello was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Joliet penitentiary. He began the term Sept. 16, 1932. He was paroled in December, 1935.

He was arrested frequently thereafter as a suspect, but police pinned nothing on him until 1939, when he was seized as a burglar. The charge was changed to petty larceny and he did four more months in the Bridewell.

That was the background Capello took into the Show Boat tavern. He had a lot to drink and remembered he was pretty tough. Now the charge reads "Murder."

RAID 8 BOOKIE SHOPS, JAIL 15 IN WAR ON NITTI

Police resumed their drive yesterday against the gambling and labor rackets headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and Danny Stanton, raiding eight establishments in a search for race handbooks. Fifteen men were arrested in the raids, seven of which were in the loop district.

The raids were said to be a result of the conference last week in which business leaders and States's Attorney Courtney mapped a war against labor racketeers. In some places they seized bookmaking paraphernalia.

The places raided and the men arrested were: 190 North State street, Harry Martin and Edward Leonard; 122 South Clark street, Fred Stone and Charles Gardner; 128 West Lake street, Frank Ross and Joseph Polito; 18 South Dearborn street, Dan Monde and Louis Petrakos; 62 West Monroe street, Harry Fust and Walter Sykes; 180 West Randolph street, Bert Crawley and James Allen; 19 West Lake street, George Hooper, and 5147 South Damen avenue, Edward Zintek and John Gawron.

All were charged with disorderly conduct except Fust, Sykes, Zintek and Gawron, who were charged with operating a handbook.

Emma Big Bear Could Well Change Her Name to Bean

McGregor, Ia., Aug. 24 [Special].—Emma Big Bear, Winnebago, Indian, who, with her Indian husband and daughter, lives north of here, believes she has in her garden the tallest of tall beans. The bean stalk, loaded with pods, is more than 19 feet tall and still growing. All beans, squash, corn, melons, and tobacco in Emma's garden were grown from seeds handed down from generation to generation of the Bear family of the Winnebagos. Emma, who is a descendant from the famous Chief Decorah, obtained her seeds from Mother Mary Blue Pink.

PARALYTIC HANGS HERSELF.

Mrs. Frances Kotoski, 64 years old, hanged herself yesterday in her home at 2111 Bingham street. She had been ill with infantile paralysis for four years.

Politics Waits

Senator Charles L. McNary, home in Portland, Ore., to be notified of his nomination by the Republican party for the Vice Presidency, adjourns politics while he helps his daughter, Charlotte, remove a splinter from her foot.

Salem, Ore., Aug. 24 (AP).—Senator Charles L. McNary, home to accept the Republican vice presidential nomination and to rest, said today he intended to let his running mate, Wendell L. Willkie, "carry the ball and set the pace." McNary will make only four or five speeches. "My acceptance theme on Tuesday will be pioneer history, pioneer tradition and pioneer virtues," he said. "Out of that I will obtain the idea that pioneer virtues are better than looking to the government for a job." McNary hopes to remain at his home until after Labor day.

At Portland, the end of a cross country air journey, McNary told interviewers the conscription bill would "pass in some form or other with a fair vote."

'KISS OF DEATH' GIRL FACES DOPE CASE TOMORROW

Margaret Mary Collins, once known as gangland's "kiss of death" girl, who was seized by police in a narcotics raid Wednesday, is to appear in the South State street court tomorrow on a charge of disorderly conduct.

She was arrested in an apartment at 500 Fullerton parkway. Three other women and two men also were seized, and $4,000 worth of narcotics was confiscated. The others arrested identified themselves as Helen Ryan, Anne Martin, Mary Russell, Harry Harris, and Thomas Di Santo.

The Collins woman received her "kiss of death" name during prohibition after seven of her gangster sweethearts had been slain one by one. They were Dion O'Bannion, Jack Sheeby, Irving Schlig, Johnny Phillips, David Bates, Eugene [Red] McLaughlin, and Sammy Katz.

Ask Blood Donors to Aid Former "Follies" Beauty

A call for blood donors for Jessie Reed, once the highest paid chorine in show business, was issued yesterday at Chicago Osteopathic hospital, 5200 Ellis avenue where she is seriously ill. Miss Reed, who in her heyday was acclaimed as a "Follies" beauty, was in destitute circumstances when taken to the hospital 20 days ago. She had been living at 2300 South Michigan avenue. She is being aided by the Ziegfield club and the Actor's Fund. Dr. Kenneth Thompson said she already has received five transfusions.

ORDER NEW QUIZ IN ATTEMPT TO DEPORT BRIDGES

Bill Ordering Ouster Is Stalled in Senate.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 [Special]. —Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, today was the object of a scathing denunciation by Senator William H. King [D., Utah] and a newly opened investigation by the justice department to determine if he is subject to deportation under recently enacted legislation.

Senator King's condemnation of the notorious alien was contained in a minority report on an immigration committee recommendation that the senate ask the justice department to inquire further into Bridges' case. King, who is chairman of the committee, declared there is ample factual basis for Bridges' immediate deportation to his native Australia.

Conduct Called Notorious.

"His conduct," Senator King said, "has been so notorious, his contempt for the American way of life so flaunted, and his destructive influence so persuasive, that in my opinion—an opinion strengthened by action of the house—there can be no denying Bridges' hostility to our form of government nor the fact that his continued presence in this country will be harmful.

"The public is familiar with the testimony taken which justified the conclusion that Bridges was affiliated with communism, if not a communist, and was devoting himself to the undermining of our economic and political life."

Demands for Bridges' deportation began more than three years ago. When Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins no longer could ignore the pressure, she appointed James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school and former New Deal jobholder, a special trial examiner to hear evidence on charges that Bridges is a communist and sought to overthrow the American form of government.

Last December, after a long hearing at San Francisco, Landis found that altho Bridges was "energetically radical," he was not then a member of the communist party.

Saved by High Court.

Before the deportation proceedings were completed, the Supreme court ruled that in such cases an alien must be shown to have been a member of a so-called subversive organization at the time deportation proceedings were started. Since the Landis whitewash, the alien registration act of 1940 has been passed, making deportable an alien who at any time has been a member of a subversive organization.

On June 13 the house of representatives passed a bill ordering Bridges' deportation. However, attempts to kill it were made when it reached the senate. Overriding Chairman King, the two other members of the three man senate immigration committee recommended, as a substitute for the house approved bill, that the department of justice conduct an inquiry into whether Bridges' may be deported under the new legislation.

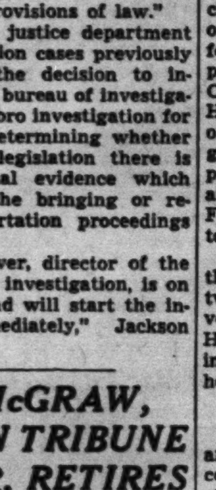
Jackson Opposes Bill.

In a statement announcing the investigation, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson recalled that he had opposed the house bill directed against Bridges, holding it would be a "historical departure from American practice and tradition in that it would be the first time that an act of congress has singled out a named individual for deportation nothwithstanding other provisions of law."

Jackson said a justice department study of deportation cases previously closed brought the decision to instruct the federal bureau of investigation to make a thoro investigation for the purpose of determining whether under the new legislation there is new or additional evidence which would warrant the bringing or reopening of deportation proceedings against Bridges."

"J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, is on the west coast and will start the investigation immediately," Jackson said.

RALPH McGRAW, VETERAN TRIBUNE PRINTER, RETIRES



Ralph McGraw.

Ralph McGraw, 1551 Juneway terrace, veteran linotypist who celebrated his 50th year of service with THE TRIBUNE in June, voluntarily retired on a Tribune pension Friday. He is 70 years old.

When Mr. McGraw joined THE TRIBUNE staff 50 years ago there were no linotype machines and the paper was set entirely by hand. On his retirement he was the sole survivor of a band of about 100 hand compositors who used to set type on the top floor of the old five story Tribune plant on the southeast corner of Madison and Dearborn streets.

Mr. McGraw learned to set type on his home town weekly at Mount Pulaski during the '80s. Later he toured the country following the practice much in vogue among the printers of that day. In 1889 he joined the printers' union in Omaha. He returned to Chicago the following year and was employed by THE TRIBUNE.

Clergyman Uses Plane to Make Calls on His Flock

The Rev. Kenneth A. Morford of De Kalb greeting the families of Albert Vodden of Malta, Ill., and of Francis Harris of De Kalb. Albert Vodden is holding his granddaughter, Carol Harris, with whom the Rev. Mr. Morford is talking.

DE KALB PASTOR REAL SKY PILOT; HE FLIES PLANE

Modern Circuit Rider Has Wings.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A light airplane soared yesterday over the Albert Vodden farm northwest of Malta, De Kalb county. The farm family gave it only passing attention until it headed downward toward the silo around which it made a steeply banked circle. The plane then headed toward a field of oat stubble where it made a perfect three point landing.

The Vodden family hurried to the spot. There they discovered that the pilot was in clergyman's garb. He was the Rev. Kenneth A. Morford, dropping in for a pastoral call.

The 39 year old clergyman, who is pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, De Kalb, was received with true rural hospitality. Refreshments were rushed from the house to the field. Then the pastor and the farm family, youngsters and all, talked about church and airplanes and other things. The visit over, the young pastor took off from the oat field and headed his plane for another parishioner's farm near Sycamore.

Circuit Rider Gets Wings.

The Rev. Mr. Morford told the Vodden household his flying visit was the 1940 version of the rural pastor's call. A century ago, he said, the calls were made by a circuit rider mounted on a horse with his traveling necessities packed in saddle bags. Later pastors utilized the horse and buggy. Then the automobile. But from now on, the Rev. Mr. Morford is convinced, the plane will be used more and more to take the pastor to his rural parishioners.

"One thing must be said for pastoral calls by airplane," said the flying parson. "It brings the younger members of the family out of hiding. No normal farmer's child will beat it down to the creek when the pastor drops in out of the sky. They want to be right there. Of course, since I have to borrow a plane, I cannot do much rural calling this way. Perhaps the time will come when we can have diocesan planes, just like the big industries have planes for officials. A light plane costs as little as $1,200 and the upkeep is very low.

Wants Diocese to Use Planes.

"I have suggested this to Archdeacon Norman Quigg, who is in charge of rural work for the Episcopal church in northern Illinois. I told him he ought to fly a plane with crosses—Christian crosses, not Nazi crosses—on the wings. One circle, over a town would prepare the way for him, like John the Baptist prepared the way for the coming of Christ by crying in the wilderness. He could drop church leaflets instead of bombs. It would be good propaganda. You know lots of people—especially young bloods—think religion and the church are stuffy and dopey. Flying for religion would put a stop to such notions."

The Rev. Mr. Morford explained that he had difficulty in deciding between the church and aviation as a vocation. But the church came first. He entered Du Bose Theological seminary [Monteagle, Tenn.] from which he was graduated in 1932.

Teaches and Preaches.

After serving churches in Michigan and in Peoria and Henry [Marshall county], Illinois, he became an instructor in 1937 at St. Alban's school, Sycamore, which he combined with the pastorship of St. Paul's church, De Kalb, five miles away. Near by was Waterman field, managed by Harry Reed, where the Rev. Mr. Morford took flying lessons. He was granted a pilot's license last May.

The Eagle Flying corps of De Kalb was recently organized in the Rev. Mr. Morford's rectory under his chairmanship. The corps has ordered a new plane. He explained that the purpose of the corps, limited to 10 members with flying experience, is to advance the cause of aviation, aid in national defense and improve the flying technique of corps members.

JOHN I. DAILEY DIES.

[ADVERTISMENT]

IF YOUR ANKLES SWELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

Do your ankles swell, or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney trouble. The Kidneys work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the Kidneys may get tired functionally and slow down. Then excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer burning, scanty or frequent passages, backache or nervousness, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney or Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex now costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

2 NOTRE DAME BROTHERS DIE IN TRUCK CRASH

Lawton, Mich., Aug. 24 [Special].—Two brothers of the Holy Cross Order of Notre Dame university were killed and three others were injured tonight in a collision of trucks at a road intersection near here. Two farmers in a truck loaded with sheep, which struck the vehicle in which the five brothers were riding, also were hurt.

The dead were Brother Sabinus, 32 years old, commisioner of provincial housing at the university, and Brother Cesaire, 30, assistant cook at Moreau seminary. Their injured associates are Brother Ladislaus, a prefect in Brownson hall at the university, Brother Eustace, a teacher in the Central Catholic High school at South Bend, and Brother Vallery, cook at Dujaire hall at the university.

The brothers were on their way to a summer camp for Notre Dame priests and brothers at Bankson lake, southeast of here. In the truck which struck theirs were Marion Fox and Robert Crippen of Marcellus, Mich. Brother Ladislaus, who was near death from a skull fracture, was taken to a Kalamazoo hospital. The remaining four injured men were taken to a hospital in Paw Paw.

BOY ON SIDEWALK FATALLY INJURED AS AUTOS CRASH

A boy 10 years old was crushed to death yesterday when he was pinned against the front of a tavern at 5800 Higgins avenue by an automobile that had gone out of control after a collision. The boy was Edmund Stroczewski Jr. of 5812 Higgins avenue.

Edmund was playing in front of the tavern with Casimir Sum, 10, son of the owner. A car driven by Frank Bellis, 74, of 2740 Warren boulevard, collided with one driven by Miss Mildred Pekara, 20, of 5334 Canfield road, Norwood Park township. Bellis' car bounded over the curb and struck Edmund.

Mrs. Herman Eggert, 75 years old, of Michigan City, Ind., was killed yesterday when the auto in which she was riding collided with another on route 20 four miles east of Gary.

Myra Leich, 48, of Valparaiso, Ind., was killed in an auto collision on route 130 three miles west of Gary.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday, 540 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 404 were killed in Chicago, where 14,829 were injured in the same period.

TELLS HOW MEN CAN BE TRAINED AND RETAIN JOBS

Navy Reserve Officer Asks Armory Drills.

A plan for training large numbers of men in naval reserve and National Guard armories without disruption of the economic and domestic life of the nation was recommended yesterday by Lieut. Richard J. Penny, a reserve division commander and a graduate of the naval academy at Annapolis.

Penny, who served with the navy scouting fleet for a year, has been a reserve officer for 15 years. As a salesman of electric motors and generators he has come in contact with managers of industrial plants who have told him they favor his plan as one that would not disorganize production. His home is at 1814 Colfax street, Evanston.

How Plan Would Work.

Under his plan congress would be asked to enact a law requiring all men in certain age brackets [the ages to be determined] to enroll in the naval reserve or the army reserve [which the National Guard would become under federal control]. These men would train one night a week, as is done now by guardsmen and reservists, or more if congress deemed it necessary.

Only a relatively small amount of additional equipment would be needed aside from the assignment of more regular officers to supervise the training, Lieut. Penny said.

"This would not interfere with men's civilian occupations as the drill would be given at night, after business hours, with further training either afloat or in camp given in the summer during normal vacation periods," Lieut. Penny said. "It would not hamstring the nation's production nor overstrain our economy."

Offers Cost Comparison.

Under the proposed administration conscription bill the cost of training 1,000 men would be $21,000 a month for pay and about $30,000 a month for food, said Lieut. Penny. Compared with this total of $51,000, Lieut. Penny's plan would call for $2,800 a month for pay [of 70 cents a night] and nothing for food for giving 1,000 men one night of training each week.

"This dollar saving in the defense budget alone recommends serious consideration of the plan," he said.

How the plan would work out in the naval reserve armory in Chicago was described by Lieut. Penny. The armory is now used by nine divisions of about 70 men each, which comprise three battalions. Each battalion uses the armory one night a week for one and a half hours.

Equipment Needs Small.

"Only a small amount of equipment need be added to enable three battalions instead of one to drill each night," said Lieut. Penny. "And the armory could be used every night instead of just three nights. These men thus trained are fully qualified to carry out the duties of their ranks in the regular navy."

The 9th naval district reserve now uses five ships for two months for summer training. Both the number of ships and the period of use could easily be expanded to accommodate more reservists, Lieut. Penny said.

Similarly, National Guard armories and summer camps could be utilized to maximum capacity and augmented where necessary to fit in with compulsory training of men in their home communities, the lieutenant said.

Little Egypt Club to Hold Its Annual Reunion Today

The Chicago Egyptian club will hold its annual picnic reunion from 1 to 6 p. m. today across the lagoon from the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. Members of the club are former residents of the southern Illinois region known as Little Egypt.

BUILDING COST TO RISE SOON, SURVEY SHOWS

Lot Prices Not Expected to Advance.

Are home building costs going up? This question has been asked by prospective home builders repeatedly during the last few weeks. In order to get a reliable composite answer the Operative Builder and Contractor sent out a questionnaire to prominent builders in Chicago and other cities.

Irvin A. Blietz.

To get specific information the following questions were asked: 1. Will there be any change in the trend of prices for new homes in the next 12 months? 2. If there is to be a change, will it be the result of changes in the prices of materials, a tendency on the part of subcontractors to stiffen prices, or an increase in the prices of lots—or a combination of all these factors? 3. Will any change that takes place be an increase or decrease, and approximately how much will it be?

Expect Rise Shortly.

The replies were almost unanimous in the belief that home building costs would rise, and that the advance was coming soon. It would be brought about by higher costs of materials and labor and not by increased price of lots, most agreed.

Irvin A. Blietz of Wilmette, owner of the Connecticut Village residential development between Wilmette and Kenilworth, had this to say about building costs:

"It is our opinion that prices for new homes will definitely move upward. We anticipate increases in material prices and on subcontract work, but do not expect an increase in the cost of lots.

"In our opinion, the increase probably will amount to 5 per cent during the next six months."

Builder Sees Upturn.

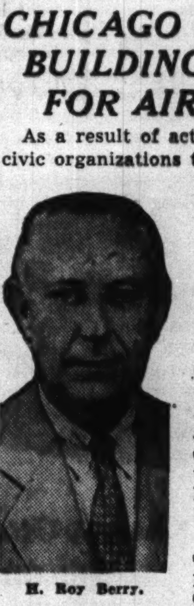
Another Chicago builder said:

"There probably will be a trend to increase prices for new homes within the next 12 months. This change will come about mostly due to material costs, with some tendency by the subcontractors to make a reasonable profit for their work. The increase, in our opinion, will approximate 5 to 10 per cent."

One of the biggest operative builders in New York City answered as follows: "It is our opinion that there is a definite trend toward higher prices in new houses. We expect material prices to go up, and we expect labor prices to stiffen, also. These changes we feel are sure, but how much of a change there will be we don't know."

CHICAGO AVENUE BUILDING LEASED FOR AIR SCHOOL

As a result of activities by various civic organizations to get Chicago its share of the aviation industry, a new school for the training of young men in the aircraft vocations has been established in Chicago. The building at 936-46 West Chicago avenue was leased by the American Aircraft institute which already has a student body of 100.



H. Roy Berry.

Arthur H. Zamotny, former president of the California School of Aeronautics, is president of the Chicago institute. The treasurer and secretary is H. Roy Berry, long identified with Chicago real estate operations. Lieut. Floyd K. Smith is vice president and in charge of student training. The chief instructor, Warner K. Schoenert, formerly was with the Lockheed Aircraft corporation.

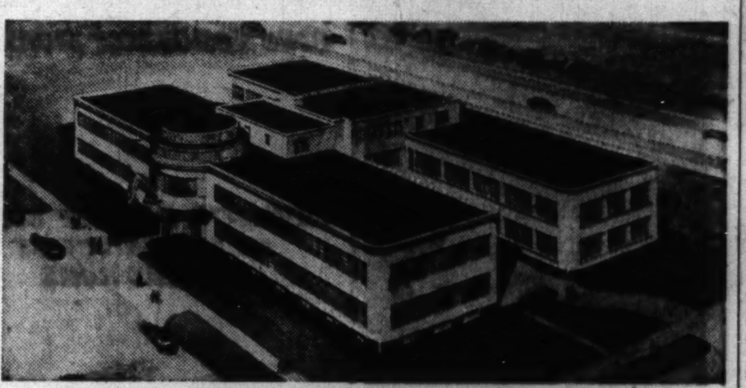
Air Line Enlarges Chicago Offices



Architect's drawing showing how the United Air Lines' general office building at Cicero avenue and 60th street will look when the new $100,000 wing, in the rear, is added to the present $300,000 building. Construction will start next month. W. A. Patterson, president, said the new wing is necessary because of an increase in the company's Chicago office personnel to more than 800. Albert Kahn of Detroit is architect.

Seek Reasons for Decline in Cities' Downtown Areas

Reasons for the deterioration of central business districts in large American cities are being sought by the Urban Land institute, an organization formed a few months ago and sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It has its headquarters in Chicago. Walter S. Schmidt of Cincinnati is president.

Leo J. Sheridan.

A first hand study of factors affecting growth or decay of downtown areas in several typical cities already is under way. The institute will try to find effective measures which cities can take to conserve the social and economic values represented in their central business sections.

Sheridan Named for Chicago.

Ten cities have been named to date for the nation-wide study. They are: Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Louisville, Richmond, Cincinnati, and St. Louis.

Leo J. Sheridan of L. J. Sheridan & Co., president of the Building Managers' Association of Chicago and vice president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, will supervise the study of conditions in Chicago.

Facts will be collected on volume of retail sales in the central business area during the last 10 years, construction and demolition in this period, number of persons and vehicles entering the central district, occupancy of office buildings and other structures, tax delinquencies, and other data tending to show the advance or decline of the area.

Plan Summary of Causes.

Ratio of taxes to rentals, and ratio of actual current value to assessed value, also will be a part of the data assembled.

If the area is showing decline, a summary will be made of identifiable causes, such as traffic congestion, parking, dangers to pedestrians, transportation difficulties, smoke and noise nuisances, faulty zoning, excessive construction costs caused by building codes or other factors.

Other problems to be surveyed include the effects of high buildings on surrounding values, excessive land values, decay of close-in areas, excessive drainage of population from the city by premature subdividing outside city limits, and the tax situation.

"Central business areas of many American cities have suffered tremendous losses in the last decade, and the causes of this dangerous condition are in great part remediable," Sheridan said.

Local Coöperation Necessary.

The Urban Land institute's studies, to be carried out by a qualified student of local real estate trends in each area, will be undertaken only where interest is assured of municipal authorities, civic groups, and business organizations, it was said.

With this help, those undertaking the study will analyze conditions which tend to slow up the volume of business, and thru consultation with interested groups, will formulate suggestions for action to aid healthy development of the central business districts.

Reports on the survey are expected to be completed in about three months and will be published for the guidance of city planning and rebuilding thruout the country.

PUBLIC SHOWS HOME INTEREST, BUILDERS SAY

Members of the Metropolitan Chicago Home Builders association, at a meeting held last Monday at the Hotel Sherman, reported more inquiries for homes on Sunday, Aug. 18, than on any day in several years. The report of the market research committee of the association indicated a strong local market for homes, according to George F. Nixon, president.

More home building and better homes for the money was the theme of the Monday meeting of the directors of the association and representatives of building material manufacturers and distributors. At an open forum the value of a concerted drive to point out the advantages of building now was discussed.

At the Realty Boards

The annual fall outing of the Chicago Real Estate board will be held on Sept. 24, at the Medinah Country club, Hugh C. Michels, chairman of the board's outing committee, announced yesterday. In charge of special contests will be Arthur Draper Jr., George Stromberg, James Belanger, John J. Fischer, William T. Welse, Jacob O. Trautwein, and Benjamin L. Coolidge.

The first golf outing of the year for the bowling league of the Chicago Real Estate board will be held Aug. 28 at Bunker Hill Golf club.

The Evanston-North Shore Real Estate board will hold its annual golf tournament next Wednesday at the Rolling Green Country club. Nelson Snyder, of George Cyrus & Co., is in charge of arrangements.

NEW DEALER WILL SPEAK AT STATE REALTY SESSION

Thurman W. Arnold, of Washington, D. C., assistant attorney general of the United States, will address the 27th annual convention of the Illinois Association of Real Estate boards, to be held in Chicago, Sept. 18, 19 and 20. Arnold will appear at a banquet on the evening of the 20th at the Knickerbocker hotel. The subject of his speech has not been announced, but Morgan L. Fitch, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, indicated he will discuss the part real estate men and the profession must take in national defense plans.

Thurman W. Arnold.

Will Hold Appraisal Forum.

A convention feature will be a large exhibit in the main lobby of the Knickerbocker hotel. Twenty national manufacturers of home appliances will have displays of their products.

The convention will open on Wednesday, Sept. 18 with an appraisal forum—an actual property case study, with cash prizes for the best valuation. In the evening Fred Babcock, assistant administrator of FHA, will speak at an appraisal banquet.

Brokerage, management and mortgage lending will be discussed at the general sessions both Thursday morning and afternoon. Trips will be arranged for Thursday evening to points of interest.

Farms to the Fore.

Farm properties will be discussed at the general sessions Friday morning and afternoon. In the evening the annual banquet will be held.

Leo G. Varty, of Varty & Co., Chicago, is president of the state association. James C. Downs Jr., also of Chicago, is chairman of the convention committee. The Chicago Real Estate board is host for the convention.

IF YOU'VE EVER LONGED FOR A "FAMILY PLACE"...

HAVEN'T you often yearned for a fine farm of your own... one that you can operate this year, next year, and through all your lifetime—one that you can proudly pass on to your son or daughter when your farming days are over?

If you have, isn't it wise to be selecting this family homestead now, when farm prices are lower... terms easier... than they have been in over 30 years?

Today you can buy a sound, productive Opportunity Farm for only a small down payment and 6% a year on the unpaid balance. This 6% covers payments on both principal and interest!

Opportunity Farms are exceptional farm values. They are rapidly being sold to experienced farmers who know that today's prices and terms may not always prevail in farm selling.

Buy an Opportunity Farm now... for your future home and for the promise of security which your children and their children can enjoy when the "family place" becomes theirs to have and to cherish! Get in touch with your Opportunity Farms agent soon! Write or phone:

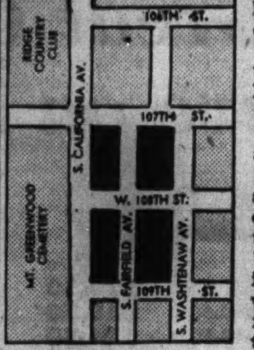
PLAN BUILDING 140 ROW HOUSES OF A NEW TYPE

Success in Blue Island Leads to Project.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Attracted by the success of C. Henning Vagtborg and associates in their new type, moderate priced row house project in Blue Island, trustees of the Mount Greenwood Cemetery association yesterday signed an option with the Vagtborg organization which calls for the erection of 140 similar residences in Chicago within the next two years. At least 70 homes must be completed during the first 12 months, the option specifies.



Location of project.

Work will start this week, according to Vagtborg, on the first four homes of the contemplated 140. Twelve will be built this fall, he said. The residences will be built on the four square blocks owned by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery association, just east of the cemetery and diagonally southeast of the Ridge Country club.

Tract Is Heavily Wooded.

This tract, the western half of which is heavily wooded with oak trees, is bounded on the north by 107th street, on the west by California avenue, on the south by 109th street, and on the east by Washtenaw avenue.

The homes will have six rooms each and sell at a base price of $7,495. Of this amount the down payment will be $995 and the FHA insured mortgage $6,500. Monthly payments on these 20 year loans will be about $56, which includes taxes, it was said.

The 40 by 125 foot lots are figured at about $800. The construction cost of each house will be approximately $6,695. They will be of brick veneer and will be heated with gas fired warm air furnaces. Gas, water, electricity, and sewers already are installed, and some of the streets paved. There are no special assessments.

Work Started in February.

Vagtborg announced his new type of row house early this year. Work was started on them in February. Ten have been completed and sold and most of them are occupied, on the north side of 120th place, between Gregory street and Irving avenue, Blue Island. Four more are being built on the south side of 120th street. Three of these are sold.

The layout of the building sites is a new one. The basements of the ten homes were dug in one operation and the excavated earth used to form terraces in front of the homes. The houses are built in pairs, each two connected by a party wall in the basement, but standing nine feet apart above ground.

This space is a service court and is covered with a slab of concrete. Under this slab the basement of each house extends four and a half feet to a common party wall. This space under the service court is used for storage at one end and for an extension of the laundry at the other.

Sunken Garden Provided.

On the other side of each house is a sunken garden court 23 feet wide, extending to the next unit. That is, each house has a garden space 11½ feet wide separated from its neighbor by a hedge.

The basement recreation rooms of each pair of homes, which are 11 by 23, open almost the full depth of the buildings onto the garden court.

The ten homes already completed were sold at a base price of $6,995 for house and lot. In several instances owners added bay windows, or fireplaces, making the final price higher.

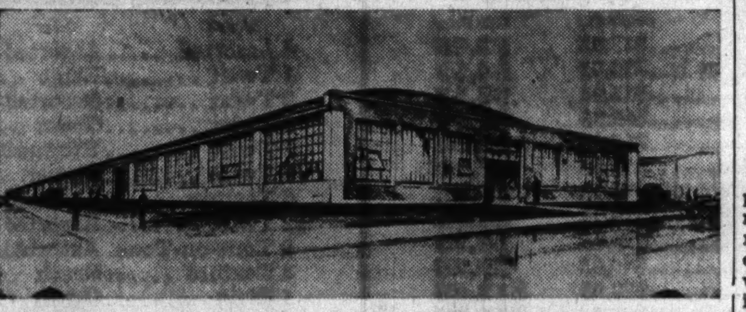
The new building program calls for fireplaces in all of the houses. They also will be slightly larger than the original ten. Higher Chicago taxes will be another reason for the slightly higher cost of the new units as compared with those in Blue Island.

All of the Vagtborg houses are being financed thru the South East National bank of Chicago, with FHA loans, and will be built by the Vagtborg Construction company.

Single Family Homes, but Actually Row Houses

These 10 single family residences are in reality row houses, with the basements of each two homes extended to a party wall. They are on the north side of 120th place, between Gregory street and Irving avenue, Blue Island. Designed by Lind & Luckman, Chicago architects, they are all sold. The builders, C. Henning Vagtborg and associates, have agreed to build 140 similar homes on land owned by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery association.

Result of $3,500,000 Defense Contract



Armstrong, Furst & Tilton, Chicago architects, designed this 600 by 120 foot warehouse for the Diamond T Motor Car company, to be used in connection with its recent order from the government for 666 trucks to cost approximately 3½ million dollars. Edward H. Fairbank made this perspective. The building is on the south side of 26th street, between Kostner avenue and the Belt line right of way.

Realty Miscellany

More home sites were sold in Palos Heights between July 21 and Aug. 21 than in any previous month, the Robert Bartlett Building corporation, developers, announced. The residential project centers about Harlem avenue and 123d street. Forty-eight lots were sold, it was said.

With 14 homes completed or under construction and 37 more contracted for, building activity at Lincolnshire Estates is at a record high, S. M. Homan, president, said.

TRUCK COMPANY EXPECTS U. S. ORDER ENLARGED

The recent $3,500,000 government order for 666 trucks awarded the Diamond T Motor Car company of Chicago may be increased 50 per cent, according to an official of the company. In addition, Diamond T is bidding on several other big government national defense orders, he said.

Work is under way on a $175,000 warehouse, 800 by 120 feet, on the south side of West 26th street, between Kostner avenue and the Belt Line railroad. It will be used to store the materials used in making the trucks.

The big warehouse was designed by Armstrong, Furst & Tilton, Chicago architects. The J. W. Snyder company has the general contract.

Realty Defense Survey to Be Ready Soon

The Chicago real estate board expects to report to the federal government early next month on residential facilities, warehouse, and industrial areas, and office space available in the Chicago area for use in national defense plans, Whitney Wall Jr., chairman of committee appointed to make a survey, said yesterday.

Whitney Wall Jr.

"Gathering the data will be divided into four major sections," Wall said. "Residential facilities are to be classified by price ranges. Industrial space will be listed as vacant and improved, available for purchase or leasing with properties of 50,000 square feet and over to be included.

"Another phase of the survey will be the gathering of data on skilled labor, transportation facilities in the Chicago area, future possible airport locations, and other vital statistical information about Chicago."

Wall has asked the coöperation of all realtors and owners of large industrial sites, suggesting that they send information concerning their property.

"Information about Chicago is particularly important to the federal government in its defense plans in view of this city's inland location, transportation facilities, abundance of man power, and industrial activities," Wall said.

SEARS ROEBUCK BUYS GARAGE IN CICERO AVENUE

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday purchased from the Central Life Insurance company of Illinois the 100 by 133 foot property at 4047 North Cicero avenue, for $37,500 according to revenue stamps on the deed.

The land is improved with a 100 by 125 foot garage, built in 1928, which it is understood will be remodeled and used by Sears as a farm implement display building in connection with its Irving Park road-Cicero avenue department store.

H. A. Pierce was attorney for the Central Life and Emil Horween and Philip Levit were brokers in the transaction.

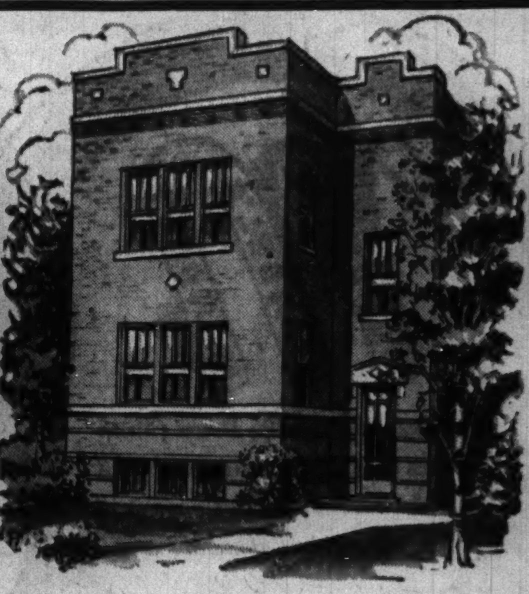
A Home That Pays for Itself



Located in North Austin

Yes, it pays for itself because you deduct from the monthly payments the $32.50 to $37.50 which you collect from your tenant in one apartment. This reduces buyer's payment to far less than rent, even including taxes and insurance. When the building is paid for, you actually have a home free for yourself, plus income for life. No janitor service—equipped with separate heating plants. Your tenant supplies own fuel and takes care of his own heating. Here's a home of lifetime construction, two 5-room apartments, 2 sleeping porches, splendid basement, 2-car garage—all modern features. Easy financing! Only one transaction from cash payment to final monthly payment—no mortgage renewals, no uncertainties. Interest rate is only 5%, included in monthly payments.

A very modest down payment (10%) makes this beautiful home yours. The balance you pay after collecting rent from your tenant is far below the rent value of your own apartment. Prices from $6500. Located in desirable, fully improved north Austin community.

KEN HEINEMAN'S PASSES IMPRESS ALL-STAR COACHES

TEXAN BECOMES A NEW THREAT TO PACKER TEAM

Also Shows Ability to Carry Ball.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ken Heineman, the forward passing expert from Texas Mines, who is Texas' nominee for the spot once held by Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien in the All-Star game with the Green Bay Packers Thursday evening in Soldiers' field, found his shooting range in yesterday's scrimmage in Dyche stadium.

Heineman's passing was the outstanding performance in a two hour contact drill which was concluded when the varsity paraded up and down the gridiron against a white shirted defense.

Heineman's accuracy was highly gratifying to the All-American coaches who now have a quartet of grade A men ready for the Packers, who recall that three years ago they were beaten by a forward pass, 6 to 0. Nile Kinnick of Iowa, Kenney Washington of U. C. L. A., and Bob Kellogg of Tulane are other All-Stars who have demonstrated their passing ability.

He's a Versatile Lad.

Heineman threw bullet short passes yesterday to the ends, Bill Anahu, Ken Kavanaugh, Dick Evans, and Frank Ivy. He sent longer throws farther down field when necessary or flat passes to speeding backs. Occasionally, when the defense failed to cover him properly, he set out on jaunts thru the secondary. Twice he dodged for runs of more than 30 yards.

Coach Eddie Anderson and his assistants still are unwilling to name a first team. With the first and second squads of the five which opened the practice with signal work there were alternate ends or backs. The personnel of these units were as follows:

LEFT GUARD—Mel Brewer, Illinois; Vic Marino, Ohio State.
CENTER—Clyde Turner, Hardin-Simmons; John Schiechl, Santa Clara.
RIGHT GUARD—Harry Smith, Southern California; Hal Method, Northwestern.
RIGHT TACKLE—Lee Artoe, California; Win Pedersen, Minnesota.
RIGHT END—Frank Ivy, Oklahoma; Dick Evans, Iowa; Bob Winslow, Southern California.
QUARTER BACK—Frank Emmons, Oregon; Bob Hoffman, Southern California.
LEFT HALF—Kenny Washington, U. C. L. A.; Nile Kinnick, Iowa; Olie Cordill, Rice; Ken Heineman, Texas Mines.
RIGHT HALF—Bob Kellogg, Tulane; Harold Van Every, Minnesota; Lou Brock, Purdue; Buzz Dean, Iowa.

Kavanaugh Shows Speed.

The fastest man on the All-Star squad of 69, as proved again in a 100 yard sprint yesterday afternoon, is Kavanaugh. After 20 yards Kavanaugh is looking back to see who is nearest. Yesterday it was McFadden.

Bill Osmanski, former full back at Holy Cross, where he played under Coach Anderson, visited the All-Stars yesterday. Osmanski was voted the most valuable All-Star player in the 1939 game against the New York Giants. He will be presented with this trophy between the halves of the game Thursday night. Bill now is starting his second year with the Chicago Bears.

Osmanski paid highest tribute to Kavanaugh after yesterday's drill when he admitted that he is fully as fast as Don Hutson, Green Bay end, and "harder to cover."

Combine Reserve Units.

Most of the All-Stars participated in the first portion of the scrimmage. The personnel of other units was

Svendsen Lost to Packers for All-Star Game

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 24.—The secrecy that has shrouded the Green Bay Packers' preparations for the Chicago All-Star game the last few days was lifted long enough today to reveal that George Svendsen, veteran center, who had been slated to start, has been definitely eliminated as a participant in next Thursday's encounter. The announcement was made by Coach Curley Lambeau.

Svendsen suffered a knee injury in last night's scrimmage, the last on the Packers' conditioning schedule. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital and will be unable to leave his bed for several days, it was said this afternoon.

Ligaments were torn around the knee, according to Dr. Weber Kelly, the team's physician, when Svendsen was blocked while his foot was pinned under another player. The block, ironically, was thrown by Bud Svendsen, little brother of the huge Minnesota star, and himself a candidate for the starting center assignment.

Brock Anxious to Play.

Svendsen's injury was the second serious mishap to the center corps on whom the Packers will depend heavily in their defense against All-Star passes. Charlie Brock, the No. 1 man at the position, has not been able to work out for the last eight days as a result of a shoulder injury suffered in the intrasquad game a week ago last night.

After hearing the report on Svendsen, Brock insisted his shoulder was greatly improved and that he would be able to play by Thursday. He is not able to lift his arm, however, and it is doubtful whether he will see action. Nevertheless, an order for a special pad was dispatched to Chicago today and Brock dressed for the afternoon practice.

Loss of their first two centers will handicap the Packers' offensively as well as on the defense. Brock and George Svendsen are more dependable passers than Bud Svendsen and Tom Greenfield, the surviving members of the pivot quartet, and the offense has worked much smoother when they were handling the ball.

Guard Against Five Man Line.

Last night's scrimmage revealed that the Packers are preparing to meet either a five or six man line. Five man lines are not the rule in college football, but with the wealth of seasoned material the All-Star coaches have at their disposal, Lambeau sees a possibility that they might go into the five man alignment to strengthen their defense against the Packer passes.

Passes continued to be the Packers' chief offensive medium in the scrimmage, but there was considerable running by Jimmy Lawrence and Larry Buhler. Lawrence, the discarded Chicago Cardinal, and Buhler, a second year man in professional football, have been the surprises of the training period. Lawrence had touchdown runs of 20 and 19 yards again last night. Frank Balazs, another sophomore full back, scored on a 17 yard plunge up the middle.

Packers' Defense Improves.

Don Hutson took a 70 yard pass from Cecil Isbell, and Carl Mulleneaux made a one handed catch of a 50 yard toss by the former Purdue All-Star. Despite these gains, the defense appeared to be catching up with the offense. There were fewer long gains and completed passes than in the intrasquad game a week ago, altho at no time did Lambeau have his best defensive combinations in the scrimmage.

At the end of the drill Lambeau declared himself pleased with everything except the tackling. Live and dummy drill on tackling will be ordered in the remaining days of practice. It will be the only rough work the squad will have between now and the time it steps on Soldiers' field Thursday night.

The Seventh Annual All-Star game in Soldiers' field will be played this Thursday night—not next week, not next month. If you want to make sure of seeing the College All-Americans battle the Green Bay Packers, professional champions, you have little time left. The demand for tickets is the heaviest in the history of the series. Good seats still are available at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in Tribune Tower, or you may order by mail. A NECK'S ENOUGH FOR PORTER'S CAP AND OWNER HOWARD

Porter's Cap, Charles S. Howard's $1,300 colt, flashes past winning post a neck in front of Silvestra to take $43,625 Washington Park Futurity before a crowd of 25,000 yesterday. Valdina Groom was third. Porter's Cap withstood a tremendous drive by Silvestra following a three-way bumping battle in midstretch. The six furlong race was run in rain over a track softened by showers which fell thruout the afternoon. Porter's Cap paid $28.40 to win. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Charles S. Howard, who has been confounding rival owners with a succession of horses like Seabiscuit, Kayak II., and Mioland, came up with a new one yesterday and won the Washington Park $43,625 Futurity. This time he scored with a colt called Porter's Cap, which he had picked up for $1,300 at last summer's Saratoga sales.

Emerging from a rough and tumble three-way bumping battle in midstretch, Porter's Cap forged ahead in the last sixteenth. Then Carroll Bierman drove him frantically to withstand the tremendous finish of the Woolford farm's gray filly, Silvestra. The margin of victory was a neck.

Silvestra was three-quarters of a length in advance of Valdina Groom. Then came Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Good Turn, which had caused so much chaos in the helter-skelter race that his jockey, Basil James, was set down for 60 days.

Swain Finishes Fifth.

Cleaveland Putnam's Swain, winner of the Arlington Park Futurity and 3 to 2 favorite in yesterday's event, went the way of so many other public choices this season, getting home in fifth position. John Marsch's To a Tee, Valdina farm's Valdina Myth, Arnold Hanger's Big Stakes, and Mrs. Jean Putnam's Coffeeman completed the field of nine in that order.

The victory of Porter's Cap netted his owner $30,750. It was the fourth start of his career, his previous experiences having consisted of a victory in a maiden race and another in an allowance event, after which he relapsed to sixth place in his third effort. All of these engagements were at Hollywood Park and in none of them did he encounter distinguished opposition.

The outcome of yesterday's Futurity was another triumph for Trainer Tom Smith, who has conditioned the Howard horses thruout their remarkable succession of victories.

First Triumph in Juvenile Section.

The success of Porter's Cap marked Howard's first important invasion of the juvenile division. After Seabiscuit and Kayak II. had scored so many important victories in the handicap division, Howard decided he would like to get himself a good 3 year old. So he bought Mioland last winter at Santa Anita. Two weeks ago, Mioland justified the purchase by winning the rich American Derby at Washington Park. Then came the followup with the success of Porter's Cap yesterday among the 2 year olds. In addition to these two Chicago area stakes, Howard won the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park with Advocator.

Porter's Cap was a 13 to 1 outsider in the betting. Those who backed him collected $28.40, $13.40, and $7.40 across the board. Place and show tickets on Silvestra were worth $7.20 and $4.80. Valdina Groom returned $4.20 to show.

The track had been softened by repeated showers during the afternoon, and rain was falling at the time of the race. Accordingly there was nothing remarkable about the time, the winner requiring 1 minute 12 4-5 seconds for the 6 furlongs. His next engagement will be the Belmont Futurity.

Just One More Beaten Favorite.

In finishing fifth at odds of 3 to 2, Swain was overtaken by the same fate that caught Bimelech, Sirocco, Misty Isle, Attention, Advocator, Inscoelda, and De Kalb in important races earlier in Chicago's season. In 11 stake events since the opening of the Arlington meeting the favorite has been beaten eight times.

Driven off the lawns by the rain, the crowd of 25,000 watched from the shelter of the stands as the field paraded to the post. Immediately after the break James rushed Good Turn to the front. The colt precipitated some crowding as he worked over toward the rail from his No. 7 post position during the run to the far turn. Big Stakes, which was racing on the inside, was crowded back. So was Valdina Myth.

On the charge around the bend, Valdina Groom and Porter's Cap began overtaking Good Turn. Valdina Groom came alongside as they headed into the stretch and Porter's Cap was

Dodgers Whip Cubs, 11-3; Get 8 Runs in 2d

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Dodgers, by way of saying good-by to vineclad Wrigley field for another season, yesterday put on an eight run second inning. This took much zest from the enterprise but the boys finished the spectacle, and in the rain, at that, for an eventual tabulation of: Brooklyn, 11; Chicago, 3.

The Cubs, who were held to one single by Curt Davis up to the seventh inning, averted a shutout in that session when Zeke Bonura and Jim Gleeson got singles Nos. 2 and 3 and rode home ahead of Dom Dallessandro, when the tiny man busted his first major league homer, a shot on the catwalk beyond the right field flagpole.

Stan Hack, hero of Friday's Cub victory, made three errors but only one of these, the first, caused any trouble. It established as unearned six of the eight runs the Dodgers made in the second inning.

Gallagher Is the Villian.

The painful second started with Joe Gallagher jolting Ken Raffensberger for a homer, Joe's second in the National league. Joe Vosmik flied out but Dolph Camilli followed with a single to center. Pete Coscarart sent an easy bouncer to Hack, who somehow fumbled the ball. Mancuso hit a grounder to Bob Mattick, who apparently was trying to help Hack figure out how Coscarart's effort had escaped. Bob tossed the ball to Herman at second seconds after Coscarart had reached the bag and the bases were loaded with one out. Raffensberger was gulping considerably by this time and walked Davis, forcing Camilli across the plate with the second and final earned run of the session.

Clay Bryant replaced Raffensberger and loosed a wild pitch, on which Coscarart scored. Pete Reiser was given an intentional pass, again loading the bases. Cookie Lavagetto popped to Bonura for what should have been the final out of the inning but Joe Medwick walked, forcing Mancuso home. Gallagher, up for the second time in the inning, doubled,

HITLESS UNTIL 8TH, YANKS RALLY TO DEFEAT INDIANS; 6 GAMES BACK

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—Bobby Feller couldn't carry the weight of a chance for a no hit game against the Yankees in the stretch today. For seven and one-third innings he held the world champions hitless before a crowd of 50,964. Then he faded, and before it was over the Yanks pulled out a 3 to 2 victory for a clean sweep of their three game series with the league leading Indians.

It was Feller's seventh loss against 22 victories.

The setback sliced the Tribe's American league lead to three and one-half games over the Detroit Tigers and boosted the Yanks to within two and one-half games of second place and six of the American league lead.

Luck Deserts Feller.

In all fairness to Feller, who opened the 1940 season with a no hitter against the Chicago White Sox, the breaks suddenly deserted him in the eighth inning. Ken Keltner had walloped his 13th homer with one on in the second inning for all the run making thru the first seven innings as young Atley Donald matched pitch for pitch with Bobby.

Bill Dickey, first up in the eighth, flied out. Babe Dahlgren scratched a single thru the middle for the Yanks' first hit, and the crowd roared. Charley Keller, batting for Frankie Crosetti, drew a pass. Buddy Rosar batted for Donald, and here Lady Luck left Feller.

Heath Drops Ball.

Jeff Heath chased clear to the left field stands for Rosar's drive, speared the ball, but dropped it for a single, loading the bases. Heath protested that fans in the stands had interfered with his catch. After Joe Gordon fanned, Red Rolfe tied the game up with a liner that bounded into the right field seats for a ground rule double, sending Dahlgren and Keller home.

Johnny Murphy put out the Indians in their half of the ninth. Then Joe DiMaggio, opening the Yankee half, tripled off the left field stands, but pulled into third lame with a charley horse. George Selkirk and Dickey were purposely passed. Billy Knickerbocker, who had replaced Crosetti in the Yankee infield, broke up the ball game with a long fly which went for a single when Roy Weatherly didn't even bother chasing it. Score:

Lyons, Lee Seek to End Yankees' Parade Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The White Sox have another double header on their hands for tomorrow—with none less than the refreshed New York Yankees. Ted Lyons and Thornton Lee will do the mound performing for the Sox; Red Ruffing and Ernie Bonham for the champions.

Taft Wright's triple in the third inning of the first game came under the heading of hits long overdue. He had gone thru three full games without anything resembling a hit. Naturally enough, the little round Southerner has been a very grumpy gentleman.

SENATORS FALL, 4-2, 2-1, BEFORE KNOTT, SMITH

Rigney's Pitching Aids in Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The White Sox, who have suddenly gone into a batting slump, showed today it is possible to get along without any special display of power. They ran the Senators into the ground, 4 to 2, in the front half of a double header simply by including a little distance in their safe clouts. Then they ran into a skilful foe in Joe [Lefty] Krakauskas, who dueled brilliantly with Eddie Smith for eight innings. But poor Joe, seeking his season's first victory, was slapped down in the ninth, 2 to 1.

The first game decision was the ninth favorable one of the season for Jack Knott, but the big fellow, as usual, was comforting himself with a bath by the time the finish line was reached. After seven innings of almost flawless pitching, Knott's arm suddenly weakened, but Manager James Dykes was prepared for the inevitable. He rushed John Rigney into a tough eighth inning spot, and the rescuer served ably enough to limit the uprising to two runs after the enemy had filled the bases before anybody was retired.

Sox Show Batting Power.

The extra touch of power that proved so helpful in building up a lead for Knott came from various bats. Joe Kuhel supplied a two bagger in the first inning, a blow that shook Walter Masterson sufficiently to cause him to force in a run. In the third, Taft Wright popped into life with a triple to account for half of a two run splurge for which the bats of Kuhel and Julius Solters made preliminary arrangements. The fourth run picked up by the Chicagoans also carried the extra base feature. It blossomed from a triple by Mike Tresh against Alex Carrasquel in the sixth.

Smith started the second game as if he had no intentions of staying on the premises. He was dented for six hits in three innings, the last pair of the six evening up on a run the Sox had scored in the first inning. But after getting those half dozen blows out of his system, Smitty fairly breezed to his season's eleventh victory by yielding only one hit, a scratch, in the last six innings.

Solters Starts Rally.

Meanwhile, Krakauskas carried his affairs into the ninth on a four hit allowance, but met up with the bats of Solters, Luke Appling, and Tom Turner, the winning run resulting. Solters' single opening the ninth started the luckless Krakauskas on the road to defeat. Appling, who had been shut out all afternoon, bounced the ball over the southpaw's head for a single. Larry Rosenthal ran for Solters and went to third while Appling was being forced by Wright. Turner stepped in with a single, which Pofahl grabbed in deep short, but there was no place to throw, Rosenthal scoring the winning run. Smith walked after Kennedy had flied to Case, but Hayes rolled to Sanford. Smith then completed his job by fanning two of the three men who faced him in the home ninth.

FIRST GAME

Masterson fanned two in the opening inning of the first game but there were other happenings more pleasing to the Sox. Hayes struck out, after which Kreevich singled and took third on Kuhel's double. Solters slowed down the parade by swinging vainly at bad pitches. Masterson didn't care about testing Appling's skill and gave him nothing good to hit at, Luke walking to fill the bases. Wright also walked, scoring Kree-

MEET THE STAR OF STARS: IOWA'S NILE KINNICK

Versatile Hawkeye Prize of 1939 Crop.

Men make teams, sometimes stubby, men of unexpected talent like Nile Kinnick whose limber right arm carried Iowa to victory after victory last fall. The tough fibred little fellow—he weighs 170 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches tall—emerged from the 1939 football campaign as the nation's outstanding athlete of the year.

His amazing gridiron feats made a deep impression on the sports minded public, and in the All-Star players poll, the taciturn Hawkeye rolled up 1,189,076 votes, one of the largest individual totals in the history of the series.

Now this mighty atom of midwestern gridirons is prepared to recapture that whizzing, careless rapture of last fall when he takes his place in the All-Star starting lineup against the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' Field Thursday night.

It's an Amazing Story.

The history of football contains few stories to equal that of the feats of the Adel, Ia., boy on whose play the Hawkeyes rode to victory a year ago.

Applying the old adage "One's never too young to learn," Nile began his football career in the second grade in grammar school.

"We had an organized team and I always played half back because I liked to kick, pass and run," Nile remarks.

Nile played two years of football, basketball and baseball at Adel high and spent his final year at Benson High in Omaha. He caught Bob Feller, Cleveland's pitching ace, while in high school at Adel.

As the forgotten man of Iowa football last year he scaled the heights to stardom in a single season. He showed promise as a sophomore, but an ankle injury the following season sent him to the sidelines.

When Dr. Eddie Anderson assumed charge at Iowa last fall, he took one look at the square jawed young man with the crew hair cut and said: "That's my man." Once again Kinnick's star was in the ascendancy.

Proves Most Durable.

On a team of "iron men," Kinnick proved the most durable of the lot, playing a total of 402 minutes out of a possible 420. He played the full 60 minutes against Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue, Notre Dame and Minnesota.

But it was his coolness in the pinches that made Kinnick truly great. He pulled three games out of the fire with last minute passes and scored the touchdown and point after touchdown to turn back Notre Dame, 7 to 0.

His fourth quarter passing produced victories against Indiana and Wisconsin, but it remained for the Minnesota game to climax the amazing saga of Iowa's Golden Boy.

With Iowa trailing, 9 to 0, and only a few minutes remaining in the final period, Nile unlimbered his willowy right arm and pitched two touchdown passes to Capt. Erwin Prasse and to Bill Green to turn almost certain defeat into a 13 to 9 victory. That, he says, was his greatest football thrill.

A recapitulation of Kinnick's performances last season reveals that he completed 11 passes for touchdowns; completed 33 out of 93 passes for 638 yards; punted 71 times for an average of 40 yards; averaged 5.07 in ball carrying; drop-kicked 11 points after touchdown, thereby reviving an almost lost art, and played a part in scoring of 107 of Iowa's 130 points.

Wins Honors—All of Them.

Such a record brought Kinnick virtually a sweep of major honors in the nation. He won the Heisman memorial trophy, the Walter Camp award and the Maxwell award, all presented to the "nation's outstanding football player."

In addition he received the All-American football board award; the Chicago Tribune silver football as the most valuable player in the Big Nine, numerous watches and even a gold key to the city of Philadelphia.

Such acclaim rests lightly on the young man who plans to go back to the Iowa campus next fall to study law. His goal at the moment is to wind up his playing career with a victory over the Packers, a feat which he believes will be accomplished.

TWO ALL-STARS FILE NOTICES OF INTENT TO WED

Two members of the All-Star football team yesterday filed notices of intention to marry. The players, who will be married in separate ceremonies next Friday, the day after the game with the Green Bay Packers, are John Schiechl of San Francisco, Cal., and Win Pedersen of Minneapolis, Minn.

Schiechl, Santa Clara university center, will wed his high school sweetheart, Miss Norma Rubiolo, 23 of San Francisco, Friday morning at Our Lady of Sorrows church, 3121 West Jackson boulevard.

Pedersen, 25 year old tackle from the University of Minnesota, will marry Joyce Thore, 22 of Minneapolis, Friday afternoon in the Fourth Presbyterian church, 126 East Chestnut.

OZZIE SIMMONS JOINS CHICAGO NEGRO ELEVEN

Ozzie Simmons, former University of Iowa halfback, has signed a contract to play football this fall for the Chicago Panthers, Negro team coached by Duke Slater. Don Simmons, Ozzie's brother, will play at end.

Ozzie was the scoring leader of the American Football association as a member of the Patterson, N. J., club last year. He is now recreational director on Chicago's south side.

ROSENTHAL WINS IN FULLERTON TENNIS TOURNEY

Rain cut short the opening of the annual Open tennis tournament, sponsored by the Fullerton Tennis club, yesterday and only seven first round matches were played.

William Rosenthal of the Fullerton club, was the only one of the seeded players to see action. Ranked No. 2 he defeated Henry Abad, a teammate, 6-3, 6-0. Yesterday's results:

Joseph Mazante, Fullerton, defeated Theodore Picktin, Fullerton, 6-1, 6-3.

Harold Berglund, Fullerton, defeated Frank Lohr, Fullerton, 3-6, 6-2, 8-6.

ONWENTSIA CLUB POLO TOURNEY TO START TODAY

The Onwentsia Country club polo tournament will open today with the Twin Cities squad of Minneapolis and St. Paul opposing the Onwentsia riders on the club field on Green Bay road in Lake Forest at 3:30 o'clock. The second game will be played Wednesday at 5:30 o'clock when the Twin Cities team meets the Oak Brook squad of Hinsdale.

Onwentsia's quartet against the Twin Cities team will be composed of Bill Carney, No. 1; Prentice Porter, No. 2; Dave Wilhelm, No. 3; and Bill Fergus, back. The Twin Cities starting lineup will be Maj. Landon Lockett, No. 1; John Daniels, No. 2; Dave Williams, No. 3; and Tom Daniels, back.

The Joy Farms polo team of Milwaukee, Wis., will meet the Woodland club of Hinsdale at the Hinsdale polo field.

GIANTS' COACH PICKS PACKERS OVER ALL-STARS

Pearl River, N. Y., Aug. 24 [Special].—The Green Bay Packers, National Football league champions, will defeat the College All-Stars in Chicago, Thursday, was the prediction made today by Coach Steve Owen of the New York Giants, whose team, training here, defeated a powerful All-Star aggregation 9 to 0 in Chicago last season.

"The Packers will win because they will be four deep in every position with more experienced men and will outclass their opponents with one of the most deceptive passing attacks on any gridiron," said Owen. "The All-Stars' only real chance of scoring will be thru the air and the Packers are very tough to gain against overhead," said the man who is exceedingly well qualified to discuss the annual Chicago football spectacle.

LOU GORDON IS NAMED COACH OF RAND'S GUNNERS

Bill Rand, boxing promoter and operator of the Rand stadium on the south side, announced last night that football will be played under the lights at the 75th and Euclid field this fall. Rand will operate a professional team to be known as the Chicago Gunners. Night games will be played with the teams in the newly organized American Professional Football league.

Lou Gordon, former Illinois star who later served with the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers, has been appointed head coach of the Gunners. He will be assisted by Jim Mooney, former Georgetown end who later starred with the Chicago Cardinals.

The Gunners will hold a meeting and get together in the Morrison hotel at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

GREEN BAY GOES ON A 21 YEAR FOOTBALL BINGE

And They'll Whoop It Up Again Thursday.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 24.—There was only a marsh, some Indians and a wild strawberry patch here when Jean Nicolet pulled up along the shore one August afternoon in 1634. Today Green Bay is a bustling little city with 45,000 inhabitants, an international reputation and an engagement in Chicago on Thursday night for the seventh annual All-Star football game.

It is called Green Bay after the body of water Nicolet mistook for another great ocean on his quest for a shorter route to the orient and it is the home of some of the world's largest paper mills. But the local association of commerce prefers to have it known as the "biggest little city in professional football." It will even forget being the fastest growing city in Wisconsin if its Packers come off Soldiers' field with revenge for the 6 to 0 lacing the collegians gave them in 1937.

Invaders, 5,000 Strong.

Green Bay has not forgotten that game and there are a few citizens who have not forgiven the Packers for losing. To be sure that it does not happen again, 5,000 loyalists will move on Chicago this week to have a voice in the proceedings. From other parts of Wisconsin where the Packers are as popular as they are on Pine street, another 15,000 will move on the loop in special trains and motor cavalcades. Traffic managers call it the largest single interstate nonmilitary movement of Wisconsin citizens in history. It surpasses even the record throng that went over the border in 1937.

Amazing? Not at all. It began on that autumn afternoon in 1919 when Curley Lambeau, a shipping clerk who should have been playing full back for Knute Rockne, discovered he could not give up football by merely deciding not to return to Notre Dame. From the day Lambeau's gang played its first game on a corner lot, Green Bay was off on an emotional binge that has lasted for 21 years.

A victory over the College All-Stars is all that has been denied Green Bay.

Five Pro League Titles.

The Packers have won five National league championships, the only team in the league to finish on top more than three times. They have built their own stadium, the only team in the league that doesn't have a landlord. They have 45,000 stockholders, the only team in the league not owned by one or two wealthy individuals.

Green Bay is not proud of its Packers. It is daffy over them. Mere pride would be too rational and there is nothing rational about a Green Bay fan. The little town resounds to wild cheers on the days of games. Parties come two and three hundred miles and special trains run down from the upper peninsula. Hotels are packed and eating houses turn away more persons than they serve. A Packer fan is twice as rabid as any old grad who ever sat in a college stadium and many a nose has been massaged for a slighting remark about the boys who wear the blue and gold of the only community owned football team in America.

Dimes and Quarters Help.

When the championship team of 1929, 1930, and 1931 began to fall apart, volunteers made a house to house canvass soliciting funds to rebuild. Everybody chipped in. The quarters and dimes added up to more than $10,000 and with this money Lambeau, who retired as a player in 1929 to devote all his time to coaching, was sent out to corner more stars. He found the stars and in two seasons the Packers were back in the thick of the fight. They've stayed there ever since.

This was not the first time public interest in a hometown boy's dream saved the Packers. Lambeau lacked the $50 for a franchise in 1922. He also lacked the fare to the league meeting in Akron, O. At the Elks bar where he had gone to find solace, he met Don Murphy, the son of a wealthy lumber man. Over the grog the story came out and Murphy immediately took charge. He sold a new $4,000 Marmon speedster to a butcher who knew a bargain when he saw it. Lambeau and Murphy immediately set out with the $1,500.

Any one seeking a National league franchise now will get nothing more than 25,000 season tickets for $250,000 cash from Packer directors. The Green Bay franchise is one of the best in the league.

City Is Well Advertised.

What makes the Green Bay Packers the best drawing card in the league? Well, most of its attraction can be traced to the thriving little north woods town at the tip of the bay. Green Bay business men, some of whom operate the world's largest cheese processing and distributing plants and others who direct the destinies of some of the middle west's biggest canning and packing companies, appreciate the advertising value of the team, provided that team is a winner.

They lend their support willingly and abundantly to assure Green Bay of a winner. And, to the townsfolk, the team affords a perfect outlet for the small towners' innate antipathy for city slickers.

Combine this civic spirit with the business acumen of Lambeau, one of football's outstanding strategists, and the result is a Packer team that annually provides one of the finest shows in football.

Yes, Jean Nicolet didn't know what he started when he nosed ashore on the bay front. He didn't even know where he was going. He wouldn't have any idea what he started if he landed again today, but he would know where he is going. It would be to Chicago, a city that was just an upstart when Green Bay was 200 years old.

The Weather's Wet, but Yachtsmen Find It Test of Skill as Rain Pelts Other Sports

GOSSOON SAILS HOME FIRST IN 12 MILE EVENT

Crews Turn Acrobats in Rough Waters.

Gossoon II., Malcolm Vail and Sterling Morton's R class sloop, was the major winner in the Chicago Yacht club's series race off Belmont harbor yesterday. The club's fleet of R, Eagle, Tumlaren, Star, and 110 class sloops sailed in a drizzling rain driven by a moderate southeast breeze.

The Gossoon sailed the 12 mile course in 2 hours 35 minutes 45 seconds. Alert IV., Dr. T. J. Morris' entry, was runner-up in 2:37:28. Aquila, Hubert C. Ellis' sloop, won the Eagle class event over the same course in 2:48:49.

Delight Wins Star Event.

The Star class race was won by Delight, Russell Moon and Temple Smith's 22 foot yacht, on an eight mile course. Danio, owned by David Chapman, won the 110 class race, and Agenda, William Goltra and S. P. Robinson's sloop, won the Tumlaren class event.

Step-N-Fetchit, owned and sailed by Richard Otter and his brother, William, won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's Star class race off Wilmette harbor, leading 14 other sloops on all three legs of the triangular course. Gemini, John T. Pirie II.'s entry, was second. It was sailed by Roger Friskey, 16, with his father, former Commodore A. W. Friskey, as crew. A. R. Jones Jr. was third in his Jeep, with Glider, the Bingham-Clay-Floyd syndicate Star, fourth.

Sailors Are Acrobats.

Because of the choppy sea, skippers and crews of the competing Stars were forced to climb on the windward rail in order to keep the yachts in proper trim.

Dry Sue, Kenneth Schmid and George Lawver's sloop, was sailed by Skipper Schmid and his wife, Polly, to victory in the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club's race for Snipe class sloops off Montrose harbor. Lady O Too, owned by the Pagels-Wingard syndicate, was runner-up. Saga, Fleet Captain Earl Ross and Paul Peterman's entry, third to finish, led the fleet the first leg but was passed by Dry Sue and Lady O Too on the run home. Summaries:

ST. LOUIS JUNIOR LEGION NINE GOES TO SEMI-FINALS

Rock Hill, S. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—St. Louis defeated Little Rock, 13 to 5, today and won the southeastern section finals of the American Legion junior baseball tournament. The victory made St. Louis eligible for the national semi-finals in Shelby, N. C., next week.

Harold Kleine, pitching his third victory of this tournament, yielded nine scattered hits and fanned a like number of batsmen. His team led all the way, except in the last of the eighth, when the Arkansas lads crossed the plate four times and tied the score at 5-all. St. Louis came back in the ninth with an eight run barrage that decided the game.

PITTSFIELD WINS, 5-4.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—With two out in the ninth, Capt. Tom Caliento doubled, scored Bill Bushey with the winning run and gave Pittsfield, Mass., a 5 to 4 victory today over Springfield, O., in the first game of the American Legion's northeast sectional junior baseball tournament. Score:

Pittsfield	003 000 011	5	8	8
Springfield	000 000 130	4	10	6

DUNCAN DEFENDS LEAD TONIGHT IN MIDGET RACES

With Wally Zale only half a point behind and Cowboy O'Rourke and Harry MacQuinn pressing closely, Ted Duncan will have to win the 30 lap main event in the midget auto races tonight to retain his lead in the point standing for the season championship at Riverview Speedway, Addison street near Western avenue.

Only three more meets are scheduled before the close of the season at the north side track. Others still conceded a chance to win the title are Ray Richards, Everett Rice, Bob Muhlke, Warren Erwin, and Bert Knight.

Chicago, Gary Meet Today in Lawn Bowling Doubles

Chicago district lawn bowlers will meet the Gary club in Gary today in a series of mixed doubles matches, starting at 9 a. m. The winners will receive the first trophy ever offered for this kind of play. The Midwestern association will hold its finals in Washington park, starting next Saturday and continuing for three days.

THE GREAT QUESTION: WHAT IS WRITTEN IN THE STARS?

Yachts Race in Regatta Today Off Navy Pier

More than 250 sail, power, paddling, and rowing craft are expected to compete today in the 14th annual Daily News regatta off Navy pier. Thirty classes of sailing yachts are scheduled to start. The sailing craft range from 9 and 10 foot Frostbite dinghies to the 58 foot racing cutter Revenge and the 58 foot cruising schooner Sovereign.

Frostbite dinghies from five Chicago clubs and the Chicago park district and the Racine [Wis.] Yacht club will race starting at 11 a. m. on a course in the anchorage area on the north side of Navy pier.

Sail 12 Mile Course.

Cruising division yachts will start at 1 p. m. over a 12 mile triangular course. Universal [racing] division yachts will sail over the same course starting after the slower cruising division.

Snipe, national one-design and sea gull classes, sailing canoes, and sailing kayaks will sail the same course as the dinghies, starting at 2:05 p. m.

Commodore Byron H. Willis, general chairman of the regatta, will announce by flag signal the direction in which the fleet must start on the 12 mile course.

1939 Winners Return.

All 1939 winners in the universal and cruising divisions will defend their titles. Gloriant, Anthony Herrmann's Q class sloop which won in its class and won the racing division time prize the last two regattas, and Bangalore, Ed Lumbard's 43 foot cutter, which won the Mackinac race last month, will compete. Among the small craft competitors Commodore Henry Worthman of the Sherwin Canoe club will try for his seventh consecutive victory in the sailing canoe division.

Dinner Follows Regatta.

Following the regatta the Great Lakes Cruising club's second annual rendezvous will be held at the Chicago Yacht club's Grant park sailing station. Commodore Wells A. Lippincott of the cruising club has appointed Commodore David C. Zimmerman as master of ceremonies. A prize will be awarded the yacht flying the club's flag which has sailed the greatest distance for the regatta and the rendezvous. The meeting starts at 5:30 p. m.

The yawl Ruth S. II., owned and sailed by Ed Olin of the Columbia Yacht club, arrived in Chicago under sail last week after a 1,600 mile cruise from New York and will compete in today's regatta.

Skipper Olin purchased the 53 foot yacht in the east last month, and started the trip on July 23.

WILMETTE YACHT SEEKS VICTORY ON COAST TODAY

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP).—Jade captured today's international Star class yacht race to enter the final only one point behind Rambunctious, sailed by James and Gordon Cowie of Los Angeles.

The Cowies, who finished second today, have won two races and placed sixth once to score 66 points. Jade, sailed by Robert J. White and Gordon Holcombe of San Francisco, has scored 65 points from a first, two seconds, and a sixth.

The Twin Star from Wilmette, Ill., placed third today and is third with 62. Scout II. from Newport Harbor, Cal., fourth today, is tied with Gale, from south Lake Michigan, Chicago, with 56 points for fourth place. Tomorrow's race will decide the title.

Water Fowl Crop for 1940 Shows a Big Increase

BY BOB BECKER.

There will be at least a 20 per cent increase in the waterfowl crop this year. Many of the Ducks Unlimited projects in Canadian marshes are showing bigger than average broods. There is a big increase in redheads and canvasbacks this season. Observers placed in the marshes of Alberta by Ducks Unlimited tell us that they're seeing 10 per cent to 50 per cent more birds than they saw last season.

Predators, however, still are taking a heavy toll of ducklings. Tom Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited in Canada, made the statement a few days ago that all hunters "with their $500,000,000 worth of equipment, bag fewer ducks on the southward migration than the crows and the jackfish [northern pike] destroy in the Canadian provinces."

These are a few of the highlights on the waterfowl situation as hunters continue to discuss the 1940 regulations and begin to look forward to the approaching waterfowl season. With Ducks Unlimited, the sportsman's organization which is growing more ducks in Canadian marshes, reporting more birds, and other agencies also calling attention to the increase in ducks this year, we're still trying to figure out how the government authorities reasoned that the United States should have a daily bag limit of seven ducks this fall. This was the original limit proposed. Then it was changed to 10 ducks per day.

So, starting Oct. 1, opening day in the northern tier of states, and on Oct. 16, the opening day for all states in the intermediate zone, hunters will be allowed 10 ducks per day.

The "duckological" report and map which came from the Canadian prairies a few days ago is one that will bring smiles to every duck hunter because it's the most encouraging report that we've seen in years. Water levels are holding up in the marshes. Production of birds has been more consistent. Recent rains saved many a brood.

In some places in south Alberta Ducks Unlimited rushed its crews into action to salvage thousands of ducklings about to die because of lack of water. Then came big rains to save them.

Ducks Unlimited, the only nonprofit organization supported by the donations of American sportsmen, is growing more ducks in Canada and thus assuring the future of the sport, is building more dams and flooding new marshes for the birds this summer. [Sportsmen wishing further information about these duck saving projects and a copy of the recent "duckological" map may write to L. H. Barkhausen, Illinois chairman of Ducks Unlimited, 231 S. La Salle street, Chicago.]

One of the newest reclamation projects to produce more waterfowl is near the Pas, Manitoba. Here a new dam will create a 50,000 acre marsh for thousands of nesting mallards, pintails, teal, and other waterfowl.

LAKE FOREST AND HYDE PARK MEET IN CRICKET TODAY

The Lake Forest Cricket club, now in undisputed possession of first place in the Illinois Cricket league, will oppose Hyde Park in Lake Forest this afternoon. A victory virtually would clinch the title for the pacemakers. Hyde Park, however, has won three straight games. Other games today:

Lake Shore vs. Oak Park, at Wilson avenue and Outer drive; Chicago Cricket club at Washington park; South Park at Milwaukee.

Mays Wins in 100 Mile Race at Springfield

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—Rex Mays of Glendale, Cal., drove his racing car around the slippery one mile dirt track at the state fair grounds today at an average of slightly more than 88 miles an hour to win the American Automobile association's 100 mile championship race.

Mays' time in the event, which was delayed three hours by rain, was 1 hour 8 minutes and 36.65 seconds. Al Miller of Detroit was second and Duke Nalon of Chicago third. Sixteen drivers competed.

In the qualifying runs Mays bettered his own dirt track mile record, A. A. A. officials announced, by driving his Bowes Seal-Fast Special around the oval in 37.291 seconds, an average speed of 96.54 miles an hour. The old mark was 37.78 seconds.

By winning the event Mays went into the lead in this year's National A. A. A. ratings. He added 200 points to bring his total to 1,025, thus passing Wilbur Shaw, who made 1,000 points by winning the 500 mile event at Indianapolis. Shaw did not compete today.

MILWAUKEE RACE TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24 [Special].—Class dominates the field of 22 drivers who will shoot the works for $7,500 in prize money in the 100 mile national A. A. A. dirt track championship race at the Wisconsin State Fair tomorrow.

Four of the first five drivers to finish in the money in the Indianapolis 500 mile race this year have entered the event. They are: Rex Mays, who finished second; Mauri Rose, third; Ted Horn, fourth; and Joel Thorne, fifth.

Among others who qualified at Indianapolis this year who have entered are: George Connor, Frank Brisko, Shorty Cantlon, Emil Andres, Louis Tomei, Floyd Davis, Tom Hinnershitz, Harry McQuinn, Joie Chitwood, Paul Russo, and Al Miller. Brisko finished ninth, McQuinn, tenth, and Chitwood and Davis were among those flagged off the track when Shaw won.

ROOKIE M'LEAN CHEERS HALAS IN BEARS' VICTORY

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 24 [Special].—Classroom work dominated today's session in the Chicago Bears' camp. The squad returned from yesterday's exhibition game in Iron Mountain, Mich., to late for field work. Altho the Bears beat the Calumet All-Stars of East Chicago, Ind., 39 to 6 in the Michigan town. Coach George Halas was none too pleased with the showing.

Ray McLean, rookie half back from West Virginia, showed class, and two of the touchdowns were the result of his returning punts 60 and 70 yards.

Bill Raizik, guard candidate from Cincinnati university, suffered a wrenched knee and will be out for two days. Only morning drill will be held tomorrow. On Monday they begin their final week and then leave for Erie, Pa., where on Aug. 30 they will meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in an exhibition.

A Foul Ball Hits One Senator, Misses Another

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Senator Prentiss Brown of Michigan narrowly missed being beaned at today's Washington-Chicago baseball game. As he sat in a box on the first base line his hat was knocked off by a foul ball from the bat of Pitcher Edgar Smith of Chicago. As the ball bounced back onto the diamond it almost hit Senator Tom Connally of Texas.

Parker, M'Neill Lose in National Tennis Doubles

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 24 (AP).—Frankie Parker of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, were upset today by Jack Kramer of Montebello, Cal., and Ted Schroeder of Los Angeles, who gained the final round of the National Doubles tournament with a 10-8, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3 victory. The losers were seeded first in the meet.

The California youngsters, seeded third, will meet the fourth ranking entry, Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Henry Prusoff of Seattle, Wash., tomorrow. The Mulloy-Prusoff team defeated Russell Bobbit of Atlanta, and Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla., 9-7, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Mrs. John Van Ryn of Austin, Tex., and Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., surprised the large gallery by disposing of the British Wightman cup stars, Mary Hardwick and Valerie Scott, 6-3, 9-7, to reach the finals. In the other women's match, Alice Marble and Sarah Palfrey defending champions, gained the final round for the fourth successive year by besting Patricia Canning of Los Angeles, and Virginia Wolfenden of San Fracisco, 6-3, 6-3.

1ST SPEEDBOAT HEAT IS TAKEN BY NOTRE DAME

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP).—Herbert Mendelson's Notre Dame, which wouldn't run last week in the Gold Cup regatta, today won the first heat of the National sweepstakes race in record shattering time.

Driven by Danny Arena of Detroit, designer of the boat, Notre Dame roared around the 15 mile course in 11 minutes 49 1-5 seconds at an average speed of 76.140 miles per hour for the heat and did 76.923 m. p. h. on the third lap for another new record.

The old heat record was 64.439, established by Jack [Pop] Cooper of Kansas City in his Tops II. three years ago. Mrs. Maude Rutherford of Port Washington, N. Y., made the lap record of 65.589 m. p. h. with Jay Dee in 1936. Cooper was second today in Tops III., while Gray Goose III., owned by George Cannon of New Rochelle, N. Y., was third. The other two heats of the race will be run off tomorrow.

Six world records were broken during the big program of lesser races.

Andy Crawford's Ednandy IV. capsized at the first turn of the race in that division and S. Mortimer Auerbach of Atlantic City dropped out to help Crawford. Henry Davis of Granogue, Del., kept going to win the heat at 55.551 m. p. h., breaking Crawford's record of 53.254.

The other record breaking performances:

Archers Compete Today in Lake Geneva Tourney

The third annual Wisconsin-Illinois open archery tournament will be held today at Dunn field, Lake Geneva, Wis. Events include a novice shoot for beginners and the standard events for boys, girls, men and women. Competition starts at 10 a. m.

SPECIAL PIN MATCH.

Al Tabor, veteran bowler, will meet Margaret Early, reputed to throw a faster bowling ball than any other woman in Chicago, in a five game total pins match at Bensinger's 131 South Wabash avenue recreation at 4 p. m. today.

Siegel, Martin Box Tomorrow at Marigold

Heavyweights will be featured in two of four bouts of eight rounds scheduled in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. Don Siegel, member of the 1939 College All-Star football team, and Selman Martin will be opponents in one. The other will bring together Elza Thompson, former Indianapolis sectional Golden Gloves winner, and Henry Wacker. Siegel's opponent was substituted for Fred Washington.

Don, who knocked out Big Ben Moroz in the north side club on July 22 for his 13th consecutive triumph, canceled a scheduled bout against Pat Comiskey in Detroit tomorrow to go thru with the Martin assignment.

Altho fans are showing interest in the Siegel-Martin encounter, the Wacker-Thompson event is creating greater enthusiasm.

Wacker has a string of three straight victories, his victims being Jack Marshall July 24, Eddie Simms June 20, and Willie Muldune May 27. He stopped Muldune in one round. Elza will be making his first appearance in this city in two years, losing a hard battle to Abe Simon in Chicago Stadium on that occasion. In previous local starts Thompson defeated Blondy Ryan and stopped Alex Kettles.

There also will be wrestling shows in White City and Parichy stadium tomorrow, and amateur boxing cards in Legion stadium and Savoy arena Tuesday, Shewbridge field Thursday, and Madison-Cicero outdoor arena, Northwest stadium, and Parichy field Friday.

INDIANA SWIM RECORD IS SET BY LOIS WENZEL

Jasonville, Ind., Aug. 4 (AP).—Five records were broken today as 230 swimming stars participated in opening events of the sixth annual national junior Midstates and Indiana Amateur Athletic union swimming tournament in Lake Shakamak. The meet runs two days.

Lois Wenzel of the Shawnee club, Chicago, set a new Indiana record of 6:00.4 in winning the women's open 40 meters free style.

James Councilmen of the downtown Y. M. C. A., St. Louis, set a Shakamak and state record of 2:52.9 in the Midstates men's 200 meters breast stroke.

The Huntington Y. M. C. A. team took the club lead with 34 points. Shawanee club of Chicago scored 28; Indianapolis Athletic club, 18; Hoosier Athletic club of Indianapolis, 17; Lakeside of Louisville, 16; St. Louis Swim club, 15; Boys' Club of Flatbush, N. Y., 12; Riviera club of Indianapolis, 12; Terre Haute Y. M. C. A., 6; Vincennes Y. M. C. A., 6; Downtown Y, St. Louis, 5; Lincoln Belmont club of Chicago, 4; and Battle Creek, Mich., 2.

STAR ATHLETES HELP DEDICATE NEW FIELD TODAY

Olympic title holders will assist in the dedication of the new quarter mile track at State Athletic field, 95th and State streets, today under the auspices of the South Central track and field committee. Dr. Harold Osborn, former holder of the world record in the high jump, will appear in an exhibition of the standing and running high jump.

FULL BACK—Dom Principe, Fordham; Jack McDermott, Detroit; Marty Christiansen, Minnesota.

Practice will be held at 10 o'clock this morning. The players will be excused in the afternoon. Double drills will be scheduled tomorrow and Tuesday.

Coaches Select Officials.

Officials for the game Thursday night have been mutually agreed upon by Coach Curley Lambeau of Green Bay and Coach Anderson of the All-Stars.

Lambeau named the referee and the head linesman. Anderson and his colleagues designated the field judge and the umpire. This has been the system of selection since 1935 when the positions were evenly divided between the groups of professional officials and those who are employed in Western conference games. The men who will handle Thursday's game are:

Referee—Bobie Cahn, Chicago.
Umpire—William A. Blake, Loras.
Head linesman—Dr. David Reese, Denison.
Field judge—Sec Taylor, Wichita university.

Cahn is the only one of this quartet who has served before in football's greatest spectacle. He refereed the 1936 game in which the All-Stars and the Detroit Lions tied, 7 to 7, and again was chosen by the Packers to referee the 1937 contest, which ended in an All-Star victory, 6 to 0. In 1938 and 1939 eastern professional elevens won the national title, and Washington and New York, respectively, chose two officials from the east. These men also work in major college games, since there is no discrimination in that section of the nation.

Reese Joins Pro League.

Dr. David Reese, the head linesman, was a member of the Western conference group of officials until last year when he accepted a schedule with the National league. William Blake is one of the younger conference men who has come to the fore rapidly.

Sec Taylor, the field judge, has served for many years in the Big Six and the Western conference. He is sports editor of the Des Moines, Ia., Register and Tribune. Taylor says he expects the game Thursday night to climax his officiating career since his newspaper duties seldom permit him to accept the offers of colleges and universities. Iowa's return to prominence in the Big Nine has been responsible in no small degree.

Lambeau and Anderson will meet tomorrow evening at dinner to discuss the rules under which the game will be played. Between 10 and 10:30 tomorrow evening Lambeau and Anderson will be interviewed over W-G-N by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, who will be introduced by Bob Elson, veteran W-G-N announcer.

The officials and the coaches will meet at luncheon Thursday noon in the Chicago Towers club so that all will know the combined rules thoroly.

SHOSTROM PLAYS M'KEE TODAY IN PARKS NET FINAL

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24 (AP).—A Floridian and a Chicagoan moved into finals of the National Public Parks tennis tournament here today.

The southerner, third seeded Dick McKee of Jacksonville, upset Bill Maul of Detroit, 9-7, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4. Charles Shostrom of Chicago ousted 18 year old Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

The winners will meet tomorrow, following women's singles finals between Mrs. Marceina Weiss Parker of St. Louis and Helen Germaine of New York.

Willis Anderson and Jerry Crowthers of Los Angeles took the doubles crown by defeating Ward Parker and Allen Carvell of St. Louis 6-3, 11-9, 6-2.

Mrs. Parker, with Frances Jacobson of St. Louis, defeated Belle Farrar and Mrs. Henrietta Trangle of Buffalo, N. Y., 6-4, 6-1 for the women's doubles championship.

CHICAGO BIKE STARS PREPARE FOR OLYMPICS

Chicago's three United States Olympic cycling candidates—Marvin Thompson, Bob Cass, and Ed Carfagnini—today will go into their heaviest training drill in preparation for the national Olympic meet to be held in the Humboldt park bowl Thursday and Friday night.

The trio plan to workout this morning for the purpose of sharpening up their teamwork and thus defeat the contenders of other parts of the United States who will come here seeking official 1940 Olympic honors. Thompson, wearing the colors of the George Barrett A. C. has demonstrated in the trials at a quarter, half and one mile distances that he rates as America's No. 1 amateur cycling spring champion. Cass and Carfagnini, the latter national road champion, are favored in the distance events scheduled on the two day program.

Austin Bears to Start Football Practice Today

Nearly 50 candidates for the Austin Bears semipro football squad are expected to be on hand this afternoon in the Bears stadium, Harlem and North avenues, for the opening practice session.

CARDINALS HAVE NEW COACH, BUT SAME OLD WOES

Jimmy Conzelman Faces Discouraging Job.

BY JAMES COSTIN.

The Chicago Cardinals will start their 1940 National Football league season with most of the players who could do no better than a bad last in the league last year, but they'll have a new coach and attacking system which, they hope, will at least make things much more interesting for the opposition.

The new coach is Jimmy Conzelman, who came over to the pros after he gave up his coaching duties at Washington university, St. Louis, last winter. Conzelman writes for the slick paper magazines, he paints, he directs civic operas, he's an accomplished musician, and he's a big league after dinner wit. But he'll have to reach deep into his bag of varied tricks if he hopes to get the Cardinals very far away from their 1939 cellar position.

Conzelman is installing the Notre Dame system of play in the Cardinal scheme, but he has precious few capable men around whom to build his system, and only three men of the 40 now in training in the Cardinal camp at Morgan Park Military academy ever have used that system, all of which further complicates Conzelman's job. Conzelman is one pro coach who can moan like a college coach and get his hearers to agree with him after they have seen his squad.

Get Beinor, Kuharich.

In an effort to strengthen his line with players familiar with the Notre Dame system, Conzelman yesterday announced a trade with the Brooklyn Dodgers whereby the Cardinals gave up George Cafego, Tennessee back field star, and Ben Kish, former Pitt quarter back, for Ed Beinor and Joe Kuharich, former Notre Dame tackle and guard, respectively. Beinor's home is in Harvey, Ill., and Kuharich's in South Bend, Ind. Cafego and Kish are now in training with the College All-Stars for their game Thursday night with the Green Bay Peckers in Soldiers' field. Beinor and Kuharich are expected to join the Cardinals today.

Lacks Capable Players.

"There simply aren't any players available," said Conzelman in explaining the plight of his squad. "You either get'em or you don't get'em in this league, and we haven't got'em. O, sure; a few good men here and there, but not nearly enough to make us serious threats."

Conzelman will build his back field around Marshall Goldberg, former Pitt star who was the forgotten man of the Cardinals' 1939 back field, and Motts Tonelli and Bert Johnson. Tonelli, Notre Dame full back, and Johnson, Kentucky right half back, are the only backs who have had any experience in the Notre Dame system. Goldberg is Conzelman's No. 1 left half, but he's no great shakes as a passer or kicker and his presence in the key position of the Cardinals' offense relieves a great deal of the triple threat pressure on the opposition. Goldberg is a dangerous runner, however, and is working on his passing to give added threat to his presence. Beryl Clark, a Cardinal freshman from Oklahoma university, looks like a good bet to understudy Goldberg.

The quarter back job is still wide open to all comers, with Buddy Parker and Everett Fisher, veterans, fighting it out with Ray Elkins, a new man just up from Marshall college, Huntington, W. Va., for the starting assignment.

Shirk Is Star End.

John Shirk, graduated by the University of Oklahoma last June, is a fine looking end prospect, while the fight for the other wing position is wide open among six other candidates. One of the best of these at this time is Alton Coppage, Shirk's understudy at Oklahoma last year.

The veteran Tony Blazine will, of course, handle one of the tackle positions as well as anybody in the business could do it, and the acquisition of Beinor gives a big lift to the other tackle position. Conzelman can only hope for the best from among the other seven tackle candidates. Andy Sabados of Aurora, Ill., and Kuharich are first rate guards who ease some of the tension there.

Altho there is a famine at all other positions there is a veritable feast at center where Conzelman has Ki Aldrich, a freshman pro league star last year, and Andy Chisik, a 203 pound newcomer from Villanova. Chisik is the third man on the squad who is familiar with the Notre Dame system and already is rated only a shade behind the redoubtable Aldrich.

14 on Injured List.

Fourteen of the squad are suffering with varying degrees of injuries, which adds to Conzelman's woes. None of the injured players are able to take part in any of the rough stuff, and some of them don't even don uniforms.

The Cardinals have first call on the services of two other players now training with the College All-Stars. They are Marty Christiansen, Minnesota full back, and Stan Anderson, Stanford tackle, both of whom have signed with the pros.

RED SOX RALLY TO BEAT TIGERS AFTER LOSING 1ST

Score Two in 9th to Get Even Split.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24 (AP).—The pennant contending Detroit Tigers hammered four Boston Red Sox pitchers for a 12 to 1 victory in the first game of a double header today, but then dropped the second game, 8 to 7, when Al Benton let in the deciding run on a wild pitch before almost 30,000.

With Rudy York setting the pace, driving in five runs, the Tigers raked three Boston moundsmen—Joe Heving, Yank Terry, and Herb Hash—for 13 hits before—in the first game Manager Cronin called in Outfielder Williams to try to silence the Detroit guns. Williams, making his debut on the mound, did fairly well, yielding three hits and one run in the last two innings.

In the second game Mike Higgins hit a homer with the bases loaded to put the Tigers out in front, 7 to 6, going into the ninth. Singles by Williams, Bobby Doerr, and Lou Finney tied the score and Benton then uncorked his wild pitch to score Doerr with the winning run. Scores:

BROWNS, 6; ATHLETICS, 5.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24 (AP).—George McQuinn scored in the 10th today on Nelson Potter's wild pitch to give the St. Louis Browns a 6 to 5 victory over the Athletics. The Browns, spotting the A's three runs, came from behind twice to tie the score. Walt Judnich hit a home run with one on base in the sixth to set the first deadlock. An unearned run on two errors gave the Browns their last chance after the A's had pulled ahead. Score:

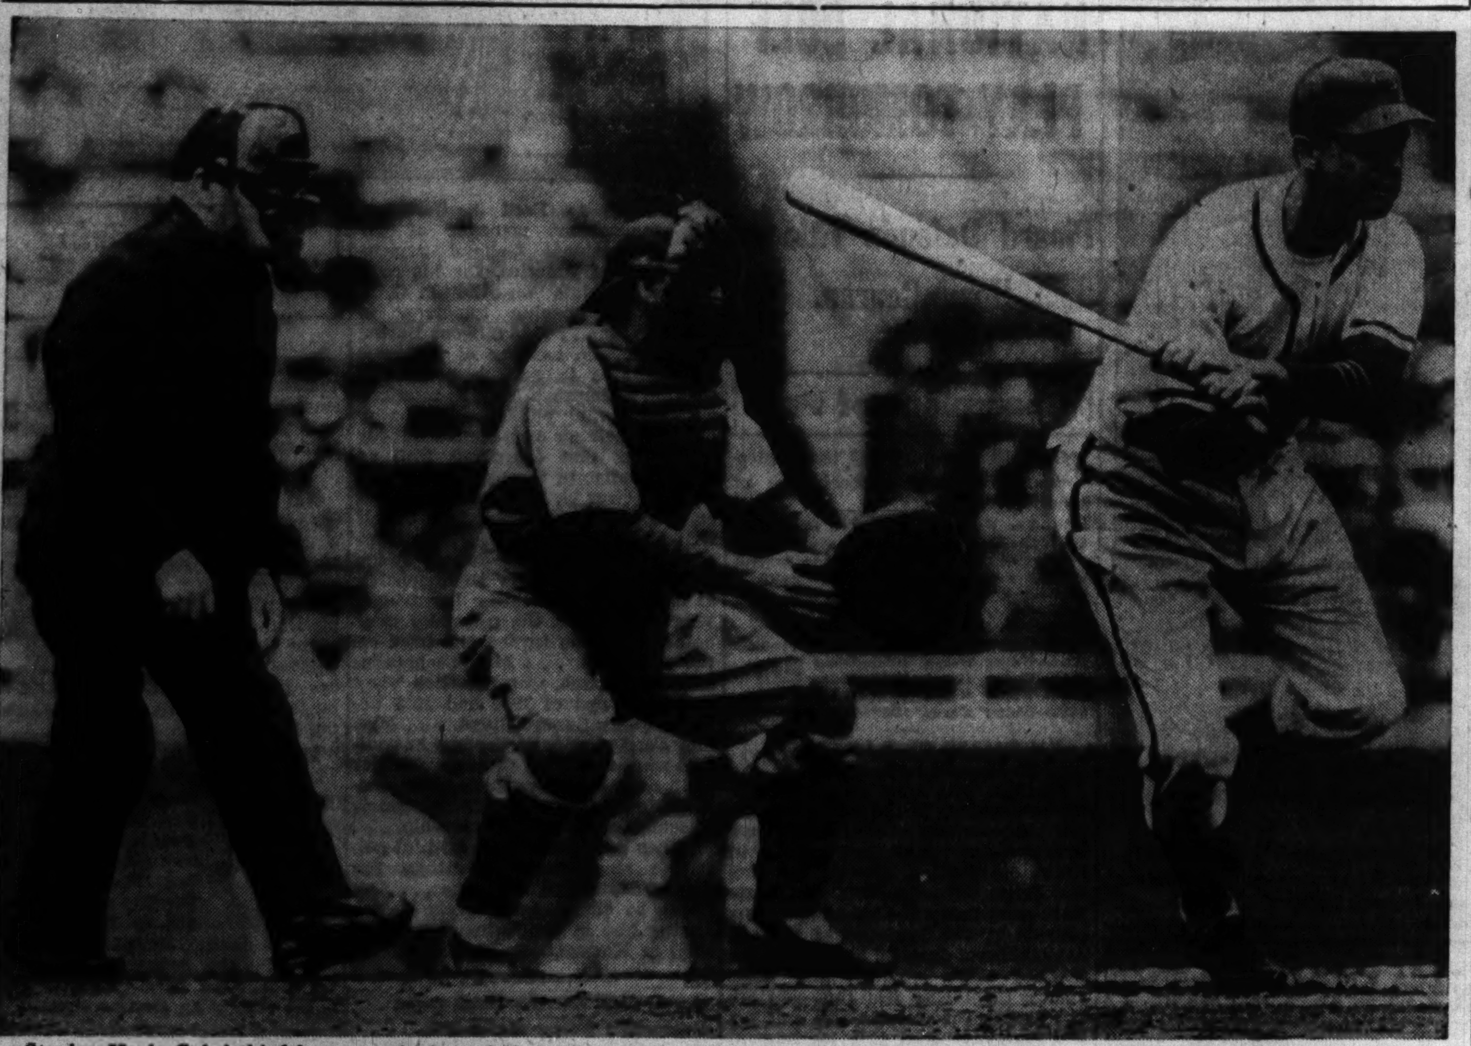
HACK WARMS UP BEFORE SMACKING ONE



Stanley Hack, Cubs' third baseman, fouls a pitch in the first inning in yesterday's game with the Dodgers in Wrigley field. Hack singled on his next try, however. The catcher is Gus Mancuso and the umpire Bill Klem. The Dodgers defeated the Cubs, 11 to 3.

A FIGHTING PIKE STEALS FLY AND PAYS WITH LIFE

Rice Lake, Wis., Aug. 24 [Special].—D. T. Gholson of Elgin, Ill., is a tenacious fisherman. He was casting with a fly on Rice lake when a big walleyed pike snapped the fly and leader off. After getting a new leader on shore, Gholson returned to the same spot and snagged the pike. When he landed the fish, he recovered the first fly and leader, which were still hooked in the walleye's mouth. The fish weighed 6 pounds 12 ounces.

vich. The full house fell apart when Tresh flied to Welaj.

Kuhel came up with one out in the third and beat out a bunt to Rookie Sanford. Solters drilled a single into center and Case rifled the ball to third trying to catch Kuhel. But the throw went into the Sox dugout and Kuhel was permitted to walk home, while Solters took third. Solters stayed there on Appling's fly to right, but an instant later he was able to score without hurrying, Wright hitting a triple to right center.

Rigney Is Summoned.

The Sox made it 4 to 0 in the sixth when Tresh welcomed Carrasquel with a triple and scored on Hayes' long fly to Case.

Indications that Knott was wilting came when Case singled and Lewis walked to open the eighth. Knott remained long enough to make three wide pitches to Welaj. Then Rigney completed the walk, which was charged against Knott, filling the bases. Travis drove a double down the left field line, scoring Case and Lewis. Sanford slapped a lazy liner to Appling, who found it simple to toss to Hayes, doubling Travis off second. The threat ended on Bloodworth's pop to Hayes. Rigney pitched to only three batters in the ninth.

SECOND GAME

Hayes touched off the second battle in impressive style. He opened with a triple to right off Krakauskas. After Kreevich grounded out, Kuhel walked and Hayes hustled to the plate on Solters' fly to center. Despite two hits by the Senators off Smith in both the first and second innings this slim lead survived. But in the third Lewis and Welaj singled with one out, the former getting to third, whence he scored the tying run on Travis' fly to Solters.

After passing up Smith's single, with which he introduced the third inning, the Sox didn't encounter a scoring chance until Kennedy led off in the eighth with a pass. Smitty bunted him to second, Hayes flied to Case and Kreevich was purposely passed for Kuhel, a left handed hitter. Kuhel popped foul to Pofahl on Krakauskas' first pitch. But Krakauskas didn't fare so well in the ninth.

Clay Isn't So Good.

The Dodgers scored their other three runs off Bryant, one in the third and two in the fifth, including a homer by Coscarart. Larry French did not yield a run in the last four innings, altho there were three singles.

The Cubs made six hits off Davis, two each by Hack and Bonura, and one each by Gleeson and Dallessandro. Curt didn't walk anybody, and there was only one error behind him. Only three Cubs were left on base, and none got to second, except in the second and seventh innings.

The outcome gave the Dodgers their first victory in six played on their present western trip. The success also evened the season series between the Dodgers and Cubs at 10 each. The two games remaining on the schedule for the two teams will be played in Brooklyn on Sept. 10 and 11.

FACE GIANTS TWICE

There will be a double header between the Cubs and the New York Giants in Wrigley field this afternoon. The Giants will round out their 1940 activities in Chicago with single games Monday and Tuesday.

Jake Mooty and Bill Lee, who haven't been so happy in recent weeks, will pitch for the Cubs this afternoon. Hal Schumacher and Paul Dean are scheduled for the Giants.

The Cubs will have a chance to pass the Giants in the National league standings this afternoon. With this in view, they may bear down behind Bill and Jake a little better than usual.

PIRATES CANCEL OPTION.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 24 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced cancelation of their option on Outfielder Maury Jungman of the Albany Eastern league club and the outright assignment of Jungman to Albany.

C. Y. O. SOFTBALL LEAGUE PLAYOFF TO START TODAY

The first of the playoff games in the C. Y. O. baseball league will be played this afternoon in Shewbridge field, 74th street and Aberdeen avenue.

Two games are slated for today. St. Bartholomew No. 1 will meet St. Jerome in the first contest at 1 o'clock. The St. Andrew-St. Susanna game will follow. Winners of these contests will advance to the semi-finals.

St. Casimir and St. Adalbert, which have qualified for the playoffs, will clash this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Sherman park, 55th and Loomis streets. They finished in a deadlock for first place in the west section and are meeting today to decide the champion in their division.

CARDINALS WIN NINTH STRAIGHT; BEAT PHILS, 1-0

Warneke Yields Only 4 Scattered Hits.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24 (AP).—Chalking up the Cardinals' ninth victory in a row, Lon Warneke pitched a 4 hitter today to beat Philadelphia, 1 to 0, and tie the year's longest winning streak in the major leagues.

It was Warneke's 13th victory against seven defeats, matching his record for the entire 1939 season.

Terry Moore drove in the lone run with a single in the fifth inning after Martin Marion had singled, gone to second on Warneke's sacrifice and to third on Staurt Martin's infield out. Score:

GIANTS, 7; PIRATES, 6.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 24 (AP).—The New York Giants came from behind with a three run rally in the eighth inning today and then defeated the Pirates, 7 to 6, when Ken Heintzelman let the deciding run home in the ninth with a wild pitch. Carl Hubbell, who was knocked out of the box by the Pirates yesterday, came back as a relief pitcher today and blanked the Pirates in the last two innings. He was the winning pitcher.

The Pirates' four run rally in the fifth inning was topped off by Elbie Fletcher's homer with two on base.

Billy Jurges played the ninth inning at shortstop for the Giants, one of the few times he has seen action since he was hit by a pitched ball July 20. Score:

REDS, 5; BEES, 0.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24 (AP).—Gene Thompson has seen the light hitting Reds blow too many close ball games, so he took no chances today and shut out Cincinnati's jinx team, the Boston Bees, 5 to 0. He yielded four singles, struck out nine, and issued five passes.

Thompson's 13th victory gave the Reds a 10 to 9 edge over the seventh place Bees on games played so far, which is as close as any team has held the National league leaders. It also protected the Reds' 6½ game lead over the Dodgers, who today defeated Chicago. Score:

TIGERS RECALL 11 FARM PLAYERS, INCLUDING HAPAC

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP).—Recall of 11 Detroit Tiger farm hands from three minor league clubs was announced today by Walter O. Briggs, president of the Detroit baseball company.

From their Beaumont, Tex., farm the Tigers will bring up Pitchers Luther Thomas and Harold Manders, Infielders Frank Metha and Boyd Perry, Outfielders Robert Harris and Frank Secory and Catcher Edward Parsons.

Briggs said that none of the players now at Beaumont will report until after the Texas league playoffs with the possible exception of Metha who is not eligible for the title series.

From Buffalo of the International league, the Tigers will bring up Pitchers Floyd Giebell and Lynn Nelson and Outfielder Patrick Mullin.

William Hapac, former University of Illinois basketball and baseball star who was signed by the Tigers in June, is to report from Evansville, of the Three-Eye league. He is an outfielder.

"It will be decided later whether the three Buffalo players and Hapac will come up this fall or next spring," Briggs said.

All of the players except Hapac were at Detroit's training camp in Lakeland, Fla., last spring.

Enjoy the HUNT of Your Life IN WYOMING this year

Cut loose from city life. Straddle a horse; let him carry you to the top of the Continental Divide where no white man's tracks have left their mark. Line your sights on the heart of a noble mountain sheep with horns that make a full three-quarter curve; squeeze the trigger and take home a trophy that all men will admire.

"Rough It" in Comfort

Sleep through freezing nights, cradled in fleecy all wool blankets. Let your city-tired bones rest on air mattresses. Cut loose from the turmoil of big towns; go out with your gun and get yourself a moose, a Rocky Mountain sheep—an elk, deer, bear or antelope! Marvelous bird shooting, too! They're waiting for you IN WYOMING! You'll have to work a little; climb a few hills—but if you're willing—if you want to lose some of the fat around your waist-line and have a trophy, TOO, don't hesitate any longer! Clip this coupon and mail it today. Wyoming will find you a place where you can make ALL your hunting dreams come true.

SEASONS from SEPTEMBER 15 to NOVEMBER 15

FISHING Too

Big lusty fighters from brawling streams or high mountain lakes.

ISOLATER COMES FROM BEHIND TO WIN AT SARATOGA

New World Takes Other Feature on Program.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 24 [Special].—Swinging around the entire field at the head of the stretch, and then driving straight home for a decisive victory, 7 year old Isolater today won the 38th Merchants, and Citizens' handicap and paid his backers $17.30 for $2.

Second to the line, after making a gallant bid in the stretch, was the 3 year old Your Chance, favorite with the crowd, and youngest competitor among the six who faced the starter. A half length farther away was War Dog, with Hash fourth, Sickle T. fifth, and Masked General last.

New World Gets Revenge.

The Merchants' and Citizens' grossed $10,550, of which $7,850 went to the winner. Slightly higher in value was the $11,950 Grand Union Hotel stakes, which saw A. G. Vanderbilt's New World turn the tables on Calumet farm's Whirlaway. When New World won by a length and a half, to earn $10,050, the Discovery colt avenged the defeat he suffered in the Saratoga Special.

Whirlaway fell a length and a half short of the victory, with Hycop third. New World finished out powerfully in 1:11 flat over the fast track.

In the Merchants' and Citizens' Your Chance ran as well as any one could expect, but was beaten by an older and stronger horse. The time of 1:56 4-5 compared favorably with Sir Barton's track record of 1:55 3-5.

War Dog was the fastest away from the barrier and skirted the first turn with a length or more to spare. Sickle T. was in closest pursuit of the early pace, but faded as the race wore on. Masked General ran the same sort of race, he, too, having early speed, but fading like Sickle T.

Isolater Best Horse.

At the far turn the whole field bunched up so that from first to last they were within a couple of lengths of each other. War Dog maintained his advantage and came into the stretch that way. It was in the run from the far turn to the stretch turn that Jimmy Stout had brought Isolater on from the last place to be a stout contender.

Hash, too, was sent forward by Eddie Arcaro. In the meantime, Your Chance had ranged up alongside of War Dog and those two went head and head in the final straightaway.

The strongest horse was Isolater. He not only was able to give away the ground lost by going around the entire field, but he picked up what distance he needed and then scored going away. Your Chance ran well but could not cope with the older horses. The payoff across the board was $17.30, $7.30, and $4.20, with the winner under 116 pounds.

Porter's Cap Wins Futurity; Silvestra 2d

They pounded thru the straightaway and at the eighth pole all three were running head and head, pinched close together with Valdina Groom in the middle, Good Turn on the rail, and Porter's Cap on the outside. They bumped one another repeatedly. Swain, which had been improving his position gradually, was unable to get thru along the rail and was forced to go to the outside. Silvestra, too, had difficulty weaving her way thru the field.

At the sixteenth pole, Porter's Cap had both Valdina Groom and Good Turn whipped. Then Jack Richard drove Silvestra up with a powerful challenge. She was gaining rapidly at the finish, but couldn't quite make it.

Play thru the totalizer kas $575,914, as compared with $496,649 the same day last year. The total handle for the first four weeks of the meeting was $8,324,551, while in the same period last year $7,042,410 passed thru the machines.

Woof Pays $83.60.

Mrs. Emil Denemark's Woof, a long shot, scored in the first race. This 6 year old mare paid off at $83.60, $26, and $10.80 for win, place, and show.

After disposing of the early pace setter, Chance Queen, she drew clear on the turn, led by two lengths into the stretch and tired near the finish of the six furlongs. She had enough left to withstand the swift closing rush of Lady Val, her margin of victory being three-quarters of a length. Cloudy Weather was third.

Another Denemark horse, Slavic, followed up Woof's performance by running a dead heat with W. W. Stone's Hilfair in the second race, which was at a distance of a mile and a half. This necessitated two payoffs on the daily double. Those who hooked up Hilfair with Woof collected $520.60. Tickets on the Woof-Slavic combination returned $218.00.

Carlinville Man Wins State Croquet Title

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 24 (AP).—John Campbell of Carlinville won the croquet championship at the Illinois state fair today. Floyd Darwent of Franklin won second place and third prize went to Dave Patterson of Decatur.

HILFAIR, rushed to the front, set a good pace under steadying restraint, responded well when tiring and finished in a dead heat with SLAVIC. Latter, under steadying restraint while following close to the pace, was eased approaching the far turn, came fast when ready and closed resolutely. AHEAD, well back early, worked his way forward steadily, came to the inside for the drive, and finished strongly. MARGO G. tired. SECRET DESIRE had no mishaps. DOUBLE FINESSE was done after a mile. ICE QUEEN showed little. SHAG bled approaching the final half mile and was pulled up.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 24.—One hundred and twenty of the nation's ablest golf professionals, most of whom have been pursuing par the country over in stroke competition, Monday morning will settle down to their own little match play party, the 23d annual tournament of the Professional Golfers' Association of America at the Hershey Country club. There are those among them who feel that you are not among the elect in pro golf unless you have won this tournament or distinguished yourself in it, for the complete golfer to them is the man who can hold up his end in match play as well as medal.

For the next seven days the field will be striving to wrest from Henry Picard the title he won from Byron Nelson in last year's spine-tingling 37 hole final at Pomonok, N. Y. This in itself will provide an unusual sidelight, for seldom is the champion in a position to defend the title on his home course. Yet that's the case, for the tall Yankee born pro who hit a major title last year after five persistent years of effort, is the home pro at Hershey.

Hagen Five Times Winner.

The list of former champions is as good an index as any of the playing caliber of this P. G. A. show. Twelve men have shared in the 22 preceding championships. Five of these were taken by Walter Hagen for the most remarkable match play record in the game, considering the quality of the competition. The twelve former title holders have accounted for 10 British Opens and seven American Opens.

The playing records of the P. G. A are studded with some of the most remarkable performances in golf history. For example, there was the 1935 first round match in which Hagen, playing perfect golf, lost, 1 down, to Johnny Revolta's equally perfect exhibition of recovery shots. There was the 43 hole match Hagen yielded to the late Johnny Golden at St. Paul in 1932. There was the 1938 final, in which little Paul Runyan, granted little or no chance against mighty Samuel Snead, came off an 8 and 7 winner.

Thrilling 1939 Finish.

And then there was that little business at Pomonok last July. In that thriller, Nelson was down most of the way, as much as three holes in arrears at times. He squared it at the 29th, and when he won the 32d to go up for the first time, it appeared that Nelson would be the first man since 1922 to hold the Open and P. G. A. crowns within the same year. Picard then won the 36th with a magnificent drive, and took the 37th with a birdie 3.

The 38 hole medal play qualifying round will be held at 18 Monday and 18 more Tuesday.

AMATEUR TRIAL TUESDAY

A field of 74, all intent on personal appearances in the National Amateur golf tournament, opening on Sept. 9 at the Winged Foot club in Manaroneck, N. Y., will battle 36 holes Tuesday at the Flossmoor Country club for the 15 places allotted to the Chicago district for the big show. This battalion constitutes the second largest qualifying detail in the country, only New York surpassing it with 25 places.

The pairings and starting times follows:

8:45, 1:15—Henry J. McElroy, Flossmoor; John L. Banks, Elmhurst; Jack L. Kamsler Ravisloe.

THE LOCKER ROOM

Round-of-the-Week
Jim Ferrier's first 18 holes of 70, 1 under par, in C. D. G. A. final match at Riverside.

Shot-of-the-Week
Bill Chambers' 7 iron to 13th green against Wilford Wehrle in second round of C. D. G. A. amateur.

EAGLES to Fred J. Corcoran, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers' association of America, for his comprehensive data on the P. G. A. tournament opening tomorrow in Hershey, Pa. . . . This diligent Boston Irishman, who has one of the most difficult jobs in golf, is constantly striving to improve P. G. A. relations with the golfing public. . . . And why hasn't something been done about his suggestion that a golfing Hall of Fame, similar to the baseball idea at Cooperstown, N. Y., be founded and carried on thru an annual poll of golf writers and officials? . . . Mrs. Howard C. Seehausen of Sunset Ridge finally won the ladies' championship at her club by defeating her friend, Virginia Ingram, the perennial titleholder. . . . She turned the trick on the 19th hole. . . . Mrs. Seehausen, as Polly Pietsch, won the Glen View championships of 1934 and 1936 before joining Sunset Ridge. . . . Mrs. Jim Ferrier, wife of the big Australian who won the Chicago District Golf association amateur championship, is a contender for the year's husband-following championship. . . . She has been Jim's most faithful galleryite since their arrival in the United States last February. . . . And hopes to climax her travels by following him in the National amateur final at Mamaroneck, N. Y., on Sept. 14.

Terry McGovern, Deerpath professional, submits the following as one for the 1940 record book: A Deerpath foursome composed of Frank Dugan, Walter Johnson, Jim Hay and Bill Dickinson recently scored simultaneous birdie threes on the 390 yard 16th hole. . . . Bill finished the round with a 72, two over par; Walt a 73; Frank a 75, and Jim a 77. . . . And Terry adds that Deerpath will hold its annual Plae Dae today. . . . The 125 yard fourth hole at Navajo Fields is often visited by members for the sole purpose of watching players tee off from across a deep ravine. . . . The Locker Room's Navajo Fields correspondent recently watched seven foursomes come and go, and overheard one of the watchers say, "Uncle Sam need not worry about sharpshooters —21 out of 28 players hit that green" . . . Sam C. Marzulo, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee at Elmhurst, is urging members to come out for the mixed two ball foursomes today. . . . The ladies will choose partners. . . . The handicap totals will be on the basis of one-half of each player's handicap. . . There will be prizes for low gross, low net, and blind bogey.

The Goodwin Clarks Show Hinsdale How to Win Titles.

Goodwin Clark Sr., and his son, Goodwin Jr., both have held the club championship at Hinsdale. . . . The latter is capt.-elect of the Michigan golf team. . . . George Arnold, Kildeer professional, gave Ol' Man Par a thoro trimming last week by shooting rounds of 70-68-65-69 for a total of 272 on the No. 1 course. He was 16 under par for the four rounds. . . . Al Lehman defeated Howard Baal, 2 and 1, to win the club championship for the fourth successive time at Acacia. . . . Trailing, 2 down at the end of 18 holes, Lehman shot a 71 to Baal's 75 in the afternoon.

William J. O'Neal of Pasadena, who will play in the qualifying round for the national amateur at Flossmoor Tuesday, was a teammate of Jack Hoerner at Stanford. . . . Albert Seckel of Riverside delved into the past the other day and came up with a "believe it or not yarn." It had to do with the western amateur at Detroit in 1911 which Seckel won. . . . On the day of the qualifying round the wind was so strong that the players had to allow for a curve of 6 inches on putts on a level surface. . . . Of the 150 players that day, Seckel was the only one to break 80. . . . He had a 78.

Fred Wagner of Westward Ho Has a Pretty Fair Round.

Fred Wagner of Westward Ho recently had a birdie 4 on the 510 yard 6th hole; an ace on the 145 yard 7th, and a birdie on the 380 yard 8th. . . . In the first foursome to tee off tomorrow in the Western Railway club's annual golf outing at Olympia field will be Harold E. Ray, former manager of the Civic Opera company, now president of the Central Railway Supply company. . . . Friends of William Erickson, county commissioner, will hold a celebration in his honor at Pickwick, Sept. 5. Matt Jans is chairman of the golf committee. . . . Aviators flying over the Elmhurst Golf club will know their location now that the club name has been painted in 1½ foot letters on the roof of the new pro shop. . . . More than 250 graduates of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, dental school of Loyola university, will attend the alumni golf tournament at Sportsman's Wednesday.

Bowling proprietors of Chicago will hold their annual golf outing at Gleneagles Thursday. . . . Tam o'Shanter caddies will attempt to break last year's record of consuming 400 bottles of milk and 2,200 bottles of pop at their annual party tomorrow. . . . Women members will supply homemade cookies and candy and will wait tables at dinner in the evening. . . . Harry Rheiner is chairman of the event. . . . Jim Ferrier of Australia, recent winner of the Chicago district golf championship, and Chick Evans will play an exhibition match today with Benny Borst and Nels Anderson at Nordic. . . . Olympia Fields will hold a swimming revue Wednesday evening featuring Tom Powell, Northwestern university diving star; Barbara Ramser, Fred Springer, Howard Jaynes, Betty Wylie, and Lois Wenzel. . . . Mrs. A. Hunter is the new ladies golf champion at Ruth Lake.

Revive County Amateur Tourney at Columbus Park.

The Cook county amateur tournament, one of the oldest events in local golf, is being revived this week at Columbus park. . . . Hank Foley, professional and manager, has rounded up a smart field that includes Harry Wils, new Midwest public links title holder; Bill Chambers, conqueror of Wilford Wehrle in last week's C. D. G. A. amateur; Chuck Boywid, author of two successive rounds of par 71 in the C. D. G. A.; John Hayes, Lou Lembke, and Bill Cannell. . . . Tee entries will be accepted in the qualifying round, which will be held over 18 holes tomorrow. . . . The fee is $1, plus greens fees. . . . Match play at 18 holes per day will follow, with Saturday being skipped and Sunday's final scheduled for 36 holes. . . . Big Lee Roblee and little Les Robey have been regular partners in a foursome at Glen Oak for years. . . . During all this time Lee has kidded Les about the load he [Lee] had to carry. . . . The payoff came when Lee met Les in the semi-finals for the club championship, and Les beat Lee, 1 up.

This Day in Golf

25 YEARS AGO.

Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, Caroline Painter of Midlothian, Mrs. H. D. Hammond of Indianapolis, and Elizabeth Allen of Rock Island entered the semi-finals of the Women's Western Golf association tournament at Midlothian.

Bob Gardner won the championship of the National Coal Trade association by defeating Samuel W. Reynolds of Omaha, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole final match at Glen Oak.

15 YEARS AGO.

Virginia Van Wie, a 16 year old from Beverly, defeated Dorothy Klotz, 5 and 3, in the Women's Western Open tournament at St. Paul.

10 YEARS AGO.

Leonard Hicks, with an 81, captured the Irwin-Walker tournament at Bob o' Link.

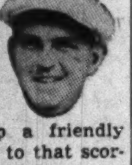
Mrs. Opal S. Hill, the defending champion, won the qualifying medal in the Women's Western tournament at Kansas City with a 75 that included 7 birdies and 11 pars. Mrs. Gregg Lifur was second with a 76.

The Inquiring Golfer

THE QUESTION.

What is your favorite club? [This question, asked during the C. D. G. A. amateur last week, previously had been put to five women and five professional stars.]

THE ANSWERS.

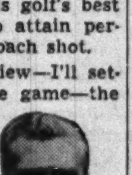


Jim Ferrier, Sydney, Australia—Give me a putter and I'll get around a golf course. Professionals and leading amateurs agree that putting is 50 per cent of the game, and I agree with them. I think that if the average golfer can develop a friendly putter, he is on his way to that scoring happiness all of us seek.

Wilford Wehrle, Tam o' Shanter—The No. 5 iron is my candidate. I'll choose it because I find that I get better results with it than any other club in the bag. It works for me for any distance from 150 to 160 yards in, altho it needn't be that far. A variation in the swing, ranging from three-quarters to a quarter, brings equal results on shorter shots.

Arthur Doering, Medinah—I'll take the first club you use on most tees—the driver. It's my opinion that a well placed drive is the answer to any golf hole. There are more shots in golf than any other game in sports, but the most essential one, in my mind, is that first one. Place your tee shot properly and half the battle is won.

Don Armstrong, Aurora—I agree with Art Doering on the driver as my favorite club. Hit a bad tee shot and you multiply the difficulty of a tough hole as soon as you've started. There's nothing like a good start, and a drive hit where it should be is golf's best start. It enables you to attain perfect position for an approach shot.



George Victor, Glen View—I'll settle for both ends of the game—the driver and the putter. Both have been good to me within the last several weeks, and I don't see how any golfer can get along without them. You must hit a good drive to get anywhere on a hole, and that hole is naught unless you can get the ball into the cup.

Closing!

The Locker Room, opened on June 2, 1940, as a gathering place for all interesting golf items, today enters its 14th week. It will close on Sept. 8 for the 1940 season. Thus there are only two more opportunities remaining in which to contribute that item which has been most interesting to you, your foursome, or your club. It may be a funny story, an odd hole, or an unusual shot. Send it to the Locker Room this week and join with hundreds of other Chicago golfers in becoming a member of the Locker Room. C'mon in!

THE Architect's club of Chicago likes its golf, but it also has more than a passing interest in football. . . . Secretary F. W. Maynard announces that the club's golf tournament, scheduled for Thursday, has been changed to Wednesday in order to avoid conflict with the All-Star football game, which many of the architects will attend. . . . Mrs. L. A. Mincer defeated Mrs. J. B. Patterson for the Longwood Country club championship. . . . Mrs. A. T. Frey was the winner in the consolation fight. . . . One of the largest trade events of the season will be held tomorrow at Olympia Fields, where approximately 1,000 members of the Western Railway club will gather for their annual tourney. . . . O. N. Harstad is president of the club. . . . Add unique names for golf events: The Wrong Font tourney will be held tomorrow at Glen Eagles. . . . The field includes printers from several local firms. . . . Among the favorites are Frank Clarke, George Albee, George Baily, and Frank Beran.

New Golf Publication Is Work of 28 Amateur Champions.

The Golfmasters' book published in the spring, which included pictures and stories by 14 leading professionals, now has a worthy successor in the newly released "Golf As I Play It," written by 28 amateur champions. . . . The book is edited by Richard D. Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., a fair country swinger in his own right, and Ledyard Sands. . . . The material was based on a questionnaire sent to the champs by Chapman and Sands. . . . This included favorite shots, most thrilling shots, and personal history. . . . Four Illinois golfers—Wilford Wehrle, Art Doering, Walter Burkemo, and Gus Moreland—and Jim Ferrier, new C. D. G. A. champion, and Tom Sheehan, former Chicago Heights boy who set a new qualifying record in the National amateur last year, are included in the gallery. . . . Tommy Armour and Harry Cooper were right interested in the miniature adding machine used by C. W. D. G. A. officials in computing scores during the recent Pro-Ladies tournament at Glen Oak. . . . This device is only one of several reasons why women's tournaments are the most efficiently conducted in the game. . . . Officials of men's events would do well to watch the gals run an event, altho Ted Quinn of Riverside did a grand job of conducting the C. D. G. A. amateur last week.

The United States Golf association is inaugurating a system of "season" tickets for its remaining 1940 tournaments—the National Amateur at Mamaroneck, N. Y., and the National Women's at Del Monte, Cal. A saving of $8 on the amateur and of $6.50 on the women's tournament will be effected by purchasers.

Women's Western Association Arranges Coast Tour.

Mrs. F. A. Bunte of Evanston, chairman of the transportation committee of the Women's Western Golf association, and her associates have arranged one of the best tours of the season, leading to two destinations—the 40th annual amateur tournament of the W. W. G. A., to be played at Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9 to 14, and the national women's tournament at Del Monte, Cal., Sept. 23 to 29. . . . The journey includes stops at Yellowstone park and the Grand Canyon of Yellowstone. . . . Walter Pierson, Mohawk's veteran locker room man, can tell you the locker number of each of the 345 members from memory. . . . What's more, according to Tommy Kouzmanoff, Mohawk's scribe, you can throw all 345 pairs of shoes in a pile, then ask Wally to identify each pair as to its owner and he'll call them off as fast as you pick them up. . . . If you like, include guests' shoes in the heap. . . . And that's not all. . . . Wally never forgets a face. . . . A former Mohawk member who has not visited the club for years can walk into the locker room and Pierson not only will call him by his full name but also name the exact day of his last round of golf.

Stanley Arendt, club pro at Inverness since 1926, fired a sensational 69 at the club recently, going out in 31 and returning in 38. . . . Inverness is a semiprivate club located on Roselle road, two and one-half miles northwest of Palatine. The club opened its second nine on July 4, giving it a 6,400 yard 18 hole layout.

INDUSTRY PUTS MILLIONS INTO PROVIDING JOBS

Expansions of Old Plants Head List.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Private capital, in its rôle of job creator and risk bearer in productive enterprises, was poured into new projects by the millions last week and the results began to show in many homes where working men's dinner pails, long unused, were being filled again.

Numerous factory additions, new plants, and equipment installations, all representing investments that must be made to provide facilities with which to put men to work, were announced. Still other projects, financed by government loans which the borrowers must pay back, or by federal funds for plant construction on a cost plus, fixed fee basis, added to the quickening effort.

Means Present and Future Jobs.

Altogether, the week's developments meant immediate employment for construction workers and others, and jobs in the future for thousands more.

The record of the larger projects announced or begun during the week included such items as these: $34,000,000 for plants and sites for one aircraft builder, $15,000,000 for expansion by another, an $11,500,000 private utility project, a $6,500,000 program for an airplane company, $3,000,000 for steel mill coke ovens, $1,500,000 for a chemical plant, $1,500,000 for a store and related buildings, $1,000,000 for refinery equipment, $800,000 to expand a plane factory, $500,000 to enlarge a Diesel engine factory, and unspecified amounts for an aluminum castings foundry, an office building, an engine factory addition, and increased plant capacity for a radio and phonograph producer.

The course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

Pay Rolls to Climb.

As to employment, the radio maker which prepared the expansion program said its pay rolls will be increased $3,000,000 a year, and one large aircraft builder reported new hirings had boosted its worker roll to an all-time record. A truck producer reported the largest number of employés on its rolls since 1929. One aircraft company said it will have 18,000 to 20,000 new jobs to offer when new plants are completed, and another said it will need 8,000 men.

A producer of alloy castings put night shifts into operation in some departments. The projected chemical plant which was announced will employ about 390 persons, the sponsor said.

Unfilled orders piled up at the factories, not only because of the continued flow of national defense contracts but also because of private projects. An air line ordered 111 engines in a $1,100,000 re-equipment program. Railroads ordered at least 1,000 more freight cars, and one line indicated it will buy 1,000 in the next few days. A locomotive builder received an order from an ore carrier for eight locomotives to cost a total of $2,000,000.

Many Lines Increase Tempo.

Most of the various lines of business activity on which data were immediately available showed improvement as compared with the preceding week. Steel mills increased output, automobile production increased, and gains were reported in cotton textile production, retail and wholesale trade, engineering construction contract awards, electric power output, and railroad freight loadings.

Residential construction held about steady. Declines were reported in new offerings of securities, bank clearings, and loans to business by banks in Chicago and New York.

Reflecting the improvement, the Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity rose to 109 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. The index compared as follows:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Composite index	109.0	107.8	95.1
Automobile production	89.0	89.0	76.0
Steel mill activity	120.4	120.1	83.5

Cargill Battle Ended.

Cargill officials said yesterday that they had not received any official notice of the final ruling and that they had no statement to make.

The Chicago Board of Trade won its long fight with Cargill, Inc., when the Commodity Exchange commission upheld the grain exchange and dismissed Cargill's complaint in the corn "squeeze" case of 1937. The exchange had expelled Cargill, and Cargill had accused the exchange of manipulation.

Stocks Close Strong Week in Slight Rise

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—The stock market today ended a strong week with a further slight gain. As on many recent Saturdays a large assortment of traders shunned Wall street in favor of holiday spots. The few that appeared inclined to keep commitments at a minimum pending more light on the battle of England, the domestic business situation and politics. The result was the second slowest session in 22 years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to edge up 0.1 point at 42.3 making the week's net comeback 1.3 points. Only 303 individual issues were traded out of 1,233 listed on the stock exchange.

The two-hour volume amounted to 88,380 shares, except for July 27 the smallest since August 3, 1918.

Causes of Slow Market.

Brokers blamed the disinclination of speculative forces to do much buying mainly on the resumption of massed German bombing raids and big-gun dueling over the English channel which, some believed, might mean that Hitler was preparing his all-out blow at the British. A handicap also was still seen in indications that the national tax program had hit a snag in congress. Until the excess profits provisions of the revenue measure are settled, analysts believe industry will go easy on expanding commitments.

Willys-Overland, most active stock with a volume of 11,300 shares, eased ⅛ at 1¾. On a few transactions Douglas Aircraft and Union Carbide rose more than a point each.

Moves Up in 5 Sessions.

Beginning last Saturday stocks pushed up on average in five consecutive sessions, stumbling into its first and only reaction of the week on Friday. The rallying reversal was credited in part to the drying up of selling in the previous week and to rising hopes the British would be able to repel an invasion. Friday's dip was said to have been caused by profit taking based on louder war rumblings and the desire of in and out traders to clear decks for possibly more unfavorable war news between then and Monday.

FPC ASKS UTILITY FOR 'POLITICAL' PAYMENT RECORD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Federal Power commission officials said today the Pacific Gas and Electric company of California had been asked for a detailed report on the "accounting disposition" of any expenditures or contributions it may have made or be contemplating for political purposes.

The commission asked the information in a letter to the company dated July 31. The commission declined to make public the letter, but Representative Havenner [D., Cal.] said it read in part:

"It has been reported to the commission that the Pacific Gas and Electric company has expended substantial amounts over a period of years in such political activities, relating particularly to proposals for the acquisition of development of electric power facilities by various public agencies thruout California."

ELGIN, JOLIET ROAD ORDERS 15 LOCOMOTIVES

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—The Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railway has placed orders with three manufacturers for fifteen Diesel electric switch engines, costing about $1,000,000 it was announced today. The Electro-Motive corporation received an order for two 1,000-horsepower switchers and six 600-horsepower switchers. The American Locomotive company received an order for two 1,000-horsepower switchers and two 660-horsepower switchers. The Baldwin Locomotive Works will provide three 660-horsepower switchers.

SIX MONTHS' AIRCRAFT EXPORTS TRIPLE THOSE IN FIRST HALF OF 1939

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—The commerce department reported today that exports of airplanes, plane engines, and accessories during the first six months of this year were nearly triple those of the first half of 1939 and more than double those of the second half.

The total value of these exports was placed at $138,388,046, of which more than one-half went to France. Shipmest of 1,532 planes accounted for $95,261,402 of the total, and $24,944,722 was for 2,008 engines, parts, and accessories. France took $75,375,565 worth of planes during the first half of this year and Great Britain about $18,000,000.

Sweden, which had purchased less than $500,000 worth of aeronautic products in the preceding six months took $4,928,211. Australia increased its purchases from $1,950,916 to $9,538,990, making it the third largest buyer.

The department reported also that exports of food products during July amounted to $20,339,000, an increase of 3 per cent over July, 1939. Imports during the month amounted to $47,491,000, a decrease of 4 per cent.

CURB PICKS MEN TO REPRESENT IT IN THREE CITIES

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—Regional public relations groups have been appointed in Chicago, Boston, and San Francisco by George P. Rea, president of the New York Curb exchange. The move, he explained today, is in line with the Curb's policy of broadening the scope of its work in this field, so that the functions and policies of the organization may be made known to a wider section of the general public.

The groups, said Rea, will act in an advisory capacity, offering suggestions for improved service and reporting to the operating officials in New York the reactions of members and public in their localities.

In Chicago, Rea chose Joshua J. D. Derry of Fenner & Beane, Reuben Thorson of Jackson & Curtis, and Byron G. Webster of Fuller, Rodney & Co.

EXPORTERS DRIVE FOR NEW COTTON GOODS MARKETS

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—Exporters of cotton goods plan an aggressive campaign to increase sales abroad with the help of the higher export subsidy just announced by the agriculture department, textile circles said today.

S. C. Lamport, a leading member of the Textile Export association, reported many houses would send salesmen to Latin America, India, and other markets with inducements to purchase American goods.

"This is the first real opportunity we have had to overcome labor cost differentials and compete in many foreign markets," he asserted.

Lamport said the export market for cotton goods in the last decade had shrunk from around 800,000,000 yards annually to about 250,000,000.

GOODYEAR PUTS WATERPROOFED FABRIC ON SALE

After tests covering more than a year, a new fabric waterproofed with a synthetic substitute for rubber is being placed on the market by Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, officials announced yesterday.

The fabric, known as pliosheen, was said to be adaptable to use for raincoats, shower curtains, drapes, umbrellas, hospital sheeting, oxygen tents, infants' wear and other similar purposes. The company announcement said the material is easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

Goodyear has arranged with Harte & Co., New York, to supply manufacturers with pliosheen for conversion into finished products.

President Will 'Merge' Power Sale of 2 Dams

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—The administration moved today to combine the marketing of government hydroelectric power from two dams in the Columbia river with a view to meeting prospective defense requirements in the Pacific northwest.

Paul J. Raver would direct sale of power.

A White House statement disclosed that President Roosevelt and Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes were preparing an executive order combining the marketing of electric energy produced at the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams in Washington and Oregon.

Interior department officials said the combined power could be used for the manufacture of aircraft, ordnance, munitions and ships from western raw materials.

Bonneville Now Operating.

Grand Coulee will begin to produce power, officials said, in 1941. Bonneville is now in operation with commitments of 106,850 kilowatts to industries and public power agencies. Officials said that approximately 300,000 kilowatts would be available from Bonneville within a year. Power output of both dams is eventually to aggregate 2,400,000 kilowatts, according to government plans.

The White House statement said the Bonneville administration, with headquarters at Portland, Ore., under the direction of Paul J. Raver, would become the marketing agency for both power projects.

Raver, 46 years old, a native of Logansport, Ind., and former chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, became Bonneville administrator on August 21.

Called "Emergency" Need.

"By combining the marketing of power produced at the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams under one marketing agency," the White House statement said, "the transmission network now under construction by the Bonneville power administration will carry the low-cost power from both developments thruout the Pacific northwest.

Since taking charge at Bonneville, Raver has executed contracts for the sale of government power to the Aluminum Company of America, the Sierra Iron company, the Portland [Ore.] General Electric company, and adjacent cities, towns, municipalities and public utility districts.

CHICAGO'S STEEL RATE WILL RISE MORE THIS WEEK

Chicago area steel production will advance to a new 1940 peak of 97½ per cent of capacity tomorrow, according to a survey yesterday of next week's mill schedules. Mills in this district began last week with operations at 97.3 per cent of capacity, which corresponds to the rate of one month ago. A year ago, operations were at 52.3 per cent.

Pittsburgh area mill schedules were boosted to 88 per cent of capacity, 4 points above last Monday's rate and the highest level reached since last January. At that time the area's average schedule was on the decline from the peak which followed the outbreak of the European war.

WORLD'S WHEAT SUPPLY AMPLE, BUT MANY LACK

War Disrupts Usual Trade Channels.

Wheat enough for the needs of all nations will jam the granaries in some sections of the globe to overflowing this year, while in other regions shortages are feared.

This situation created and maintained by the war blazing in Europe, can be plainly traced on the wheat map of the world. Huge supplies are centered in North America, supplies that promise to make storage a problem. In parts of Europe which is under "total" blockade by England and under "Germans first" rule of the Nazis, shortage of wheat and other food crops is expected this fall.

Supplies Above Normal.

Latest available figures on production and carryover of the principal wheat growing regions indicated that the 1940 world supply will total 6 billion 881 million bushels. This is 729 million bushels more than the 1931-1935 five year average and approximately 150 million bushels more than the 1939 supply.

As was the case last year, the 1940 world harvest—estimated at 5 billion 451 million bushels—is substantially above the five year average of 5 billion 82 million bushels. And again the world carryover reached a new volume record—1 billion 430 million bushels compared with the five year average of 1 billion 70 million bushels and 1 billion 200 million bushels last year, which had been the previous record.

According to estimates by the United States department of agriculture and other crop observers, this country, Canada, India, Russia, and China had, or will have, better crops this year than last and in all but the latter two, better than the five year average.

European Crops Smaller.

These huge supplies, however, will not be available to Europe, whose 266 million bushel decline represented the largest production decrease. Australia, Argentina, and North Africa also reported reductions in harvest.

It has been emphasized by the department of agriculture that Europe's supplies are sufficient for the peoples' needs under rationing programs if the stores are distributed equitably. However, the Germans have disclaimed responsibility for conquered populations and observers from abroad have reported upward of 18,000,000 people will be in dire need this winter.

Germany has said, however, that all efforts possible will be made to provide for conquered populations after German needs are taken care of.

Prices Continue Low.

On the other hand England has indicated it will refuse to permit American agencies to ship "mercy supplies" to the needy sectors as was done during the world war and thruout the post-war period.

The glutted wheat storehouses and the slow throttling of export trade have cracked the price basis for wheat on the major markets of the world.

Before the European war started some observers predicted the war would have an upward effect on the low prices then prevailing but, except for early in the season when pessimistic crop estimates were made for North America, prices have ranged at about the same levels as in 1939.

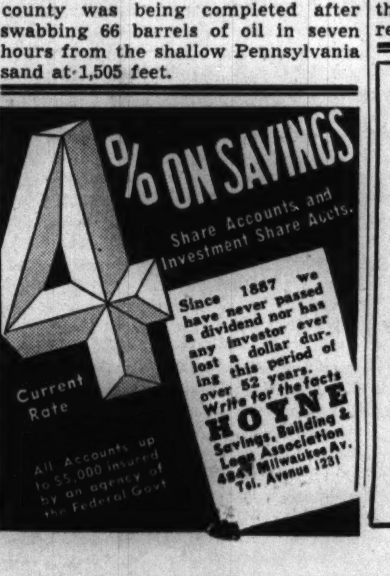
Russia and China crops have in the past had small effect on the total world supply since both consume most of their production. Estimates of their 1940 harvests are for the most part guesses since few reports are available.

ILLINOIS CRUDE OIL ACTIVITY IS AT LOW EBB

Centralia, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—Illinois oil exploration was at a low ebb this week. Aside from the 10 cent boost in purchase price of Illinois crude to $1.15 a barrel by all of the state's major purchasers there was little news in the industry.

Activity in the Lake Centralia-Salem pool, most productive area in the state, included reworking of many wells where production had dwindled. In the Centralia area of Marion and Clinton counties there was hardly any activity. One wildcat test was abandoned and another halted.

Eleven producers were brought in in the four county area of Richland, Jasper, Wayne, and Clay counties, with combined initial flow of 6,230 barrels. Seven of the wells were in Wayne county. A wildcat in White county was being completed after swabbing 66 barrels of oil in seven hours from the shallow Pennsylvania sand at 1,505 feet.



Assembling Chrysler's Fluid Drive

Balance is an essential in the assembly of the Chrysler fluid drive unit with the crankshaft and clutch mechanism. The operator in the picture is enabled to balance the parts carefully by means of the chart in front of him, which tells him at a glance how much weight he must place on each part of the assembly.

'Fluid Drive' Use Extended by Chrysler

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

"Fluid drive" power transmission, first used on its high priced cars by the Chrysler corporation in December, 1938, will be optional equipment on the lower priced Chrysler, De Soto, and Dodge automobiles for 1941, K. T. Keller, president of the corporation, announced yesterday. This form of power transmission makes gear shifting unnecessary, and about all the motorist has to do is to steer.

Forest H. Akers, vice president and director of sales for Dodge, and L. G. Peed, vice president of De Soto, also individually announced the improvement for their respective cars.

Expected to Prove Popular.

"Two full model years of successful experience on our higher priced cars have shown us the public will welcome the extension of fluid drive to our less expensive models," Keller said.

L. G. Peed (left) and Forest H. Akers announce car improvements.

"Many thousands of motorists, driving millions of miles, have already demonstrated the practicability of fluid drive. Their experience has confirmed our original conviction that it is the most practicable method of powder transmission."

Akers said the flexibility of the new form of power coupling is such that on the Dodge it will enable the driver to do entirely without gear shifting, except under special circumstances such as when first gear is required to drive thru sand.

"Easy" on the Driver.

"While the cars in the Dodge installation remain equipped with a transmission giving three forward speeds, the fluid drive provides, in addition, an almost infinite variety of inbetween speeds which go into action automatically and therefore call for no judgment or attention on the part of the driver.

"The fluid drive enables even the inexpert driver to perform, with perfect safety, such feats as ascending a hill in high gear at speeds as low as one or two miles an hour, stopping on the hill, then starting again—without gear shifting, without in the least straining the engine."

Peed said that in the De Soto installation a "simplimatic transmission" is used in conjunction with the fluid drive. This transmission, he said, provides "advantages of quick pickup from a standing start."

"Fluid drive" has been described as a fluid coupling linking the engine at the front with the driving mechanism at the rear. The fluid drive consists of two sets of blades, or paddles, facing each other, and encased in a steel housing. The housing is almost filled with oil. When the automobile engine is running it drives one set of blades which hurls the oil against the other set coupled with the driving mechanism that turns the rear wheels.

Executive Available

Here is a genuine opportunity for a manufacturing or distributing organization to obtain the services of a seasoned executive of wide experience in management. This man has been the Executive Vice-President of one of the largest companies of its kind in the Central West. His work embraced the active supervision of all financing, and other treasury affairs; meeting labor regulations; warehouse management; general policy consultation. In short, this man can pay real dividends to a concern in need of a Treasurer and General Executive thoroughly familiar with all phases of business management.

In his industry this man has a reputation for unquestioned integrity. His record will stand the closest scrutiny. For reasons easily understandable he wishes to change his present connection of over 20 years' association with one company. Interviews invited without obligation to either party.

ADDRESS F O 167, TRIBUNE.

BUILDING IN JULY THRUOUT STATE UP 80 PER CENT

Large Rise Over June Reported, Too.

Permits were issued last month in 164 Illinois cities for building projects estimated to cost $14,949,753, Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, announced yesterday. This represents an increase of 55.2 per cent by comparison with June's total of $9,635,318, and a gain of 80.7 per cent over the July, 1939, total of $8,271,032.

Durkin said that an Evanston school building to cost $4,500,000 was largely responsible for the substantial gains. Projects for which building permits were issued in the 164 cities numbered 3,560 last month, 3,622 in June, and 2,861 in July, 1939.

43 Per Cent for New Homes.

Of last month's total valuations, 43 per cent, or $6,427,008, represented new residential buildings, 46 per cent, or $6,846,327, nonresidential structures, and the remaining 11 per cent, $1,676,418, covered alterations and repairs.

Valuations for the first seven months of 1940 totaled $67,952,170, or 39.2 per cent above the total of $48,829,326 for the corresponding 1939 interval. Durkin said the relative gains in classifications during the 7 months were maintained at the approximate July rates.

Chicago Permits Higher.

The report said permits issued in Chicago during July covered buildings to cost $4,370,269, representing gains of 35.8 per cent over June and 19.6 per cent over July, 1939. The Chicago total for the seven months was $26,246,190, or 27 per cent above the $20,671,439 for the 1939 period.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins reported that July building permits thruout the country increased 20 per cent in value over those issued in June.

Residential building valuations were 25 per cent higher than in the preceding month. There was, however, a decline of 5 per cent in indicated expenditures for additions, repairs and alterations to existing buildings.

MODINE ORDERS EXTRA PAYMENT ON ITS COMMON

Directors of the Modine Manufacturing company, maker of automobile radiators and heating and air conditioning equipment, yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents a share. Both will be distributed Sept. 20 to shareholders of record Sept. 10. The company, which maintains headquarters in Racine, Wis., distributed similar amounts in June.

The United States Graphite company, Detroit, ordered a dividend of 20 cents, payable Sept. 16 to holders of record Sept. 3, against 15 cents a share paid in June.

Dividend announcements made yesterday follow:

RFC OFFERS BIG PLANT LOANS TO BOEING, BENDIX

Seeks to Aid Making of Airplanes.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced tonight that it had offered to lend $10,500,000 to the Boeing Airplane company and $18,587,855 to the Bendix Aviation corporation to finance plant expansions.

The agency made public a letter from Emil Schram, RFC chairman, to P. G. Johnson, president of the Boeing company, saying RFC would lend the money at 4 per cent interest on first mortgages on plants to be constructed at Wichita, Kan., and Seattle, Wash.

Contingent on Big Order.

The offer was made contingent upon the company's obtaining a government contract for 500 bombardment airplanes to be manufactured in the plants.

"The RFC will require a first lien on the plants to secure the loan," Schram said. "The loan shall bear interest at 4 per cent per annum and shall be amortized by a five year period thru a schedule of payments mutually satisfactory, to be based upon the aircraft manufactured and sold to the United States government or upon payments, if any, made by the United States government to the borrower as reimbursement for the cost of the plants."

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, told Edwin R. Palmer, vice president-treasurer of Bendix, in another letter that the RFC would lend the company up to $18,587,855 at 4 per cent for plant expansion in the interest of national defense.

Statement on Financing.

"The exact manner of how the financing is to be done, whether thru the purchase and lease to your companies of such equipment and plant by the Defense Plant corporation, or by loans to your corporation or to a corporation or corporations to be organized and operated by you, is to be mutually agreed upon when you are in a position to say definitely what you will require and where the plants will be located. The law governing depreciation and amortization, which is now before congress, will have a bearing on the final arrangements.

"In the meantime, however, the funds will be available when needed."

GROUP IN HOUSE ASKS REVISION IN NEW TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Disturbed by complaints against the excess profits tax bill, the house ways and means committee today directed treasury and congressional tax experts to attempt revision of the tax formulæ. Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.] and Representative Cooper [D., Tenn.], a member, discussed the situation with President Roosevelt.

"The President still wants a bill," Doughton said afterward, "but he has not expressed favor or disfavor of any particular bill."

Members of the committee generally expressed a desire for "a bill," too, but a majority of the 25 man group was reported to be opposed to the current draft.

Because of this, John L. Sullivan, assistant treasury secretary, and Colin Stam, chief of staff of the joint congressional committee on taxation, were directed to report back to the committee Monday, if possible, with a revised method.

The chief complaint they were asked to meet was that the tax as now proposed would "fall heaviest on those least able to pay."

NORWAY FACES LEAN WINTER, STUDY SHOWS

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—With channels of needed imports already blocked off and the virtual certainty that her reserves of fat and cereals will be confiscated by Germany, Norway faces a lean winter, it was said today.

In a study of Norway's position, prepared for the American-Scandinavian Foundation, Dr. Karl Evang, director of public health in Norway said his country had made great strides before the war in broadening the range of foods it produced, but that there was a great inequality, a lack of balance.

COSTS OF MEAT WILL RISE MORE, EXPERTS CLAIM

Most Retail Prices Now Exceed Year Ago.

Meat bills for Chicago consumers during the remainder of 1940 are likely to be higher, and supplies smaller, than during the corresponding period of 1939, meat experts said yesterday. The forecast was based on the belief that slaughtering of live stock may fall short of a year ago during the next four months.

Housewives are paying more than in 1939 for all but a very few cuts of meats. Retail prices at the close of last week, as a whole, were highest of the year, with some cuts showing substantial increases over the late August markets of last year. A survey yesterday disclosed that butcher shop owners, in stocking up with meat for the week-end trade, paid from 4 per cent less to 60 per cent more for the various cuts than a year ago.

Pork Loins at New Peak.

Despite the fact that fresh cuts of pork soared to new 1940 peaks late last week, pork showed less increase, on the average, than beef or lamb. Top light loins wholesaled at $22 a hundred pounds, only 50 cents above a year ago, an increase of 2 per cent. Cheaper cuts were 4 to 11 per cent higher.

Leg of lamb continued on the bargain counters. This cut wholesaled at $18 to $21 a hundred pounds, $1 less than a year ago, a reduction of 4 to 5 per cent. This was one of the few cuts costing less than in 1939. Lamb loins, at $23 to $32, were up 4 to 28 per cent, with the biggest increase in the top loins.

Beef Relatively High.

Most cuts of beef were relatively high. Top loins of beef, at $35 a hundred pounds wholesale, were 25 per cent over last year, while the cheaper loins, at $20, showed a 60 per cent increase.

Increased cost of meats was a reflection of higher live stock prices. Packers paid an average of $8.70 a hundred pounds for the three principal classes of meat animals combined, steers, hogs, and lambs. This price showed an increase of 85 cents, or 10 per cent, in three weeks. It was 13 per cent higher than a year ago.

Meat production in the Chicago area during last week fell to the lowest volume in eleven months, barring the extremely hot weather period of three and four weeks ago.

Lamb Prices Soar.

One of the sharpest advances of the year occurred in lamb prices last week. Prices soared mostly $1 a hundred pounds in six days, with the $10.10 top at the week's close highest since July 10. Yearling wethers rose 25 to 50 cents, and old sheep advanced 25 cents. Receipts were second smallest since July, 1939.

Hog prices reached the highest levels of the year, with the week's average $6.30 a hundred pounds and the top $7.25. The various classes indicated gains for the week of 15 to 45 cents, and increases of 75 cents to $2.10 compared with two months ago. Price trends of bovine stock were uneven. Longfed steers and yearlings sold strong to 25 cents higher, but shortfeds and grassy stock ruled weak to 25 cents lower. Best heifers advanced 15 to 25 cents.

FOREIGN LOANS PUMP LIFE INTO BOND MARKET

New York, Aug. 24 (AP).—Foreign dollar loans pumped life into an irregular bond market today. While domestic corporate issues dawdled in a fractional range, overseas obligations swung up as far as 5 points.

Canadian issues, buoyant during the week as mutual defense plans with the United States flickered in headlines across the nation, held their ground.

German government obligations tended lower, along with bonds of Greece and Denmark.

United States government loans puttered along with an extreme advance of 15-32ds of a point.

Price trends in the domestic section of the market were criscrossed. Traders apparently were in no mood to force the pace.

CHICAGO FIRMS GET $4,786,648 IN WAR ORDERS

Army and navy orders received by Chicago manufacturers in the week ended Aug. 17 totaled $4,786,648, the Illinois Manufacturers association reported yesterday. The largest of the Chicago orders was one for $3,249,414 given the Diamond T Motor company for trucks. This order was for four-ton trucks to be used in hauling heavy artillery. Another order given the company totaled approximately $135,000 for 136 smaller trucks to be used for bomb service purposes, including hauling bombs to airplanes.

Gets Shell Forging Order.

The American Forge division of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company received a contract for shell forgings costing $165,500.

The navy's expansion program is expected to pour about $177,000,000 during the next four years into the Puget Sound region of Washington state, Representative Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.] said in Washington, D. C. Of this sum approximately a third will be spent in the Puget Sound navy yard, mostly for destroyers.

The rest of the money will be used to finance construction in private shipyards of combat vessels of various types.

Army Contracts Placed.

Most evidences of expanding industrial activity yesterday centered on other governmental orders for defense supplies and equipment. War department orders awarded totaled $2,104,590. Among them were the following:

Aluminum Cooking Utensil company, New Kensington, Pa., equipment for field ranges, $358,785; Kirk & Blum, Cincinnati, O., equipment for field ranges, $250,000; Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, Ill., road construction equipment, $154,126, and the National Cylinder Gas company, Chicago, shape cutting machines, $3,400.

The navy department awarded a contract to the Kraft Chemical company, Chicago, for white lead, $13,600.

FUTURES PRICES OF COMMODITIES MOSTLY HIGHER

Copper, Hides, Wool Tops, and Lead Advance.

Copper, lead, hides, and wool top futures markets attracted new buying interest last week as prices of most major staples moved higher. Exceptions to the upward trend were rubber and silk. Wool tops advanced 3½ cents a pound.

Activity in the copper market accompanied an advance of ⅛ cent a pound in the custom smelter price for the metal, with the result that the big primary producers and the smaller interests both were quoting copper at 11 cents a pound.

The buying flurry subsided by the end of the week and observers said that supplies were adequate to handle current needs. Futures prices held a net gain of 0.15 cent a pound for the week.

Lead Stocks Are Low.

Lead advanced 0.15 cent a pound to 4.90 cents. Release of July statistics revealed that there was less than a month's supply of lead on hand at the present rate of consumption and that supplies were the smallest in many months. Lead futures recorded the same gain as the cash metal, closing at 4.70 cents.

Zinc was fairly active with shipments expanding over a week ago, but the tin market showed little change from the preceding week. Tin futures closed practically unchanged.

Trading was moderately active in hide futures as prices advanced 1/5 cent a pound. New buying of print goods and placement of government contracts for woolens boosted the October wool tops to 93.2 cents a pound. Silk futures dropped 3½ cents a pound to $2.45 for September delivery.

Rubber Buying Price Announced.

Coffee, sugar, cocoa, and cottonseed oil futures, after closing at seasonal lows a week ago, rallied last week and all except sugar closed more than ⅛ cent a pound higher. Cocoa futures advanced to 4.20 cents, Santos coffee to 5.28 cents, and sugar to 1.69 cents, on the September contracts, and cottonseed oil to 5.52 cents on the October contract.

Rubber futures declined ⅛ cent a pound on the September delivery to 19.42 cents, partly as a result of the announcement of the Rubber Reserve company's buying price for next year.

Yesterday's prices:

CHEMICAL FIRM REPORTS DIP IN 6 MONTH PROFIT

Oil Company Shows Gain in Half Year.

Parke, Davis & Co., manufacturer of chemical and pharmaceutical products, yesterday reported net income of $3,869,085, equal to 79 cents a common share, for the six months ended June 30. The profit was smaller than in the corresponding period of 1939, when the company earned $4,622,618, equal to 94 cents a share.

South Penn Oil company, one of the largest producers of Pennsylvania grade crude oil, increased its earnings in the first half of this year to $1,823,312, or $1.82 a share, from $890,192, or 89 cents a share, in the corresponding period of last year. The company's largest customer is Tide Water Associated Oil company, which owns about 17 per cent of South Penn's stock.

McLellan Stores Earns Less.

McLellan Stores company announced a decline in profits for the 12 months ended July 31. Estimated net income was $905,452, equivalent to 99 cents a common share. In the preceding 12 months profit was $938,945, equal to $1.03 a share. The company is a retail store chain controled by United Stores corporation.

Basic Dolomite, Inc., producer of material used in the repair of linings of basic steel furnaces, had net income of $162,193, or 46 cents a common share, in the six months ended June 30. In the first half of 1939 profit was $65,554, or 19 cents a share.

Industrial Brownhoist corporation, Bay City, Mich., reported net income of $109,294 for the three months ended June 30, against $22,485 a year earlier. For the first half of this year profit was $160,725, against $253 in the first six months of last year.

STANDARD OIL CO. ASSAILS MEXICAN OIL VALUATION

New York, Aug. 24 [Special].—The Standard Oil company [New Jersey] today issued a statement to the effect that the so-called representative of the oil companies, who recently fixed the valuation of the expropriated foreign-owned oil companies in Mexico at $36,258,000, was chosen by the Mexican government and speaks only for that government. The company said that this appraiser was not selected by the oil companies involved, does not represent their interests, and is in no way authorized to speak for them.

"In 1929, the Mexican department of industry placed a value on Mexico's foreign-owned oil industry of 1,038,943,000 pesos, about $499,429,000 at the then rate of exchange," the statement read. "The value now placed on these properties by the Cardenas government — $36,000,000 — represents such a small fraction of the estimate made by Mexican government officials that it prompts inquiry into what the basis for such a drastic discrepancy may be."

CHURCHILL'S WAR SPENDING LEAVES BUDGET IN LURCH

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—British war expenditures have risen rapidly since the advent of the Winston Churchill government in May and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's invasion of the Low Countries.

War costs under the administration of former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain were less than 50,000,000 pounds weekly [about $200,000,000]. A month after the Churchill ministry took over, the weekly war expenditure was stepped up to 60,100,000 pounds [about $240,400,000] and in July reached 64,300,000 pounds [about $257,200,000]. The weekly average for August to date, according to treasury figures, exceeds 70,000,000 pounds weekly [about $280,000,000].

Month Old Budget Outmoded.

As a consequence of the sharp expansion in war spending Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood's budget introduced less than a month ago already is outmoded. Financial critics charge that he repeated the error of his predecessor, Sir John Simon, in underestimating war needs.

If the war expenditure continues to average around 70,000,000 pounds weekly until the end of the budget year, Wood's estimate of 3,467,000,000 pounds [about $13,868,000,000] for the entire fiscal year will be exceeded by more than 100,000,000 pounds [about $400,000,000], it is estimated.

Growing fears of inflation revived demands in financial quarters this week for another budget before the end of the fiscal year to bridge the gap between expenditures and revenues. The latest treasury statement shows Britain now has an excess of outlay over revenue of 843,617,000 pounds [about $3,374,468,000]—equivalent to a weekly deficit of 42,000,000 pounds [about $168,000,000] for the 20 weeks since March 31.

Attacks Bank of England.

The fact that the government is resorting to certain inflationary finance measures to cover its huge deficit has given rise also to demands in parliament for nationalization of banks and revision of the Bank of England charter.

Arguments stressing the "evil effects" of permitting a private concern to control Britain's finances, thus influencing both trading and production and even the foreign policy of this country, were developed in detail in the latest issue of the Weekly Review.

After pointing out the "dangers of arming banks" with selective power over commerce and production, the journal charges the Bank of England was "the chief agent in financing the Prussian war machine, thus arming Germany against us."

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S JULY NET OPERATING PROFIT TOPS YEAR AGO

The New York Central railroad system yesterday reported that its net operating income, before interest and other fixed charges and before nonoperating income, amounted to $7,758,175 in July, against $6,674,764 in the 1939 month. For the first seven months of 1940, the total was $19,047,288, compared with $11,502,190 a year earlier.

Net operating income of the Pennsylvania railroad was $6,571,361, for July, against $5,517,041 a year ago. For the seven months, the total was $40,520,735, compared with $32,328,042 in the 1939 period.

The Northern Pacific had net operating income of $744,462 for July, against $482,720 a year ago, and $5,146,540 for the seven months, compared with $2,176,131.

TREASURY BILLS.

Treasury bills are the least familiar of government securities to the small investor. Commercial banks and large taxpayers constitute practically the entire market for these bills.

The bulk of the treasury bills ordinarily is in the hands of commercial banks which require that a substantial part of their portfolios be invested in readily marketable securities. The bills afford a high degree of liquidity.

Companies and individuals with substantial bank deposits subject to personal property taxes have used treasury bills as temporary tax-exempt investments.

Because the bills are exempt from all state taxes and federal income taxes, bank deposits may be converted into treasury bills immediately before the assessment date and thus avoid tax liability. The bills bought are usually those which mature a few days after the assessment date.

The treasury has been issuing the bills since December, 1929. They were adopted as a medium of raising temporary loans for the current financial needs of the goverment. The maturity of the bills was limited to one year by the gold reserve act of 1934.

Treasury bills are sold by the United States treasury by competitive bidding and are awarded to the highest bidders on a discount basis. The bills are redeemed at maturity by the treasury or the federal reserve banks. The bills are issued in denominations of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000 and $1,000,000 of maturity value.

Weekly offerings of the bills have ranged from 50 to 150 million dollars, depending on treasury needs. The longest term for which the bills were issued was 273 days in February, 1935. In recent years the treasury has been issuing bills in weekly amounts of about 100 million dollars, maturing in about 90 days [13 weeks].

The bills are noninterest bearing. They are traded on a discount basis and have a ready market. The amount of the discount at which the bills are sold by the treasury determines the return to the investor. Thus, if the price on a 90 day bill is 99.938 the yield would amount to ¼ per cent on annual basis.

STATE ATTEMPTS TO 'SAVE' FAMILY IN IDLE BENEFITS

The state unemployment compensation division attempts to keep husbands and wives together in considering allotment of unemployment benefits, Peter T. Swanish, commissioner of placement and head of the division, said yesterday.

A woman who quits her job because she must move to another town to be with her husband may get payments, according to Swanish. The woman has good reason for giving up her job under the circumstances, Swanish said, "since it is not good public policy to require husband and wife to live apart in order that the woman may be eligible for benefits."

Housekeepers Not Eligible.

Swanish gave this example among others to answer questions raised by recent cases concerning married women and to illustrate principles followed by his division of the Illinois labor department.

Women who leave their jobs to stay at home and keep house withdraw themselves from the labor market and are therefore not available for work, he said. Consequently, they are not eligible to draw benefits.

"Care of children or care of a sick husband may sometimes make a woman unavailable when she would otherwise be ready and willing to work," Swanish said. "Cases of this kind are decided according to the facts, which determine whether or not she is actually available."

Gives Two Examples.

He described two actual cases to illustrate:

A claimant had an 8 year old child of her own. In August, 1939, she adopted a two weeks' old baby and quit her job to care for it. When she filed for unemployment compensation benefits, she said that she could not take a day position because she had to care for the child, but was available for night work.

She added that she was experienced as a labeler, packer, filler, and telephone operator and contended that jobs were open for night work in these fields.

The decision was that she was unavailable for work and therefore ineligible for benefits. It is unreasonable to assume, according to the ruling, that a person who is caring for an infant all day is able to accept employment at night.

Rejects Part Time Job.

In the other case, the woman was drawing benefits at the rate of $13 a week. Her right to receive payments was contested Oct. 18, 1939, by an employer who had offered her a short-time job from 10 o'clock in the morning to 3 o'clock in the afternoon at $7.50 a week in addition to meals. She had refused the job.

The claimant said that she could not accept a short hour job because she had to take care of her husband who was confined to bed. This job would not pay enough to enable her to employ some one to look after her husband while she worked. She added that she was ready and willing to accept a full time job, as this would permit her to hire a substitute nurse. Her contention was upheld.

LAKE GRAIN GLUT SERIOUS DESPITE REMEDIAL ACTION

Effort Made to Increase Storage Space.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 24 [Special].—The railroad embargo on grain from prairie points to lakehead elevators has been removed, and in Saskatchewan steps have been taken to increase storage space, but the glut at lake shipping points remains serious, grain men said today. They predicted elevators would remain choked for another month at least.

Under quota restrictions, Saskatchewan growers will be permitted to market 77,850,000 bushels of wheat, 19,400,000 bushels of oats, and 6,250,000 bushels of barley if they can find space for it.

Old Grain in Store.

The capacity of country elevators in Saskatchewan is 100,500,000 bushels, but they still contain 31,200,000 bushels of last year's grain, leaving space for only 69,300,000 bushels. That would not be enough to receive this year's wheat alone.

Similar conditions were said to prevail in the other prairie provinces, altho in Alberta it was indicated storage space could be temporarily adequate for initial deliveries on quotas if it could be found at the right places.

The Saskatchewan wheat pool voted $500,000 for construction of storage facilities, but details remain to be worked out, A. F. Sproule, vice president of the pool, said.

Embargo Is Removed.

Canadian railway advices to the grain trade said the embargo on grain movements from prairie points to lakehead ports had been canceled until further notice. A total of 200 cars of grain will be loaded daily by the Canadian National railway, and the Canadian Pacific will load the same amount daily.

Canada has shipped nearly 200 million bushels of wheat and flour in the last crop year despite the loss of important markets as a result of German invasions. In addition, about 70 million bushels have been sold but still are in store in the dominion.

GRAIN PRICES STEADY

Speculative interest in the grain markets on the Chicago Board of Trade was at a minimum yesterday. Wheat prices held within narrow limits and closed unchanged to ⅜ cent higher. September sold at 2½ cents a bushel under December early. Price changes in other grains were confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel.

Sales of all grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade last week averaged only about 17 million bushels daily, or about 3 million less than the average of the preceding week. A year ago the daily average was 40 million bushels.

Cash wheat is being pledged for government loans as rapidly as the grain can be placed in elevators, it is reported.

TEXAS FACTORY WILL USE CITRUS PEEL FOR PECTIN

McAllen, Tex., Aug. 24 [Special].—The Farm Security commission will open bids in Washington Monday for the construction of a metallic pectinate plant here for the newly organized Rio Grande By-Products company, to cost approximately $500,000.

The plant will extract citrus pectin from the peel of grapefruit and will combine the pectin with metals, such as nickel, to produce metallic pectinate, a bacterial control agent.

The new industry is expected to provide a major use for citrus peel, which, during recent seasons has been dumped or buried wherever possible because of a lack of manufacturing plants to handle the peel after it has come from grapefruit juice plants. At times, it has provided the valley with a major health problem.

Roomette Cars Are Added to Big Four 'Royal Palm'

New roomette and bedroom equipment similar to that used in the Twentieth Century Limited will be added to the Royal Palm, New York Central's Big Four night train between Chicago and Cincinnati, J. W. Switzer, passenger traffic manager, announced yesterday. The change will be made on the eastbound run today, and on the westbound run tomorrow.

N. Y. Central Extends Its Delivery Freight Service

The New York Central Railroad system yesterday announced an extension of its free pickup and delivery freight service in the Cincinnati, O., commercial area, effective tomorrow. Service will be extended to Bellevue, Covington, Dayton, Ludlow, Newport, and Latonia, all in Kentucky.

CHANGES IN SEC RULES TERMED AID IN FINANCING

Chicago Bankers Favor Short Waiting Period.

Changes in Securities and Exchange commission regulations which became law with President Roosevelt's signature on Friday will probably result in accelerating the flow of private capital into industry, Chicago investment bankers said yesterday. The changes give the SEC discretionary authority to shorten the 20 day waiting period between registration of securities and their issuance for sale to the public.

This long "incubation" period has been blamed for much of the interference with the normal flow of capital and for having driven many large securities issues off the public investment market and into private channels. The principal objection to the 20 day waiting period has been the possibility of changes in investment market conditions and consequent chances of loss to underwriters thru wide fluctuations in market values.

Termed Benefit to All.

"The changes in SEC procedure," said T. Weller Kimball, resident partner of Glore, Forgan & Co., "are likely to be of benefit to all concerned. Underwriters will benefit, issuing corporations will be assured that their transactions will be made without delay, and at the same time there will be no hardship on purchasers. They will still have sufficient time to learn the facts on an issue of stocks or bonds before buying."

"Investment banking regards this a constructive step," said Duncan M. Rowles, secretary of Harris, Hall & Co. "While much depends upon administration of the securities act under the new rules, we expect the SEC to be as helpful as possible in a situation which needed correction.

"It may be possible that corporations which already have extensive financial data on file with the SEC will be able to get new issues thru the routine within three or four days. We presume a longer period will be required in the case of corporations which have limited information, or none at all, in SEC files. This would apply particularly to newly organized companies."

Urges State Coöperation.

An official of Halsey, Stuart & Co. said that the coöperation of state "blue sky" administrators would be necessary to make the new SEC procedure completely successful, and expressed the hope such coöperation would be given.

The advantages, if any, of arranging a private sale of securities with insurance companies or other large institutional investors would be restricted or eliminated entirely, this banker asserted. Such private transactions have been arranged to sidestep SEC complications, since registration is not required unless securities are sold publicly.

The amendment signed by the President also placed investment trusts and investment counselors under SEC regulation.

$8 DAY ARSENAL JOBS GO BEGGING; EXPERTS WANTED

Rock Island Shortage of Skilled Men Bared.

Jobs paying more than $8 a day are going begging at the Rock Island arsenal because skilled workmen cannot be found to take them, J. V. Swanson, district manager of the federal civil service commission, said yesterday. Altho applications are coming in at the rate of 30 a day, the supply does not begin to match the demand.

During the next week 200 machinists will be needed in the munitions works. If all who applied were accepted, the number assembled would fall short of the total required. And at least one-fourth of the men who apply must be rejected, most of them because they lack the necessary experience and training, Swanson said.

Red Tape Shorn Away.

Since the national defense program was initiated civil service regulations have been amended three times in order to facilitate the search for workers. On June 7 the first of these amendments abolished the technical examinations for certain classes of machinists.

If the applicant can show that he has served an apprenticeship of four years, or has equivalent training, he may be accepted immediately, provided his physical condition is satisfactory. Processes of registering workers have been speeded up until now a properly qualified man can be sent to Rock Island on the evening of the day he applies.

Two weeks ago the maximum age limit was raised from 55 to 62 years in order to make eligible those men who were competent but unable to find places in private industry.

The latest amendment last week authorized payment of time and one-half for hours worked in excess of 40 each week. The arsenal is now on a six day week, and overtime pay amounts to an average increase of $10 a week to machinists.

Until now none of these amendments has resulted in satisfactory increases in applications, Swanson said. Private industry, also recruiting skilled mechanics, can and often does match any special inducements the government offers, he declared.

No Jobs for Unskilled.

Among unskilled and semiskilled workers the supply is more than adequate, Swanson asserted. There are now no openings for unskilled workers at the arsenal, he said, and there are plenty of applicants for jobs as machine operators, benchmen, and assemblers.

Those needed will be selected by examination sometime after next Friday when the applications will be closed. These jobs pay from $4.64 to $7.52 a day. Toolmakers, tool designers, and other highly skilled workers are paid at the rate of $7.60 to $8.72 a day.

After this week the quota of new workers to be hired will be 130 each week until 500 are obtained. Before the end of the year approximately 2,000 will be added to the present staff of 6,000. At this time last year only 3,500 men were working in the arsenal.

STILL OPPOSED TO SEIZURE OF MAIL, SAYS HULL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today that this government was still opposed to seizure and censorship of United States mails by the British at Bermuda.

He reaffirmed this position at his press conference in response to inquiries as to whether the recent resumption of trans-Atlantic plane stops by Pan American Airways at Bermuda meant that the United States had changed its attitude toward the censorship of mails carried by the Clipper planes.

Hull replied that this government's attitude had been consistent from the beginning. That attitude, he said, was one of opposition to seizure and censorship of the mails for any purpose, and continues to be the American position.

For a time after the British began seizing and censoring mail carried by the Clippers the airline ceased stopping at the Atlantic island except when bad weather required.

INDUSTRY EAGER TO AID MUSEUM, SAYS MAJ. LOHR

Exhibits to Tell Modern Progress Sought.

Plans of Maj. Lenox R. Lohr to develop the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park into a more animate and modern institution have been advanced by offers of coöperation from several large industries, he revealed yesterday.

Maj. Lohr, newly elected president of the museum, is working on a vast transformation program which, he hopes, will make the museum a living encyclopedia that tells a continuous story of the progress of science and industry. This will mean new exhibits and the revitalizing of old ones where possible.

Reports Gratifying Response.

During the lest week Maj. Lohr has met with executives of a dozen representative industries seeking to induce them to sponsor, financially and otherwise, exhibits depicting their particular fields. The response was gratifying, he said.

"Thru the coöperation of industry, various phases of scientific research can be traced in logical sequence, telling the complete story in attractive form," Maj. Lohr said.

Major exhibits he is seeking deal with radio, railroads, and the telephone. Each must be complete and tell its story without gaps from beginning to end. The radio exhibit, for instance, would start with the discovery of electric waves by Hertz and Maxwell, continue thru the invention of wireless by Marconi and conclude with modern radio, showing voice communication and photograph transmission.

Maj. Lohr also reported encouraging progress on a new department—a children's scientific playroom. Adults will be barred. Actual scientific apparatus and industrial mechanism will be installed for youngsters to operate. There will be railroad switches which will move semaphores. There will be street car control boxes to operate miniature street cars.

Also, according to plans discussed during the week, outdoor exhibits may be provided, including actual bomber airplanes, air raid shelters, and locomotives, Maj. Lohr said.

NIPKOW, PIONEER OF TELEVISION, IS DEAD IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP).—Paul Gottlieb Nipkow, a pioneer of television and credited with inventing a technique for that science, died of a heart attack today, two days after observing his 80th birthday.

In 1884 Dr. Nipkow patented his invention as "the electrical telescope," but his patent lapsed when he was unable to pay costs of extending it. For the next 32 years he worked as an engineer for a railway signal company.

Former Judge Bernetha of Rochester Dies at 73

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 24 [Special].—Harry Bernetha, 73 years old, prominent attorney and former Circuit judge of Fulton and Marshall counties, died last night. He was born near Logansport and taught school when a young man. Later he came to Rochester, studied law and was elected prosecutor and later judge. Two daughters, Mrs. Madge Allison and Mrs. Mildred Myer, survive.

DIES AT WHEEL OF CAR.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 24 [Special].—William Kauffman, 57 years old, veteran of the world war, died of heart disease in Stockton today while driving his car from a physician's office to his home. When Kauffman collapsed the car ran over a curb and crashed into a house.

OBITUARIES

Patrick F. McCarthy.

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 24 [Special].—Funeral services will be held Monday for Patrick F. McCarthy, 68 years old, chairman of the board of the McCarthy Improvement company, who died yesterday. He was in the construction business for more than 40 years. His company built the right of way and laid the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, New York Central, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, and Southern railroads. At the present time, the firm is building the Santee Cooper dam, near Charleston, S. C. Mr. McCarthy was connected with the Geneva Construction company, Aurora, Ill., the Purington Brick company, Galesburg, and formerly was a partner in the Dunn-McCarthy company, Chicago. At one time he was owner of the Cleveland baseball club. His survivors are his widow, four sons, and five daughters, including Sister Mary Virginia, a member of the staff of the Immaculate High school, Chicago.

The Rev. Thomas J. Hogan.

The Rev. Thomas J. Hogan, pastor and founder of St. Juliana's Catholic church at 7400 Touhy avenue, died yesterday. Death was believed to have resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage suffered on Thursday. The priest was 51 years old. He was the brother of Misses Anna and Adelaide Hogan. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will preside at the funeral services, to be held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday in St. Juliana's church.

Louis Zalabak.

Services for Louis Zalabak, a resident of Chicago for 74 years, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 6227 Cermak road to St. Ludmilla's church, 24th street and Albany avenue. Burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery. Mr. Zalabak died in County hospital Thursday. He was 75 years old, and lived at 2613 Cullerton street. Surviving are his widow, Mary, three sisters, two sons, and five grandchildren.

Whitfield G. Davis.

Funeral services for Whitfield G. Davis, retired Oak Park and Austin coal dealer, will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Mr. Davis, who was 81 years old, died on Friday after a long illness. His home was at 202 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park. He was the husband of Mrs. Mary Reese Davis and the brother of Mrs. Ralph Spencer and Mrs. Edward F. Honkamp.

Mrs. Mary Vaux Walcott.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 24 [Special].—Mrs. Mary Vaux Walcott, member of a prominent old Philadelphia family, and widow of Dr. Charles D. Walcott, former secretary of the Smithsonian institution, died Thursday in Nova Scotia. She was 80 years old. In earlier years she was widely known as a mountain climber. President Coolidge appointed her to the board of Indian commissioners to succeed her brother, George Vaux, after his death in 1927. She was reappointed by President Hoover.

Mrs. Emma Forby.

Mrs. Emma Forby, wife of Judge Theodore Forby of the Zion city court, died Friday night in Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan. Mrs. Forby was 73 years old. She was a leader in church and charitable work in her community. Since 1904 she had been a resident of Zion, living at 2219 Elizabeth avenue. Surviving with her husband are three sons and two daughters: Winthrop C., Walter T., and John Harold Forby, Mrs. Winifred F. Peterson and Mrs. Beth Pfeiffer.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
Perhaps it's time to be thinking about a fireplace and what books you'll read this winter, and the theaters and concerts you wish to attend, and still have a full night's sleep. All this is quite easy if you live in the Cook Estate properties. There are studio apts. with 2 story living rooms, large roomy apts., smaller ones [a few furnished], all just north of the river where it's just a nice walk to your office. It's an interesting place to live down here and we on our part try to make things attractive and comfortable.

Day by Day on the Farm

By Bob Becker

Rural Escalator

August 24, 1940.

ANY farmer will tell you that he is apt to pick up strange and and interesting objects while using a mechanical hay loader. After the hay has been cut and allowed to cure these big machines, pulled by tractor, truck, or horses, are hauled thru the fields to pick up the hay mechanically and elevate it to the racks.

The men on the Du Page county farm commonly pick up harmless garter snakes which may be in the path of the loader. Toads and frogs also have had the rather unusual sensation of finding themselves unwilling riders on this farm "escalator." But the most unusual passenger the hay loader has ever carried was a snapping turtle which was picked up in a clover field the other day and dumped into the hayrack.

This adventuresome snapper was nine inches across the shell [just about the right size for turtle soup], so one of the farm workers delivered Mr. Turtle to his wife's care and later enjoyed a delicious preliminary to his evening meal.

Farmers Welcome Rain.

The numerous rains which fell on many farms areas in Chicagoland during the last two weeks have been welcomed by farmers. The manager of the Du Page county farm was saying the other day that the rains, which followed a long summer drouth, have been a great help to the corn crop. But at the same time the rains have moistened fields to such an extent that it has been difficult to complete jobs usually undertaken at this time of the year. The men have been wanting to do some fall plowing, but the ground is not yet in proper condition. The rainy weather also delayed the final baling of straw left in the oat fields.

Being kept out of the fields didn't stop the farm work program, however. The men spent most of the week in a cleanup campaign.

Fence gates were painted, the barnyard got a general overhauling, several private roads inside the farm received attention, and by coincidence the township road supervisor had men grading the public road which surrounds the farm.

Another odd job completed this week was that of repairing the large trap used on the farm ponds for trapping wild ducks. The farm holds a federal bird-banding permit which allows the trapping of migratory song birds and waterfowl. Song birds have been trapped, banded, and released since August, 1938. Wild ducks were trapped during the fall migration of '38, but the big trap has not been in operation since then. Consequently, it required some repairs. It will be placed on one of the farm ponds soon to attract the first migrating teal.

Sunflowers Not So Tall.

The farm gardener is making no claims to record breaking sunflower plants this season. Last year and during the summer of 1938 the farm workers challenged all the surrounding farms to a contest to find the tallest sunflower stalks. In those seasons the men found sunflowers measuring over 15 feet tall. When we chatted with the gardener the other day he said he doubted that any of his current sunflowers would measure more than 12 feet. The long drouth had a bad effect on these plants.

Each year the farm raises sunflowers for bird feed. When the huge flower heads mature the seeds are threshed and stored. The seeds are used primarily for pheasant feed in the shelters built during the winter months in the farm woodlots.

FRANKLIN 2400.

IN 1932 Mr S. lost his job, his home was foreclosed, 10 years taxes piled up, and—because when it rains it pours—the property was tied up for 2 years in a bankruptcy proceeding.
After 6 months wrangling we got Mr. S. back in title and by means of a 15 year first and a 5 year second mortgage. Everything is rosy again for Mr. S.
We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartments, store and factory buildings. Also place FHA loans up to 90% of value. We advance funds to settle back taxes, liens, to redeem property, and to close estates.
If even our top loan won't do we will negotiate with the mortgagee or bondholder's committee to cut down overly large debts to present day levels. Low rates.

"As soon as I saw it, I knew what I wanted!"

Donald R. Dunn, 5325 Lakewood Ave., tells how he found the car he wanted thru Tribune want ads

Clif Stowers, the manager, Donald Dunn, the buyer, and Miss Helen Andrey.

"I AM a salesman for the Bunn Packaging Machinery Co., 7604 Yale Ave. My territory is the Middle West and I use a car in covering it.

"I'm unmarried, and live at home with my mother when I'm in town. I like to have a nice car to take her out week-ends—also my girl friends.

"The car I was driving was a 1934. I drove it 52,000 miles and it was used when I got it. I needed something with a little more snap.

"So I read the Tribune, watching the used car want ad columns. Recently I saw an ad for a 1939 Meroury Convertible Coupe. I thought it would be too much money, but decided to look at it anyway.

"I called at the Glenn E. Holmes Co., 30 W. Lake St., and Clif Stowers, the manager, showed me the car. It had gone only 13,000 miles and was clean as a whistle. It was a honey and as soon as I saw it I knew what I wanted.

"Stowers looked at my old car and made me an offer of a $600 cash difference. I'm very pleased with the Mercury. It's the finest car I ever had!"

"MAJOR PART OF OUR BUDGET SPENT IN TRIBUNE WANT ADS"

"Having lived with the problem of merchandising used cars during thirty-seven years as a Ford dealer, we naturally have tried every known method of advertising them to prospective purchasers.

"In an operation as large as ours, where so many used cars must be disposed of each year, the advertising cost per car becomes a most important item.

"Due to the excellent results the Chicago Tribune has obtained for us, the major part of our budget is now spent in your columns, and our cost per car sold by this means has been thoroughly satisfactory.

"We heartily recommend your classified columns to anyone having used cars for sale."

Very truly yours,

County Board Votes to Complete 5 Year Paving Program in 1945

The Cook county board last week voted to complete in 1945 a five year road paving program with its many amendments since originally adopted on April 7, 1937. As modified from time to time, the program as of July 1, 1940, was 50 per cent finished, with 72 projects still to be built at an estimated cost of $11,885,000.

In 1940 and 1941, the board decided upon the following construction:

CENTRAL-RD.—Milwaukee-av. to Harlem-av., 2.3 miles, $140,000.

COOK-DU PAGE-RD.—17th-st. to Ogden-av., .8 of at mile, $40,000; underpass at Burlington railroad, $150,000.

COTTAGE GROVE-AV.—Bridge over south branch of Thornton creek, $20,000.

DES PLAINES-AV.—16th-st. to 26th-st., 1 mile of widening, $55,000.

87TH-ST.—Damen-av. to Western-av., .5 of a mile widening, $25,000.

EUCLID-LAKE-AV.—Elmhurst-rd. to Des Plaines river, 2.3 miles, $120,000.

FLOSSMOOR-RD. — Repair bridges near Ridgeland, $10,000.

Ford Road Project.

FORD-RD.—111th-st. to 123d-st., 2.7 miles, $270,000.

47TH-ST.—Cicero-av. to Kenneth-st., .3 of a mile and grade separation with Belt railroad, $325,000.

GLENWOOD-LANSING-RD.—Culverts, $25,000.

GREENWOOD-AV.—Subway under North Western railroad near Touhy-av., $250,000.

I.-M. CANAL HY.—Grading and structures, Cicero-av. to Kedzie-av., 2.8 miles, $400,000.

IRVING PARK-BLVD.—Drainage facilities at Soo Line, $20,000.

KIRCHOFF-RD.—Bridge over Salt creek, $30,000.

LAWNDALE-AV. — Grade separation at Santa Fe railroad, $150,000; widen bridge over Sanitary canal, $75,000.

Pave Lincoln Avenue.

LINCOLN-AV.—Diversey-blvd. to Clark-st., 1.7 miles, $300,000.

MADISON-ST.—Repair Des Plaines river bridge, $10,000.

OAKTON-ST.—Rebuild North Shore channel bridge, $75,000.

123D-ST.—Widen viaduct over Wabash railroad, $50,000.

PRATT-AV.—McCormick-rd. to Western-av., 1 mile, $100,000; bridge North Shore channel, $75,000.

PULASKI-RD.—Widen bridge over north branch of Chicago river, $200,000; widen viaduct over Belt railroad at 73d-st.

RIDGE-RD.—Dixie-hwy. to Ashland-av., .5 of a mile widening, $30,000.

76TH-ST.—Colfax-av. to South Shore-dr., .3 of a mile, $40,000.

THATCHER-AV.—Division-st. to North-av., .5 of a mile of widening, $80,000.

$330,000 Underpass.

TOWER-RD.—Viaduct over North Western railroad and North Shore electric in Winnetka, $80,000.

WILLOW-RD.—Shermer-rd. to Waukegan-rd., 1.6 miles, $100,000; Waukegan-rd. to Hibbard-rd., 2.6 miles, $150,000; viaduct over Milwaukee railroad near Lehigh, $225,000; subway under North Western railroad near Shermer, $100,000.

Projects listed for 1942 follow:

GREENWOOD-AV.—Touhy-av. to Rand-rd., .7 of a mile, $35,000.

KEDZIE-AV.—Viaduct over Belt railroad at 127th-st., $175,000; subway under Rock Island railroad in Robbins, $80,000.

LAWNDALE-AV.—1st-av. connection, .5 of a mile, $80,000.

STATE-ST. [extension]—127th-st. to 130th-st. and subway under Illinois Central railroad, $350,000.

One Job for 1943.

A lone project from this five year program is listed for 1943, a bridge in 130th street over the Calumet river and nearby railroads estimated to cost $500,000.

The 1944 jobs are as follows:

130TH-ST.—Indiana-av. to Torrence-av., 3 miles, $150,000.

25TH-AV.—Subway under Illinois Central railroad, $70,000; bridge over Addison creek, $10,000; bridge over Salt creek, $20,000; subway under Burlington railroad, $80,000.

WESTERN-AV.—Rebuild at North Western railroad and Logan-blvd., $750,000.

The old 1937 five year program with its many amendments would be finished in 1945 with the following jobs:

GEORGE BRENNAN-HWY.—147th-st. to Ashland-av., 1.2 miles, $120,000; viaducts over Belt and Grand Trunk railroads, $300,000.

Indiana Avenue Bridge.

INDIANA-AV.—Bridge over Little Calumet river, $400,000.

31ST-ST.—Cicero-av. to Kostner-av., .5 of a mile, $50,000; subway under Belt railroad east of Cicero-av., $250,000.

28TH-AV.—26th-st. to Roosevelt-rd., 1.5 miles, $80,000.

28TH-ST.—Union-av. at Canal-st., .3 of a mile, $30,000.

UNION-AV.—28th-st. to 55th-st., 3.3 miles, $330,000.

This would complete the five year program. The county board also voted last week that from 1941 to 1945 the county would spend $82,600,000 for 172.8 miles of superhighways all outside Chicago and would build 49 railroad grade separations to cost $18,010,000.

The construction of superhighways in the country, before they are built in the city, is so contrary to safety and travel requirements that this part of the program is likely to be deferred. The board said it would proceed to construct the rural supers unless the city and state agree to a joint enterprise in building the urban routes. Efforts are being made to bring about such an agreement before Jan. 1, 1941.

The city and the country routes are alike functionally. Both would provide express motorways free of cross traffic, pedestrians, parking, and access from abutting property. In the city, designs proposed would depress or elevate the express slabs. In the country, the pavement would be at grade on a 300 foot right of way with grade separations for all cross roads and with separate pavements to serve the property abutting this right of way.

NEWS AND VIEWS

"Pontiac will be the largest builder of torpedo body automobiles in the world during 1941," declares H. J. Klingler, president and general manager of the Pontiac division of General Motors. "Pontiac made such a hit in 1940 with the Torpedo eight model cars that in 1941 we are going to concentrate on torpedoes. There will be an entire Pontiac torpedo fleet, nothing but torpedoes."

Klingler said the division made 217,000 cars during the 1940 model year and expects to do 40 per cent better in the 1941 model season.

Assisting in the National Guard maneuvers in the northwest has been a motor headquarters set up by Chevrolet in Little Falls, Minn., thru one of its dealers, the Bert Baston Motor company of Minneapolis. Three representatives of the Baston company have been on duty to repair and service the 1,180 pieces of Chevrolet transport taking part in the maneuvers.

Nearly 500 Studebaker dealers' service managers, service salesmen, and shop foremen from all over the country are expected to attend a five day special service school at South Bend, Ind., Sept. 3 thru Sept. 7. They will be made familiar with the new models.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

AGAINST SECRETARY OF STATE HUGHES.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—I would like to ask the secretary of state of Illinois thru this column what happens to the application of persons applying for driver licenses that it takes two weeks or longer to get an answer. Or, is it just a regular Democratic way of doing business. Thank goodness the people of Illinois with their vote in November will change once and for all this way of doing business.

TRAVEL SEASON TO REACH PEAK NEXT WEEK-END

BY HAL FOUST.

With favorable weather the highways will hum next week-end. This summer recreational motor travel has reached unprecedented volumes, as if the public were fleeing the stress of national and world news. And Labor day, according to precedent, is the peak of the summer travel season.

The Monday holiday will give a two and a half or a three day vacation to a large portion of Chicago's automobile owners. An excursion into the country has been increasing its lead as the most popular holiday activity for urban dwellers. Into Chicago will come another major traffic movement, villagers, farmers, and residents of small cities coming here to see friends, relatives, or the sights of a big city.

Varied Suggestions.

For those who contemplate burning gasoline for pleasure next week-end, Bert Vanderwarf, head of the Chicago Motor club touring bureau, yesterday suggested the following trips [mileages are round trip distances]:

CIRCLE LAKE, MICHIGAN—[917 miles, three days]—North from Chicago, following U. S. 41 or U. S. 45, a driver by getting an early start can reach the upper peninsula of Michigan before dark, passing thru woods, crossing streams, and viewing a sandy shore of the big lake. Ferry across the straits costs $1 to $1.50 for the car plus 25 cents a person. On the lower peninsula there's a choice of an inland route that traverses woods of dense second growth, surrounding small lakes, or a water front route that passes thru the Riviera that is the east shore of Lake Michigan.

SPRINGFIELD AND NAUVOO—[681 miles]—Leaving Chicago, a stop to stretch the legs at Starved Rock state park is tempting. There are attractive foot trails thru the canyons and over the limestone bluffs of this park beside the Illinois river. At the capital is the Lincoln tomb and the Lincoln homestead. New Salem state park, near Springfield, is a reconstructed town of Lincoln's youth. Nauvoo, a Mississippi river town, retains the atmosphere of the 1846 Mormon settlement there.

Trip to Door Peninsula.

DOOR COUNTY—[603 miles]—This a peninsula, the rugged, wooded finger of land between Green Bay and Lake Michigan. Fishing villages at small coves invite visitors. It is far enough from Chicago to escape the week-end tides from the city.

BERKSHIRES OF WISCONSIN — [513 miles]—Use Ill. 64, North avenue, to Savanna on the Mississippi, thence north thru Palisades state park. The return trip by way of Madison passes thru Spring Green, the retreat amid wooded hills of Frank Lloyd Wright.

BROWN COUNTY—[487 miles]—An Indiana state park of 2,800 acres adjoins a 11,000 acre game preserve. The hills and woods have found favor of artists who reside at Nashville, the seat of the county. McCormick creek state park nearby is also a pleasant piece of outdoors.

DELLS OF WISCONSIN—[400 miles]—The Wisconsin river, pressed by glacial flooded, carved rock formations topped with evergreen and deciduous woods. In this background a large resort business has developed.

Map Gives Information.

The map printed on this page furnishes additional route information about these trips. Additional information can be obtained thru The Tribune's public service, or thru your motor club.

Here's one tip in planning your trip: If it can be done make hotel reservations in advance of departure. Without reservations ahead of you, don't drive late at night. Touring has become so popular that it's frequently difficult to find a room for the night.

GARBAGE CANS INCREASE; RATS FEEL THE PINCH

City Aims to Starve Out the Pests.

Eleven months ago there were 96,129 buildings in the city that were provided with garbage cans. The rats loved it. Today there are only 36,629 without refuse cans, and the rats are beginning to feel the pinch of hunger.

This drastic reduction in the short space of 11 months has been a result of the city's vigorous campaign to provide refuse receptacles for all of the 385,659 dwellings in Chicago. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and 50 ward superintendents have been the leaders in the fight to starve out the rats.

Last September the city embarked on the campaign to provide garbage cans for every building as a public health measure, and urged that householders refrain from throwing refuse in alleys and vacant lots. This had been such a frequent practice that virtual feeding lots for rats had grown up everywhere, and the rat population grew to an estimated 5,000,000.

Up to Superintendents.

The main responsibility for the success of the battle was placed in the hands of the 50 ward street superintendents. In the beginning, not a single ward in the city had 100 per cent of its buildings supplied. However, thru the effort of the ward superintendents and the coöperation of various clubs and improvement organizations, thousands of new garbage cans have been placed and there are now nine wards which are batting 100 per cent. They have garbage cans provided for every building where the city collects garbage.

According to the law, each householder must provide his building with refuse receptacles. But the drive to inforce this was made more of an appeal to civic pride than a threat. As a result, the response from the people has been much greater than could have been expected.

Nine Wards Win Praise.

The nine wards that drew the praise of Commissioner Hewitt are the 5th, 8th, 32d, 33d, 34th, 39th, 48th, 49th, and 50th. These had every building supplied with garbage cans.

Other wards that were creditably mentioned were the 2d, 15th, 17th, 18th, and 41st, which had obtained cans for 12,531 buildings during the campaign, or an average of 2,506 per ward. Only three wards have receptacles for less than 70 per cent of the buildings, the 2d, 13th, and 25th.

In spite of the satisfactory results already obtained, the city is determined that every residential building in Chicago will eventually be provided with refuse receptacles that will make garbage collection easier and more effective and that an end will be put to the carelessness that results in offering disease carrying rats "three squares" a day.

To hurry the extermination of the pests the city council finance committee has set aside $3,000 to purchase rat poison that will be distributed thruout the 50 wards.

On the North Side.

The record of the north side wards and the names of their superintendents is as follows:

1st ward—Thomas F. McGrath; 2,034 buildings served; 583 without cans—70.8 per cent.

42d ward—Frank Monahan; 7,267 buildings served; 226 without cans—96.7 per cent.

43d ward—Harry P. Bauler; 5,788 buildings served; 81 without cans—98.3 per cent.

44th ward—Gerald Walsh; 6,065 buildings served; 7 without cans—99.9 per cent.

45th ward—John J. Butler, 9,042 buildings served; 32 without cans—99.4 per cent.

46th ward—James A. Prendergast; 3,636 buildings served, 5 without cans—99.6 per cent.

47th ward—Sidney Olson; 6,350 buildings served; 49 without cans—98.7 per cent.

48th ward—Thomas Kennedy Jr.; 3,218 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

49th ward—Arthur M. Kirk; 5,095 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

50th ward—Joseph F. Myers; 7,164 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

PARK DISTRICT HI-LI CONTEST GROWS KEENER

Competition in the park district's hi-li contests for boys and girls under 15 years old is getting keener as the date for the grand championship playoff nears. Grand winner will receive an all-expense trip to the New York World's Fair, accompanied by one parent.

Contests are held at 4 o'clock every Friday afternoon in almost all the 136 city parks. Weekly winners receive hi-li sets. On Friday, Sept. 6, a local boy and local girl champion will be chosen.

Winners will be qualified to take part in the three district competitions to be held at Ogden, Garfield, and Independence parks on Saturday, Sept. 14. The girl and boy champion of each district will be awarded a bicycle. The final contest will be on Sept. 21.

Young People on North Shore Make Film of "Oliver Twist"

These are scenes from the amateur movie, "Oliver Twist," produced and directed by David Bradley of Winnetka, who also appears in the picture as Fagin, head of a gang of thieves, and Bumble, a parish beadle. The premiere will be held on Sept. 9 in the Winnetka Community house. In the early scenes, Oliver is apprenticed to the Sowerberry's who treat him cruelly. Mrs. Sowerberry (Mrs. Anita Burnham) encourages her maid, Charlotte (Sarah Merrill), to choke Oliver (Howard Stafford). In Fagin's den, Fagin and Bill Sikes (Jack Lusinger), another thief, plan a robbery in which they will use Oliver.

Comedy relief is provided by Mrs. Corney (Betty Hanisee), matron of a workhouse, and Mr. Bumble (David Bradley). With a cat in her lap, Mrs. Corney rocks impatiently as she waits for her boy friend. After he arrives, they enjoy a sarcastic tete-a-tete across the tea table and eventually she coyly gives in and agrees to marry him. Bumble plans to run the family, but he soon finds out he has taken on more than an even match for himself in craftiness and cruelty.

Charlotte, who has stolen Mrs. Sowerberry's money and run away to London, comes to the Three Cripples tavern, the meeting place of London's cirminals. Fagin scares Charlotte and later blackmails her into his gang. After Fagin is taken to prison, Oliver and his benefactor, Mr. Brownlow (Eliot Edson Overdorf), come to see Fagin and try to obtain evidence of Oliver's true identity. In the closing scenes, Rose Maylie (Ann Northrop) and Oliver, who discover they are brother and sister, are united and together they visit the church where their mother, Ann Fleming, is buried.

A Young Man of 20 Turns Film Producer

BY JUANITA DALY.

Winnetka has its own motion picture producer in 20 year old David Bradley. He picks his actors from among his friends; his settings from his own home or those of neighbors. Some day he hopes to be working in Hollywood, but in the meantime, he's not wasting his time on dreams. He is producing movies on a smaller scale.

The première of David's fifirst feature length picture, "Oliver Twist," is scheduled for Monday evening, Sept. 9, at the Winnetka Community house. More than 400 persons are expected to watch a cast of 23 familiar faces in the rôles of Charles Dickens' famous characters.

After the performance, members of the cast will describe their summer of work, relate amusing incidents which took place during the filming, and point out the north shore locales which were converted into English sets. Eliot Edson Overdorf, a professor at Lake Forest academy who has been assisting the group, will preside as master of ceremonies. There will be a dance for the cast after the show.

Makes Larger Picture.

After five years of experience taking three reel pictures, David decided to make a longer one. But he did not plan to compete in length with "Gone with the Wind." "Oliver Twist" will run at least an hour and 45 minutes.

"Our estimates on the story were not accurate," David explained, "and in order to keep the picture from being flickery, we took longer shots of each scene. A new governor we put on the camera also makes the film run more smoothly."

David selected the story to suit his hero, Howard Stafford, a sophomore at Lake Forest academy. He had seen the boy around school, noticed his expressive face and decided he would make a perfect Oliver.

At Work Since June 27.

The cast has been working steadily since June 27. Whenever someone had only a limited amount of time, his scenes were shot as quickly as possible. Otherwise the script was followed in chronological order.

"We write our own scenarios," David went on, "but preserve the author's style in the dialog. We try to follow the plot closely. Once in a while, as in 'Emperor Jones,' we had to change the ending because we couldn't get the alligators as in the original finale."

The young actors practice a scene several times, learning the words in order to make their acting more effective, said Muriel Collins, 16 year old assistant director and properties manager. Pantomime is emphasized. There is no sound with "Oliver Twist" except for the music score arranged by David and Russell Locke of Winnetka.

"Our voices are immature and do not sound effective," explained the director, "and when we concentrate on our voices, we forget our acting. Silent movies are more of a novelty, too."

"I would say our shows compare with the 1929 or 1930 Hollywood movies in technique," he continued. "In taking the pictures, we use the old method of fading in, taking a close-up shot, then moving back for the full shot."

One of Best Actors.

David is also one of the group's best actors and while he is on the set, Dick Roth shoots the pictures. Dick makes all the still photographs, too. Jack Sheppard assisted in writing the scenario.

Muriel estimates that there are 54 different scenes in "Oliver Twist." Seven of them were specially constructed. Many of the scenes were laid in Mrs. Anita Willits Burnham's cabin on Tower road. The audience also may recognize in the background the Indian Hills Country club, Mrs. Erskine Wilder's, and Mrs. P. W. Wells' homes in Winnetka, the Bradley's basement at 808 Willow road, San Pedro's restaurant in No Man's Land and The Chimneys on Green Bay road.

David portrays Fagin and Bumble and other leading rôles are played by Jack Lusinger as Bill Sikes, Barbara Barton as Nancy Sikes, Mr. Overdorf as Brownlow, Robert Hopkins as Monks, Ann Northrop as Rose Maylie, Katherine Bradley as Mrs. Maylie and Betty Hanisee as Mrs. Corney. Jack and Robert have been appearing with the Lake Zurich players this summer and some of the others have had high school or theater group training.

Others in Movie.

Others in the movie are Henry Johnson, Sarah Merrill, Stacy Mosser, Rene Kidd, Richard Roth, Russell Locke, Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. Louis Northrop and Alice Badgerow. A bulldog was borrowed from the Orphans of the Storm to portray Bull's Eye, Sikes' dog. Jean Trevelier assisted with the costumes, many of which were borrowed from the Todd school in Woodstock, and Bill Benoist took some of the pictures.

David was graduated from Lake Forest academy last June and will attend the Goodman theater school of acting this fall. Next summer he hopes to make a movie something like the "Ghost Breakers." His other productions include "Marley's Ghost," "The Mysterious Mr. X" and "Preps in Action."

Plan Outing.

The South Evanston Woman's club is planning an all day outing today at the home of Mrs. Harry P. Scott, a former member, at Lake Maxinkuckee near Culver, Ind. Mrs. H. J. Robins, social chairman, is making arrangements.

90 DAY COURSE WILL BOLSTER RESERVE RANKS

Cruise on Battleship Is Prerequisite.

A new Naval Reserve midshipman's school, operating under the navy defense program, will be opened on Northwestern university's Chicago campus on Sept. 16. The new school will turn out 1,200 commissioned naval reserve ensigns during the year.

As a part of the government's new defense plan the navy is to train 5,000 naval reserve midshipmen this year. Upon completing their training they will either enter active naval duty, or will be held in reserve in case of any national emergency.

An agreement was effected between the naval department and Northwestern university for use of the school facilities during the year. Several floors of Abbott hall, the university's new 18 story dormitory at Superior street and Lake Shore drive, will house the midshipmen. Classes will be conducted by 30 naval officers in Wieboldt hall. Drills and practical instruction will be held in the Naval Reserve armory at Randolph street and the lake, and aboard ships detailed to the 9th naval district.

Two Years Study Required.

To qualify for admittance to the naval course, two years of college training are necessary. The candidates also take a month's cruise in a battleship on the Atlantic, and those who complete it satisfactorily are recommended by the commanding officer for the training course.

Instruction will consist of a 90-day intensive training course. Three classes of midshipmen numbering 400 each will be held during the year, and at the end of the instruction period the men will receive commissions as naval reserve ensigns. All expenses including transportation, meals, lodging, and books will be paid by the government, and the midshipmen will receive pay during the three months at the rate of $65 per month.

For the first 90-day course, beginning Sept. 16, 161 men have been chosen from those who took the first cruise in the U. S. S. Wyoming during August. The remaining 259 will be picked from members of the second cruise ending Sept. 14. There will be three more cruises starting Sept. 30, Oct. 28, and Nov. 25.

Concentrated in 90 Days.

The midshipman school will be somewhat similar to the course of instruction offered in the university's naval R. O. T. C. unit, but will be concentrated into 90 days. Seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, and navigation will be the main courses offered. The midshipmen also will be given instruction in naval tactics, administration, discipline, and leadership.

Already 300 men are being trained under a similar program in New York City on board the U. S. S. Illinois, and 500 will be trained at the United States Naval academy in 1941. Tulane university in New Orleans and the University of California in Berkeley will also coöperate in the training program.

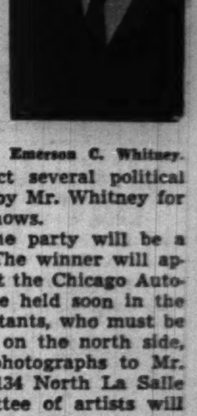
Captain B. B. Wygant, United States Navy retired, has been recalled to command the school, and will be aided by two members of the university's naval R. O. T. C., who have been detached from the service for that purpose.

Instructors Selected.

Commander Graeme Bannerman, of Northwestern's naval unit, is one of the men who will take up work in the new midshipman school. Commander Bannerman came to Northwestern on May 6, 1940, from a post as commanding officer of the Canopos, a submarine tender in the Asiatic fleet. The other officer is Lieut. Commander J. D. Shaw, also of the naval R. O. T. C. faculty.

HAMILTON UNIT BILLS PARTY AS THIRD TERM JINX

A "Friday the 13th Jinx Party" will be given in tribute of Wendell L. Willkie, public jinx No. 1 to the third term, on Friday, Sept. 13, in the Via Lago ballroom, 831 Wilson avenue, under the auspices of the North Shore Hamilton league. Emerson C. Whitney [48th], Republican ward committeeman, is chairman of arrangements.



Emerson C. Whitney.

Mr. and Mrs. Willkie have been invited to attend. A group of young persons will enact several political parodies written by Mr. Whitney for Bar association shows.

A feature of the party will be a beauty contest. The winner will appear as a model at the Chicago Automobile show to be held soon in the Coliseum. Contestants, who must be single and reside on the north side, may send their photographs to Mr. Whitney's office, 134 North La Salle street. A committee of artists will select the winners at the party.

FRIENDS GREET COUPLE ON THEIR GOLDEN JUBILEE

More than 25 friends and relatives visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Touhy, 3311 Seminary avenue, on their golden wedding anniversary recently. Mrs. Edward Aichele, a granddaughter was hostess for the party. The Touhys were married in Chicago and have resided here ever since. Mr. Touhy is 72 years old and his wife is a year younger. They have two daughters, Mrs. William Clow, 7016 Sheridan road, and Mrs. Gertrude Dougherty, 4621 North Ashland avenue, and two other granddaughters, Joyce and Millicent Clow.

Catholic Trade Unionists to Have Labor Day Mass

The second annual Labor Day mass, sponsored by the Cathedral Chicago chapter of the Association of Catholic Trade Unionists, will be celebrated at Holy Name cathedral, 745 North State street, at 10 a. m. on the holiday. The mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Bernard E. Burns, spiritual director of the Cathedral-Chicago chapter, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. William Boyd, chairman of the education committee.

OUR TOWN

AMONG recent celebrants of 50th wedding anniversaries were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Engelhardt, 2707 North Wilton avenue. Their son and daughters, Mrs. Mark Fox, Walter Engelhardt, and Mrs. Andrew Reifsteck, and many friends joined in an open house celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Wagner, 4931 Magnolia avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary a short time ago. The couple have had the same residence for 35 years, and are the parents of seven children. At the time of their celebration their son, Henry H., celebrated his second wedding anniversary.

More than 50 people gathered at the Belmont hotel last week to honor Mrs. Emily Edelmann, 655 Buckingham place, on her 85th birthday. Mrs. Edelmann was greeted by three generations of her family, three children, 11 grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren. Mrs. Edelmann, who came here in 1891 from Germany, was famous for her candy store in the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, called the "Haymarket Confectionery." She has been a resident of the north side since 1892.

REMINISCENT of days gone by is the tricycle that Jacquelin LaRoy, 11 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert LaRoy, Wilmette, is riding, for it is one that her mother had as a girl. It is the only known one left in the state of Iowa, where the picture was taken. The LaRoy family is spending several months in Red Oak, Ia., where they have a summer home.

Jacqueline LaRoy.

St. Augustine's church in Wilmette will hold a picnic today in Washington park. Jack Clark is chairman of the arrangement committee

WILLIAM H. GOETTSCHE, 221 North La Salle street, a student at Culver Military summer school, won his Silver Tuxis recently, which is an award given to those who prove themselves all-around cadets.

The Chicago Park District Outing club today will take a trip to Lake Geneva and a six mile hike along the old Indian trails bordering the lake. The club will leave the North Western station at 8:20 o'clock, arriving at Williams Bay at 10:30 o'clock, and return to the city at 9:30 o'clock. Maria Sola will be the leader, with Mary Wojtalewicz and Bob Barker as guides. The public is invited.

Five of the 17 young women who have been awarded honorary partial scholarships to the National College of Education in Evanston are north siders. They are Miss Theodore Lehman, Miss Mary Catherine MacLean, Miss Nancy Sue Norton and Miss Evaline Lundberg, all of Evanston, and Miss Yvonne Felber, 1210 Astor street. The awards were announced by Miss Edna Dean Baker, president of the college.

LAKE VIEW WILL HAVE MUSICAL FETE ON SEPT. 24

The Lake View Community council has selected Tuesday, Sept. 24, for its annual music festival to be held in the stadium at Riverview park, Western and Belmont avenues. Harold Giroux, council president, announced that among the performers will be the Black Horse troop's mounted band and the R. O. T. C. band and orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. James Maloney are general chairmen. Co-chairmen are Harold Schmidt, in charge of bands; Mrs. Selma Padula, choirs; Dr. Edward Reiner, church talent; and John Barnes, publicity.

Brownson K. of C. Council Holds 35th Year Outing

In celebration of its 35th anniversary, Brownson council of the Knights of Columbus, will picnic today at the Wayside inn in Morton Grove. Features of the entertainment will be a tug of war, softball game, races, music and dancing. Members of the arrangements committee are Thomas Casey, grand knight; Charles Lannon and Frank Koehler, past grand knights; William O'Neil, lecturer, and Anthony Miller, warden.

Voice of the North Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the North Side, The Tribune.

WANTS BETTER STREET CARS.

What is the matter with the people on the north side? Are they all so insignificant that the city overlooks them, or is it that the west and south sides have more politicians than we have. It must be one of the two. When one looks at the transportation that Madison street has, and then glances at the trash that is offered to us on Clark and Broadway streets, one knows it is about time some one was awakened to this fact. Comfort is a word that the north side street car rider is unfamiliar with as he never encounters it. We don't need Riverview park for bumps. All you have to do is take a ride on a Broadway street car. Are all the north siders spineless? Why do they tolerate such inconveniences. As long as we stand for it it will be dished out to us. DISGUSTED.

WANTS CITY TO CLEAN LOT.

I want to know why the city cleans all the lots in our district except the one at 4882 North Ashland avenue. I have talked to precinct captains and the overseer for the ward superintendent, and was promised that it would be cleaned up by July 1. so far nothing has been done. Tne small children 3 and 4 years old still have to play in an alley that the truck drivers think is a race track. G. B. W.

ANCIENT GREEK GAMES WILL BE STAGED BY BOYS

New Phaedimus to Get Olive Wreath.

Phaedimus was a rough and tumble boy from the streets of Troy when he won the Olympic championship. Tom or Bill or Nick from the Northtown area may become a modern Phaedimus at the 11th annual Junior Olympics to be held Saturday, Sept. 14, on the athletic field of St. Michael's church, Hudson and North avenues.

The original Phaedimus at the 145th Olympiad in Greece, about 200 years before Christ, carried away a wild olive wreath. Today's Phaedimus also will be honored when he wins the highest number of points, not only in athletics but in good sportsmanship and character also.

Hundreds of the swiftest runners, wrestlers, boxers, swimmers, jumpers, and javelin and discus throwers from 40 different organizations sponsored by the Lincoln branch of the Chicago Boys' Clubs, 1725 Orchard street, will vie for the honor.

Parade in North Avenue.

North avenue will be taken over for the parade of young athletes. Heralds, banners, chariots, and bands will swing past the Boys' club to Burling street, over to North avenue and east to Hudson avenue.

To give the contestants and spectators some conception of the historical background of the early Olympian games, George Hegerman, acting music and dramatic director, has planned a symbolic setting for the presentation of awards. At one end of the speakers' stand, hundreds of awards will be presented in the modern manner. At the other end, officials will be dressed in Greek costumes and boys, chosen for their acting ability, will appear from their pretended victories to receive the olive crown.

But as in the 10 former Junior Olympics, one top scoring contestant will be named the "All American Boy." He will receive the Walter J. Kelly trophy, a golden athlete on top of a Grecian pillar holding aloft the carved olive crown. Mr. Kelly sponsored the first Olympics in 1930. In addition to the trophy, which will be exhibited at the Boys' club, the winner will take away a gold medal.

Model for Sculpture.

Carrying ancient tradition even further, Dean Norman Lewis Rice, director of the Chicago Art Institute school, plans to have the 1940 Phaedimus model for a class in sculpture. The most perfect bust produced will be cast and presented to the Boys' clubs. It will be the first figure in a future Hall of Fame at the Lincoln branch.

"We are interested in this project," said Mr. Rice, "not only as a stimulus for these boys, but also as a tribute to our late mutual friend, L. L. Valentine, whose generosity both to the Chicago Boys' clubs and the Art institute deserves some kind of a recurrent memorial."

Joseph N. Clemens, director of the Lincoln branch, is executive secretary of the planning committee. Members include Percy Baines, Marie Bell, the Rev. Frederick Berghoffer, Mrs. Eugene Birmingham, J. Trimble Boyd, the Rev. Mathias Bregenzer, Robert R. Brenton, Harry W. Delano, Austin O. Dunkin, Robert D. Gregg, Harry Hansen, W. Noel Hudson, Ethel Kelly, Joseph E. Kuhn, Anne McManus, William J. Surman, Thomas McManus, Harry Trace, James Vanderbosch, Mrs. Emma Pitt, Mrs. William Barclay Wait, the Rev. Lawrence Byrne, and Jack Padula.

These men and women are representatives of north side organizations.

Bathe City Hall.

Evanston's 49 year old city hall is being given a bath. The bill will be $1,755. The job started last Monday.

CITIZENS FOOT $150,000 BILL DUE TO LITTER

Park District Drives for Neatness.

North side taxpayers pay out $40,000 annually to workers who pick up the pieces of paper, cans and other refuse thrown on the city parks, beaches and boulevards. For the whole city, the cleaning bill is $150,000, according to George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district.

"In 1939," he explained, "the litter consisted of 8,000 trucks loads, a total of 540,000 cubic feet, sufficient to cover nearly 12 acres of land with a mass of trash 12 inches deep. The work required a force of 320 men and a fleet of 28 trucks."

Litter Is Prohibited.

There is an ordinance prohibiting littering of the parks and boulevards and offenders are subject to a $5 fine. However, strict enforcement will be resorted to only if appeals to civic pride fail to obtain results.

Cards reading "Kindly put trash in containers. Help keep your Chicago parks clean. They're the best in the world. Now let's make them the cleanest," are being handed out by park employés to those violating the ordinance. Several thousand new signs warn against leaving refuse. But the park police will be instructed to enforce the ordinance against those who ignore these appeals for coöperation.

At a series of staff meetings, every park employé has been pressed into service of the antilitter crusade and instructed on specific duties.

Employés are expected to set an example of neatness and regard for the rights of others on park property; then, they are required to take appropriate action whenever they observe a violation.

Youngsters Are Enlisted.

To enlist the youngsters behind this public movement, directors are organizing "Parks Antilitter" clubs in each fieldhouse. Boys and girls will be asked to sign pledges agreeing not to litter the parks and to help park employés in the drive against violators.

Services of the help beautify Chicago committee have been obtained for the campaign. Among the north siders in this group are Karl Eitel, general chairman; Rabbi Louis Binstock, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, Oscar G. Mayer, John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. George V. McIntyre, Paul Schulze, Bishop Bernard J. Shiel, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, R. Douglas Stuart, C. E. Thorney, the Rev. D. F. Cunningham, Dr. William H. Johnson, August H. Pritzlaff, Mrs. Morton D. Cahn, and F. H. Stamm.

CIVIC BUILDING JUBILEE PLANNED IN WOODSTOCK

The golden anniversary of the Woodstock city hall, library, fire department headquarters, and opera house, will be celebrated at an open house Sept. 4, because they all occupy the same building. All were included in the building's original plans, back in 1890 when it was constructed. Previous to the construction of the library, a library association lent books, and when the library was constructed the association donated its books.

The library recently has been remodeled and enlarged and several of the offices in the hall also have been renovated. The large ornate, old red building faces the city square and is of brick with white stone trim.

Miss Frances Garland, grandniece of E. E. Richards, the mayor when the city hall was constructed, has collected and edited a group of anecdotes portraying the early days of the town, the meetings of the city fathers and events of the time when the building was completed. She also has included as background, social and political events of local and national importance which had bearing on the lives of Woodstock residents. The episodes will be dramatized by the Woodstock Players on the evening of Sept. 4, in the opera house.

The hall took two years to complete. Materials were hard to get and work was slower than it is today. The grand opening was celebrated with the production of the play "Margery Daw," by the Patti Rose Players.

Tours thru the building have been planned and exhibits by the council, the library, and the fire department will be on display. Miss Lura Wandrack, the city librarian has planned an exhibit of the old books and pictures of the town at that period of its history. The first city hall was a frame structure and stood in the center of the village square.

13 North Siders Attend Camp for Business Girls

Among the campers registered last week at Forest Beach, the summer camp for business girls conducted by the Y. W. C. A., were 13 north side girls. They were Alice Kaplan, Lempi Kivela, Edith Anderson, Eunice Cohn, Florence Dickie, Dorothy Alvord, Dorothy Ross, Helena Renn, Eleanor Dreja, Olive Erickson, Sylvia Marshall, Estelle Owitz, and Bernice Winston.

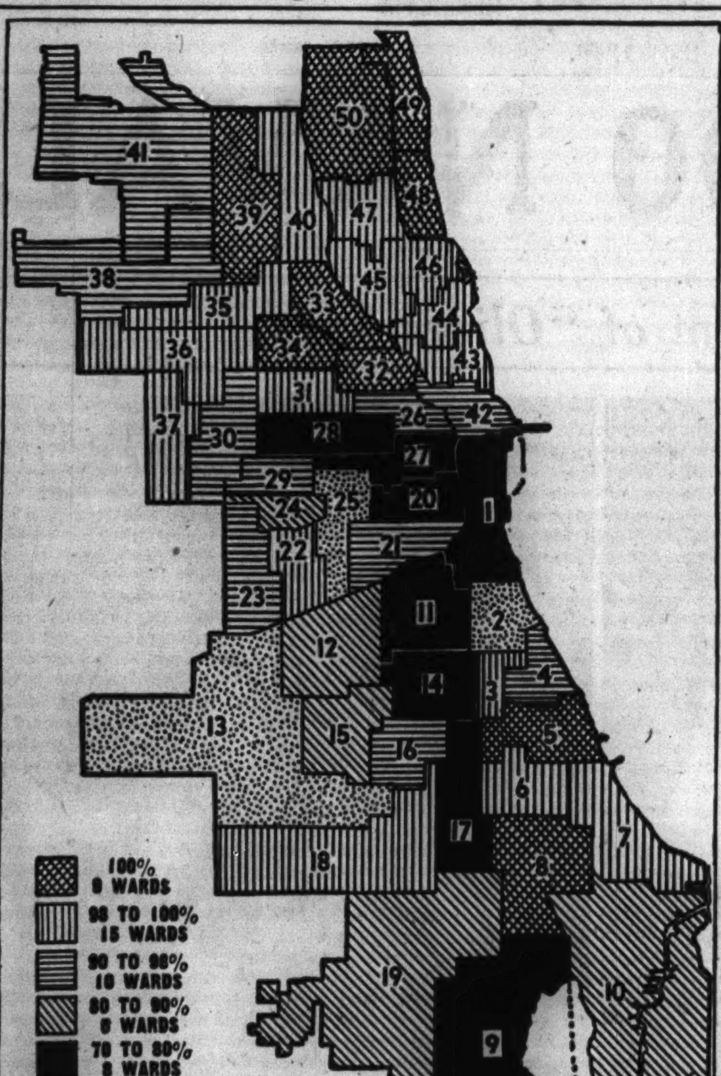
Where Garbage Cans Are Needed



As a result of an 11 month campaign by the city, many garbage cans have been placed in buildings where previously the rats had free access to the refuse and thrived on it. A report from Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, shows that the 50 city wards have been active in placing receptacles in buildings served by the city. The wards fall into six different percentage classifications based on the number of buildings served in the ward, and the number of those buildings without cans. Nine wards hit an average of 100 per cent, meaning that all buildings in the ward have cans, and three wards fall below 70 per cent.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 26.

There is nothing quite as satisfying as a number of small fruit plants on the home grounds—a few currant bushes, a goseberry or two, raspberries or blackberries, and, if a strawberry bed can be planted the luscious fresh fruits will be greatly appreciated.

Overgrown clumps of phlox should be dug and divided now. Give phlox plenty of space and avoid shade. Cut off the tops of old clumps and burn them to eliminate any disease that may be present.

Tuesday, Aug. 27.

There still is time to divide and replant iris or to plant new ones. Large clumps that are badly in need of dividing furnish only a few flowers. Order a few of the newer sorts to add variety and interest to the garden.

Wednesday, Aug. 28.

For a shady border on the north side of the house use a few low growing ground cover plant with hardy ferns in the background. The bunchberry [Cornus canadensis] grows four to five inches high and has white flowers in spring followed by red berries in clusters.

Thursday, Aug. 29.

Wild flowers transplanted this fall will flower this spring. Why not naturalize clumps of trilliums, hepaticas, Virginia bluebells, and others where they give a good effect and do not interfere with the more formal and elegant parts of the ground? Semishady places where sod is difficult to maintain will be a good place for these plants and they will be much appreciated before many other kinds come into flower. There are firms dealing in them and their cost is small.

Friday, Aug. 30.

Be sure to get in the order for bulbs, for many kinds—such as tulips are certain the be scarce due to the situation in Holland. Some stocks are available but they are likely to be so depleted that only those who order early will receive what they want.

It is unnecessary to dig and replant tulips as long as they continue flowering well, and especially the Darwins, which are among the most satisfactory types. There is such a long list of varieties that unusually attractive combinations can be arranged. Order plenty of the small bulbous plants for naturalizing for they soon grow into great masses.

Saturday, Aug. 31.

If the lawn has not been renovated or the new one constructed it is time to start. Remember that the first soil preparation is essential for a long lasting turf, which means the incorporation of copious amounts of decayed manure into the soil where it is available. If the soil is very poor it should be entirely removed to a depth of five to eight inches and replaced with good soil. It may merely lack humus which may be supplied in the form of peat or decayed manure.

OBSOLETE HOME CONVERTED INTO SIX APARTMENTS

Mansion Easily Adapted to Modern Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Sober, ageing structures can be a problem. Their intrinsic worth is undeniable, but if they are fast becoming obsolete there is the question of how they can best be reclaimed and converted into definite financial assets.

At 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago, there stands a handsome six apartment building. It is as interesting as it is good looking for it has a "past." For many years it was a beautiful, 18 room home, with high ceilings, great hallways, baths aplenty, and lovely grained woodwork and floors. It was a home which had always been well maintained and while it was in no state of deterioration it had reached the state which might be called obsolete.

The question of what to do with the house became acute and the decision was made to change its entire purpose in life. The firm of Cook and Jackson, property management, 161 East Erie street, called in Frederic B. Schmidt, Chicago architect, and plans were drawn and arrangements made for the remodeling.

Retain Floors and Trim.

As Everett Cook said to me the day I visited the apartments: "We decided from the first to keep the changes down to a minimum, since such a minimum is essential to all successful remodeling projects."

Mr. Cook called attention to the fact that it had not been necessary to change or add stairways or fire escapes. It also had been possible to reuse all the floors, which were of excellent hardwood, and all the trim, hardware, and the heating plant. New plumbing, of course, was installed thruout, new bath fixtures, kitchen, wiring, and light fixtures.

Mr. Cook is vitally interested in the reclamation of obsolete structures. "There are so many buildings and houses," he told me as we drove thru many miles of city streets, "which are sound structurally but obsolete; financial liabilities instead of assets. Sometimes all that is needed is a coat of paint or a new entrance, a new picket fence, perhaps, and some attractive painting."

Stone Porch Removed.

But to get back to 1507 North Dearborn parkway. Here the alteration is as practical as it is fascinating.

The old house had walls of limestone and these walls were sandblasted smooth. A rough stone front porch was ripped off and a new entrance built on the ground floor level. The interior entrance hall stands where once was a "grand hall," and over the new outside door the Gothic motif of the old dormers was repeated.

The entrance hall was a wainscoting of knotty pine, with a spirited green toned wall fabric above. There is a gorgeous crystal lighting fixture here which once belonged in the living room of the home.

Large Living Rooms.

The original corner fireplace has been kept, and in the bedroom, 14x16 feet, there is a second fireplace. This one is of exquisite marble, in dusty pink tones which blend with the deep red roses in the wall paper pattern. Both the bath and kitchen are entirely modern, and so is the dinette.

It may be noted here that the living rooms in all the apartments are very spacious, as spacious indeed, as the living rooms of many a large suburban home. Each apartment has an inner hallway of its own. Sufficient space was taken from the large central hallways of the old home to make this possible. Each apartment also has generous, well planned closet space.

Air Kept Circulating.

The day we entered the apartment building the temperature outside was close to 100 degrees. But as soon as we entered any of the suites, air was stirring and the difference in temperature and comfort was considerable. A giant cooling fan was installed in the upper ceiling of the hallway which reaches to the third floor. In the daytime, air was kept constantly in motion in every apartment, and at night cool air was sent thru all the rooms.

Another feature to contribute to summer comfort was the screening. Every window was screened with a new type of sun resisting screen, designed like a miniature Venetian blind, as a help to keep out the direct rays of the sun.

Wedding Friday

Miss Jean Elizabeth Zeigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zeigler of Barberton, O., will become the bride of Kenneth Blanchard Colby of Peacham, Vt., Friday in the Howe Memorial chapel in Evanston. After a short wedding trip thru Wisconsin, the newlyweds will reside in Rogers Park. Both Miss Zeigler and her fiance are graduates of Northwestern university. Miss Zeigler is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and Mr. Colby belongs to Delta Upsilon fraternity.

ANALYZE 2 MORE DANGER CORNERS ON NORTH SIDE

Speed, Confusion Rated Worst Factors.

Today's "public enemy" corner case history takes up the safety problems at No. 7 and No. 8 intersections on the list of the 20 most dangerous street corners on the north side. No. 7 is the triple intersection of Broadway-Lawrence-Racine, and No. 8 is at Ashland and Foster avenues, less than a mile away.

Both corners, Chicago Motor club safety engineers have found after intensive study, are the most dangerous intersections in the Uptown district. There have been 40 accidents in 17 months at the Broadway-Lawrence-Racine corner and 29 mishaps at Ashland and Foster avenues.

"Unexpected" Chief Cause.

Most of the accidents at Broadway and Lawrence avenues have been caused by what the motor club engineers call "the unexpected." The corner is in the heart of the Uptown shopping district, one of the busiest in the city. All day long pedestrians cross the intersection by the thousands. Because of the confusion many of the mishaps are pedestrian accidents and rear-end collisions between automobiles.

It's the confusion that causes "the unexpected." The rear-end crashes are caused, in many instances, by motorists who slam on their brakes suddenly to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

Another factor in the high accident rate is the fact that fast traffic just off the Outer drive mixes with local shopping traffic looking for a parking space and with street cars and pedestrians.

Enforcement Is Cure.

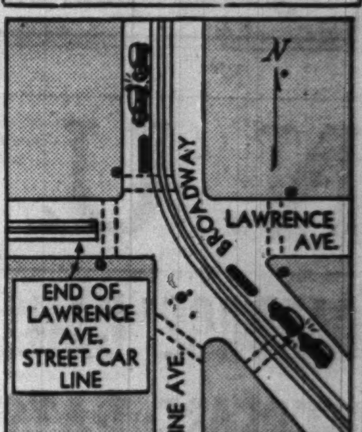
The solution, say the engineers, is orthodox. Enforce rigidly all the vehicle ordinances and warn pedestrians to take extreme care in crossing this intersection. If this is done the accident rate will be cut, the engineers assert.

The most serious problem at Foster and Ashland avenues is the right angle collision, which accounts for 72 per cent of all the accidents at the corner. The chief cause is the high rate of speed of Ashland avenue traffic. Added to the speed, the engineers say, is the inclination of drivers to cheat on the yellow light.

On the average, westbound vehicles on Foster avenue don't travel as rapidly as those on Ashland avenue. The Foster traffic by the time it reaches Ashland has been slowed up by traffic signals at Clark street a half block to the east.

"Since signal progression is in effect on both streets there is also a certain amount of unintentional 'cheating' on the amber light due to the common tendency by drivers to drift along with the fellow ahead without noticing the status of the traffic signal," engineers say.

Forty Accidents



A total of 40 accidents was reported from January, 1939, thru May, 1940, at Broadway-Lawrence-Racine, number 7 on the list of 20 most dangerous intersections on the north side. Box score: Injuries, 14; accidents between two cars, 21; accidents between a car and a truck, 8; accidents between a car and a pedestrian, 7; miscellaneous, 4.

MUSEBECK HEALTH SPOT SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
THE HEALTH SPOT SHOEMAKER SAYS:

Perhaps if we had to walk in the other fellow's shoes, we wouldn't criticize him. Walking unnaturally or limping is often the result of wrong shoes that do not support the body weight properly, placing stress and strain on sensitive areas. In Health Spot Shoes body weight is evenly balanced over the three main weight-bearing parts of the foot. This means freedom from stress and strain . . . and comfort. LET TRADITION GUIDE YOU IN RIDING APPAREL

Advice Is to Forget "Individualism."

BY REA SEEGER.

Any attempt at rugged individualism is quietly nipped in the bud if you are shopping for riding apparel. It's much safer to string along with tradition. Headgear, for instance, correct hats of fine felt designed to fit down over the skull, are designed that way for the simple idea of comfort and assurance that, once on the head, playful breezes cannot whisk them away. So, also, the shallow brims, just wide enough to shadow the eyes, not to drop down when you need a good eye range.

Gloves are also standard and classic. String affairs for casual summer outfits, of sturdy cotton twills or gabardines, strong, long wearing supple pigskins to wear with wool outfits, ridged on each finger for a firm yet easy grip. Combinations of pigskin with chamois provide a third choice if you insist upon something a bit different.

"Darbies" Cork Lined.

The derbies or "darbies," as you prefer, are cork lined, an exceedingly comforting assurance to the equestrian pessimistically fearing a tumble. But if you wear a derby it must not be any other color than coal black; if you wear a derby you must wear a stock [collar to the walkers].

Derbies are correct toppers for dress riding. The shallow brimmed hats that fit down so securely over the head are correct for the casual round the town riding of an average city and suburbs. Such felts come in unassuming colors, subdued shades of blue, beige, russet, and brown with a few gray's, each model a classic of simplicity and fit.

Riding shirts are without frills or extras, they're as smartly masculine as tho you selected them at the haberdasher that serves your dad or brothers. White broadcloth, impeccably detailed, seamed and cut, promises comfort and the right contrast. Collars stay buttoned snugly high around the neckline with ties of dark, discreet colorings, no pins, clips or other cluttering jewelry.

Tights of Wool.

Underneath everything are tights of fine English wool sufficiently long to reach the top of the shoes. For long hours in the saddle, you are advised to wear or buy tights without seams, thus banishing all hazards of skin welts.

This riding underwear is soft, absorbent, thin and designed to fit with unwrinkled smoothness. The more expensive stuff of the same thin wool, same cut and design and without seaming, is priced higher because of the lack of seams and because it is imported . . . but it's worth every additional penny.

Correct riding outfits are of sturdy wool for fall and winter; fine, strong cottons and palm beach materials for summertime. All breeches, jodhpurs, jackets, or coats are marvels of fine tailoring, flawless fitting. Nothing irritates the critics more than sloppy riding clothes. Every cent you spend on meticulously tailored and superfitted jackets, breeches, or jodhpurs is justified. Such selections outlast, infinitely outsmart anything of less carefully cut designs.

Good looking and correct jodhpurs or breeches are usually of brown, russet, dark or light beige, or chestnut with a very few oxford grays and lighter gray colors. Jackets are always cut long enough to conceal the widest spread of the hips, seamed cut and fitted to make the most of the figure line.

And while the knowing equestrian has her jackets and outfits made to her particular requirements, some extremely well designed jackets can be selected from the available large ready to wear assortments.

Are Preferred Patterns.

Small blurred checks, indeterminate plaids, and chevron diagonals are the preferred patterns with the colors always to repeat, blend, or harmonize with the color of the breeches or jodhpurs. Strong yet flexible cavalry twill is the best fabric for these garments, with reinforced sections of the same fabric or harmonizing suede of light weight. Every inch of the seaming, fitting, and cutting is executed to assure super comfort and smart streamlines.

Pockets in the jackets are expertly placed and tailored as are the collars, sleeves, and other details. Smooth woolens, together with slightly rough or restrained fleecy tweeds in handsome sporty patterns, are plentiful in heather shades or rich glowing colors of fall foliage.

Summer jackets are made of cotton gabardine in small checks, and plaids carefully copied from the fabric designs in wool . . . hound's tooth checks, blurred plaids, and diagonals. Colors are also copied from the wools, the one exception being the beautifully tailored, cool, long fitted jackets of creamy white palm beach material with a self-design in small chevron diagonal.

Summer jodhpurs are made of strong cotton twill or gabardine, in russet, tan, beige, or summer whites in sturdy, long wearing materials that tailor with the same swank as wool.

Waistcoats are optional with either winter or summer outfits. You'll find large assortments of these plain or patterned waistcoats as well as the finest examples of correct riding clothes and accessories in many well known Chicago sports shops and in the equally well selected showings featured in other Chicago stores.

TEMPLE SHOLOM PROGRAMS WILL OPEN ON OCT. 7

First Lecture to Be on 'The World Today.'

Speakers and guest artists for the programs of Temple Sholom sisterhood will be announced by Mrs. A. James Riffkind, chairman, at the annual summer luncheon of the board of directors Wednesday in the Belmont hotel, 3156 Sheridan road. Mrs. Riffkind has been assisted by Mrs. Samuel Schwartz, president, and a committee composed of Mrs. Louis Binstock, Mrs. Bernard J. Ecker, Mrs. Irving E. Hollobow, Mrs. Erwin Mautner, Mrs. Lester L. Stern and Mrs. Irving S. Ungar.

Mrs. A. James Riffkind. [Youngberg photo.]

Clifton Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, will discuss "The World Today" at the opening session Monday afternoon, Oct. 7. A question period will follow his address. Sisterhood members will take part in two one-act plays to be presented on Nov. 4 and on Dec. 2. Rabbi James G. Heller of the Isaac M. Wise temple in Cincinnati, O., will be guest speaker.

Items on Program.

To open the year, Temple Sholom will join with four other north side reform sisterhoods in observing the annual reciprocity day. In February Mrs. Leon L. Watters of New York, president of the National Federation of Temple sisterhoods, will address the members.

The annual spring musical program will be presented in March.

Three Major Benefits.

In addition to the regular programs, there will be three major benefits. The first will be a public lecture on Tuesday evening, Oct. 15, when Dorothy Fuldheim of Cleveland, lecturer and news commentator, will speak on "World Conditions from the American Point of View."

The second annual "Dime-a-Day" benefit luncheon and fashion show on Dec. 11 is under the direction of Mrs. Henry I. Monheimer.

As a new feature this year, there will be two drama afternoons open to members and their guests.

WILMETTE TO HEAR FINAL IN SERIES OF SUMMER CONCERTS

A capacity crowd is expected for the closing concert in the Illinois Symphony orchestra's series of "Starlight Symphonies" on Wednesday evening in the Wilmette amphitheater. Ralph Rose, summer guest conductor, will make his fourth Wilmette appearance. Helen Margolin, soprano of the Chicago Opera company, will be the soloist.

Helen Margolin. [Seymour Photo.]

Miss Margolin made her debut with the opera company in 1938 and has been a soloist in Grant Park concerts. She will sing "Mon coeur ne peut changer" from "Mireille," by Gounod.

OCTOBER TO SEE THE OPENING OF W. C. T. U. LIBRARY

Altho the new W. C. T. U. library in Evanston has been dedicated as a Frances E. Willard memorial, it will not be finished until Oct. 15. The trustees hoped it would be completed by the organization's 66th national convention held recently in Chicago, but zoning regulations delayed construction.

The $15,000 wing is being built on the north side of the headquarters' building at 1730 Chicago avenue. It will house approximately 8,500 books and pamphlets on the pros and cons of the use of alcohol as a beverage.

There are only two other such research libraries in the world, a small one in Boston and another in Lausanne, Switzerland, maintained by the International Temperance association.

Details of Building.

Earl H. Reed of Evanston, library specialist, is the architect for the building. There will be a main floor, with a reading section, a mezzanine and a second floor for offices. To the east of the wing will be a memorial corner to Frances Willard.

The outside walls will be red brick, conforming with the original building and the inside walls will be covered with cedar plywood. Pamphlets will be enclosed in drawers and cupboards. Miss Mabel Eaman, librarian, has cataloged the books which she will transfer to the shelves from the single library room in headquarters.

Thru an arrangement with Dr. Robert Hercod, librarian at Lausanne, the new library will receive translations and abstracts in English of the most notable current foreign works on the alcohol problem.

Used by Students.

"The library will be used extensively," explained Mrs. Munns, "for our teachers' training seminars in January, February and March. Students use the library constantly and we will send some books to colleges and universities for special courses."

NILES CENTER IS ON WAY OUT; HAIL SKOKIE!

Suburb at Last Picks Its New Name.

Thru the smoke of 14 years of debate, fanned into a fire during the last nine months, Skokie has emerged as the new name for Niles Center. It will not be official for at least 90 days, but Mayor George E. Blameuser and the village board are rushing the necessary legislation.

Petitions for the change in name will be presented to the village board on Sept. 5 and upon acceptance a public hearing will be set for two weeks later. The board undoubtedly will adopt the name Skokie, according to the mayor, since five of the six trustees already have voted in favor of it. After the public hearing, the name must be filed with Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes for 60 days before it can become official.

Skokie Gets Most Votes.

Skokie received 15 votes on Aug. 16 from the mayor's name change committee, consisting of village trustees and representatives of 17 civic organizations. The closest contender was Oaklyn with four votes,

Russel Tucker, trustee, refused to vote. Mayor Blameuser and the other trustees, Ambrose Brod, Willard Galitz, Thomas S. Rae, John W. Wuerth, and Peter Conrad, voted for Skokie.

Skokie was placed before the committee by Arthur Thompson, representing the Rotary club, and by G. D. Wilson from the Civic league.

Mr. Thompson pointed out the historical background of the name to support its appropriateness. The region from Lincolnwood stretching almost to the Wisconsin line east of Milwaukee avenue was called Skokie by a tribe of Potawatomi Indians. Mr. Wilson said he did not favor the name originally, but had become sold on its possibilities.

Skokie Means "Swamp."

Altho Skokie means "swamp," for that is what it was when the Indians were here, the local newspaper points out that to present day citizens Skokie should symbolize man's triumph over nature.

In 1924 the North Shore railroad built its Skokie Valley route to Milwaukee thru the town. Soon afterward Cicero avenue was extended and widened thru the community and is now a link on United States highway 41. All north shore communities thru which the highway passes gave the boulevard the name of Skokie.

The village is directly south of the new Skokie National park being constructed by CCC workers from Willow to County Line roads.

Short, Easy to Spell.

"In addition," states Armond D. King, chairman of the planning commission and zoning board of appeals, "it is short, easy to spell, and already has been established."

Martin Krier, chairman of the original name change committee appointed last November, is supporting Skokie. His committee sponsored a contest for a new name in which Ridgeview was the winner, but the Ridgeview petition was rejected by the village board by a vote of 4 to 2.

Make Soaring Trip to Kenosha

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Dede Pawling of Niles Center and Pilot Stanley Corcoran of Joliet after their 54 mile glider flight from the Air Activities airport in Chicago to Kenosha, Wis. They claim an American distance record for a ship carrying a woman passenger. The trip was so unexpected that Miss Pawling says she did not have even a compact or hanky with her. "And the next time," she interposed laughingly, "I'll wear heavier clothes. It's cold 6,000 feet above the ground."

GIRL DESCRIBES 54 MILE FLIGHT IN SOARING SHIP

Rides Thermal Waves on Uncharted Trip.

For two and a half hours one afternoon last June, Miss Dede Pawling of Niles Center flew along the birds' highway, above the airplane lanes. She describes the trip as "a marvelous experience." The technical name for it is gliding.

Miss Pawling was the passenger on Stanley Corcoran's 54 mile flight from Chicago to the Kenosha, Wis., airport on June 2 in a Cinema sailplane. They claim the American distance record for a ship carrying a woman passenger.

On that morning Miss Pawling had made two short hops. The third one at 2:11 o'clock was the eventful one.

"I'd been promised a ride for two years," she explained. On the third trip we got into a thermal [upcurrent of wind] right away. Stanley asked me how I felt. I said 'fine,' so he decided to go on."

Soar on Thermals.

"We would rise as high as we could in one thermal, then hop to another and continue to soar across the country. If there are no thermals, you have to land. We reached 6,000 feet," she continued, "and the airplanes beneath us looked like specks. Everything was calm, no vibrations, no motor noises, just a marvelous sensation."

It was cold. You could see your breath on the windshield. Miss Pawling admitted that a sweater would have been more comfortable than the sweat shirt she was wearing. She had no gloves, nothing on her head—not even a compact to prepare her for the photographers at the end of the trip.

"Of course, we had no intention of making the trip and I was lucky to have been with Mr. Corcoran. We could talk back and forth easily, but we didn't say much. He was paying close attention to the ship and I was watching the clouds—we seemed to be at the cloud base—the sea gulls that flew curiously up to the ship, then darted away, and the shadow of our ship on the earth.

Keep Watch for Airports.

"Stan pointed out swimming pools on estates along the north shore, golf courses which he identified by their greens and the runways at various airports. We kept looking for airports, for we never knew when we might want to come down."

"We could have gone farther than Kenosha," she went on, "but the wind was strong by that time and Stan was afraid we might get into difficulties. He's a cautious pilot," she interposed, "and he didn't want me to get sick.

"We had a hard time finding a down draft to come down in and spent about half an hour over the airport. The winds from the lake and the plains seemed to meet there and kept throwing us around.

"But the young lady in charge of the Kenosha airport recognized the glider, grounded all her students so they would be out of our way, and watched for us.

Descent Is Fast.

"I was feeling a little funny by the end of the ride," Dede admitted. "We came down fast and it bothered my ears some, but the landing was smooth. I've been up once since and Stan is going to teach me to glide this fall."

As a matter of fact, Miss Pawling is leaving her job in an Evanston hosiery shop Sept. 1 and will work as a secretary and receptionist in the glider factory operated by J. J. Smiley, her brother-in-law, in Joliet.

Today she will be at the American open soaring contest at the Lewis school of aeronautics in Joliet and as often as possible during the remainder of the meet which continues thru Sept. 2. Miss Pawling attended the two former meets in Frankfort.

Anxious to Learn.

For a sport, Miss Pawling thinks gliding is more fun than flying an airplane. "You don't know just where you're going, but that's part of the fun," she said.

"How will I feel about gliding alone? I've been thinking about it," she nodded. "I didn't touch the controls on our trip, and I'm not sure how I'll feel—but I'm anxious to find out!"

"Jim Now Eats Lunch at Home"

"It was easy to find a conveniently located apartment by reading the Tribune want ad section."

What should an apartment have to make it the ideal home for your family?

No matter what your requirements are, you are practically certain to find what you want when you use the Tribune want ad columns as your guide. The Tribune prints more apartments-to-rent want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

The large selection of apartment offers which the Tribune places before you every day also saves your time and energy. By making up a list of the most attractive offers in the want ads, you can do most of your apartment hunting in an easy chair at home.

Turn to the want ads in today's Tribune. The apartment which will suit you best may be among those described.

2-WAY CLASSIFICATION SIMPLIFIES YOUR SEARCH

Tribune rental want ads are listed (1) by locations in city or suburb and (2) by numbers of rooms. Thus, if you want a four room apartment on the south side, simply turn to the columns headed "To Rent—Apartments—South" and then consult the offerings under the sub-heading "Four, Five, Six Rooms and Larger."

LANDLORDS! RENTAL AGENTS!

Every day of the week the Tribune sells more than 730,000 copies right in metropolitan Chicago. This is from 335,000 to 500,000 more than are sold in Chicago and suburbs by other Chicago newspapers. Low cost Tribune want ads can help you place your offers before Chicago's largest, most responsive audience of apartment prospects.

If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ads if you wish. Phone Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser. Or ask to have a Tribune representative call on you.

EVANSTON GROUP ARRANGES THREE ART SEMINARS

Tours to Follow Guild's Study Sessions.

The art seminar committee of the University guild has arranged a program of three seminar meetings followed by pilgrimages for next season. Mrs. I. T. Roberts, chairman, and her committee of 43 members drew up the schedule this summer.

A lecture on the architecture and symbolism of the Baha'i temple by Carl Scheffler, director of the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts, will be given at the first seminar Thursday morning, Oct. 17. Mrs. Frank C. Engelhart will offer "Vignettes of Artists and Studios of Pilgrimage."

The fall pilgrimage will be made the following Monday morning to the Baha'i temple, 501 Sheridan road, Wilmette. Luncheon will be served at noon in the Evanston Golf club and in the afternoon the group will visit the studios of John Doctoroff and other artists. Mrs. Engelhart is in charge of the second tour.

Half Century of Art.

"A Half Century Art," by Mrs. Carl Perry Hubbard, art director, will be the subject of the second seminar Feb. 13. Mrs. Louis Bornarth and Mrs. Robert W. Millar will be in charge. On Monday, Feb. 17, the members have luncheon at the Union League club and take a gallery tour of the club's and the Municipal Art league's collections.

Mrs. Arden B. Lapham is cnairman of the May 15 seminar on English Staffordshire figurines. Miss Catherine Gordon Balmer, an authority on antiques, will be the speaker. The pilgrimage on Monday, May 19, will send the group to De Kalb to see a collection of old figurines and paper weights at Illehamwood, the home of Mrs. E. Perry Elwood. Mrs. Rudolf F. Kelker Jr. is arranging the tour.

Luncheon of Mills Alumnae

DOLORIS ELISE NEEF.

JUNE CUNNINGHAM.

[Bernie Photos.]

Next Wednesday the Chicago Mills alumnae will hold their annual fall luncheon in the Georgian hotel in Evanston. Eleven freshmen and 30 undergraduates from the Chicago area will be guests. Among the freshmen are five scholarship students, four of them from north suburbs. The group includes June Cunningham, Evanston, Evanston Township High school; Pat Crawford, Wilmette; Doloris Elise Neef, Glencoe, and Ruth Lee, Winnetka, all graduates of New Trier High school, and Jacquelyn Woodyatt, Oak Park, Oak Park and River Forest Township High school. Mrs. D. C. Nahigian, 525 Barry avenue, is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

BIG BROTHERS SEND BOYS TO MICHIGAN CAMP

Evanston Group Active in Preventive Work.

The Big Brothers Association of Evanston is carrying on a program of preventive work among underprivileged boys. Since the first of the year, explained James Cotter, executive secretary, this work has replaced its former activities with repeat offenders. The police department, thru its juvenile office, now is supervising delinquent boys.

In accordance with its new program, the association has sent 11 boys to Y. M. C. A. Camp Echo on Long lake near Fremont, Mich., They left yesterday for a 10 day session. When they return, the boys will continue with the individual plans devised for them.

In describing the efforts of the organization, Judge James M. Corcoran of Evanston, the president, says: "The association directs its program to meet the needs of boys who want advice when seeking jobs, part time employment, recreational guidance, and encouragement thru friendly contacts with mature, intelligent persons." Its purpose is to help boys before they get into trouble.

Chosen a Delegate.

Judge Corcoran was chosen recently by Gov. Horner as a delegate from Illinois to attend the 25th National Recreation congress in Cleveland from Sept. 30 to Oct. 4.

In 1939, 120 boys received service from the association. It costs the community $3,400 a year to maintain the Big Brothers and the funds are obtained thru the Community chest. Less than 20 per cent of the boys are associated with the agency more than one year, Mr. Cotter said. The board keeps in contact with the local churches which can provide competent laymen for boys of any denomination.

This plan of Big Brother work based upon a friendly relationship between man and boy is similar to that of the original group which began in a New York church in 1904 and has since spread to foreign lands.

The Evanston group was formed in 1932 by laymen, with no professional help. Records indicate that the number of active Big Brothers was only 25 over a period of three and a half years. A regular staff was obtained in 1933, consisting mainly of college graduates.

Concentrate on Prevention.

From 1935 until last January, the agency worked closely with the Family Welfare association, but now that connection has been severed. Delinquent boys are being taken care of thru other channels better equipped and trained for the work, and the Big Brothers are concentrating on preventive methods.

Members of Judge Corcoran's executive committee are Harry B. de Cook, Allen D. Albert, and John M. Mitchell, vice presidents; James G. Barber, council representative; Norman Franzen, secretary treasurer; James W. Dugdale, Community chest representative, and William F. Byron, case committee chairman.

On the advisory board are John A. Brooks, Herbert S. Philbrick, Jared L. Johnson, Walter M. Mitchell, Mayor Henry D. Penfield, Raymond A. Carey, Harry L. Wells, L. J. Linck, L. W. Calderwood, and the Rev. Charles H. Stem.

Crush, model home.

EVANSTON WILL CO-ORDINATE WAR RELIEF APPEALS

Object Is to Prevent Duplicate Effort.

The Evanston war appeals committee, formed recently with Dr. William G. Alexander as chairman, will attempt to help local groups avoid duplication in appealing for war and refugee relief funds. The committee was organized in accordance with policies of the state department, which is empowered to govern the licensing of war and refugee relief appeal groups under the neutrality act.

Near the close of the world war, the national information bureau found that only 10 per cent of the then existing 3,000 appeals were justified, that a great amount of duplication of effort existed and that, in many instances, there was no assurance that the proposed work could be done in an efficient manner.

Aim Is Coördination.

According to Dr. Alexander, "The purpose is not to prevent, but to facilitate the expression of the generous impulses of Evanston citizens so that funds, time, and effort extended for war relief work will be most effectively applied to the purpose for which it is intended."

Mayor Henry D. Penfield has approved the committee and the chamber of commerce has extended the use of its offices at 522 Davis street.

Any organization making an appeal must have a license from the state department and be indorsed by the national information bureau as requisites to indorsement by the committee.

The committee will indorse only organizations where the proposed cost of promoting possible benefits for war relief is no more than 30 per cent of the gross proceeds and where there is no telephone solicitation of the general public for funds or sale of tickets.

Workers in Drive.

Those working with Dr. Alexander include Howard Akin, commander, and Arnold Svebilius, commander elect of the Evanston American Legion post; Mrs. D. R. Donlen, president, Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Frank Bush, executive secretary, Evanston Red Cross; Hugh McCulloch, president, and J. Roy Skiles, superintendent, board of education, district 76.

John A. Brooke and Morris Hampton, school district 202; Miss Clara E. Lawrence, president, Business and Professional Women; Mrs. Joseph Kehoe and Mrs. J. M. Krejci, Catholic Woman's club; Mrs. Herbert L. Bloom and Mrs. Walter S. Davis, Central Council School Clubs; Fred A. Hertwig and Loren P. Meyer.

More Taking Part.

Harold W. Mogg and Lyman Ford, Council of Social agencies; the Rev. Francis J. Magner, president of the Catholic clergy; Nelson L. Buck, Community chest; Mrs. Ray Garrett, regent, D. A. R.; the Rev. G. G. Moore, Evanston Ministerial association; the Rev. F. W. Orrick, St. Luke's Episcopal; A. M. Landaker, president, North Shore Real Estate board; Ralph B. Chalfont, president, Kiwanis; James Cotter, president, Lions club; Norman C. Franzen, president, Optimists club.

FIND WILLKIE'S RADIO VOICE IS FULL OF PROMISE

Listeners Say It Shows His Personality.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Wendell Willkie's radio voice and manner match his vigorous, earthy midwestern personality. His voice has real potentialities in his campaign for the Presidency. That is the opinion expressed by several speech experts and lay listeners last week.

These conclusions were reached by listeners after his formal acceptance address. Some of those who had heard him in his informal interviews and on the Town Meeting of the Air, in which he made a hit, were in a measure disappointed with his first long address on the air. They were quick to add, however, that the terrible heat, combined with the ordeal of having to address the tremendous Elwood throng as well as radio listeners probably conspired to handicap him.

In his earlier radio broadcasts Willkie showed a pronounced gift for repartee and listeners remarked about his warm friendliness, his bluff, hearty confident air that seemed in keeping with his character as they had learned about it thru the newspapers.

During his acceptance address they heard another Willkie. He was in dead earnest, challenging and forceful but not fiery. He appeared during the middle portion of the speech to be somewhat tired, his voice breaking several times. At times listeners became aware that he was reading. Toward the end there was a great improvement. He finished with great effectiveness.

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator and secretary of the Council on Foreign Relations: "Mr. Willkie fumbled at Elwood. But perhaps that was to be expected under the circumstances. He is at his best when he is engaged in informal discussion, when he can ad lib. In an open debate he would lick President Roosevelt. He has real possibilities at the microphone because of his direct, downright sincerity and his close to the soil manner. I think there is a little reaction today to the over finished radio speaker. In my opinion he should use only a skeleton manuscript or notes and allow himself a substantial cushion for extemporaneous remarks."

William A. Bacher, W-G-N program and production chief: "Willkie's voice has definite possibilities. He is sure of himself; he has a good resonant voice. At Elwood he was at his best in the narrative portion of his address when he was telling about his forbears. A little more 'heart to heart' manner is what he needs. He should let himself go more. With a little coaching he will be a real surprise."

Parker Wheatley, radio director and instructor at Northwestern university: "Mr. Willkie at Elwood displayed a vigorous fighting voice, sometimes hoarse, and heavily flavored with a characteristic Hoosier drawl and firmness that matches the simplicity and directness of his speech."

Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna: "Mr. Willkie sounds just like a real American, typical of the midwest. His voice is unpolished, but it's down to earth, with a quality of great sincerity about it."

A lay observer said: "It lacks the excessive graces in speech that we have become accustomed to in the last seven years in a Presidential voice, but it's good to hear."

Sherman Dryer, radio director of the University of Chicago: "Willkie should take a lesson for the future from Elwood. He should develop a technique of talking directly to the people. He should talk from studios, not outdoors before great numbers of persons. When he speaks to an intimate group he is fluid, easy, spontaneous, but not when he addresses a multitude."

Listeners commented on Willkie's typical midwestern pronunciation. He doesn't always enunciate clearly, they noted. He said "Pres'dent" for President; "wanna" for want to; "r'ligion" for religion; "arr" for our; "four'n" for foreign, and something like "pao-er" for power.

CLIFF DWELLERS TOPIC OF WORLD IS YOUR DRAMA

How scientists have uncovered stone tools, cooking utensils, and fragments of clothing in the canyons and on the mesas of the American southwest and by this means are slowly dispelling the mystery surrounding ancient cliff dwellers will be revealed during the "World Is Yours" drama at 3:30 p. m. today over WMAQ.

"Exploring the Cliff Dwellings of the West" will relate the adventures of William Jackson and Ernest Ingersoll, discoverers of the Mancos canyon dwellings in 1874, whose photographs of the region aroused the interest of scientists thruout the world. The program also will describe later investigations by the Smithsonian institution into the culture of the ancient people of the southwest.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS NOVOTNA AND ABRAVANEL

Noted Soprano, Conductor on W-G-N Tonight.

Maurice De Abravanel, celebrated conductor of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, and Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest artists on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian Broadcasting system network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick last week returned from a trip to Plattsburg, N. Y., where he observed United States army maneuvers.

Mr. Abravanel, who will be with the Chicago Opera as a conductor this season, will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in the absence of Henry Weber, who is on vacation. Madame Novotna will sing in place of Marion Claire, regular soloist on the Symphonic Hour, who is vacationing with her husband, Mr. Weber.

Three Solos by Novotna.

Mr. Abravanel and the symphony orchestra will open the program with Jean Sibelius' stirring "Finlandia."

Madame Novotna will present three solos—an aria from "Louise," by Charpentier, and two other numbers of her selection.

The orchestra will play two numbers by Johann Strauss—"Perpetuum Mobile" and "Radetzky March"—as well as Jacques Offenbach's "Overture Orpheus." The chorus will join the orchestra in Carl Weber's "Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Frieschutz, and themes from Friedrich von Flotow's "Martha," the evening finale.

The complete program:

"Finlandia" .... Sibelius
Chorus and orchestra.
Aria from "Louise" .... Charpentier
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Perpetuum Mobile" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
"Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Freischutz" .... Weber
Male chorus and orchestra.
Address .... Col. Robert R. McCormick
"Overture Orpheus" .... Offenbach
Orchestra.
"O, While I Sleep" .... Liszt
"Velia," from "The Merry Widow" .... Lahar
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Radetzky March" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
Themes from "Martha" .... Von Flotow
Chorus and orchestra.

Daughter of a Czech banker, Madame Novotna made her American debut at the Metropolitan last January in "La Boheme." She was wildly acclaimed by New York critics for her voice, beauty, and dramatic ability. Her rôle as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan was pronounced the finest performance in two decades.

Made Debut in Prague.

Madame Novotna sang her first opera rôle at the Prague National Opera when she was 17. After appearances in operas in Vienna, Paris, Warsaw, and Salzburg, Madame Novotna was starred in a number of European motion pictures.

Born of Portuguese parentage at Saloniki, Greece, Mr. Abravanel studied as a youth under Edmond Allegra and Kurt Weill. He has conducted in the Berlin State Opera house, the Paris Symphony and l'Opera orchestras with Bruno Walter, and has directed concert and broadcasting orchestras in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Abravanel is coming from Toronto for his guest engagement with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

ALL-STAR GAME ON W-G-N—MBS NEXT THURSDAY

Bob Elson and Savage at Microphones.

The College All Stars'-Green Bay Packers' football game will be broadcast by W-G-N-Mutual starting at 8:30 p. m. next Thursday from Soldiers' field.

Assisted by a battery of coaches, Bob Elson, a veteran All-Star game broadcaster, will report this year's contest. Ceremonies in connection with the game will be described by Guy Savage from a special post on the field behind the Packers' bench.

The broadcast will open with a description of the impressive ceremony during which the leading All-Star players are introduced. In addition, Savage will provide listening fans with a panoramic picture of the crowd at Soldiers' field.

After the pregame ceremonies Elson will take over the mike up in the broadcasting booth for the description of the game. Between halves the experts and coaches assisting Elson will analyze the game for listeners.

For the last week the squad of 69 All-Stars has been drilling at Northwestern university's Dyche stadium under the tutelage of Head Coach Eddie Anderson of the University of Iowa.

Assisting Head Coach Anderson are Tad Wieman of Princeton, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Don Faurot of Missouri, and Lowell Dawson of Tulane.

The Green Bay Packers, professional champions last season, five times holders of the title, are in training at Green Bay, Wis. Curley Lambeau is the head coach.

Spiritual Issues of War to Be Discussed Today

Spiritual issues of the war, current series of addresses by leading churchmen of Great Britain, will be heard at 12:30 p. m. today, when the Rev. Dr. James J. Forgan, moderator of the Assembly of the Church of Scotland, speaks to the American people from London over WCFL.

PLOT TO DISRUPT LATIN ACCORD IN 'WINGS' EPISODE

A gigantic scheme to disrupt United States-Latin American accord thru the distribution of large amounts of counterfeit money will be portrayed on "Wings for America" from 7 to 7:30 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The spy drama, written and produced by Blair Walliser, co-stars Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes of stage and screen fame.

Lorna Carroll, Chicago Tribune girl reporter played by Miss Landi, and Riley Davis, Mutual network news commentator, stumble onto the fifth column plot to sabotage Pan-American friendship thru an exconvict who tells them of some counterfeit hundred dollar bills he picked up in a poker game. Lorna and Riley are merely suspicious of the high denomination of the bills at first and are unaware of the scope and nature of the plot.

Members of the Advance Front, mythical fifth column group engineering the scheme, also try to put the lid on Riley's antiespionage efforts by 'framing' him with some of the counterfeit money. The bad bills and engraving plates for manufacturing them are planted in Riley's office by a girl who fakes a story about being pursued by fifth columnists.

Meanwhile, Lorna, angry with Riley, accepts a job with a Latin American export cartel headed by a mysterious Sir Benedict Cavil. While preparing to leave for South America Lorna hears that Riley has been arrested for passing counterfeit money.

The rescue of Riley and the uncovering of the counterfeit money plot bring the story to a surprise ending.

The supporting cast for this episode includes Arthur van Slyke, Sherman Marks, John Walsh and Sallie Smith.

Flying Cadets' Story to Be Told Over WMAQ

Glencoe Bicycle Ordinance Is Studied by Committee

Glencoe's proposed new bicycle ordinance is expected to be presented to the village board on Sept. 12. The first draft, prepared by public school students, is being studied by the improvement and law committee of the board, under the chairmanship of C. Lyle Smith, trustee.

DINNER FOR BISHOP TO MARK OPENING OF METHODIST RETREAT

A dinner honoring Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Methodists in Chicago and Illinois, will be given Friday evening, marking the opening of the "bishop's retreat" for lay men and women and clergy at College camp, Lake Geneva.

Bishop Waldorf.

The annual Fall retreat lasts for three days. During the period many lectures and discussions are held on current events, as well as on religious subjects. Churchmanship and the meaning of the Christian church in a world of war is the main thesis that will be studied.

Among the speakers during the three days will be the Rev. Erskine Jeffords, pastor of the First Parish church, Wilmette, and the Rev. Dr. W. E. Shaw, president of Illinois Wesleyan university. The retreat will close on Sunday morning with a sunrise service and sermon by Bishop Waldorf.

Summer Bride

Mrs. Edward H. Horzely is the former Margaret Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Casey, 5104 Sheridan road. Her marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horzely, 3425 North Neenah avenue, took place recently.

CASH AND SEATS TO SYMPHONIES TO I. Q. WINNERS

Cash and main floor seats to an early concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra are the awards made to senders of questions on music used in the quiz program, "Your Music I. Q." heard from 8:30 to 9 each Monday evening on W-G-N.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, which opens its golden jubilee season on Oct. 10, presents the program, with outstanding music personalities as the "experts." Tomorrow Pauline Manchester, concert pianist who last year appeared with the orchestra; Ludlow White, well known baritone; Gordon Campbell, pianist and teacher, and Jolly Franzl, entertainer at Old Heidelberg, will be heard.

Popular music as well as classical music are included in the questions on the program. One dollar goes to the sender of every question used. If the question is not answered correctly by the experts the sender receives two Orchestra hall seats.

M'NARY ADDRESS SCHEDULED ON W-G-N TUESDAY

Senator Charles L. McNary's acceptance speech for the Republican Vice Presidency nomination will be heard over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., Tuesday.

Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, will introduce the nominee. The broadcast will originate at the Fair Grounds at Salem, Ore.

FORMER USHER WINS PLACE IN OPERA CHORUS

Harold Traub Jr., 5241 Lakewood avenue, experienced the greatest thrill of his life recently. For five years he has been an usher in the Civic Opera house, working there so he might be near the big stage and hear the stars sing, hoping that he might some day be a performer. Near him, working in the checkroom, was a young lady, Dorothy Schmekel, who also had her heart set on making her appearance on the stage. Harold, in turn, had his heart set on her. That was five years ago. Just the other day the two stood hand in hand on the great stage as members of the new Chicago Opera company chorus, and announced their engagement.

When the opera season opens on Nov. 2, the regular chorus will number 85, the largest chorus ever assembled by a Chicago opera company. The singers will eventually take minor rôles and understudy the leading parts.

Voice training that he undertook in order to win a place in his high school glee club was the stepping stone to Harold's place in opera. It stimulated his interest and in order to be near the stars, he applied for and won a job as an usher. From that time his desire has been to look across the footlights as a performer at the audiences he has so often seated. To finance his career he has been working as a platemaker in a lithographing shop.

To Play Tennis.

Jean Putnam of Wilmette, 16 years old, is the newly appointed chairman of junior tennis activities at the Shawnee Country club. More than 50 young players are expected to take part in the junior tournament which starts tomorrow.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels
with herb laxative combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

TRADE STUDIES TO BE CONTINUED AS DEFENSE AID

Seven Schools Will Offer Factory Courses.

The vocational education defense program will continue this fall in seven Chicago public high schools, it was decided last week by government and board of education officials. Two schools—Lindblom and Phillips—will be added to the five which have been operating under a day and evening schedule for the last two months. At least 3,500 workers will be trained by the time the courses are ended on Dec. 31, according to Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator for the board of education, who is assisting Supt. William H. Johnson with the work.

Purpose of the program is to prepare an "army in overalls" which would be able to run the nation's factories in an emergency. The state employment bureau will suply the students. They will be either men who have actually worked in factories or boys who have completed four years of technical high school study.

Classes Start at 4:30.

Classes will run from 4:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the regular classes in the schools are ended, on weekdays, and from 8 o'clock on Saturday. Subjects to be taught are automobiles, aviation, electricity, forge, foundry, machine drawing, machine shop, sheet metal, welding, and woodworking. All of it will be taught in the shop.

Day and evening classes have been conducted at Crane, Lane, Harrison, Schurz, and Tilden High schools during the summer. The new schedule will begin early next month. All expenses, including 134 teachers' and supervisors' salaries, communications, printing, equipment, repairs, supplies, and other necessities, will be borne by the government as part of the $15,000,000 defense appropriation recently announced by J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education in Washington, D. C.

Trade Classes Continue.

Mr. McNamee said that the Washburne Evening Trade school would continue its classes for journeymen workers as usual. They are receiving advanced training under the Smith-Hughes law. Other local schools may participate in the defense program later, he added.

Century Ride Will Be Loop This Season

This year's 100 mile trail ride, annual test of horsemanship sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America, will start and end at Onwentsia Country club on each of its three days—Oct. 4, 5, and 6.

This was announced last week by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the horse and mule association, who is head of the committee on arrangements for the ride, now in its third year.

Previous rides have ended many miles from their start, in order that the riders might traverse as many miles of the Cook county and Du Page county forest preserve trails as possible. The "cloverleaf plan," whereby the three day ride is made in daily loops, is intended primarily to acquaint the riders with the extensive private trail system in Lake county.

Forty Miles in Seven Hours.

The itinerary of the cross-country ride will dip far south into Cook county on the first and second days, on each of which 40 miles will be covered, the officials said. On the third day only 20 miles will be ridden.

Riders will be required to finish the 40 mile legs in seven hours each and will be allowed three hours for the final 20 miles. Motorized units will accompany the horsemen and horsewomen, carrying water and feed for the mounts, luncheon for the riders, and the judges, handlers, and other necessary staff members.

Several advantages are claimed for the cloverleaf method of conducting the ride.

One is that it simplifies arrangements for stabling. In previous years it was a problem to find adequate barn accommodations for the close of the first and second days.

Another is that riders are freed of the necessity of having their horse-carrying trailers and other equipment moved while they ride to a distant finish line, and can more conveniently arrange hotel accommodations.

$10 Entry Fee.

The entry fee of $10 includes feed and stabling for the horse for three days, and luncheons for the rider.

Entries already are being received by members of the committee, Dinsmore said. These members include Dinsmore; J. M. Fitzgerald of the Town and Country association; Robert Mann, maintenance superintendent for the forest preserves; Elmer J. Holdorf, stable owner; Mrs. Helen M. L. Hall, riding instructor, and Jesse F. Burt.

A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride

This drawing shows a rider in good form in the canter, a rocking gait that on most horses is easy to ride. Its speed can be regulated to suit the desire of the equestrian. The horse is shown at the instant all four feet are off the ground.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Next in order in my riding series came the canter, a rocking motion of the horse that is really a slow gallop. It is an easier gait to ride to than the trot, because it is more rhythmical, but this varies with the horse.

My teacher, Elmer J. Holdorf, has insisted from the start of this lesson series that horses differ as widely as riders. My own brief experience bears this out.

Take, for example, my first mount, Brownie, a docile mount whose laziness makes her ideal as a school horse. Then there was Sergeant Pat, rather hard-mouthed and slow, but possessed of a beautiful slow trot that is extremely easy on the rider.

Ranger, on the other hand, has a more choppy trot, but a canter as smooth as rippling meadow, which he always precedes with a disdainful toss of his head.

Head Up for Canter.

Getting a horse to canter requires "collecting" him under you This is accomplished by bringing his head up and his nose back with the reins, at the same time applying the calves or heels decisively to his sides to urge him forward.

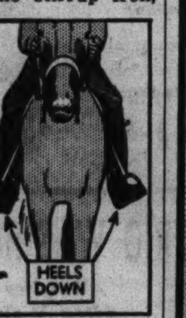
If he should merely trot, or canter for a few steps and break back to the trot, he should be returned to the walk and started over. The canter should always start from the walk, never from the trot, I was told.

In the canter, as in the trot, I was instructed to stay with the saddle; that is, to avoid letting daylight show between my seat and the saddle. To do this requires good equilibrium, with some assistance from the thighs, knees and toes.

I was still having some trouble in keeping my knees in, but I was able to overcome this almost completely with the aid of a procedure Holdorf showed me.

Knee Grip Improves.

He told me to keep my foot against the inner side of the stirrup iron, with the inner side of the foot lower than the outer side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. I found this was an easy position to maintain, and was gratified to see that it helped keep my heels down—and thus helped give ce a feeling of security and confidence.



I noticed that when I was properly seated on a moving horse the inner sides of my knees felt a bit exercised. My instructor said this was an excellent sign. Chafed knees indicate a new rider is getting a natural knee grip, Holdorf said.

One tendency that gave me trouble was leaning forward too far during the canter. This took weight off my seat and caused me to bump up and down with the horse's motion. This bumping ceased instantly when I straightened up, lifted my chin and threw my shoulders back, to get the "hollow back" my tutor keeps counseling.

In keeping my horse's head high while cantering, I saw that the backward pull of the reins tended to slow him so he broke back into a trot. I was advised to apply the leg aids as I reined, to let the horse know I didn't want him to change gait.

That worked like a top. I discovered I could slow the canter down to the speed of a walk, merely by applying the forward [foot] and backward [rein] aids at the same time.

MODERN FARMS HIDE MEMORIES OF GHOST TOWN

Now Find Brookdale Only in History.

There is always the land. Tho towns may arise and then fade away, the land alone remains. Once there was a farming community called Brookdale, northwest of Woodstock in Hartland township on what is now route 14 and what was then a stage coach and pony express route.

Conflicting reports exist among descendants of the old families of that section regarding the size of the town and the reason for its disappearance. But, those reports are mostly hearsay, for Brookdale began in 1840, and Brookdale had begun to disappear by 1856.

Why a Town Disappeared.

A familiar story in those parts is about the laying of the North Western railway tracks, and how they were supposed to go to Chemung and didn't, and how they weren't supposed to go to Harvard and did. The company engineers were surveying to lay the tracks thru Brookdale to Chemung, when an argument arose between the proprietor or an employé of the S. S. Parker hotel in Chemung and the engineers over the price of some cigars.

The infuriated engineers stalked out of the hotel with the remark that the railroad would never reach Chemung. They resurveyed choosing for a terminal the nearby crossroads called Harvard, which has thereby become a thriving town. But Brookdale disappeared completely and Chemung is a village of 250 inhabitants. The 1877 edition of the McHenry county history says of Chemung:

"This village was laid out in 1844 and consequently is one of the oldest in this section of country. The village grew steadily and had become quite a business center with a population of 400 when the railroad came to Harvard to which place the people flocked till scarcely 200 people remained in the village."

Mill Rots Down.

And of Brookdale, the history reports: "The township being well timbered, a sawmill seemed necessary, and the want was supplied by Wesley Diggins. The mill was at the forks of the road, and a store being opened there in 1843, the place received the name of Brookdale, but the mill has rotted down, the store was discontinued in 1848, in fact the name alone remains of what once gave promise of a city."

But memories and verbal history tell a greater tale and a somewhat different one from that found in the records; which after all were recorded some 20 years after the decline began. Verbal history tells of a wide open village which had nine saloons and not many more houses; of the sawmill built in 1840 and of the section being known as "Hell's Half Acre" because whisky and Irish temperaments caused frequent explosions.

Part of that town hall is now the living room of the Elmer Pellegrin home, and in place of the old town is the Pell-Bari farm. Mr. Pellegrin, who is an industrial designer, has owned the farm for four years and it is still known among the natives as the old Lawler farm.

Section of Irish.

The section in the early days was almost completely Irish and there is still a large percentage of Irishmen there. Dan Quinlan, descendant of one of the earliest families to settle there tells that his family's explanation of the Irish colony, for 40 years the largest this side of the Atlantic, was that the day of the squatters was also the day of mob rule.

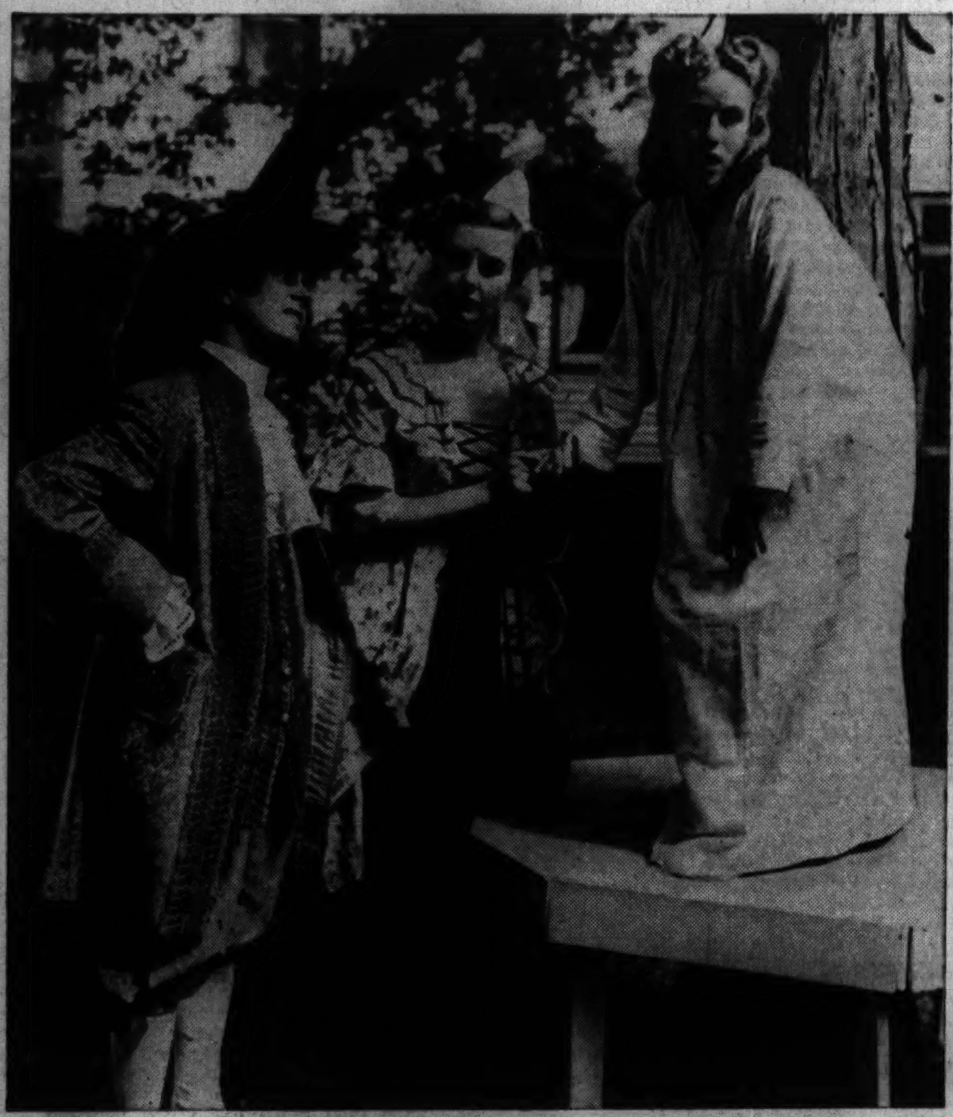
His family was forced off its first homestead near Dundee and eventually settled in Hartland township. So these pioneers decided to prevent such a thing ever happening again and so only Irishmen were allowed to pass into the section and to settle there, and force was used when necessary. Sullivans, Quinns, McCartys, Hurleys, McCabes, Lawlers, Harlesys, Kennedys, Nolans, O'Hallorans, Walshs, all good Irish names were represented.

Mark F. Walsh, another descendant of the original Irish families to settle in Hartland township, and who like Dan Quinlan has passed his 70th birthday, has been editor of the Harvard Herald for 53 years. He tells of the old Jerome place near Harvard, and it is a timely story, for it has just been sold to Alfred and Henry Burrow after being in one family for all of its 104 years. That first owner, Jason N. Jerome, told the story of his coming west to Mr. Walsh.

Shuns Chicago Marshes.

As a 19 year old lad in Vermont, he had dreamed of owning a large farm and he set out to find it. First he migrated to La Porte, Ind. and there met and organized a group of landseekers like himself. They passed thru Chicago for that land appeared too marshy, and they settled in what is now Marengo. But, Jason Jerome had not found what he sought and he went further. He found the farmland he had dreamed of in Durham county and in July, 1836, paid the government $1.25 an acre for the 213 acres he had chosen. Pioneer Jerome was born in 1807 and died in 1892.

Lake Zurich Playhouse Gets Laughs with Moliere Comedies



This week-end's crop of laughs at the Lake Zurich summer playhouse must be good, judging by these pictures of various scenes from "The Physician in Spite of Himself," one of Moliere's comedies, which is being given as part of a double feature. At the left Don Hanmer, playing the part of Leandre, and Gloria Hopkins, as Jacqueline, a nurse, register impatience after trying to make Lucinde, an invalid, being played by Jocelyn Brando, talk. On the right, the peasant, Sganarelle, who became a doctor in spite of his objections and is played by John Becher, finds Jacqueline a charming diversion from his duties.

Some of the cast from "The Physician in Spite of Himself" pose in front of the atmospheric signpost marking the summer theater. Jeanne Barrien, taking the part of M. Robert, in the center, is about to be punished for having tried to interfere in a family squabble between Sganarelle and Martine, who is being played by June Lange. On the right is a scene from another Moliere play, "The Highbrow Ladies," being given on the same program, in which two affected young ladies play pranks on their foppish admirers. They are Carmelita Pope, as Cathos; Ralph Browne, as Du Croisy (standing); Don Hanmer, as La Grange (formally seated), and June Stewart, as Madelon.

Let Tradition Guide You in Riding Apparel

BY REA SEEGER.

Any attempt at rugged individualism is quietly nipped in the bud if you are shopping for riding apparel. It's much safer to string along with tradition. Headgear, for instance, correct hats of fine felt designed to fit down over the skull, are designed that way for the simple idea of comfort and assurance that, once on the head, playful breezes cannot whisk them away. So, also, the shallow brims, just wide enough to shadow the eyes, not to drop down when you need a good eye range.

Gloves are also standard and classic. String affairs for casual summer outfits, of sturdy cotton twills or gabardines, strong, long wearing supple pigskins to wear with wool outfits, ridged on each finger for a firm yet easy grip. Combinations of pigskin with chamois provide a third choice if you insist upon something a bit different.

"Darbies" Cork Lined.

The derbies or "darbies," as you prefer, are cork lined, an exceedingly comforting assurance to the equestrian pessimistically fearing a tumble. But if you wear a derby it must not be any other color than coal black; if you wear a derby you must wear a stock [collar to the walkers].

Derbies are correct toppers for dress riding. The shallow brimmed hats that fit down so securely over the head are correct for the casual round the town riding of an average city and suburbs. Such felts come in unassuming colors, subdued shades of blue, beige, russet, and brown with a few gray's, each model a classic of simplicity and fit.

Riding shirts are without frills or extras, they're as smartly masculine as tho you selected them at the haberdasher that serves your dad or brothers. White broadcloth, impeccably detailed, seamed and cut, promises comfort and the right contrast. Collars stay buttoned snugly high around the neckline with ties of dark, discreet colorings, no pins, clips or other cluttering jewelry.

Tights of Wool.

Underneath everything are tights of fine English wool sufficiently long to reach the top of the shoes. For long hours in the saddle, you are advised to wear or buy tights without seams, thus banishing all hazards of skin welts.

This riding underwear is soft, absorbent, thin and designed to fit with unwrinkled smoothness. The more expensive stuff of the same thin wool, same cut and design and without seaming, is priced higher because of the lack of seams and because it is imported . . . but it's worth every additional penny.

Correct riding outfits are of sturdy wool for fall and winter; fine, strong cottons and palm beach materials for summertime. All breeches, jodhpurs, jackets, or coats are marvels of fine tailoring, flawless fitting. Nothing irritates the critics more than sloppy riding clothes. Every cent you spend on meticulously tailored and superfitted jackets, breeches, or jodhpurs is justified. Such selections outlast, infinitely outsmart anything of less carefully cut designs.

Good looking and correct jodhpurs or breeches are usually of brown, russet, dark or light beige, or chestnut with a very few oxford grays and lighter gray colors. Jackets are always cut long enough to conceal the widest spread of the hips, seamed cut and fitted to make the most of the figure line.

And while the knowing equestrian has her jackets and outfits made to her particular requirements, some extremely well designed jackets can be selected from the available large ready to wear assortments.

Are Preferred Patterns.

Small blurred checks, indeterminate plaids, and chevron diagonals are the preferred patterns with the colors always to repeat, blend, or harmonize with the color of the breeches or jodhpurs. Strong yet flexible cavalry twill is the best fabric for these garments, with reinforced sections of the same fabric or harmonizing suede of light weight. Every inch of the seaming, fitting, and cutting is executed to assure super comfort and smart streamlines.

Pockets in the jackets are expertly placed and tailored as are the collars, sleeves, and other details. Smooth woolens, together with slightly rough or restrained fleecy tweeds in handsome sporty patterns, are plentiful in heather shades or rich glowing colors of fall foliage.

Summer jackets are made of cotton gabardine in small checks, and plaids carefully copied from the fabric designs in wool . . . hound's tooth checks, blurred plaids, and diagonals. Colors are also copied from the wools, the one exception being the beautifully tailored, cool, long fitted jackets of creamy white palm beach material with a self-design in small chevron diagonal.

Summer jodhpurs are made of strong cotton twill or gabardine, in russet, tan, beige, or summer whites in sturdy, long wearing materials that tailor with the same swank as wool.

Waistcoats are optional with either winter or summer outfits. You'll find large assortments of these plain or patterned waistcoats as well as the finest examples of correct riding clothes and accessories in many well known Chicago sports shops and in the equally well selected showings featured in other Chicago stores.

CHILDREN'S AID TO BE SOUGHT FOR CAMPAIGN

Fines May Be Levied on the Heedless.

Boys and girls of the city will be enlisted by the park district in a drive to keep its 136 parks free from litter left by careless persons, it was announced last week by George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the district. The drive will be backed up with police action when necessary.

Pledges will be sent to all the parks, to be signed by children of the neighborhood, promising that they will help keep the parks free from litter. Those who sign will be given a membership button which will identify them as workers for cleaner parks.

More than 2,000 signs will be erected in the various parks reminding patrons to "help keep your parks clean." Cards are being handed by park employés to those seen violating the ordinance against littering park property asking them to "kindly put trash in containers."

Litter Is Illegal.

A comprehensive park district ordinance backs up the drive: "No person shall throw, cast, deposit, lay, place, or scatter in or upon the park system or any park property or appurtenance any placard, hand-bill, pamphlet, circular, book, notice, paper of any kind, coal, ashes, dust, manure, rubbish, garbage, refuse matter or article, or thing of any kind."

The last section of the same chapter provides that violators "shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $200 for each offense."

Superintendent Donoghue said police action would be resorted to only if appeals to civic pride and the spirit of fair play failed to obtain results.

"The park police will be instructed, however," he said, "to enforce the ordinance against those who ignore our appeal for coöperation."

Employés in Crusade.

Every park employé has been pressed into service of the anti-litter crusade and has been instructed as to specific duties. First of all, they are expected to set an example of neatness and regard for the rights of others on park property; next, they are required to take appropriate action whenever they observe a violation of the ordinance.

In most instances such action will be, first, to correct the condition and then call the offender's attention to the effects of his carelessness. Gross offenses or a hostile attitude will be met by police action.

"Great things are expected from the children of all ages," Mr. Donoghue said. "They are perhaps the most intensive users of park property and probably get the most pleasure out of such use. It is only just that they should be called upon to help keep their parks clean—and, perhaps, to set an example which their elders will be ashamed not to emulate. When you get the youngsters behind any such public movement, you have enlisted a mighty force.

New York Gets Results.

"Robert J. Dunham, president of the board, and I were told while in New York recently about that city's efforts to combat the litter nuisance. The school children played a big part in a long term educational campaign which ultimately resulted in a very creditable public attitude toward cleanliness.

"It seems that a park director became exasperated after a public school picnic left his area looking like a section of the city garbage dump. He telephoned the principal of the school and said, 'You are teaching your children good citizenship, yet they left the park yesterday in such a mess that it will take my men several hours to clean it up.'

"'Leave it just as it is,' the principal answered. 'We made the mess yesterday, we'll come back and clean it today.' And they did. The gospel of clean parks then spread thruout the school system."

Cleaning Cost Is $150,000.

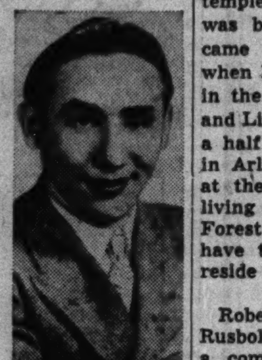
The annual cost of cleaning up the parks, beaches, and boulevards in the park district, Donoghue said, is about $150,000. Of this the northwest section accounts for about $20,000. During 1939 the litter consisted of 8,000 truck loads, or about 540,000 cubic feet, enough to cover 12 acres with a pile of trash 12 inches deep. The work required a force of 320 men and a fleet of 28 trucks.

Services of the Help Beautify Chicago committee, of which Mayor Kelly is honorary chairman and Karl Eitel is general chairman, have been enlisted in all sections of the city.

Among the northwest siders who are active on this committee are Mrs. Henry W. Hartough, 4033 North Kedvale avenue, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's organizations; Carl B. Roden, librarian of the Chicago Public Library; Mrs. F. E. Robert, 3119 West Belden avenue; Mrs. Milton L. Weiner, 2805 North Spaulding avenue, president of the High School council; Mrs. F. Russell Lyon, 6100 Newburg avenue, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, and Mrs. Arthur M. Wilkinson, 6234 North Oakley avenue, director of district 24, P.-T. A.

STARTS FORMING TEMCHE SHOLOM JUNIOR GROUP

Irving Kolpas, the son of Rabbi Lipmanas Kolpas, is organizing the juniors of Temche Sholom center under the sponsorship of that organization. The seniors are already organized under the leadership of Lester Richmond. The main purpose of the club will be recreational, but, besides the social meetings, the group will hear lecturers who are authorities on various subjects.



Irving Kolpas.

Meetings will be held twice a month, and the group is now holding a roll call for volunteer members. The first big meeting will take place on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the center, 1314 North Rockwell street.

The organization will raise funds to aid needy professional people in this country. Irving Kolpas, acting chairman, says there will be no racial discrimination in the aid that is given. The acting secretary of the club is Roslyn Hirsch.

OUR TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Frenzel celebrated their 50th anniversary last week with a reception at the Viking temple, 935 School street. Mr. Frenzel was born in Saxon, Germany, and came to Chicago with his parents when he was 14 years old. He lived in the same community at Newport and Lincoln avenues until a year and a half ago. Mrs. Frenzel was born in Arlington, Minn., and came here at the age of 18. They are both living at the Old People's home in Forest Park. Mr. and Mrs. Frenzel have three daughters, all of whom reside in Chicago.

Robert Rusboldt, son of Mrs. Stasia Rusboldt, of Harvard, Ill., has passed a competitive examination for admittance to the aeronautical school of the University of Chicago, according to an announcement from the Third Air Base squadron at Selfridge Field, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gehringer are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today by holding open house at their home, 4455 Leland avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Gehringer have lived at the present address for 44 years and were married in Chicago Aug. 25, 1870. They have three sons, six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mosny, 3344 Waveland avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Irene, to George J. Gutten, son of Mrs. Susan Gutten, of 2503 Ashland avenue. Miss Mosny is a graduate of Roosevelt High school and her fiancé of Lane Technical High school. The wedding will take place Christmas day.

A poem entitled "Barn Swallows," written by Kathleen Fitzgerald Fox, of Franklin Park, has been included in the 1940 edition of the World's Fair Anthology of Verse. Mrs. Fox is the wife of William C. Fox Jr.

The South Edgebrook Woman's club will tour a food products plant Thursday at 1 o'clock. Those wishing to go on the tour may make reservations by calling Mrs. Phyllis Gerber, or the president, Mrs. Joseph Feltz, 5529 Ardmore avenue.

Five northwest side students have been awarded scholarships at the University of Chicago for this year. V. Alexander Netzel, of Elmwood Park, and F. Donald Bloss, 5718 Giddings street, were among the 46 juniors and seniors who received one year honor scholarships. Wallace Conrad Koehler, 4005 Wellington avenue, has received a junior college half scholarship.

The Netzels' other son, Glen, an honor graduate of Steinmetz High school, received a freshman scholarship, and a half scholarship went to Gloria June Harnick, 4130 North Lawler avenue, who has completed the first half of her freshman year.

Joan Kolarik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kolarik, 4323 North Spaulding avenue, will celebrate her first birthday this week. Weighing 1 pound and 11 ounces at birth, the baby had 54 blood transfusions in the first 100 days of her life. Doctors termed it a miracle that she lived. Now at her first birthday, she weighs 16½ pounds.

Leyden Township clinic of the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County will be open Wednesday morning from 10 o'clock to noon in the Elmwood Park municipal building.

NAME STATIONS AND HOURS FOR ALIEN LISTING

Postoffice officials have announced the location of nine branch postoffices where some 50,000 northwest side aliens will be required to register between Tuesday and Dec. 26.

All aliens 14 years of age and over must be fingerprinted as a part of registration. A fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for six months is the maximum penalty prescribed for failure to register or for making statements known to be false. Children under 14 years old must be registered by their parent or guardian.

According to the 1930 census there were 182,000 aliens in the city. In the Wicker park postoffice district there were 12,322; Logan Square, 9,548; and Cragin, 6,729; while in Norwood Park there were only 717.

The postoffices at which registration must take place, besides the main postoffice and old postoffice buildings downtown, are as follows:

Kedzie-Grace, 3750 North Kedzie avenue; Logan Square, 2339 North California avenue; Norwood Park, 6158 Northwest highway; and Wicker Park, 1225 North Paulina street.

The offices will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning to 9 in the evening on week days.

Fraternity Meet.

Northwestern university chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will be host for the 72d national convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel from Tuesday thru Saturday. More than 800 persons are expected to attend.

Voice of the Northwest Side.

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the Northwest Side, The Tribune.

WHY RATS INCREASE.

What can be done to correct a bad condition in the alley between Kilbourn and Kolmar avenues from Irving Park road to Berteau avenue? Garbage was collected on Monday, Aug. 12, and up to then the alley was a filthy and odorous mess because of the following reasons:

1. Homes with garbage containers inadequate as to size.
2. Homes using open end drums for containers.
3. Homes apparently without containers of any kind and the garbage thrown any place in the alley.
4. Homes with cement containers without either cover or door.

Why do repsonsible city authorities permit such conditions, which have caused the neighborhood to become overrun with rats, offensive to the nostrils, and a breeding place for flies and vermin?

F. M. B.

ANOTHER TRAFFIC SUGGESTION.

Division of all west side streets into one way drives is likely to lead to much confusion and error. It would be overdoing the traffic problem. A bit of relief of the west side traffic difficulties would occur if all auto traffic except deliveries were barred from Madison street east of Crawford avenue. Street car traffic on Madison is heavy. Why not give the street car riding public a clear street all the way.

CIVIC BUILDING JUBILEE PLANNED IN WOODSTOCK

Open House Will Mark 50th Year Sept. 4.

The golden anniversary of the Woodstock city hall, library, fire department headquarters, and opera house, will be celebrated at an open house Sept. 4, because they all occupy the same building. All were included in the building's original plans, back in 1890 when it was constructed. Previous to the construction of the library, a library association lent books, and when the library was constructed the association donated its books.

The library recently has been remodeled and enlarged and several of the offices in the hall also have been renovated. The large ornate, old red building faces the city square and is of brick with white stone trim.

Dramatize History.

Miss Frances Garland, grandniece of E. E. Richards, the mayor when the city hall was constructed, has collected and edited a group of anecdotes portraying the early days of the town, the meetings of the city fathers and events of the time when the building was completed. She also has included as background, social and political events of local and national importance which had bearing on the lives of Woodstock residents. The episodes will be dramatized by the Woodstock Players on the evening of Sept. 4, in the opera house.

The hall took two years to complete. Materials were hard to get and work was slower than it is today. The grand opening was celebrated with the production of the play "Margery Daw," by the Patti Rose Players.

Exhibit at Library.

Tours thru the building have been planned and exhibits by the council, the library, and the fire department will be on display. Miss Lura Wandrack, the city librarian has planned an exhibit of the old books and pictures of the town at that period of its history. The first city hall was a frame structure and stood in the center of the village square.

Woodstock is the McHenry county seat but it was not always so. The first county seat was McHenry but later Woodstock was built in the exact center of the county to be the seat. Some old families in Woodstock say that the day for the celebration of the town's centennial is already past, and some say it is yet to come. The town's original name was Centerville, but early in its history the present name was taken.

King and Queen Selected in Child Beauty Contest

The king and queen of the Community Children's bathing beauty contest recently held at park No. 131 at Wrightwood and Laramie avenues are Johnny Ligocki, 4 years old, 5242 Altgeld street, and Judy Trigger, 16 months old, 2722 North Linden avenue. They were chosen from 121 contestants. Members of the royal court are Geraldine Gonciarz, aged 4; Rita Ferrari, 6 years; Richard Ludwig, 7 years, and Richard Harter, 5 years old.

GARBAGE CANS INCREASE; RATS FEEL THE PINCH

City Drives to Starve Disease Carriers.

Eleven months ago there were 96,129 buildings in the city that were provided with garbage cans. The rats loved it. Today there are only 36,629 without refuse cans, and the rats are beginning to feel the pinch of hunger.

This drastic reduction in the short space of 11 months has been a result of the city's vigorous campaign to provide refuse receptacles for all of the 385,659 dwellings in Chicago. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and 50 ward superintendents have been the leaders in the fight to starve out the rats.

Last September the city embarked on the campaign to provide garbage cans for every building as a public health measure, and urged that householders refrain from throwing refuse in alleys and vacant lots. This had been such a frequent practice that virtual feeding lots for rats had grown up everywhere, and the rat population grew to an estimated 5,000,000.

Up to Superintendents.

The main responsibility for the success of the battle was placed in the hands of the 50 ward street superintendents. In the beginning, not a single ward in the city had 100 per cent of its buildings supplied. However, thru the effort of the ward superintendents and the coöperation of various clubs and improvement organizations, thousands of new garbage cans have been placed and there are now nine wards which are batting 100 per cent. They have garbage cans provided for every building where the city collects garbage.

According to the law, each householder must provide his building with refuse receptacles. But the drive to inforce this was made more of an appeal to civic pride than a threat. As a result, the response from the people has been much greater than could have been expected.

Nine Wards Win Praise.

The nine wards that drew the praise of Commissioner Hewitt are the 5th, 8th, 32d, 33d, 34th, 39th, 48th, 49th, and 50th. These had every building supplied with garbage cans.

Other wards that were creditably mentioned were the 2d, 15th, 17th, 18th, and 41st, which had obtained cans for 12,531 buildings during the campaign, or an average of 2,506 per ward. Only three wards have receptacles for less than 70 per cent of the buildings, the 2d, 13th, and 25th.

In spite of the satisfactory results already obtained, the city is determined that every residential building in Chicago will eventually be provided with refuse receptacles that will make garbage collection easier and more effective and that an end will be put to the carelessness that results in offering disease carrying rats "three squares" a day.

To hurry the extermination of the pests the city council finance committee has set aside $3,000 to purchase rat poison that will be distributed thruout the 50 wards.

On Northwest Side.

The record of the northwest side wards and the names of the superintendents are as follows:

26th ward—William Knourek; 4,553 buildings served; 110 without cans—97.4 per cent.

28th ward—Frank Jarzembowski; 6,831 buildings served; 1,736 without cans—73.6 per cent.

30th ward—William Kelly; 7,415 buildings served; 158 without cans—97.7 per cent.

31st ward—Robert Tomaso; 6,408 buildings served; 26 without cans—99.8 per cent.

32d ward—Theodore Eppig; 6,740 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

33d ward—Kenneth Tobin; 7,369 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

34th ward—William Conrath; 7,985 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

35th ward—Walter Bialczak; 9,308 buildings served; 231 without cans—98.6 per cent.

36th ward—Harry Eckland; 11,360 buildings served; 94 without cans—98.7 per cent.

38th ward—John M. Hoey; 14,350 buildings served; 1,378 without cans—90.2 per cent.

39th ward—Ray Stanton; 10,475 buildings served; none without cans—100 per cent.

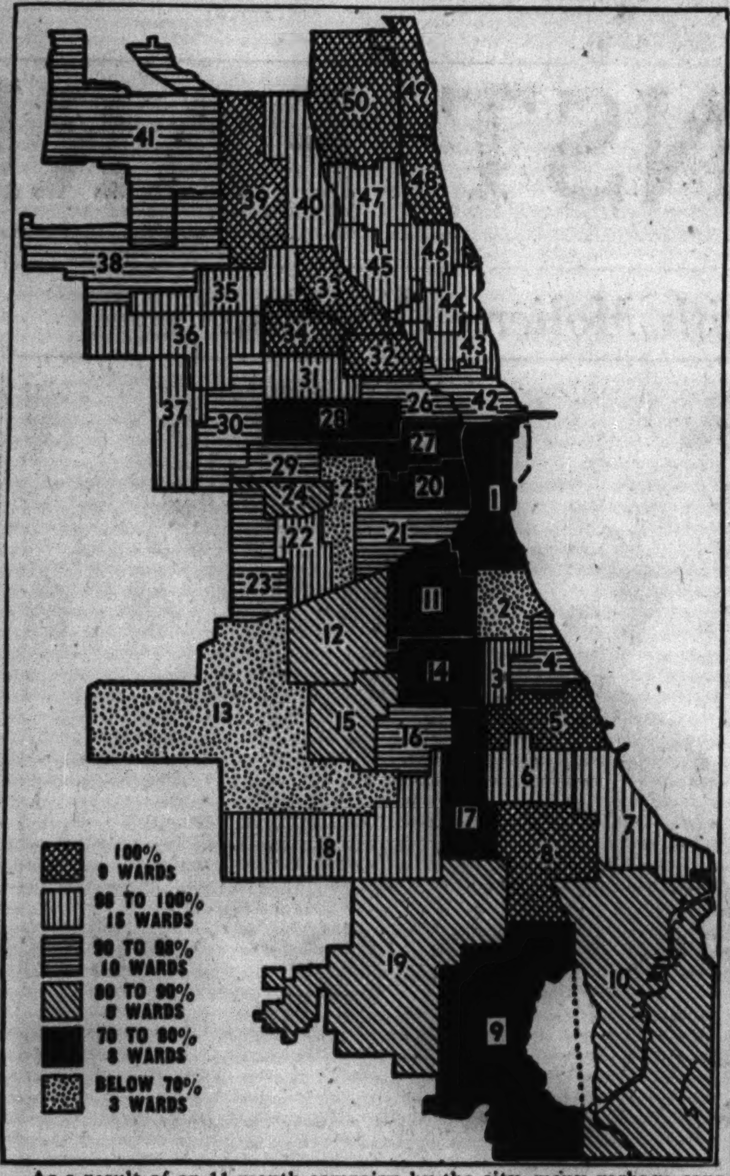
40th ward—Owen Melvin; 7,008 buildings served; 151 without cans—98.1 per cent.

41st ward—John Taylor, 15,446 buildings served; 638 without cans—94.4 per cent.

Plan Hospital Addition.

Bids recently were opened for the construction of the proposed new addition to the Berwyn hospital.

Where Garbage Cans Are Needed



As a result of an 11 month campaign by the city, many garbage cans have been placed in buildings where previously the rats had free access to the refuse and thrived on it. A report from Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, shows that the 50 city wards have been active in placing receptacles in buildings served by the city. The wards fall into six different percentage classifications based on the number of buildings served in the ward, and the number of those buildings without cans. Nine wards hit an average of 100 per cent, meaning that all buildings in the ward have cans, and three wards fall below 70 per cent.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 26.

There is nothing quite as satisfying as a number of small fruit plants on the home grounds—a few currant bushes, a goseberry or two, raspberries or blackberries, and, if a strawberry bed can be planted the luscious fresh fruits will be greatly appreciated.

Overgrown clumps of phlox should be dug and divided now. Give phlox plenty of space and avoid shade. Cut off the tops of old clumps and burn them to eliminate any disease that may be present.

Tuesday, Aug. 27.

There still is time to divide and replant iris or to plant new ones. Large clumps that are badly in need of dividing furnish only a few flowers. Order a few of the newer sorts to add variety and interest to the garden.

Old lily-of-the-valley beds that have ceased to flower abundantly should be divided and replanted now. Plant about two inches deep and four to five inches apart. Replace old worn out soil with new and dig in plenty of plant food or decayed manure.

Wednesday, Aug. 28.

For a shady border on the north side of the house use a few low growing ground cover plant with hardy ferns in the background. The bunchberry [Cornus canadensis] grows four to five inches high and has white flowers in spring followed by red berries in clusters.

Trailing arbutus is a pretty plant with fragrant flowers of pink and white. Wintergreen is desirable ground cover with green and bronze leaves and bright red, edible fruit in winter. Other kinds that could be used are galax, partridgeberry, creeping phlox, or Japanese spurge. Grave myrtle is a fine plant that is largely used.

Covering banks is frequently a problem, but if plants like the pendant goldenbell, matrimony vine, and other of similar type and habit are used they soon form a cover that is delightfully effective.

Thursday, Aug. 29.

Wild flowers transplanted this fall will flower this spring. Why not naturalize clumps of trilliums, hepaticas, Virginia bluebells, and others where they give a good effect and do not interfere with the more formal and elegant parts of the ground? Semishady places where sod is difficult to maintain will be a good place for these plants and they will be much appreciated before many other kinds come into flower. There are firms dealing in them and their cost is small.

Friday, Aug. 30.

Be sure to get in the order for bulbs, for many kinds—such as tulips are certain the be scarce due to the situation in Holland. Some stocks are available but they are likely to be so depleted that only those who order early will receive what they want.

It is unnecessary to dig and replant tulips as long as they continue flowering well, and especially the Darwins, which are among the most satisfactory types. There is such a long list of varieties that unusually attractive combinations can be arranged. Order plenty of the small bulbous plants for naturalizing for they soon grow into great masses.

Saturday, Aug. 31.

If the lawn has not been renovated or the new one constructed it is time to start. Remember that the first soil preparation is essential for a long lasting turf, which means the incorporation of copious amounts of decayed manure into the soil where it is available. If the soil is very poor it should be entirely removed to a depth of five to eight inches and replaced with good soil. It may merely lack humus which may be supplied in the form of peat or decayed manure.

OBSOLETE HOME CONVERTED INTO SIX APARTMENTS

Mansion Easily Adapted to Modern Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Sober, ageing structures can be a problem. Their intrinsic worth is undeniable, but if they are fast becoming obsolete there is the question of how they can best be reclaimed and converted into definite financial assets.

At 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago, there stands a handsome six apartment building. It is as interesting as it is good looking for it has a "past." For many years it was a beautiful, 18 room home, with high ceilings, great hallways, baths aplenty, and lovely grained woodwork and floors. It was a home which had always been well maintained and while it was in no state of deterioration it had reached the state which might be called obsolete.

The question of what to do with the house became acute and the decision was made to change its entire purpose in life. The firm of Cook and Jackson, property management, 161 East Erie street, called in Frederic B. Schmidt, Chicago architect, and plans were drawn and arrangements made for the remodeling.

Retain Floors and Trim.

As Everett Cook said to me the day I visited the apartments: "We decided from the first to keep the changes down to a minimum, since such a minimum is essential to all successful remodeling projects."

Mr. Cook called attention to the fact that it had not been necessary to change or add stairways or fire escapes. It also had been possible to reuse all the floors, which were of excellent hardwood, and all the trim, hardware, and the heating plant. New plumbing, of course, was installed thruout, new bath fixtures, kitchen, wiring, and light fixtures.

Mr. Cook is vitally interested in the reclamation of obsolete structures. "There are so many buildings and houses," he told me as we drove thru many miles of city streets, "which are sound structurally but obsolete; financial liabilities instead of assets. Sometimes all that is needed is a coat of paint or a new entrance, a new picket fence, perhaps, and some attractive painting."

Stone Porch Removed.

But to get back to 1507 North Dearborn parkway. Here the alteration is as practical as it is fascinating.

The old house had walls of limestone and these walls were sandblasted smooth. A rough stone front porch was ripped off and a new entrance built on the ground floor level. The interior entrance hall stands where once was a "grand hall," and over the new outside door the Gothic motif of the old dormers was repeated.

The entrance hall was a wainscoting of knotty pine, with a spirited green toned wall fabric above. There is a gorgeous crystal lighting fixture here which once belonged in the living room of the home.

Large Living Rooms.

The original corner fireplace has been kept, and in the bedroom, 14x16 feet, there is a second fireplace. This one is of exquisite marble, in dusty pink tones which blend with the deep red roses in the wall paper pattern. Both the bath and kitchen are entirely modern, and so is the dinette.

It may be noted here that the living rooms in all the apartments are very spacious, as spacious indeed, as the living rooms of many a large suburban home.

To Attend Conclave

Miss Dorothy Schroder, senior princess of Bethel No. 7, Order of Job's Daughters, will attend the three day international supreme session of the organization which opens Wednesday at the Hotel Sherman. More than 1,500 delegates are expected to attend.

ORDER OF JOB'S DAUGHTERS DUE FOR CONVENTION

All States and Canada to Be Represented.

From Wednesday to Friday of this week more than 1,500 members of the Order of Job's Daughters will meet in the Hotel Sherman for the International Supreme session of the organization. Members are 'teen-age girls who are related to members of the Masonic order. Delegates are assembling from chapters in every state of the Union and many are coming from Canada. The convention will be opened by a welcoming address by Mayor Kelly.

Business sessions will be held daily from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Other activities will be the installation of supreme officers, a reception for the visiting officers, and a banquet in honor of present and past queens of the order.

Officers of Order.

The officers of the order are Mrs. Hazel F. Nickerson, 7635 Perry avenue, grand guardian of Illinois; Robert Winslow, 11562 South Church street, associate grand guardian of Illinois; Rose M. Schneeberger, 6815 South Michigan avenue, supreme treasurer.

Chairmen of the convention committees are Mrs. Lucy Croker, 5442 Fulton street, reception chairman for supreme officers; Mrs. Mildred Grunwald, Berwyn, general banquet chairman; Richard Schmidt, Cicero, chairman of committee on flowers.

Others aiding in the preparations are Oscar Van Verder, 4041 North Lawler avenue; Mrs. Ella Gerlach, 4420 Manor avenue; Adam Trapp, 5358 Leland avenue. The general committee chairman of the session is Guy O. Henderson, 3827 North Tripp avenue.

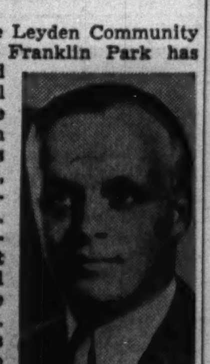
Items of Entertainment.

On the entertainment program will be a competitive drill by teams from the various states and from chapters in Illinois. There will be a chorus of 250 Job's Daughters of Illinois and the formation of a giant "living cross" by the girls.

DELAY OPENING LEYDEN SCHOOL UNTIL SEPT. 23

Construction of Addition Not Yet Finished.

Opening of the Leyden Community High school in Franklin Park has been postponed three weeks until Sept. 23 because a $50,000 addition to the building is not yet finished, the new principal, Herman L. Ylvisaker, announced last week. The school was to have opened Sept. 3. Tentative plans provide that time lost thru the delay in opening will be made up at the end of the school term.



Herman L. Ylvisaker.

Mr. Ylvisaker also announced that the enrollment this year would total more than 600, an increase of 50 over last year. He said that in spite of the new addition all applicants could not be accommodated.

New Study Hall.

The addition will house wood and metal shops, a mechanical drawing room, and a combination cafeteria and study hall seating 225. Since the work will not be wholly finished until Oct. 1 and he did not consider it practicable delay the opening of school until then, Ylvisaker said, arrangements would be made for luncheons in a nearby building. The gymnasium will be used for studying during the first week, he said.

Further new features of the school year will be three new courses. A "consumer science" course in physics and chemistry for seniors and juniors who are not going to college will be given by LeRoy Stark. Miss Helen Maloney will conduct a speech class, and a general mathematics course will be taught jointly by Ernest Rerucha and Emil Anderson. A more systematic program of remedial reading in the ninth grade will be conducted by Miss Margaret Rousch, a new teacher this year.

In accordance with a new state law all students will be required to take physical education. This course will be offered twice a week for the upper three grades and three times a week for ninth grade.

Registry Deadline Sept. 3.

Due to the new facilities and new classes it was necessary for all students to reregister earlier in the summer so that a new schedule could be made up. Sept. 3 is the deadline for all final enrollments and schedule changes.

Faculty members will report on Sept. 16 to distribute books and make locker and lesson assignments. Freshmen are to report at 9 o'clock Sept. 17, sophomores the 18th, juniors the 19th, and seniors the 20th.

Mr. Ylvisaker was appointed principal of Leyden school last spring to succeed George V. Deal, who resigned. He was principal of the Hinsdale Township High school for six years.

MUSEBECK HEALTH SPOT SHOES FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

THE HEALTH SPOT SHOEMAKER SAYS:

Perhaps if we had to walk in the other fellow's shoes, we wouldn't criticize him. Walking unnaturally or limping is often the result of wrong shoes that do not support the body weight properly, placing stress and strain on sensitive areas. In Health Spot Shoes body weight is evenly balanced over the three main weight-bearing parts of the foot. This means freedom from stress and strain . . . and comfort. Once you wear a pair of Health Spot Shoes you will always want to wear them. Write for catalog! Mail orders solicited.

Most styles $8.50 to $12.50

WORLD WALTHER LEAGUE MEETING TO OPEN TODAY

Chorus of 1,000 Sings This Evening.

The 48th annual convention of the International Walther league opens today at the Stevens hotel. More than 2,000 delegates from every section of the United States and from several foreign countries are expected to attend. The convention will close on Wednesday.

The Rev. Paul J. Roeder.

The formal opening will take place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be a religious service and the principal speaker is to be the Rev. Edward Friedrich from Wheat Ridge, Colo. where the Evangelical Lutheran sanatorium, a project of the league, is located.

In the evening, there will be a union concert by a chorus of 1,000 voices in the Auditorium theater. Waldemar Schroeder of Melrose Park, a baritone, will be the featured soloist.

Will Have Lobby Sing.

One of the features on the program will be the lobby sing conducted each evening by William B. Heyne of St. Louis, Mo. Another event of interest is the talent quest, with 400 winners in district competitions thruout the United States taking part in 51 contests in writing, drama, art, Bible knowledge, handicraft, and music.

The chairman of the talent quest committee is the Rev. Paul J. Roeder of 1714 North Narragansett avenue. A banquet will take place on Tuesday. A lake cruise and tour of the city also are planned.

The Walther league is an international organization of Lutheran young people within the Synodical conference. The international body consists of about 2,500 societies. It was formed in 1893 of the Young People's societies and the Young Men's societies, and the name Walther was taken in honor of the founder of the Missouri synod, Dr. Carl F. W. Walther, who advocated organized youth activities.

Purpose of League.

The purpose of the organization is to keep the young people within the church, to promote Christian love and fellowship, to make energetic and intelligent church-workers, and to encourage the support of charitable endeavors and missionary work.

Many projects, such as the sanitorium in Colorado, the summer camp in Michigan, and hospice homes in several of the large cities are sponsored by the league.

One of the organizers of the first society in the Chicago area was Lydia Jorn, the present Mrs. Edward W. Jaeger, of 4527 Greenwood avenue. Other names in the early Chicago history of the society are Miss Elfrieda Blank, Victor Walther, the Rev. Karl J. Fricke, and Albert H. Miller.

At first there were five societies in the Illinois district; today, 221 societies are included in the Northern Illinois district which is acting as host to the convention.

G. O. P. OF 40TH WARD TO HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

The 40th ward Republican organization will hold its annual picnic and outing next Sunday at Peter Hoffman grove in Des Plaines. C. Herman Johnson, ward committee man, has appointed J. C. Ifland, 3330 Eastwood avenue, a precinct captain, as chairman of the picnic, and Mrs. Edith A. Renier, 4418 North Kimball avenue, financial secretary.

Dwight H. Green, nominee for governor, and C. Wayland Brooks, nominee for senator, are among those expected to attend.

Subchairmen appointed to head committees are Lawrence Spuller, publicity; Ernest Schultz, printing; Fred Waldbauer, beverages; C. G. Ecklund, transportation; Edward Loft, entertainment; Henry Johnson, grounds; Herbert Voss, prizes, and Edward Brischke, games and races. Committeeman Johnson is chairman of the reception committee.

Other members active in arranging the affair are H. E. Downey, Mrs. Marie Kagey, William Foss, Reuben Greenquist, Mrs. Ethel Kuehn, Melfre Johnson, Hazel Holmes, Mrs. Maybelle Erickson, Paul E. Kofink, Mrs. Signe Johnson, Harold C. Matthias, Peter N. Molsen, Fred Grabowith, Eli Rasmussen, Mrs. E. J. Ripka, Herbert Russell, Eyvind Spone, Leo H. Lowitz, Samuel L. Golan, Ingolf P. GIVES UP DENTAL CAREER; LANDS IN OPERA CHORUS

Joseph Folmer Was a Violinist, Too.

Joseph Folmer, 1729 Mayfield avenue, is living his second life. His first life, he claims, ended when the depression ruined his plans and sent him home broke and jobless with no care for the future. His second life began when friends, hearing him sing, urged him to study voice and embarked him on a successful musical career that has been capped with his appointment as a tenor in the new Chicago Opera company chorus.

Joseph Folmer.

While a boy, Joseph was an excellent violinist and held the position of concert master with his high school orchestra for four years. However, the violin was only a pleasant side line with him, for his heart was set on being a dentist.

Enters Dental College.

After he was graduated from high school he spent two years in college and then entered a dental college. He was well on his way to a degree when the depression and loss of money forced him to give up studying and return home. Then came several lean years during which he lost all ambition and the future looked blank.

At the insistence of friends he joined a church choir. This was the beginning of his new lease on life, for the choir director took him in hand and developed his voice and his love for singing until it became his new career.

The new opera chorus was organized early this year after the opera company had auditioned more than 350 voices. It was formed with the idea of not only infusing new blood into the opera, but also of giving young singers a chance to study voice and stage technique under actual conditions. This is an opportunity that never before has been available, and Chicagoland singers from every walk of life responded to the call for new voices.

Chorus Numbers 85.

When the opera season opens on Nov. 2, the regular chorus will number 85, the largest ever to be assembled by a Chicago opera company. From their place in the chorus, the members hope to be able to sing minor rôles and to understudy the leading parts. Then one day they may step forward into the front ranks of the country's greatest singers.

Joseph's musical background is strange. Altho gifted as a violinist and interested in music, he never thought to try out his voice. He played in several state concerts, winning honors in them, and had studied violin from the age of 4. Yet it wasn't until he had lost his taste for the violin as well as for everything else, that he sang, and in the beginning he sang only for something to do.

Begins Serious Study.

When his work in the choir renewed his interest in music he began to work hard with his voice. After a great deal of training he obtained a job with an octet and sang in a Chicago night club for eight weeks. After this he traveled thruout the country with various singing groups, and even joined a small opera company.

This gave him a taste of operatic work. It aroused an intense desire to become "somebody" in opera.

Summer Bride

Park District Outing Club to Explore Indian Trails

The Park District Outing club has scheduled a trip to Lake Geneva and a six mile hike along the old Indian trails bordering the lake for today. The group will leave the Chicago and North Western station at 8:30 this morning and return at 9:30 tonight.

30 IN POLIO SWIM CLUB TO CRUISE ON LAKE TODAY

Paralysis Victims Plan Stop at Dunes.

Thirty members of the Chicago Polio Swim club will take their third annual all day cruise to Michigan City today. The cruiser will leave Burnham park lagoon at 10 o'clock this morning and will sail along the Chicago shoreline to a private beach in the Indiana dunes, where the group will have an hour swim and lunch on the beach. Later in the afternoon, the boat will sail on to Michigan City and will return to Chicago in the evening.

Membership is limited to people afflicted with poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, and the club meets every Wednesday evening for a three hour swim. Organized in the spring of 1938 by a small group of young people, the purpose of the club is to give the members the therapeutic benefits of warm water swimming.

Officers of Club.

Officers of the club are: James A. Hall, 6015 Neva avenue, president; Bryan Savage, 1728 Keystone avenue, vice president; Florence Gessing, 321 North Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, secretary; Antoinette Zadlo, 4312 Schubert avenue, financial secretary. 15 NORTHWEST SIDERS GIVEN U. OF C. DEGREES

Fifteen northwest side students are among the 500 candidates who received degrees from the University of Chicago at the 201st convocation last week. The ceremony marked the close of the summer quarter.

Dr. John Merriam Gaus, authority on public administration and visiting professor of political science, gave the convocation address on "The Region and the University."

Northwest siders who received master degrees were Mrs. Lillian Gale Adams, 1746 North Lotus avenue; Winfred Benjamin Hirschmann, 2930 Eastwood avenue; Douglas Wilder Morrill, 1305 North Hamlin avenue; Herbert Raymond Pankratz, 5248 Wellington avenue; Allen Danton Schwartz, 837 North Maplewood avenue; and Mabel Thusnelda Flum, 4532 North Kildare avenue.

The northwest siders who received bachelor degrees are Grace June Benjamin, 3741 North Damen avenue; Gertrude Rose Feder, 3424 Leland avenue; Jeannette Josephine Fiedor, 1322 North Maplewood avenue.

Myrtle A. Finkelstein, 2759 Augusta boulevard; Frances Louise Monson, 8207 St. Lawrence avenue; Mrs. Julia Moren Oien, 2544 North Kimball avenue; and Harold Arthur Swanson, 4850 Balmoral avenue.

Degrees of doctor of philosophy went to Clyde Hamilton Coombs, 5318 Giddings street and Winifred C. Linskey, 4903 North Leavitt street.

Chi-Armour Picnic.

The Chi-Armour Athletic association members will go to Royal Oaks grove on 87th street, two blocks east of Keene avenue, next Sunday for their annual picnic.

Will Be Bride Next Saturday

The marriage of Harriet Mocarwski to Frank D. Kozlicki will take place at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Hyacinth's church, George street and Lawndale avenue. Miss Mocarwski is the daughter of Mrs. Pauline Mocarwski, 2628 North St. Louis avenue. Mr. Kozlicki, a graduate of the University of Illinois school of pharmacy, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Kozlicki, 2619 North St. Louis avenue. Following the ceremony there will be a breakfast for the immediate families at the Shoreham hotel, 3318 North Lake Shore drive.

GARDEN EXHIBIT NEXT THURSDAY AT CAMP GROUND

Nine Clubs Take Part in Annual Show.

The third annual Flower and Garden show at the Des Plaines Methodist camp grounds will take place on Thursday in the dining hall and hotel. The show again will be sponsored by the Junior circle and the Women's auxiliary, but the show has expanded until it has become a northwest regional show with nine clubs participating.

Exhibits this year will include individual blooms, arrangements, house plants, luncheon and breakfast tables, unique features, and the campers' gardens.

All exhibits must be in at 10 o'clock in the morning, and the show will be open to the public from 1 o'clock until 10 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock in the evening there will be a style show of fall, college, business, and mothers' styles.

Clubs Taking Part.

The clubs which will have exhibits in the show, and their chairmen, are: Arlington Heights Garden club, Mrs. Samuel Fehlman; Des Plaines Garden club, Mrs. J. T. Walsh; Norwood Park Garden club, Mrs. L. J. Isdorf, 5819 North Harlem; Park Ridge Garden club, Mrs. Stephen T. McDermott; Edison Park Founders, Mrs. O. E. Brown, North Oriole avenue.

Edison Park Garden club, Mrs. Walter Miller, 6825 North Osceola avenue; Edison Park Garden and Home club, Mrs. C. O. Bochman, 6859 Oleander street; Edison Park Garden Culture club, Mrs. H. C. Hand, 7138 North Olcott avenue. Camp ground gardeners competing are David Radke, secretary of the Midwest Dahlia society, and Miss Florence Johnson, chairman of the Garden club at Dever School.

Judges of Exhibits.

The chairman of the judges is Mrs. Ralph Jaquith, 6647 Onarga avenue. The judges of the gardens and window boxes are Frank Balthus and William Mohr of the Garfield park conservatory. Judges of the flowers are Mrs. George Luebbe, 4149 West Lawrence avenue; Mrs. W. A. Love, 5812 North West Circle avenue; Eldred Green.

September Bride

Mary Ann Margaret Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Fitzgerald, 5240 Henderson street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Ann Margaret, to John A. Portman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Portman of 5405 North Lotus avenue. Miss Fitzgerald attended St. Catherine of Siena High school and Mr. Portman, St. Mel High school. Both are graduates of Wilbur Wright college. The wedding will take place on Sept. 21 at St. Bartholomew's Catholic church.

ALPINE CLIFFS ONCE PROVIDED GLIDER TAKEOFF

Enthusiast Recalls His Boyhood Experiments.

If you go into the office of Alfred Marchev at 2600 North Western avenue and call him an office worker, you had better get out quick. For Mr. Marchev still clings to the belief he held when he was a youthful gliding pioneer in Switzerland that "to become an office worker is the greatest punishment which can be inflicted on a man." The story of his early Alpine adventures in kite soaring, ski gliding, and broomstick controls still thrill hardened present day gliding enthusiasts, altho he has done little actual gliding himself since coming to this country in 1919.

Alfred Marchev.

"No," he will say scornfully, "I am not an office worker. I am an engineer." He is works manager and chief engineer for the Signode Steel Strapping company.

Flies at Night.

Marchev's gliding experiments began in 1908, when he was 12 years old. "People ask me if it's true," he said, "that I would run away from home in Zurich, Switzerland, and fly down the side of the Alps at night. I did do it at night, because I was afraid people would think I was crazy. But I did not have to conceal it from my father, because he did not take it seriously until I was 18 and had broken my arm three times and lit on my head after a loop the loop. He thought it was just child's play and did not pay much attention.

"By that time he thought it was going too far and told me if I didn't stop he would make me work in an office. Ever since then I have felt that to become an office worker is the greatest punishment that can be inflicted on a man. Besides, in 1914, as a result of the outbreak of war, our gliding experiments were prohibited by military authorities."

Marchev and another youth were inspired to try to fly by the first international motor airplane meet, which was held in Zurich in 1908, and in which, incidentally, the grand distance prize went to a plane which could fly 10 miles.

Soar from Ski Jump.

Their first flight was made on New Year's eve, 1908, Marchev said. The "machine" consisted of two wings which were fastened to one's arms. The "flyer" then jumped off a cliff or wall and according to plans he should glide gently down on an angle of four to one. Fate's plans were otherwise, however, and the wings collapsed after a couple of descents.

Using stronger wings, the boys later obtained their takeoff from a ski jump. In this way, Marchev said, they glided for distances as much as a mile—most of which, however, was down mountain slopes.

By 1911 they were towed by an automobile and reached a height of several hundred feet. It was during one of these performances, while Marchev was trying a loop the loop, that the controls fell out and as a result he landed on his head, he said.

Ascends in Kite.

Perhaps the strangest of their exploits was flying in kites. Marchev said that he has read about men flying in kites in the Boer war for observation purposes. By hanging a seat from the center of a large kite, he said, he was able to rise many hundred feet.

One of the most interested spectators at the national gliding and soaring meet at Joliet this week, said Marchev, will be Alfred Marchev Jr.—Age: 11. Interests: Gliding. The Marchevs reside in La Grange.

BAND OFFERS MARCH MUSIC ON LINCOLN PARK BILL TONIGHT

Operatic and march music will be played this evening by the Anderson band at the weekly outdoor concert in Lincoln park. The band conducted by Oscar W. Anderson will be presented by the park district with the cooperation of the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

Selections will include "Vanished Army," a march, by Alford; "Ciribiribin," by Pestalozza; "Dream Pantomime" from "Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck; "Overture to Rienzi," by Wagner; "Colonel Bogey," a march;; "Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1," by Enesco; "Overture to Phedre," by Massenet.

The program will include solos by Marian Carlisle, soprano, and Dan Baker, tenor.

Church Conference.

The fourth annual summer conference of the Independent Fundamental Churches of America will be held at the conference grounds at Cedar Lake from tomorrow until Sept. 2.

FIND WILLKIE'S RADIO VOICE IS FULL OF PROMISE

Listeners Say It Shows His Personality.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Wendell Willkie's radio voice and manner match his vigorous, earthy midwestern personality. His voice has real potentialities in his campaign for the Presidency. That is the opinion expressed by several speech experts and lay listeners last week.

These conclusions were reached by listeners after his formal acceptance address. Some of those who had heard him in his informal interviews and on the Town Meeting of the Air, in which he made a hit, were in a measure disappointed with his first long address on the air. They were quick to add, however, that the terrible heat, combined with the ordeal of having to address the tremendous Elwood throng as well as radio listeners probably conspired to handicap him.

In his earlier radio broadcasts Willkie showed a pronounced gift for repartee and listeners remarked about his warm friendliness, his bluff, hearty confident air that seemed in keeping with his character as they had learned about it thru the newspapers.

During his acceptance address they heard another Willkie. He was in dead earnest, challenging and forceful but not fiery. He appeared during the middle portion of the speech to be somewhat tired, his voice breaking several times. At times listeners became aware that he was reading. Toward the end there was a great improvement. He finished with great effectiveness.

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator and secretary of the Council on Foreign Relations: "Mr. Willkie fumbled at Elwood. But perhaps that was to be expected under the circumstances. He is at his best when he is engaged in informal discussion, when he can ad lib. In an open debate he would lick President Roosevelt. He has real possibilities at the microphone because of his direct, downright sincerity and his close to the soil manner. I think there is a little reaction today to the over finished radio speaker. In my opinion he should use only a skeleton manuscript or notes and allow himself a substantial cushion for extemporaneous remarks."

William A. Bacher, W-G-N program and production chief: "Willkie's voice has definite possibilities. He is sure of himself; he has a good resonant voice. At Elwood he was at his best in the narrative portion of his address when he was telling about his forbears. A little more 'heart to heart' manner is what he needs. He should let himself go more. With a little coaching he will be a real surprise."

Parker Wheatley, radio director and instructor at Northwestern university: "Mr. Willkie at Elwood displayed a vigorous fighting voice, sometimes hoarse, and heavily flavored with a characteristic Hoosier drawl and firmness that matches the simplicity and directness of his speech."

Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna: "Mr. Willkie sounds just like a real American, typical of the midwest. His voice is unpolished, but it's down to earth, with a quality of great sincerity about it."

A lay observer said: "It lacks the excessive graces in speech that we have become accustomed to in the last seven years in a Presidential voice, but it's good to hear."

Sherman Dryer, radio director of the University of Chicago: "Willkie should take a lesson for the future from Elwood. He should develop a technique of talking directly to the people. He should talk from studios, not outdoors before great numbers of persons. When he speaks to an intimate group he is fluid, easy, spontaneous, but not when he addresses a multitude."

Listeners commented on Willkie's typical midwestern pronunciation. He doesn't always enunciate clearly, they noted. He said "Pres'dent" for President; "wanna" for want to; "r'ligion" for religion; "arr" for our; "four'n" for foreign, and something like "pao-er" for power.

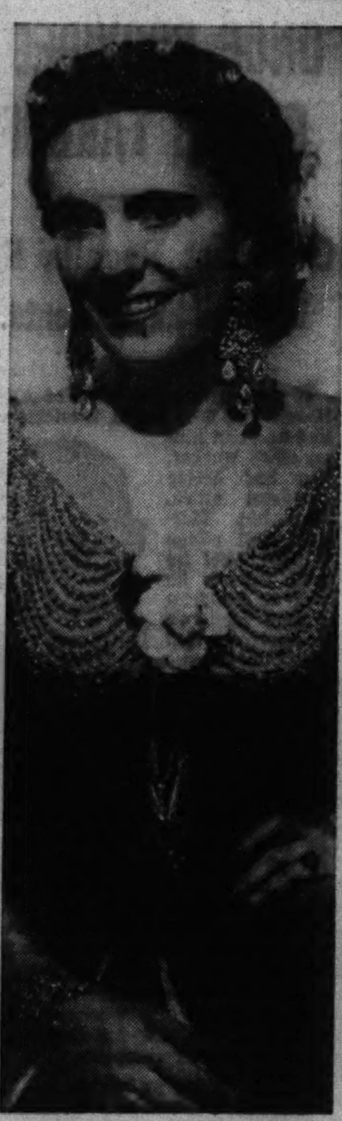
Spiritual Issues of War to Be Discussed Today

Spiritual issues of the war, current series of addresses by leading churchmen of Great Britain, will be heard at 12:30 p. m. today, when the Rev. Dr. James J. Forgan, moderator of the Assembly of the Church of Scotland, speaks to the American people from London over WCFL.

Flying Cadets' Story to Be Told Over WMAQ

The colorful story of Uncle Sam's flying cadets will be dramatized during the Wings Over America program, at 11:30 a. m. today over WMAQ. The program will trace the steps taken by young men before they become army fliers.

Guest Singer



Jarmila Novotna, the noted Czech soprano, will be guest artist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. Mme. Novotna, acclaimed enthusiastically by New York critics, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera last January in "La Boheme."

PLOT TO DISRUPT LATIN ACCORD IN 'WINGS' EPISODE

A gigantic scheme to disrupt United States-Latin American accord thru the distribution of large amounts of counterfeit money will be portrayed on "Wings for America" from 7 to 7:30 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The spy drama, written and produced by Blair Walliser, co-stars Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes of stage and screen fame.

Lorna Carroll, Chicago Tribune girl reporter played by Miss Landi, and Riley Davis, Mutual network news commentator, stumble onto the fifth column plot to sabotage Pan-American friendship thru an exconvict who tells them of some counterfeit hundred dollar bills he picked up in a poker game. Lorna and Riley are merely suspicious of the high denomination of the bills at first and are unaware of the scope and nature of the plot.

Members of the Advance Front, mythical fifth column group engineering the scheme, also try to put the lid on Riley's antiespionage efforts by 'framing' him with some of the counterfeit money. The bad bills and engraving plates for manufacturing them are planted in Riley's office by a girl who fakes a story about being pursued by fifth columnists.

Meanwhile, Lorna, angry with Riley, accepts a job with a Latin American export cartel headed by a mysterious Sir Benedict Cavil. While preparing to leave for South America Lorna hears that Riley has been arrested for passing counterfeit money.

The rescue of Riley and the uncovering of the counterfeit money plot bring the story to a surprise ending.

The supporting cast for this episode includes Arthur van Slyke, Sherman Marks, John Walsh and Sallie Smith.

ALL-STAR GAME ON W-G-N—MBS NEXT THURSDAY

The College All Stars'-Green Bay Packers' football game will be broadcast by W-G-N-Mutual starting at 8:30 p. m. next Thursday from Soldiers' field.

Assisted by a battery of coaches, Bob Elson, a veteran All-Star game broadcaster, will report this year's contest. Ceremonies in connection with the game will be described by Guy Savage from a special post on the field behind the Packers' bench.

The broadcast will open with a description of the impressive ceremony during which the leading All-Star players are introduced. In addition, Savage will provide listening fans with a panoramic picture of the crowd at Soldiers' field.

After the pregame ceremonies Elson will take over the mike up in the broadcasting booth for the description of the game. Between halves the experts and coaches assisting Elson will analyze the game for listeners.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS NOVOTNA AND ABRAVANEL

Noted Soprano, Conductor on W-G-N Tonight.

Maurice De Abravanel, celebrated conductor of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, and Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest artists on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian Broadcasting system network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick last week returned from a trip to Plattsburg, N. Y., where he observed United States army maneuvers.

Mr. Abravanel, who will be with the Chicago Opera as a conductor this season, will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in the absence of Henry Weber, who is on vacation. Madame Novotna will sing in place of Marion Claire, regular soloist on the Symphonic Hour, who is vacationing with her husband, Mr. Weber.

Three Solos by Novotna.

Mr. Abravanel and the symphony orchestra will open the program with Jean Sibelius' stirring "Finlandia."

Madame Novotna will present three solos—an aria from "Louise," by Charpentier, and two other numbers of her selection.

The orchestra will play two numbers by Johann Strauss—"Perpetuum Mobile" and "Radetzky March"—as well as Jacques Offenbach's "Overture Orpheus." The chorus will join the orchestra in Carl Weber's "Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Frieschutz, and themes from Friedrich von Flotow's "Martha," the evening finale.

The complete program:

"Finlandia" .... Sibelius
Chorus and orchestra.
Aria from "Louise" .... Charpentier
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Perpetuum Mobile" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
"Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Freischuts" .... Weber
Male chorus and orchestra.
Address .... Col. Robert R. McCormick
"Overture Orpheus" .... Offenbach
Orchestra.
"O, While I Sleep" .... Liszt
"Velia," from "The Merry Widow" .... Lahar
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Radetzky March" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
Themes from "Martha" .... Von Flotow
Chorus and orchestra.

Daughter of a Czech banker, Madame Novotna made her American debut at the Metropolitan last January in "La Boheme." She was wildly acclaimed by New York critics for her voice, beauty, and dramatic ability. Her rôle as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan was pronounced the finest performance in two decades.

Made Debut in Prague.

Madame Novotna sang her first opera rôle at the Prague National Opera when she was 17. After appearances in operas in Vienna, Paris, Warsaw, and Salzburg, Madame Novotna was starred in a number of European motion pictures.

Born of Portuguese parentage at Saloniki, Greece, Mr. Abravanel studied as a youth under Edmond Allegra and Kurt Weill. He has conducted in the Berlin State Opera house, the Paris Symphony and l'Opera orchestras with Bruno Walter, and has directed concert and broadcasting orchestras in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Abravanel is coming from Toronto for his guest engagement with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

Miniature F-M Transmitter Is Feature of New Studios

A miniature frequency modulation transmitter is one of the features of the new E. H. Scott Radio laboratories' new studios at 737 North Michigan avenue. The studios will be opened to the public tomorrow. Using this F-M transmitter, studio attendants can demonstrate by use of records and sound effects the advantages of this new high fidelity, staticless radio broadcasting technique.

BLAME WALKERS FOR OWN INJURIES IN AUTO TRAFFIC

Careless Habits Shown in Accident Survey.

[This is the fourth in a series of articles describing the most dangerous intersections on the northwest side.]

The intersection of Ashland and Chicago avenues, with 57 accidents between Jan. 1, 1939, and July 15, 1940, has been named fourth on the list of high accident corners on the northwest side. Engineers of the Chicago Motor club conducting the survey pointed to an abnormally high percentage of rear end collisions and pedestrian mishaps, which accounted for 86 per cent of all accidents.

More than 90 per cent of the accidents involved cars traveling on Ashland avenue.

"Pedestrians were found to be largely responsible for their own disaster at this point because they failed to take the necessary precaution to insure their own safety," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club. "In addition to their tendency to start across the street on the amber and red lights, they have been found to cross the streets at points removed from normal crosswalks."

Careless in Walking.

He said that persons alighting from street cars were among the chief offenders. They tend to walk on an angle to the curb after stepping to the safety island from the rear entrance of the car. "This oft repeated error also results in numerous rear end collisions," Mr. Hayes pointed out. "Drivers are forced many times each day to jam on their brakes to avoid striking a pedestrian without having a chance to signal to cars behind their intention to stop."

More clearly outlined crosswalks are urged as a remedy.

Motor club engineers also point out that the comparatively rapid speed of the heavy traffic on Ashland avenue may also be responsible for collisions at this corner. Drivers traveling in a stream of traffic frequently keep their eyes on the car ahead rather than on the traffic lights, and are, therefore, likely to stop very suddenly on a change in lights.

Thirty Persons Injured.

Strict adherence to speed regulations and traffic lights is recommended for vehicle traffic as a means of reducing accidents at this corner. Night lighting seems to be adequate, since less than 20 per cent of the collisions occurred after dark.

As a result of the 57 accidents there were 30 injuries. Twenty-two of the accidents involved pedestrians, 23 two cars, 8 cars and trucks, and 4 miscellaneous.

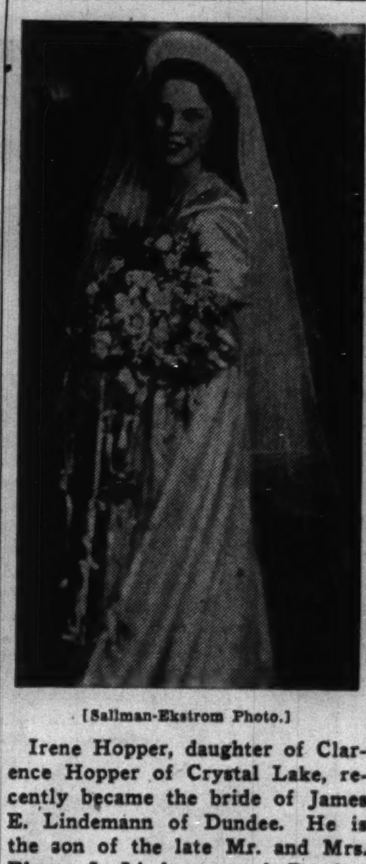
CASH AND SEATS TO SYMPHONIES TO I. Q. WINNERS

Cash and main floor seats to an early concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra are the awards made to senders of questions on music used in the quiz program, "Your Music I. Q." heard from 8:30 to 9 each Monday evening on W-G-N.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, which opens its golden jubilee season on Oct. 10, presents the program, with outstanding music personalities as the "experts." Tomorrow Pauline Manchester, concert pianist who last year appeared with the orchestra; Ludlow White, well known baritone; Gordon Campbell, pianist and teacher, and Jolly Franzl, entertainer at Old Heidelberg, will be heard.

Popular music as well as classical music are included in the questions on the program. One dollar goes to the sender of every question used. If the question is not answered correctly by the experts the sender receives two Orchestra hall seats.

At Home in Dundee



[Sallman-Ekstrom Photo.]

Irene Hopper, daughter of Clarence Hopper of Crystal Lake, recently became the bride of James E. Lindemann of Dundee. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Lindemann of Dundee. The ceremony took place at the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Dundee and the young couple will live in that village.

AUDIENCE WILL JOIN IN SINGING ON 'YESTERDAYS'

Audience participation in the singing of "Down by the Old Mill Stream," will be featured on "Yesterdays," musical reveries program, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The program will be presented in W-G-N's main audience studio.

The scene for the dramatic sequence will be a picnic grounds, near the mythical home town of the narrator, DeWitt McBride. There the narrator, reminisces on courtship scenes with his childood sweetheart. Singing by the audience will represent the happy throng at the picnic grounds joining in on a community sing.

Kathryn Witwer, soprano, will join the chorus and the W-G-N Dance orchestra, under the direction of Harold Stokes, in a presentation of "There's a Great Day Comin', Manana," new song hit introduced by Al Jolson. Miss Witwer also will present a solo on "My Prayer." Other numbers on the program, played by the orchestra, will be "Carioca" and "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time."

POST TO HOLD INSTALLATION OF ITS NEW STAFF

Carson Pirie Scott post of the American Legion will hold its annual installation of officers on the night of Sept. 7 at Fred Harvey's Jungle room in the Union station. Reservations for the program that will include dancing, entertainment, and refreshments are in charge of George C. Behrens and Carl Gers. Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels with herb laxative combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distress, even when you take it after a full meal.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

Seven Schools Will Offer Factory Courses.

The vocational education defense program will continue this fall in seven Chicago public high schools, it was decided last week by government and board of education officials. Two schools—Lindblom and Phillips—will be added to the five which have been operating under a day and evening schedule for the last two months. At least 3,500 workers will be trained by the time the courses are ended on Dec. 31, according to Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator for the board of education, who is assisting Supt. William H. Johnson with the work.

Purpose of the program is to prepare an "army in overalls" which would be able to run the nation's factories in an emergency. The state employment bureau will suply the students. They will be either men who have actually worked in factories or boys who have completed four years of technical high school study.

Classes Start at 4:30.

Classes will run from 4:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the regular classes in the schools are ended, on weekdays, and from 8 o'clock on Saturday. Subjects to be taught are automobiles, aviation, electricity, forge, foundry, machine drawing, machine shop, sheet metal, welding, and woodworking. All of it will be taught in the shop.

Day and evening classes have been conducted at Crane, Lane, Harrison, Schurz, and Tilden High schools during the summer. The new schedule will begin early next month. All expenses, including 134 teachers' and supervisors' salaries, communications, printing, equipment, repairs, supplies, and other necessities, will be borne by the government as part of the $15,000,000 defense appropriation recently announced by J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education in Washington, D. C.

Trade Classes Continue.

Mr. McNamee said that the Washburne Evening Trade school would continue its classes for journeymen workers as usual. They are receiving advanced training under the Smith-Hughes law. Other local schools may participate in the defense program later, he added.

Century Ride Will Be Loop This Season

This year's 100 mile trail ride, annual test of horsemanship sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America, will start and end at Onwentsia Country club on each of its three days—Oct. 4, 5, and 6.

This was announced last week by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the horse and mule association, who is head of the committee on arrangements for the ride, now in its third year.

Previous rides have ended many miles from their start, in order that the riders might traverse as many miles of the Cook county and Du Page county forest preserve trails as possible. The "cloverleaf plan," whereby the three day ride is made in daily loops, is intended primarily to acquaint the riders with the extensive private trail system in Lake county.

Forty Miles in Seven Hours.

The itinerary of the cross-country ride will dip far south into Cook county on the first and second days, on each of which 40 miles will be covered, the officials said. On the third day only 20 miles will be ridden.

Riders will be required to finish the 40 mile legs in seven hours each and will be allowed three hours for the final 20 miles. Motorized units will accompany the horsemen and horsewomen, carrying water and feed for the mounts, luncheon for the riders, and the judges, handlers, and other necessary staff members.

Several advantages are claimed for the cloverleaf method of conducting the ride.

One is that it simplifies arrangements for stabling. In previous years it was a problem to find adequate barn accommodations for the close of the first and second days.

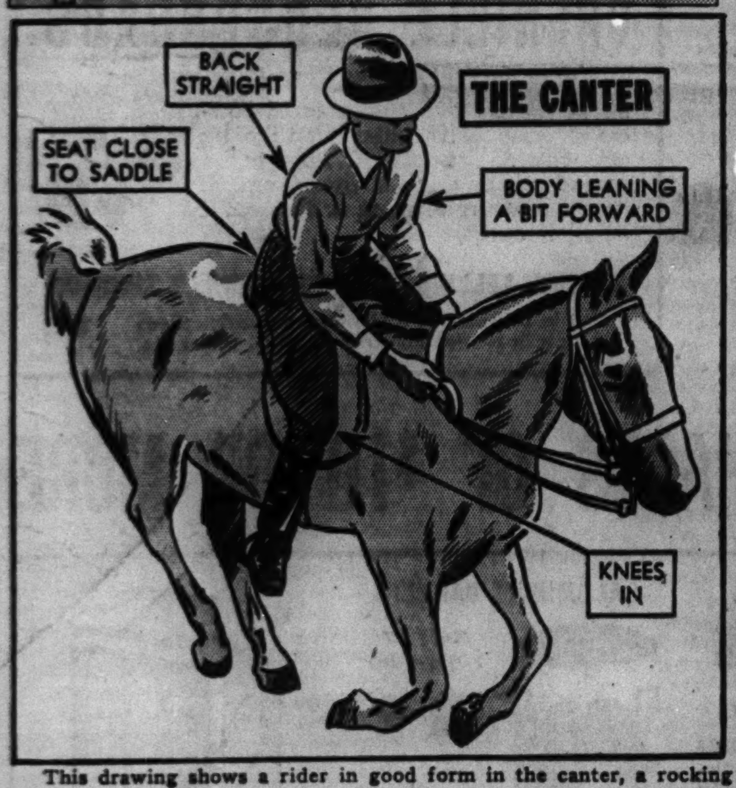
Another is that riders are freed of the necessity of having their horse-carrying trailers and other equipment moved while they ride to a distant finish line, and can more conveniently arrange hotel accommodations.

$10 Entry Fee.

The entry fee of $10 includes feed and stabling for the horse for three days, and luncheons for the rider.

Entries already are being received by members of the committee, Dinsmore said. These members include Dinsmore; J. M. Fitzgerald of the Town and Country association; Robert Mann, maintenance superintendent for the forest preserves; Elmer J. Holdorf, stable owner; Mrs. Helen M. L. Hall, riding instructor, and Jesse F. Burt.

A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride



This drawing shows a rider in good form in the canter, a rocking gait that on most horses is easy to ride. Its speed can be regulated to suit the desire of the equestrian. The horse is shown at the instant all four feet are off the ground.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Next in order in my riding series came the canter, a rocking motion of the horse that is really a slow gallop. It is an easier gait to ride to than the trot, because it is more rhythmical, but this varies with the horse.

My teacher, Elmer J. Holdorf, has insisted from the start of this lesson series that horses differ as widely as riders. My own brief experience bears this out.

Take, for example, my first mount, Brownie, a docile mount whose laziness makes her ideal as a school horse. Then there was Sergeant Pat, rather hard-mouthed and slow, but possessed of a beautiful slow trot that is extremely easy on the rider.

Ranger, on the other hand, has a more choppy trot, but a canter as smooth as rippling meadow, which he always precedes with a disdainful toss of his head.

Head Up for Canter.

Getting a horse to canter requires "collecting" him under you. This is accomplished by bringing his head up and his nose back with the reins, at the same time applying the calves or heels decisively to his sides to urge him forward.

If he should merely trot, or canter for a few steps and break back to the trot, he should be returned to the walk and started over. The canter should always start from the walk, never from the trot, I was told.

In the canter, as in the trot, I was instructed to stay with the saddle; that is, to avoid letting daylight show between my seat and the saddle. To do this requires good equilibrium, with some assistance from the thighs, knees and toes.

I was still having some trouble in keeping my knees in, but I was able to overcome this almost completely with the aid of a procedure Holdorf showed me.

Knee Grip Improves.

He told me to keep my foot against the inner side of the stirrup iron, with the inner side of the foot lower than the outer side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. I found this was an easy position to maintain, and was gratified to see that it helped keep my heels down—and thus helped give ce a feeling of security and confidence.

I noticed that when I was properly seated on a moving horse the inner sides of my knees felt a bit exercised. My instructor said this was an excellent sign. Chafed knees indicate a new rider is getting a natural knee grip, Holdorf said.

One tendency that gave me trouble was leaning forward too far during the canter. This took weight off my seat and caused me to bump up and down with the horse's motion. This bumping ceased instantly when I straightened up, lifted my chin and threw my shoulders back, to get the "hollow back" my tutor keeps counseling.

In keeping my horse's head high while cantering, I saw that the backward pull of the reins tended to slow him so he broke back into a trot. I was advised to apply the leg aids as I reined, to let the horse know I didn't want him to change gait.

That worked like a top. I discovered I could slow the canter down to the speed of a walk, merely by applying the forward [foot] and backward [rein] aids at the same time.

PARKS ENFORCE LAW AGAINST LITTER

GARBAGE CANS INCREASE; RATS FEEL THE PINCH

City Aims to Starve Out the Pests.

Eleven months ago there were 96,-129 buildings in the city that were provided with garbage cans. The rats loved it. Today there are only 36,629 without refuse cans, and the rats are beginning to feel the pinch of hunger.

This drastic reduction in the short space of 11 months has been a result of the city's vigorous campaign to provide refuse receptacles for all of the 385,659 dwellings in Chicago. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and 50 ward superintendents have been the leaders in the fight to starve out the rats.

Last September the city embarked on the campaign to provide garbage cans for every building as a public health measure, and urged that householders refrain from throwing refuse in alleys and vacant lots. This had been such a frequent practice that virtual feeding lots for rats had grown up everywhere, and the rat population grew to an estimated 5,000,000.

Up to Superintendents.

The main responsibility for the success of the battle was placed in the hands of the 50 ward street superintendents. In the beginning, not a single ward in the city had 100 per cent of its buildings supplied. However, thru the effort of the ward superintendents and the coöperation of various clubs and improvement organizations, thousands of new garbage cans have been placed and there are now nine wards which are batting 100 per cent. They have garbage cans provided for every building where the city collects garbage.

According to the law, each householder must provide his building with refuse receptacles. But the drive to inforce this was made more of an appeal to civic pride than a threat. As a result, the response from the people has been much greater than could have been expected.

Nine Wards Win Praise.

The nine wards that drew the praise of Commissioner Hewitt are the 5th, 8th, 32d, 33d, 34th, 39th, 48th, 49th, and 50th. These had every building supplied with garbage cans.

Other wards that were creditably mentioned were the 2d, 15th, 17th, 18th, and 41st, which had obtained cans for 12,531 buildings during the campaign, or an average of 2,506 per ward. Only three wards have receptacles for less than 70 per cent of the buildings, the 2d, 13th, and 25th.

In spite of the satisfactory results already obtained, the city is determined that every residential building in Chicago will eventually be provided with refuse receptacles that will make garbage collection easier and more effective and that an end will be put to the carelessness that results in offering disease carrying rats "three squares" a day.

To hurry the extermination of the pests the city council finance committee has set aside $3,000 to purchase rat poison that will be distributed thruout the 50 wards.

On the West Side.

The record of the west side wards and the names of the superintendents are as follows:

20th ward—E. J. Kelly; 5,675 buildings served; 1,167 without cans—78.5 per cent.

21st ward—Edward Rada; 4,505 buildings served; 251 without cans—93.5 per cent.

22d ward—Charles Sramek; 5,959 buildings served; 152 without cans—98.3 per cent.

23d ward—Victor Schiller; 6,555 buildings served; 133 without cans—97.6 per cent.

24th ward—Jacob Shapiro; 4,015 buildings served; 534 without cans—84.6 per cent.

25th ward—Thomas Frole; 5,930 buildings served; 2,726 without cans—53.8 per cent.

26th ward—William Knourek; 4,553 buildings served; 110 without cans—97.4 per cent.

27th ward—George Leake; 7,723 buildings served; 2,130 without cans—71.7 per cent.

28th ward—Frank Jarzembowski; 6,831 buildings served; 1,736 without cans—73.6 per cent.

29th ward—Vito Marzullo; 6,176 buildings served; 273 without cans—93.7 per cent.

37th ward—George Lutiger; 8,782 buildings served; 48 without cans—99.3 per cent.

ST. MALACHY'S PARISH TO HAVE BENEFIT PARTY

An outdoor card party will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening on the parish grounds of St. Malachy's church, Washington and Oakley boulevards. The party has been arranged by the Young Ladies' sodality for the benefit of the St. Malachy's school. Members of the arrangements committee are Marion Reilley, Julia Bieger, Mary Morreale, Sadie Anzelone, Cicera Annello, Elizabeth Morganok, and Alma Schumacker. The prize committee is composed of Rita Pierone, Thelma Rains, and Dolores Smith. Helen Scanlon and Julia Bieger are in charge of publicity.

Let Tradition Guide You in Riding Apparel

BY REA SEEGER.

Any attempt at rugged individualism is quietly nipped in the bud if you are shopping for riding apparel. It's much safer to string along with tradition. Headgear, for instance, correct hats of fine felt designed to fit down over the skull, are designed that way for the simple idea of comfort and assurance that, once on the head, playful breezes cannot whisk them away. So, also, the shallow brims, just wide enough to shadow the eyes, not to drop down when you need a good eye range.

Gloves are also standard and classic. String affairs for casual summer outfits, of sturdy cotton twills or gabardines, strong, long wearing supple pigskins to wear with wool outfits, ridged on each finger for a firm yet easy grip. Combinations of pigskin with chamois provide a third choice if you insist upon something a bit different.

"Darbies" Cork Lined.

The derbies or "darbies," as you prefer, are cork lined, an exceedingly comforting assurance to the equestrian pessimistically fearing a tumble. But if you wear a derby it must not be any other color than coal black; if you wear a derby you must wear a stock [collar to the walkers].

Derbies are correct toppers for dress riding. The shallow brimmed hats that fit down so securely over the head are correct for the casual round the town riding of an average city and suburbs. Such felts come in unassuming colors, subdued shades of blue, beige, russet, and brown with a few gray's, each model a classic of simplicity and fit.

Riding shirts are without frills or extras, they're as smartly masculine as tho you selected them at the haberdasher that serves your dad or brothers. White broadcloth, impeccably detailed, seamed and cut, promises comfort and the right contrast. Collars stay buttoned snugly high around the neckline with ties of dark, discreet colorings, no pins, clips or other cluttering jewelry.

Tights of Wool.

Underneath everything are tights of fine English wool sufficiently long to reach the top of the shoes. For long hours in the saddle, you are advised to wear or buy tights without seams, thus banishing all hazards of skin welts.

This riding underwear is soft, absorbent, thin and designed to fit with unwrinkled smoothness. The more expensive stuff of the same thin wool, same cut and design and without seaming, is priced higher because of the lack of seams and because it is imported . . . but it's worth every additional penny.

Correct riding outfits are of sturdy wool for fall and winter; fine, strong cottons and palm beach materials for summertime. All breeches, jodhpurs, jackets, or coats are marvels of fine tailoring, flawless fitting. Nothing irritates the critics more than sloppy riding clothes. Every cent you spend on meticulously tailored and superfitted jackets, breeches, or jodhpurs is justified. Such selections outlast, infinitely outsmart anything of less carefully cut designs.

Good looking and correct jodhpurs or breeches are usually of brown, russet, dark or light beige, or chestnut with a very few oxford grays and lighter gray colors. Jackets are always cut long enough to conceal the widest spread of the hips, seamed cut and fitted to make the most of the figure line.

And while the knowing equestrian has her jackets and outfits made to her particular requirements, some extremely well designed jackets can be selected from the available large ready to wear assortments.

Are Preferred Patterns.

Small blurred checks, indeterminate plaids, and chevron diagonals are the preferred patterns with the colors always to repeat, blend, or harmonize with the color of the breeches or jodhpurs. Strong yet flexible cavalry twill is the best fabric for these garments, with reinforced sections of the same fabric or harmonizing suede of light weight. Every inch of the seaming, fitting, and cutting is executed to assure super comfort and smart streamlines.

Pockets in the jackets are expertly placed and tailored as are the collars, sleeves, and other details. Smooth woolens, together with slightly rough or restrained fleecy tweeds in handsome sporty patterns, are plentiful in heather shades or rich glowing colors of fall foliage.

Summer jackets are made of cotton gabardine in small checks, and plaids carefully copied from the fabric designs in wool . . . hound's tooth checks, blurred plaids, and diagonals. Colors are also copied from the wools, the one exception being the beautifully tailored, cool, long fitted jackets of creamy white palm beach material with a self-design in small chevron diagonal.

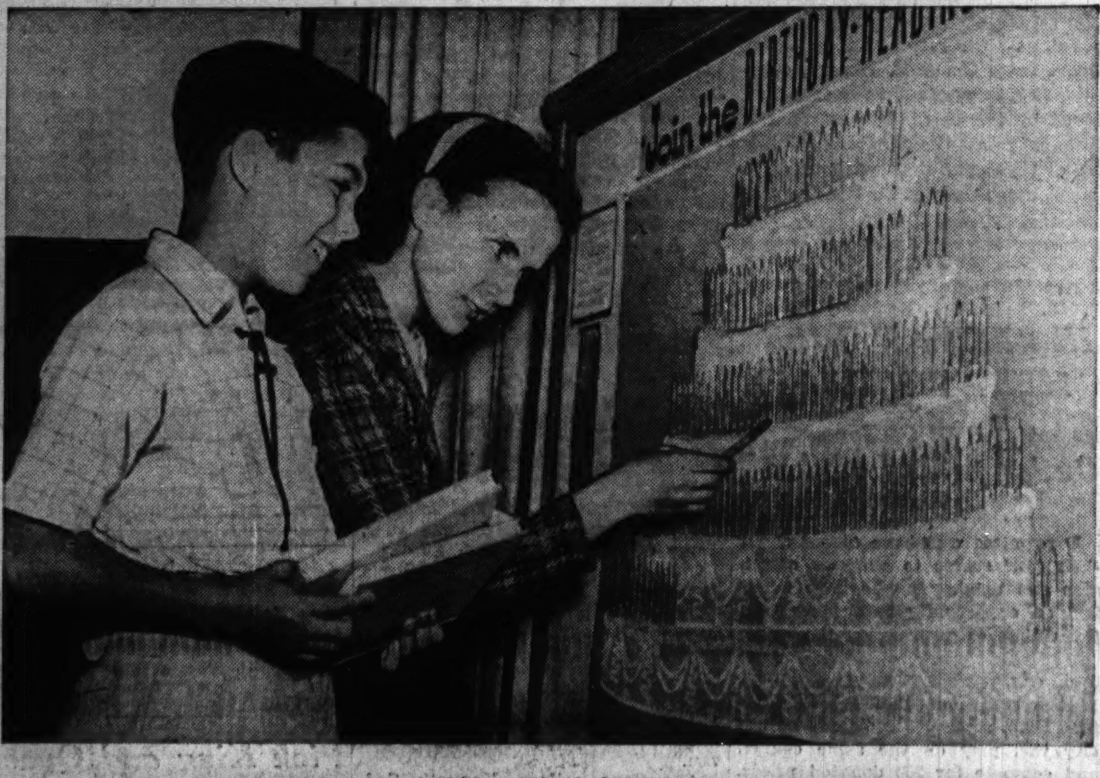
Summer jodhpurs are made of strong cotton twill or gabardine, in russet, tan, beige, or summer whites in sturdy, long wearing materials that tailor with the same swank as wool.

Waistcoats are optional with either winter or summer outfits. You'll find large assortments of these plain or patterned waistcoats as well as the finest examples of correct riding clothes and accessories in many well known Chicago sports shops and in the equally well selected showings featured in other Chicago stores.

Civic Club Election.

New officers of the West Maywood Improvement club will be elected Thursday night at 213 South 21st avenue, Maywood. The club is completing a successful year under President Frank J. Clark and his group of officers.

Youngsters Finish a Summer of Reading



Once upon a time, way back when school let out for the summer, boys and girls went to the library. Some went to Legler branch library at 115 South Crawford avenue. All of them took out books about flowers or fairies or far places. If they read six books, they got a candle to put on the birthday cake, made of cardboard, to celebrate the 500th birthday of books. In the first picture are, left to right, Jack Smith, Frances Pearlman, Gertrude Kuzel, and Norton Pearlman reading their books. In the next picture Sherman Okum and Shirley Muffson look at the candles they put on the cake. On Wednesday Phyllis Muffson and Thomas Sherman will be among the hundreds of west side readers to find a reward in a picnic to be held in Garfield park. Tommy and Phyllis are practicing up by having lunch along with their August afternoon of reading. They say this is how they will look on Wednesday. Miss Helen C. Bough, children's librarian at the Henry E. Legler branch and Mrs. Camille Thornell at the Douglas branch are planning the picnic.

INFANT WELFARE SOCIETY STARTS BENEFIT WORK

Funds Help Reduce Death Rate.

Nex week hundreds of women in the west side and suburbs will begin working on parties and programs. They will play bridge, hear concerts and invite lecturers and actors to give benefit performances in their high school auditoriums.

They will begin to earn money so that in 1941 some 2,000 babies may be brought safely into the world in even the neediest districts. They will see to it that 25,000 children will be given a chance at good health. The work is done by the Infant Welfare society of Chicago.

In 1903 a group of men and women in the city, shocked by statictics showing that of every 1,000 babies born in Chicago, 109 died in the first year, organized the milk commission of Chicago with the idea of providing pure milk for the needy.

Extended to Mothers.

In January, 1911, the milk commission was reorganized as the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. The program at first was limited to babies under 2 years old. Twenty-three physicians and nurses carried on the work. Not until 1917 was the expectant mother included in the health plan. In 1919 the work was extended to take in the child from 2 to 6 years.

A mental health service was added in 1925. The Infant Welfare Society of Chicago was the first public health organization in the United States to make mental hygiene a part of its program.

During the six months that ended last June 30, the Infant Welfare Society had, under the care of its 63 nurses, 32 physicians, four nutritionists and one psychiatrist, the total of 964 expectant mothers, 5,249 infants under 1 year old, and 6,997 children from 1 to 6 years old. There were 38,091 conferences with doctors in the stations. Nurses and nutritionists made 49,564 home visits. Among the infant group there were only 15 deaths or an infant mortality rate of one-quarter of 1 per cent. During this six months period 14,992 pints of cod liver oil were distributed.

Seven West Side Stations.

Seven of the thirteen infant welfare stations are located on the west side. The Ashland avenue station at 1759 West 14th place has conferences at 1 o'clock Tuesday and Friday afternoons. Conferences are at 1 o'clock Monday and Thursday afternoon at the Burlington station, Cullerton and May streets.

The Jane Addams station at 1334 West Taylor street has conferences at 1 o'clock Monday and Thursday afternoon and Mark White station has its interviews at 1 o'clock Tuesdays and Fridays. This station, located at 3235 South Morgan street, has a prenatal clinic at 1 o'clock Mondays.

Mary Crane station is located at 820 Cabrini street, holds conferences at 1 o'clock every Tuesday and Friday afternoons. The Maxwell street station, 1335 Newberry avenue, gives its preliminary examinations at 1 o'clock Monday and Thursday afternoons. The same days are designated for interviews at the Southwest station, 1830 West Cermak road.

Miss Sara B. Place is superintendent of the organization and Dr. Heyworth N. Sanford is medical director. Miss Jeannette Townsend is executive secretary.

Raise Half of Fund.

The Woman's auxiliary, organized into 31 centers in the residential portions of Chicago and suburbs, raises approximately 50 per cent of the budget. It costs $12 to care for a mother or child for a year.

In addition to cod liver oil, mothers are supplied with bottles, nipples, bottle brushes, and tooth brushes. No money and no other supplies are dispensed. In 1913 after the two years' successful demonstration by the Infant Welfare Society, the department of health started its infant welfare clinic. Its stations are located in the residential sections which are not covered by the Infant Walfare Society.

This fall the west side and suburban circles that earn money for the support of the organization are redoubling their efforts. There will be bridge teas, concerts and programs so that money can be raised for the additions needed in the staff in order to teach mothers and children how to correct bad postural defects.

GARFIELD PARK FLYING CLUB IN MEMBER DRIVE

Garfield Park's flying club which meets at 7:30 o'clock every Thursday evening is beginning a membership campaign. At the next meeting 12 new members will be inducted into the club.

Simultaneous with the beginning of the drive, the first club member to become a licensed private pilot will make a solo jaunt to northern Wisconsin. He is Matthew Rodina and has chosen the Labor Day week-end for his trip.

Recent new members who will be inducted into the flying club at the next meeting are Maxine Lerch, John Boland, Terry J. Grace, Arthur L. Henkel, Marvin J. Hudek, Harold Krist, Richard A. Pitt, Richard Lange, Harold Memmler, George H. Miner, James Powers, and Alfred D. Pucci.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

LAST week a man leaned forward excitedly in his chair at the preliminaries and the final program of the TRIBUNE's Chicagoland Music festival. He understood the music for that is the language he speaks. He is William H. Potstock of Oak Park who composed "Souvenir de Sarasate" for violin. William Benes, who played the piece, won first place in the Cook county contest. In the finals Fannie B. Paschell, who had won first place in the Hawkeye music festival at Cedar Rapids, won first by playing the Brindisi waltz. She is a pupil of Joseph Kitchin who was a pupil of Mr. Potstock about 30 years ago in Cedar Rapids.

William H. Potstock.

Several days after the festival he received a letter from Alfred Manger, violin teacher in Dubuque, Ia., who had also heard the festival. Mr. Manger is the friend who studied with Mr. Potstock a half century ago in Leipzig. He had been reminded of their friendship by the boy who played "Souvenir de Sarasate."

GUS HENNIG of Maywood, a Legionnaire, says American citizens ought to be educated to "see America first." He just returned from a trip to the Black Hills and is convinced that he lives in a country with the most beautiful recreation spots of any nation on earth.

Mr. Hennig who is past commander of the Board of Trade post of the Legion says "The Legion of South Dakota has established a public tourist camp of 33 cabins in the Black Hills known as Legion Lake. Legionnaires or auxiliary members get a 10 per cent discount if they show a paid up Legion membership card. Mr. Hennig fished, boated, and rode horseback.

Henry J. Dettman, Elmhurst, will celebrate his 79th birthday on Wednesday. At present he is having a 10 day vacation at his boyhood home in Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Mr. Dettman is a veteran telegraph operator and a former district manager for the Postal Telegraph-Cable company.

It's Keys, Cats That Keep Fire Squad on Run

It isn't just fires that keep the Oak Park fire department busy. Last week the department put a new squad car into service for its extra-curricular activities. These include such items as getting people into their houses when they've locked themselves out and getting children out of the bathroom when they lock themselves in.

In 1939 the department made a total of 450 calls. Half of these were of the emergency, other-than-fire type for which the new squad car will be used for the remainder of 1940. It will also take care of the special emergency fires such as autos, fence fires, grass fires. In 1939 the department extinguished two fires on telephone poles.

W. C. Watters, chief of the department, says that in addition to the new squad, Oak Park owns four pumpers, two ladder trucks, a small coupe for fire prevention, and the chief's car.

Three Oxygen Tanks.

The new car has its own 1,500 watt generator and extension cords for its two 500 watt floodlights and its 250 watt spotlight. It has three extra oxygen tanks, two smoke masks, two five gallon pumps, two carbon dioxide extinguishers, sledge hammers, axes, crow bars, an 8 foot pike pole, a tow chain, a bar and cable cutter, and a bolt and wire cutter.

There is also two-way radio equipment, acetylene torch for cutting steel, tarpaulins, brooms, shovels, mops, and squeegees. Its booster pump gives out 200 gallons of water per minute and with it is a 150 gallon booster tank. In addition there are almost 1,000 feet of hose.

In 1939 the fire department rescued 41 persons locked out of their homes. Firemen lowered 22 cats from their perches in trees. The firemen drove out to pick up 13 limbs of trees that blocked the sidewalks and removed one playhouse from a tree at the request of a neighbor who feared the young Swiss Family Robinsons might fall out. The department went out to lift one balloon from the top of a building, and released five children locked in bathrooms.

Dash to Rescue Birds.

At five times during the year the firemen dashed out to release birds that tangled in pieces of string they were using to weave nests.

There were also 24 leaking refrigerators that demanded the time of the fire department and 26 people who had imbibed too much carbon monoxide and other gases either voluntarily or accidently. In some cases the inhalator calls were for pneumonia patients.

Four men have been assigned to the shiny new squad car. Much of the additional equipment on the car will be used to clean up after regular fires in addition to the emergency work.

WARNINGS, THEN FINES TO HELP CLEANUP DRIVE

City Pays $150,000 for Slovenliness.

Something is being done about the west side residents who litter the public parks with paper, trash and the remains of their picnic lunches. It costs the city $30,000 each year because boys and girls, men and women throw newspapers, cigaret butts, chewing gum wrappers and lolly pop sticks on the grass and walks. It costs the taxpayers $150,000 annually to pick up after all the Chicagoans.

Mrs. Bertha Van Wakeman.

From now on it may cost each offender $5, if it doesn't stop. Beginning this week, the general ordinances of the Chicago park district prohibiting the littering of parks and boulevards will be enforced.

Warnings will be handed out first to violators by the park employés. The message will read: "Kindly put trash in containers. Help keep your Chicago parks clean. They're the best in the world. Now let's make them the cleanest."

Look for Coöperation.

Every one who drops his ice cream paper, his popcorn box or his newspaper will be reminded. In small type at the bottom of the warning cards will be a reminder: "The general ordinances of the Chicago park district prohibit littering of the parks and boulevards. Offenders are subject to a fine of $5 or more."

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, says "Strict enforcement will be resorted to if appeals to civic pride fail to obtain results."

"We have found generally," he said, "that the people of this city are quick to respond to requests made in the public interest. We hope that the several thousand new signs will be effective in solving the litter problem."

West side civic leaders attended the recent series of meetings on the antilitter campaign. Every park employé has been pressed into service for the crusade and has been instructed to specific duties. In most instances the offender's attention will be called courteously to the effects of his carelessness. Gross offenses or a hostile attitude will be met with police action.

Wants Clean Habits.

Of the campaign, R. J. Dunham, president of the park district says, "We are hoping for speedy results, but the placing of the new signs in the parks means the beginning of a campaign that will not end until scrupulously clean parks are accepted as a matter of course.

"All Chicagoans automatically must react in the matter of cleaning up whatever trash may accumulate in the course of a visit to these beauty spots."

Antilitter clubs will be established this week in the park district fieldhouses. Boys and girls will be asked to sign pledges that they will coöperate in the drive. When they have signed they will receive membership buttons proving them accredited workers for the Chicago parks.

During 1939 the litter dropped in the parks by unthinking men and women made up 8,000 truck loads, a total of 540,000 cubic feet. "This," points out Mr. Donoghue, "is enough litter to cover nearly 12 acres of land with a mass of trash 12 inches deep."

320 Men Required.

Cleaning up required a force of 320 men and a fleet of 28 trucks. Mayor Kelly is honorary chairman of the drive for cleaner parks and Karl Eitel is general chairman.

Leaders in the west area drive are Mary Stuart Anderson, Hull house, state director of the National Youth association; F. A. Hathaway, La Grange, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Charles G. Sauer, River Forest, general superintendent of the Cook county forest preserves; Mrs. Bertha Van Wakeman, 135 North Waller avenue, president of the Cook County Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Suburban Residents Aid.

W. H. Bromage, Western Springs; C. F. Deysenroth, River Forest; Mrs. Edwin P. Snow, 764 South Kilbourne avenue; Mrs. J. W. Heylmun, Oak Park, chairman of the School Beautiful committee; Mrs. E. E. Byerrum, Warrenville, chairman of conservation for the Illinois Federation of Woman's club; Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, Sidney, director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. George Plamondon of Wheaton, president of the Garden Club of Illinois and D. W. Bergquist of Hinsdale.

The west side is third in the city in carelessness in keeping the parks clean. The north and south sides are the worst offenders, each costing taxpayers $40,000. This may be explained by the fact that people from all over the city use the lake beaches

Voice of the West Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the West Side, The Tribune.

ANOTHER TRAFFIC SUGGESTION.

Division of all west side streets into one way drives is likely to lead to much confusion and error. It would be overdoing the traffic problem. A bit of relief of the west side traffic difficulties would occur if all auto traffic except deliveries were barred from Madison street east of Crawford avenue. Street car traffic on Madison is heavy. Why not give the street car riding public a clear street all the way.

DAN BAILEY.

WHY RATS INCREASE.

What can be done to correct a bad condition in the alley between Kilbourn and Kolmar avenues from Irving Park road to Berteau avenue? Garbage was collected on Monday, Aug. 12, and up to then the alley was a filthy and odorous mess because of the following reasons:

1. Homes with garbage containers inadequate as to size.
2. Homes using open end drums for containers.
3. Homes apparently without containers of any kind and the garbage thrown any place in the alley.
4. Homes with cement containers without either cover or door.

Why do repsonsible city authorities permit such conditions, which have caused the neighborhood to become overrun with rats, offensive to the nostrils, and a breeding place for flies and vermin?

THREE WHEELS, NO HOOD IS HIS IDEA OF A CAR

Berwyn Lad Builds Model of Novel Auto.

The automobile of the future will have three wheels, no hood, and be completely surrounded by a bumper, according to the model designed by Edward Siml, 20, of 2525 South East avenue, Berwyn. Edward gave three months of his spare time in designing the model of a car which he claims will be more practical, safer, and faster than the automobile of today.

The two foot long model is made of wood, with doors and windows of plate glass. Seats and an engine compartment are included. After completing his plans, Edward devoted more than a year to building the model.

Since he was a small boy Edward has been making articles in wood, including tie racks, letter holders, candle stick holders, dress pins and novelty jewelry. While attending J. Sterling Morton High school, of which he is a graduate, Edward designed a hammer now used by machine shop students. He won fourth place in a recent National Youth administration job creation contest conducted in his neighborhood.

Edward said he made the automobile model to show plant managers in the hope of obtaining employment leading to an engineering career.

NEW TEACHERS ARE NAMED FOR NAPERVILLE HIGH

Three appointments are announced to fill vacancies on the faculty of Naperville High school which have occurred since last spring. Ferne F. Frohmader will take the place of Miss June McComas, who resigned to get married. Miss Frohmader is a graduate of the Whitewater State Normal school in Wisconsin, and has taken graduate work at Northwestern university.

The vacancy caused by leave of absence taken by Harry C. Short has been filled by Miss Rose Marie Mohrdieck of Lombard, who has taught at Altamont, Ill., the last two years. Miss Mohrdieck is a graduate of McMurray college at Jacksonville, Ill., and has taken graduate work at Northwestern university.

Don Emory of Osceola, Ia., will take the position left vacant by Eugene Burnkrant in science and in coaching work. Mr. Burnkrant will become head coach at Nashua, N. H. Mr. Emory is a graduate of the University of Dubuque, with graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Regular classes in all grades of the Naperville public schools will begin Sept. 3.

Fraternity Meet.

Northwestern university chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will be host for the 72d national convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel from Tuesday thru Saturday. More than 800 persons are expected to attend.

OBSOLETE HOME CONVERTED INTO SIX APARTMENTS

Mansion Easily Adapted to Modern Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Sober, ageing structures can be a problem. Their intrinsic worth is undeniable, but if they are fast becoming obsolete there is the question of how they can best be reclaimed and converted into definite financial assets.

At 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago, there stands a handsome six apartment building. It is as interesting as it is good looking for it has a "past." For many years it was a beautiful, 18 room home, with high ceilings, great hallways, baths aplenty, and lovely grained woodwork and floors. It was a home which had always been well maintained and while it was in no state of deterioration it had reached the state which might be called obsolete.

The question of what to do with the house became acute and the decision was made to change its entire purpose in life. The firm of Cook and Jackson, property management, 161 East Erie street, called in Frederic B. Schmidt, Chicago architect, and plans were drawn and arrangements made for the remodeling.

Retain Floors and Trim.

As Everett Cook said to me the day I visited the apartments: "We decided from the first to keep the changes down to a minimum, since such a minimum is essential to all successful remodeling projects."

Mr. Cook called attention to the fact that it had not been necessary to change or add stairways or fire escapes. It also had been possible to reuse all the floors, which were of excellent hardwood, and all the trim, hardware, and the heating plant. New plumbing, of course, was installed thruout, new bath fixtures, kitchen, wiring, and light fixtures.

Mr. Cook is vitally interested in the reclamation of obsolete structures. "There are so many buildings and houses," he told me as we drove thru many miles of city streets, "which are sound structurally but obsolete; financial liabilities instead of assets. Sometimes all that is needed is a coat of paint or a new entrance, a new picket fence, perhaps, and some attractive painting."

Stone Porch Removed.

But to get back to 1507 North Dearborn parkway. Here the alteration is as practical as it is fascinating.

The old house had walls of limestone and these walls were sandblasted smooth. A rough stone front porch was ripped off and a new entrance built on the ground floor level. The interior entrance hall stands where once was a "grand hall," and over the new outside door the Gothic motif of the old dormers was repeated.

The entrance hall was a wainscoting of knotty pine, with a spirited green toned wall fabric above. There is a gorgeous crystal lighting fixture here which once belonged in the living room of the home.

Large Living Rooms.

The original corner fireplace has been kept, and in the bedroom, 14x16 feet, there is a second fireplace. This one is of exquisite marble, in dusty pink tones which blend with the deep red roses in the wall paper pattern. Both the bath and kitchen are entirely modern, and so is the dinette.

It may be noted here that the living rooms in all the apartments are very spacious, as spacious indeed, as the living rooms of many a large suburban home. Each apartment has an inner hallway of its own. Sufficient space was taken from the large central hallways of the old home to make this possible. Each apartment also has generous, well planned closet space.

Air Kept Circulating.

The day we entered the apartment building the temperature outside was close to 100 degrees. But as soon as we entered any of the suites, air was stirring and the difference in temperature and comfort was considerable. A giant cooling fan was installed in the upper ceiling of the hallway which reaches to the third floor. In the daytime, air was kept constantly in motion in every apartment, and at night cool air was sent thru all the rooms.

Another feature to contribute to summer comfort was the screening. Every window was screened with a new type of sun resisting screen, designed like a miniature Venetian blind, as a help to keep out the direct rays of the sun.

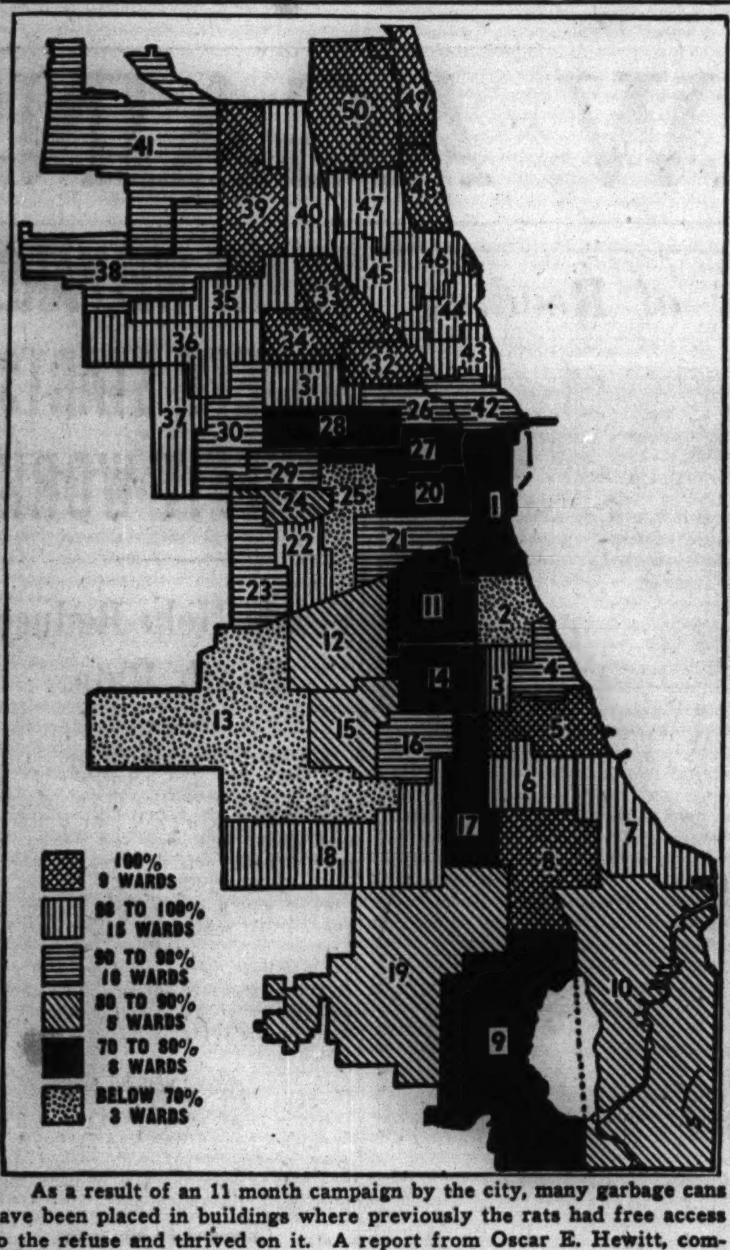
Where Garbage Cans Are Needed



As a result of an 11 month campaign by the city, many garbage cans have been placed in buildings where previously the rats had free access to the refuse and thrived on it. A report from Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, shows that the 50 city wards have been active in placing receptacles in buildings served by the city. The wards fall into six different percentage classifications based on the number of buildings served in the ward, and the number of those buildings without cans. Nine wards hit an average of 100 per cent, meaning that all buildings in the ward have cans, and three wards fall below 70 per cent.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 26.

There is nothing quite as satisfying as a number of small fruit plants on the home grounds—a few currant bushes, a goseberry or two, raspberries or blackberries, and, if a strawberry bed can be planted the luscious fresh fruits will be greatly appreciated.

Overgrown clumps of phlox should be dug and divided now. Give phlox plenty of space and avoid shade. Cut off the tops of old clumps and burn them to eliminate any disease that may be present.

Tuesday, Aug. 27.

There still is time to divide and replant iris or to plant new ones. Large clumps that are badly in need of dividing furnish only a few flowers. Order a few of the newer sorts to add variety and interest to the garden.

Wednesday, Aug. 28.

For a shady border on the north side of the house use a few low growing ground cover plant with hardy ferns in the background. The bunchberry [Cornus canadensis] grows four to five inches high and has white flowers in spring followed by red berries in clusters.

Thursday, Aug. 29.

Wild flowers transplanted this fall will flower this spring. Why not naturalize clumps of trilliums, hepaticas, Virginia bluebells, and others where they give a good effect and do not interfere with the more formal and elegant parts of the ground? Semishady places where sod is difficult to maintain will be a good place for these plants and they will be much appreciated before many other kinds come into flower. There are firms dealing in them and their cost is small.

Friday, Aug. 30.

Be sure to get in the order for bulbs, for many kinds—such as tulips are certain the be scarce due to the situation in Holland. Some stocks are available but they are likely to be so depleted that only those who order early will receive what they want.

It is unnecessary to dig and replant tulips as long as they continue flowering well, and especially the Darwins, which are among the most satisfactory types. There is such a long list of varieties that unusually attractive combinations can be arranged. Order plenty of the small bulbous plants for naturalizing for they soon grow into great masses.

Saturday, Aug. 31.

If the lawn has not been renovated or the new one constructed it is time to start. Remember that the first soil preparation is essential for a long lasting turf, which means the incorporation of copious amounts of decayed manure into the soil where it is available. If the soil is very poor it should be entirely removed to a depth of five to eight inches and replaced with good soil. It may merely lack humus which may be supplied in the form of peat or decayed manure.

600 TO COMPETE IN BERWYN GOLF MEET THIS WEEK

Outing to Open Suburb Charity Drive.

Berwynites who have talked about their golf scores to business associates and neighbors who have never had an opportunity to check up on the claims of prowess on the green will be on the spot Wednesday, Berwyn Civic day, when the suburb holds its first annual golf jubilee. For the first time, some 600 residents of the city will play on the same course, and compete for 200 donated prizes.

Good fellowship as well as golf is an objective of the jubilee that will serve as a pre-announcement of the Berwyn Community Chest drive. The day will be sponsored by the city of Berwyn, the Kiwanis club, the Lions club, the chamber of commerce, the South Berwyn Business Men's and Civic association, and Associated clubs. The all day program will be held at Glen Eagle Country club, 123d street and Bell road.

Dinner in Evening.

Thruout the day there will be entertainment by musical organizations known as the "Prairie Drifters," the "Hungry Five," and the "German Band." Turkey dinner in the evening will be followed by a floor show.

Members of the committee under the chairmanship of George Sluka, director of the Berwyn Playground and Recreation commission, are Paul Skala, Robert Teeter, Les Moysey, Jerome Borkovek, Wilber Kokes, John Moynahan, Charles Moravec, Joseph Busta Jr., George Prosch, Orville Cochran, and Art Moysey. Mayor Anton Janura is an honorary member of the committee.

Wilber Kokes, an active member of the committee, was state amateur golf champion in 1933 and 1936 while attending the University of Illinois.

Some of Entrants.

Other residents of the suburb who have won more than local reputations in athletic fields, and who plan to attend the civic day, are Henry Bowbeer, former Pan-American golf champion; Andy Pilney, former half back at Notre Dame; Andy Puplis, former quarter back at Notre Dame; William Flagel, one of the better golfers of Berwyn; Ad Carlson, a champion bowler of the United States, and Joe Wilman, American Bowling congress all-events champion in 1939.

Along with the prizes for high scores, there will also be awards for low scores, and surprise awards for golfers with qualifications of which they will be unaware until the judges make their decisions.

32 SCHOOLS DRAW 1940 GRADUATES FROM RIVERSIDE

75 Prepare to Enroll for More Education.

While 240 freshmen are planning to enter Riverside-Brookfield High school when classes begin Sept. 3, some 75 members of the 1940 graduating class at the school are arranging to enroll at institutions of higher learning.

Thirty-two schools are represented in the choice made by the high school graduates, according to Miss Ethel Curtis, registrar. It is expected that additions will be made to the list and that some of the students may make last minute shifts.

New members of the faculty at the high school this fall will include Lloyd G. Johnson, social science and assistant in athletics, and Miss Wilma Buckholz, commerce.

New Study Hall Lights.

During the summer, improvements on the school building have included new lighting in the study hall and some of the classrooms, new shelving space in the library, and new filters for the ventilating system.

Tentative list of the schools in which graduates are matriculating is as follows:

Lyons Township Jr. college—Richard Zimmerman, James Showhan, Albert Miller, Jeanne James, Anita Gronow, Louise Fencil, Dolores Breitling.

University of Illinois—Kenneth Scott, Robert Rice, Frank Mazanec, Ray Lokay, Raymond Fregan.

DePauw—Joseph Rein, Earl Nielsen, Burton Michel, Alan Lewis, Gordon Hay, Raymond Benson.

Northwestern—William Zeman, John Strittar, Joseph Post, Victor Peterson, Jerry Dobrovolny.

Purdue—Franklin West, George Thomas, Edward Ryden, Edwin Johnston, Carl Holtz.

Cornell college—Eileen Wilson, Clarence Welgos, James King, Gwendolyn Barrett.

Three to Grinnell.

Grinnell college—Barbara Wagner, Shirley Ripple, Bette Beindorf.

Northern State Teachers college—Harold Swanson, Ethel Emery, Paul Haase.

University of Chicago—Donald Abel, Helen Reeves, James Brown, Virginia Blaha, Mary Louise Rowland.

Stephens college—Barbara Vickery, Lois Tuttle.

Illinois Institute of Technology—Leigh Robinson, Leonard Scheiblauer, Harry Gillespie, and Ralph Arbol.

University of Michigan—Marcia Zimmerman, June Gustafson.

In Lawndale Baby Contest

MORTAN KAMINS JR.

LOIS SEGAL.

AARON SHERWIN KLIEMAN.

ELAINE WRONKO.

Here are four of the 400 babies who are pretenders to the throne of king and queen of Lawndale babyland. The decision will be made on Sunday, Sept. 8, at a festival in Douglas park, 14th street and Albany avenue. To date there are 15 nationalities represented among the contestants. The Roosevelt Road Business Men's association, 3414 West Roosevelt road, is sponsoring the contest. With a good chance of winning on her smile is Lois Segal, 2 years old, who lives at 1411 South Spaulding avenue. Mortan Kamins Jr., who is 1½ years, resides at 1249 South Sawyer avenue. The chubby cheeked child is Aaron Sherwin Klieman, 3603 West Polk street, who has had one birthday. Elaine Wronko, 1149 South St. Louis avenue, is past 2.

LAWNDALE BABY CONTEST ENTRIES END TOMORROW

Pick King and Queen on Sept. 8.

The deadline for entries in Lawndale's baby contest is set for tomorrow. The festival at which the king and queen of babyland will be chosen has been postponed to Sept. 8. On this day the Lawndale community will be invaded by babies in arms, in tiny automobiles, and decorated go-carts. The contest is sponsored by the Roosevelt Road Business Men's association, 3414 Roosevelt road.

Babies between the ages of 1 and 6 years may be entered.

Arthur Schimmel Is Chairman.

Arthur Schimmel is chairman of the event and Dr. William Rothman, physician, will be head of the judges.

After the awards have been made there will be a juvenile show with singing, dancing, and recitations by talented children in the community.

List More Entries.

REFUGEES SEEK BOOKS BANNED IN NATIVE LAND

Visit Library to Have Letters Written.

A new service has been added to the work of the Legler branch library, 115 South Pulaski road. The patrons, rather than the librarian, planned this one. People now come to Legler branch to have letters read to them or written for them. They ask advice on how to find an apartment, a job, or to get into business.

Most of the questions are asked in the foreign department which caters to a greater number of languages than any other branch foreign department. There are books written in 22 languages on the shelves. The new requests are made by refugees pouring into the country from Europe's war zones and scenes of racial and political persecution. They have all types of questions.

Needed a Translator.

One German Jewish couple came into the library and was referred to the foreign department head, Miss Bertha Hoffenberg, who has to read and speak some five languages to do her work. The man formerly held a position on the German board of trade and needed some one to translate a business letter.

Another German Jew was looking for an apartment but couldn't make himself understood to the landlords. The librarian was asked to write a letter specifying the rental, number and size of rooms which he wanted.

A Jewish musician came to the library to find out where he could get a piano to use for practice. Last month the librarian found him one. Another Polish Jewish refugee who had played in the Riga Latvia symphony orchestra asked for chemical formulas written in German. Chemistry had been his hobby in Europe and in America he planned to start an ink manufacturing business.

Hunt Out Banned Books.

The foreign department librarian, before Miss Hoffenberg took over the work a short time ago, was Mrs. Irmgard Bradley. Mrs. Bradley said: "The refugees from Germany have a tremendous desire to read. They scan the shelves and hunt for books by Mann, Feuchtwanger and Renn, and all the other literature which has been banned for more than seven years. They seem to have a book thirst which they can't satisfy."

Altho the number of refugees has increased the work of the foreign department, the circulation has fallen off one-half in the last ten years. "This is a sign of Americanization," says Mrs. Bradley. "People no longer seem to feel the keen nostalgia for their old home. They want to read English."

"Since the war began," she adds, "people who never tried to speak English for the twenty or thirty years they have lived here, are now rushing to the English classes and are taking out English books."

For the month of July, 1930, the total of foreign language books circulated was 1,251. July of this year shows a circulation of 583 books. Most popular in this figure are books in the Yiddish language, of which 133 were circulated. The next largest number was Italian with a circulation of 85. There were 35 Polish books circulated and 36 Russian in this total.

PARADE TO SHOW VALUE TO NATION OF MELTING POT

Melrose Park Planning a Jubilee Festival.

The greatness of America as brought about thru the blending of the best of many nationalities will be stressed in the big jubilee parade in Melrose Park on the evening of Sept. 17.

George Portes.

Girls dressed in costumes of the countries of their ancestors, will form a group called "The Pageant of Nations." Tribute will be paid to the contributions of at least a dozen foreign lands, but after giving recognition to this background, the melting process that has taken place in American communities will be emphasized.

From the girls in the suburb one will be chosen "Miss Melrose," who, with her court of honor and surrounded by girls from the pageant, will ride in state down Broadway soon to become the most brilliantly illuminated shopping center in the west suburban area.

Candidates Are Invited.

Taking cognizance of the political campaigns at hand, invitations have been sent to candidates of both the major parties to speak at the jubilee. Village officials of all neighboring communities also will be invited to attend the four day fête.

The Melrose Park Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the celebration, is arranging for the entertainment of thousands of visitors. Among the bands competing for prizes will be the Proviso Township High school band and the Paul Stone band.

Historical events portraying progress of the suburb since pioneer days will be depicted in parade floats, and motion pictures taken of the parade later will be shown at the Melrose theater.

Boy Scouts to Aid.

Arrangements have been made for the Boy Scouts of the village to aid the police in preventing accidents. The American Red Cross Emergency First Aid headquarters, permanently established in the village hall, also will coöperate.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce committee active in planning the celebration are George Portes, president; Ralph Bormann, treasurer; Frank A. Alden, secretary; Art Matters, Vincent O'Leary, Andy Renzas, Sam Rubin, P. W. Armstrong, Harold Hollenbeak, Joseph LaRocco, Al Levine, Peter Paul Gaddy, and John Gustainis, ex-officio members.

A key to the village will be presented to visiting notables by Andy Frenzel, president of the village. Churches of the suburb will hold jubilee services Sunday, Sept. 15.

Outing Club Will Hike at Lake Geneva Today

The park district Outing club has scheduled a trip today to Lake Geneva and a six mile hike along the old Indian trails bordering the lake. The group will board a North Western train at 8:30 o'clock this morning and will arrive at Williams Bay at 10:30 o'clock. They will leave Williams Bay at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

DOWNERS GROVE CLASS OF 1915 HOLDS REUNION

All 19 Members Alive; 15 Attend Party.

After 25 years, all members of the graduating class of 1915 at Downers Grove high school were still living when the class recently held its first reunion and silver anniversary celebration. All but four of the 19 members were present at the celebration held at the Spinning Wheel.

The school faculty at the time of the class commencement was represented by G. C. Butler, superintendent of division No. 1, Cook county schools, who resides in Palatine. In memory of the one deceased member of the faculty of a quarter of a century ago, Miss Maude Manley, the group paid tribute with a period of silence.

Dwight R. Cox, toastmaster at the banquet, recalled that the class motto had been "Peace, Not War."

Members of Class.

Class members present included Ruth Anne Hughes, now Mrs. Gladstone Mac Lean, La Grange; Dorothy M. Lathrop, now Mrs. A. E. Nickolas, of La Harpe, Kas.; Miss Alice Francis Howe, and Miss Helen M. Phelps of Downers Grove.

Ruth R. Ramsey, now Mrs. A. R. Crawford, Riverside; Winnifred M. Hempill, now Mrs. Thomas Kidwell, 6815 South Ridgeland avenue, Chicago; Theodora Schmitt, now Mrs. F. J. Baumann, 4135 North Mason avenue, Chicago; Norman Anderson, Peoria; Daniel Diener, Downers Grove; Axel Johnson, Cicero.

William Waples, Louisville, Ky.; Carleton F. Nadelhoffer, Plainfield; Dwight R. Cox, Downers Grove; Gale Washburn, West Point, Neb; Edwin Curtis, Glen Ellyn.

Four Send Letters.

The four members of the class who sent letters but were unable to attend were Kathryn L. Heckman, now Mrs. William Hockey, San Marino, Cal.; Luella E. Nadelhoffer, now Mrs. Owen O'Neill, 5481 Blackstone avenue, Chicago; Myra Katherine Riel, now Mrs. Donald Eastman, Montreal, Can.; and Grace L. Towsley, now Mrs. Walter Fredenhagen, Naperville.

Members of the faculty in 1915 from whom letters were received included George Robison, now teaching in San Diego, Cal.; Jesse Hawley, superintendent of schools at Fillmore, Cal.; and Mrs. Leslie C. Puffer, formerly Claire Zollinger, La Grange.

Softball Champ

For the 25th time Miss Marguerite Eastham, 922 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, has been named a champion. She is being congratulated this week for her part in winning the championship of the Chicago Business Girls' Softball league. Miss Eastham is a member of the Carson Pirie Scott team. After playing with basketball, softball, and soccer teams that won nine titles during her school years, she was made captain of the Forest Park Cardinals which won the 1931 Central American Athletic union at the Chicago Stadium. Since then she has been captain of all-star teams and trophy winners.

GARFIELD PARK PICNIC TO CLOSE READING GAMES

Library Branches Unite in Outing Wednesday.

West side branches of the Chicago Public library, participating in the Birthday Reading club, will end this summer activity for children on Wednesday, with a picnic in Garfield park. The picnic will include games and races, and later in the afternoon the children will be separated into age groups for story hours.

Miss Helen C. Bough, children's librarian at the Henry E. Legler branch library, Crawford avenue and Monroe street, and Mrs. Camille Thornell, children's librarian for the Douglas branch, 13th street and Homan avenue, are in charge of arrangements for the picnic which is a reward for the avid readers.

The Birthday Reading club is the second annual city-wide summer club organized under the direction of Miss Agatha Shea, director of children's work in the public library. The 500th anniversary of printing has been celebrated in the game.

Read Six Books.

In order to become a member of the club, it was necessary for each applicant to read six books. Miss Helen Bough of the Legler branch reports that there are 200 members enrolled in this chapter and that 1,200 books have been reported. Miss Bough, Miss Marie Will, Miss Ruth Erenberg, Miss Stephanie Borczynski, and Mrs. Mary Alice DeHannessy have listened to the reports.

Mrs. Camille Thonell reports that the Douglas chapter has more than 500 members and that more than 2,000 books have been read. The Douglas staff in the children's department includes Mrs. Lillian R. New, Mrs. Loretta B. Karpowicz, Mrs. Lillian A. Atkins, and Philip Lessin.

EUROPE'S WARS STIR ACTIVITY OF WOMAN'S CLUB

Millard Avenue Group Aids Red Cross.

Europe's wars crept into the recent board meeting of the Millard Avenue Woman's club recently when the board members met at the home of the president, Mrs. William Zaloudek, to decide the platform for 1940-41.

In addition to the 14 meetings to which speakers and musicians have been invited as guests, the women will make bandages and sew for the American Red Cross. The first Friday morning of each month will be devoted to American citizenship, of which Mrs. George A. Novak is chairman.

Plan Charity Event.

The main money making event of the year will be a winter carnival in the club headquarters in Shedd park. There will be a "snackery" where sandwiches will be served and fancy work tables and nicknacks.

The club will attempt to inject variety into the program. Rather than the speaker and singer program, there will be artists who will sketch for them, concerts by trios, discussions and forums. Mrs. Rowland Morrison is program chairman.

Florist to Talk.

The garden department has invited Mrs. Clarence B. La Mar, who was a florist at A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, to talk about modern flower arrangements for the home.

Members of the board who will lead the club thru the season which opens in October are Mrs. Henry J. Paulus, Mrs. J. F. Hawley, Mrs. Charles J. Kay, Mrs. Rowland Morrison, Miss Cora E. Wilson, Mrs. Leonard Mayer, Mrs. George Novak, Mrs. Stanley Rezabek, Mrs. Rudolph Mulac, Mrs. Edwin W. Storer, Mrs. Forrest Rountry, Mrs. Albert H. Tosch, Mrs. H. N. Wilson, Mrs. Charles Baldwin and Mrs. Otto G. Profant.

Betrothed

Miss Libbye D. Hull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hull, 5567 West Adams street, is engaged to be married to Elliott A. Erkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Erkes, 1406 South Kolin avenue. Miss Hull attended the University of Illinois.

Plan Treasure Hunt.

Pirates of old will roam the forest preserves on Saturday when the Austin Y. M. C. A. boys department Fun club goes looking for treasure. The treasure hunt will be a part of an all-day outing which will start out from the "Y" at 501 North Central avenue.

ELMHURST NAMES DEAN OF CHAPEL FOR FIRST TIME

Elmhurst college, where the freshman period will start Sept. 11, has created a new faculty position this year, that of dean of chapel and student pastor. The post will be filled by George Kalbefleisch, a graduate of the college in 1937, and a graduate last June of Eden Theological seminary at Webster Groves, Mo.

George Kalbefleisch.

Dr. Theophil Menzel will succeed Dr. Paul Lehmann as head of the department of religion. Dr. Lehmann will teach this year at Eden Theological seminary. Prof. Alfred Ingle, a new faculty member, will assist Dr. Homer H. Helmich in the department of chemistry.

Registration of freshmen will take place at Old Main, and on the night of Sept. 12 an informal gathering of all men students will be held in South hall, while women students will meet in Irion hall, with the student-faculty committee in charge.

President Timothy Lehmann will speak on "Why Go to College?" at assembly in Irion hall on the morning of Sept. 13. In the evening, there will be a get acquainted party for all freshmen and members of the faculty in the gymnasium.

On the afternoon of Sept. 14, the student-faculty committee will conduct a recreational program, and in the evening there will be a student sing in the reception room of the women's dormitory.

FIND WILLKIE'S RADIO VOICE IS FULL OF PROMISE

Listeners Say It Shows His Personality.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Wendell Willkie's radio voice and manner match his vigorous, earthy midwestern personality. His voice has real potentialities in his campaign for the Presidency. That is the opinion expressed by several speech experts and lay listeners last week.

These conclusions were reached by listeners after his formal acceptance address. Some of those who had heard him in his informal interviews and on the Town Meeting of the Air, in which he made a hit, were in a measure disappointed with his first long address on the air. They were quick to add, however, that the terrible heat, combined with the ordeal of having to address the tremendous Elwood throng as well as radio listeners probably conspired to handicap him.

In his earlier radio broadcasts Willkie showed a pronounced gift for repartee and listeners remarked about his warm friendliness, his bluff, hearty confident air that seemed in keeping with his character as they had learned about it thru the newspapers.

During his acceptance address they heard another Willkie. He was in dead earnest, challenging and forceful but not fiery. He appeared during the middle portion of the speech to be somewhat tired, his voice breaking several times. At times listeners became aware that he was reading. Toward the end there was a great improvement. He finished with great effectiveness.

Here are some of the comments of listeners:

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator and secretary of the Council on Foreign Relations: "Mr. Willkie fumbled at Elwood. But perhaps that was to be expected under the circumstances. He is at his best when he is engaged in informal discussion, when he can ad lib. In an open debate he would lick President Roosevelt. He has real possibilities at the microphone because of his direct, downright sincerity and his close to the soil manner. I think there is a little reaction today to the over finished radio speaker. In my opinion he should use only a skeleton manuscript or notes and allow himself a substantial cushion for extemporaneous remarks."

William A. Bacher, W-G-N program and production chief: "Willkie's voice has definite possibilities. He is sure of himself; he has a good resonant voice. At Elwood he was at his best in the narrative portion of his address when he was telling about his forbears. A little more 'heart to heart' manner is what he needs. He should let himself go more. With a little coaching he will be a real surprise."

Parker Wheatley, radio director and instructor at Northwestern university: "Mr. Willkie at Elwood displayed a vigorous fighting voice, sometimes hoarse, and heavily flavored with a characteristic Hoosier drawl and firmness that matches the simplicity and directness of his speech."

Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna: "Mr. Willkie sounds just like a real American, typical of the midwest. His voice is unpolished, but it's down to earth, with a quality of great sincerity about it."

A lay observer said: "It lacks the excessive graces in speech that we have become accustomed to in the last seven years in a Presidential voice, but it's good to hear."

Sherman Dryer, radio director of the University of Chicago: "Willkie should take a lesson for the future from Elwood. He should develop a technique of talking directly to the people. He should talk from studios, not outdoors before great numbers of persons. When he speaks to an intimate group he is fluid, easy, spontaneous, but not when he addresses a multitude."

Listeners commented on Willkie's typical midwestern pronunciation. He doesn't always enunciate clearly, they noted. He said "Pres'dent" for President; "wanna" for want to; "r'ligion" for religion; "arr" for our; "four'n" for foreign, and something like "pao-er" for power.

PUBLIC PRAISES PRESENTATION OF PLEDGE TO FLAG

The sponsor of "Linda's First Love" and "The Editor's Daughter," for the past two months, has diverted a few seconds from its commercial announcement for two months to the presentation of a 29 word patriotic message—the pledge to the American flag. In response to this gesture, A. E. Johnston, advertising manager for the sponsor's company, reported spontaneous public acclaim, registered in the form of a flood of letters commending the practice.

Familiar to every school child, the pledge, repeated on each of the programs, follows:

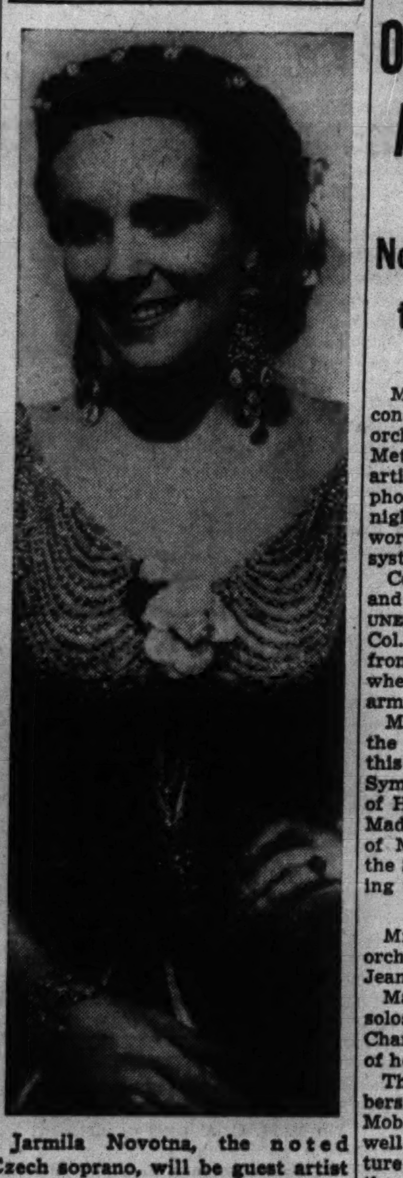
"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The serials are presented over W-G-N weekdays—"Linda's First Love," from 10:45 to 11 a. m., and "The Editor's Daughter," from 11 to 11:15 a. m.

Miniature F-M Tranemitter Is Feature of New Studios

A miniature frequency modulation transmitter is one of the features of the new E. H. Scott Radio laboratories' new studios at 737 North Michigan avenue. The studios will be opened to the public tomorrow. Using this F-M transmitter, studio attendants can demonstrate by use of records and sound effects the advantages of this new high fidelity, staticless radio broadcasting technique.

Guest Singer



Jarmila Novotna, the noted Czech soprano, will be guest artist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. Mme. Novotna, acclaimed enthusiastically by New York critics, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera last January in "La Boheme."

ALL-STAR GAME ON W-G-N—MBS NEXT THURSDAY

Bob Elson and Savage at Microphones.

The College All Stars'-Green Bay Packers' football game will be broadcast by W-G-N-Mutual starting at 8:30 p. m. next Thursday from Soldiers' field.

Assisted by a battery of coaches, Bob Elson, a veteran All-Star game broadcaster, will report this year's contest. Ceremonies in connection with the game will be described by Guy Savage from a special post on the field behind the Packers' bench.

The broadcast will open with a description of the impressive ceremony during which the leading All-Star players are introduced. In addition, Savage will provide listening fans with a panoramic picture of the crowd at Soldiers' field.

After the pregame ceremonies Elson will take over the mike up in the broadcasting booth for the description of the game. Between halves the experts and coaches assisting Elson will analyze the game for listeners.

For the last week the squad of 69 All-Stars has been drilling at Northwestern university's Dyche stadium under the tutelage of Head Coach Eddie Anderson of the University of Iowa.

Assisting Head Coach Anderson are Tad Wieman of Princeton, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Don Faurot of Missouri, and Lowell Dawson of Tulane.

The Green Bay Packers, professional champions last season, five times holders of the title, are in training at Green Bay, Wis. Curley Lambeau is the head coach.

AUDIENCE WILL JOIN IN SINGING ON 'YESTERDAYS'

Audience participation in the singing of "Down by the Old Mill Stream," will be featured on "Yesterdays," musical reveries program, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The program will be presented in W-G-N's main audience studio.

The scene for the dramatic sequence will be a picnic grounds, near the mythical home town of the narrator, DeWitt McBride. There the narrator, reminisces on courtship scenes with his childood sweetheart. Singing by the audience will represent the happy throng at the picnic grounds joining in on a community sing.

Kathryn Witwer, soprano, will join the chorus and the W-G-N Dance orchestra, under the direction of Harold Stokes, in a presentation of "There's a Great Day Comin', Manana," new song hit introduced by Al Jolson. Miss Witwer also will present a solo on "My Prayer." Other numbers on the program, played by the orchestra, will be "Carioca" and "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time."

The production of "Yesterday" is under the direction of Lou Jackobsen.

Anne Roselle to Sing on Radio City Music Program

Anne Roselle, soprano, and Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will be guest soloists with the Music Hall string quartet during the Radio City Music Hall on the Air broadcast today at 11 a. m. CDST over the NBC Blue network. Miss Roselle will sing "Marietta's Lied," "Mattinata," and "Oh, Love but a Day." Miss Schumann will be featured in Mozart's piano quartet in G minor. The string quartet will play two American sketches by Stringfield, "An Old Bridge" and "Virginia Dare Dance."

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS NOVOTNA AND ABRAVANEL

Noted Soprano, Conductor on W-G-N Tonight.

Maurice De Abravanel, celebrated conductor of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, and Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest artists on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian Broadcasting system network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick last week returned from a trip to Plattsburg, N. Y., where he observed United States army maneuvers.

Mr. Abravanel, who will be with the Chicago Opera as a conductor this season, will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in the absence of Henry Weber, who is on vacation. Madame Novotna will sing in place of Marion Claire, regular soloist on the Symphonic Hour, who is vacationing with her husband, Mr. Weber.

Three Solos by Novotna.

Mr. Abravanel and the symphony orchestra will open the program with Jean Sibelius' stirring "Finlandia."

Madame Novotna will present three solos—an aria from "Louise," by Charpentier, and two other numbers of her selection.

The orchestra will play two numbers by Johann Strauss—"Perpetuum Mobile" and "Radetzky March"—as well as Jacques Offenbach's "Overture Orpheus." The chorus will join the orchestra in Carl Weber's "Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Frieschutz, and themes from Friedrich von Flotow's "Martha," the evening finale.

The complete program:

"Finlandia" .... Sibelius
Chorus and orchestra.
Aria from "Louise" .... Charpentier
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Perpetuum Mobile" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
"Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Freischutz" .... Weber
Male chorus and orchestra.
Address .... Col. Robert R. McCormick
"Overture Orpheus" .... Offenbach
Orchestra.
"O, While I Sleep" .... Liszt
"Velia," from "The Merry Widow" .... Lehar
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Radetzky March" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
Themes from "Martha" .... Von Flotow
Chorus and orchestra.

Daughter of a Czech banker, Madame Novotna made her American debut at the Metropolitan last January in "La Boheme." She was wildly acclaimed by New York critics for her voice, beauty, and dramatic ability. Her rôle as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan was pronounced the finest performance in two decades.

Made Debut in Prague.

Madame Novotna sang her first opera rôle at the Prague National Opera when she was 17. After appearances in operas in Vienna, Paris, Warsaw, and Salzburg, Madame Novotna was starred in a number of European motion pictures.

Born of Portuguese parentage at Saloniki, Greece, Mr. Abravanel studied as a youth under Edmond Allegra and Kurt Weill. He has conducted in the Berlin State Opera house, the Paris Symphony and l'Opera orchestras with Bruno Walter, and has directed concert and broadcasting orchestras in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Abravanel is coming from Toronto for his guest engagement with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

Musical commentary for the Symphonic Hour is written by Cecil Smith of the Chicago Tribune music and drama department. The program is produced by William A. Bacher.

OLD FAVORITES TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

Old favorite songs by noted composers will be presented on the Northerners program from 9:30 to 10 p. m. next Tuesday over W-G-N. The Northerners' program is under the direction of Harry S. Walsh.

Irene Verner, soprano, the octet, and the string ensemble will be featured on the program, packed full this week with 10 musical numbers.

Miss Verner will sing "Love in the Springtime," by Arditi. The octet will present the "Bell Chorus," from "Stradella," by Von Flotow, "A Prayer for Purification," by Tschaikowsky, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Ringwald-Waring, and "The Ride of the Cossacks," by Rachmaninoff.

Lecuona's "Andalucia," will be played by the string ensemble. The entire ensemble including octet and soloists, will open the program with selections from "Connecticut Yankee"—"I Feel at Home With You," "Thou Swell," and "My Heart Stood Still"—and also will present the evening finale, "There's a Hill Beyond a Hill," by Kern.

Latin-American Trade Topic of Review Stand

An American problem cast into sharp relief at the recent Pan-American conference at Havana—prospective trade between Latin America and the United States—will be discussed on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m. today over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Dr. G. Donald Hudson and Dr. William A. Morrison, both in the department of geology and geography at Northwestern university, will be speakers.

PLOT TO DISRUPT LATIN ACCORD IN 'WINGS' EPISODE

A gigantic scheme to disrupt United States-Latin American accord thru the distribution of large amounts of counterfeit money will be portrayed on "Wings for America" from 7 to 7:30 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The spy drama, written and produced by Blair Walliser, co-stars Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes of stage and screen fame.

Lorna Carroll, Chicago Tribune girl reporter played by Miss Landi, and Riley Davis, Mutual network news commentator, stumble onto the fifth column plot to sabotage Pan-American friendship thru an exconvict who tells them of some counterfeit hundred dollar bills he picked up in a poker game. Lorna and Riley are merely suspicious of the high denomination of the bills at first and are unaware of the scope and nature of the plot.

Members of the Advance Front, mythical fifth column group engineering the scheme, also try to put the lid on Riley's antiespionage efforts by 'framing' him with some of the counterfeit money. The bad bills and engraving plates for manufacturing them are planted in Riley's office by a girl who fakes a story about being pursued by fifth columnists.

Meanwhile, Lorna, angry with Riley, accepts a job with a Latin American export cartel headed by a mysterious Sir Benedict Cavil. While preparing to leave for South America Lorna hears that Riley has been arrested for passing counterfeit money.

The rescue of Riley and the uncovering of the counterfeit money plot bring the story to a surprise ending.

The supporting cast for this episode includes Arthur van Slyke, Sherman Marks, John Walsh and Sallie Smith.

Flying Cadets' Story to Be Told Over WMAQ

The colorful story of Uncle Sam's flying cadets will be dramatized during the Wings Over America program, at 11:30 a. m. today over WMAQ. The program will trace the steps taken by young men before they become army fliers.

[ADVERTISMENT]

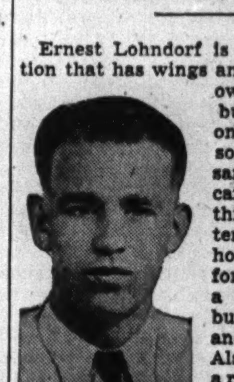
Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

with herb laxative combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distress, won't make you feel worse after a full meal.

NEW SAILPLANE TO HAVE INITIAL TEST THIS WEEK

Three Enthusiasts Build Glider for Meet.



Ernest Lohndorf.

Ernest Lohndorf is of the generation that has wings and can make its own. The attribute awarded only to gods some two thousand years ago can belong to this young maintenance man in a hosiery company for the price of a glue pot, a bundle of spruce and plywood. Also important are the 2,000 hours of labor in the basement workshop of his home at 5574 West Van Buren street. When his wings are finished he will call on the cumulus clouds to give him momentum, and he says, "the trip is like floating thru air in a bubble."

His expression describes modern soaring. His wings are the 300 pound secondary sailplane almost completed, and its maiden voyage thru space will be a part of the third annual American Open Soaring contest which is being held at Lewis School of Aeronautics near Joliet until Labor day. The contest opened yesterday.

Has Two Partners.

The sailplane taking shape in the Lohndorf basement has three young designers and builders. Young Lohndorf's partners are Harry Kibitt and William Helenberg.

This is the fourth sailplane Lohndorf has had a hand in building since his father read him an item in a newspaper nine years ago and told him, "Now here's a kind of flying you can do and it won't cost so much."

Within a few days Ernest found himself one of the 50 members of the Soaring and Gliding club of Chicago, went evenings to an experimental laboratory rented on the north side by the club and helped produce the club's first plane.

The second was a rebuilt primary glider. It was flown three years, and 45 students were given instruction.

Wins Soaring License.

Three years ago Lohndorf helped to build another plane. He and William Helenberg and Steve Brooks flew it at Frankfort, Mich. In order to win their licenses, they were required to keep it at the same altitude for five minutes. Lohndorf won his license. He kept the plane up one hour and five minutes along the ridges near Frankfort.

In the Lohndorf basement, the fourth plane is being polished and painted for its debut this week. One of the ground crew members will be Maurice Belzer, 4913 Monroe street, who is a glidining enthusiast at the University of Minnesota. An aeronautical engineering student, Belzer joined the gliding club at the university. He works in the shops with the university boys on all the ships they fly. The plane he worked on last was an original design by Philip Stiles and Robert Clark, fellow students.

Like Magic Carpet.

Lohndorf says it's hard to describe the sensation of soaring. "It's like something you always wanted to feel but didn't quite know what it was. It's like floating on the magic carpet of Bagdad with a more comfortable seat and knowing you have to use your own mind instead of magic."

He will try for all the prizes in his plane which he and Helenberg designed.

Austin Bride

Mrs. Raymond E. Ferris was Miss June Connolley before her marriage in the Austin Methodist church. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Connolley, 5346 Newport avenue, and Mr. Ferris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Ferris of La Grange.

LYONS SCHOOL FACULTY GAINS NEW MEMBERS

Fill Posts Caused by Retirements.

At Lyons Township High school, La Grange, where the fall term opens Sept. 9, several new faculty members have been selected to fill vacancies created by the retirement of five teachers and to take positions made necessary by changes in the curriculum. The Junior college will open Sept. 16 and will offer two new chemistry courses.

New teachers include Raymond Anderson who will teach college and high school physics. He will take the place of S. L. Davis who will be in charge of the botany department, replacing Ellen Sullivan, who retired in June.

Will Teach Math.

Doyle F. Cady will teach high school mathematics, replacing B. F. Clarke who retired in June. Harriet Cochran will teach shorthand and typewriting, replacing Mrs. Alice Thomsen Sinclair who resigned in June prior to her marriage.

John W. Crockett will join the history department and teach music as assistant to Clarence Dissinger. Raymond Grossman will assist Charles Bennett on a part time basis in physical training.

Others on Faculty.

Theodore L. Harris will teach freshman English. Edith Stockholm will teach English and German. Carl Warkow will be advisor to high school boys and faculty adviser to the student council. He will work with B. E. Gordon, dean of boys and vocational guidance director. Also, he will continue to coach lightweight football.

Robert J. Greef, who has been on a year's leave of absence taking graduate work at the University of Chicago, will return to teach English in the Junior college.

A series of teachers' meetings preparatory to the opening of the high school and junior college will be held Sept. 4, 5 and 6.

AN AIMLESS BOY GETS HIS CHANCE IN OPERA CHORUS

Hopes It's Stepping Stone to Music Career.

For a long time Frank Paul Finn, 5438 Walton street, has been experimenting with the world to see what it could offer him in the way of a life's job that could keep him happy. He has played in stock, danced in musical comedies, taught drama, lectured on social and economic problems, sung, and even dabbled in mind reading in an effort to find his chosen profession. All during his restless wanderings he has nourished a love for singing that was stimulated by the possession of an excellent voice.

Frank Paul Finn. [Kaufmann & Fabry.]

It was this voice and a desire to sing that finally stopped Frank's search, for he now is a member of the new Chicago Opera company chorus.

An Opportunity for Youth.

The new opera chorus was formed early this year after the opera company auditioned more than 350 voices. It was created not only to infuse new blood into the opera but also to give young singers a chance to study voice and stage technique under actual conditions.

This is an opportunity that has never before been available to young singers, and Chicagoans from every walk of life responded to the opera company's call for new voices. Previously a forgotten group, young singers are now able to get training and advice that formerly could only be had in Europe.

When the opera season opens on Nov. 2 the regular chorus will number 85, the largest chorus ever assembled by a Chicago opera company. From their position in the chorus it is expected that some of the new members eventually will come to sing minor rôles and understudy the leading parts. Then one day they may step into the front ranks of the country's singers.

Would Aid Youths.

Out of his search for a job Frank has developed a great compassion for the many other young people who are seeking a chance to follow the work they enjoy. His great ambition now is to make enough money to establish a foundation that would enable young men and women with ambition and ability to study for the profession they wish.

"I have been lucky," he says, "in that I have won various scholarships that have helped finance my studies, but there are a lot of worthy young people who are denied this chance. The world is losing a great deal of talent thru the inability of young people to get the aid they need."

Boy Soprano in Festival.

During his various activities Frank won a scholarship to a drama school where after two years he received a degree. For a time he taught drama in a small school, and then took up lecturing at clubs for a vocation. He still lectures in his spare time to help finance his voice training.

In 1930 he was chosen boy soprano for Chicago in the Chicago Tribune Music Festival, and this honor served to forward his desire to make singing his life's work.

MUSEBECK HEALTH SPOT SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
THE HEALTH SPOT SHOEMAKER SAYS:
Perhaps if we had to walk in the other fellow's shoes, we wouldn't criticize him. Walking unnaturally or limping is often the result of wrong shoes that do not support the body weight properly, placing stress and strain on sensitive areas. In Health Spot Shoes body weight is evenly balanced over the three main weight-bearing parts of the foot. This means freedom from stress and strain . . . and comfort. Once you wear a pair of Health Spot Shoes you will always want to wear them. Write for catalog! Mail orders solicited.

TRADE STUDIES TO BE CONTINUED AS DEFENSE AID

Seven Schools Will Offer Factory Courses.

The vocational education defense program will continue this fall in seven Chicago public high schools, it was decided last week by government and board of education officials. Two schools—Lindblom and Phillips—will be added to the five which have been operating under a day and evening schedule for the last two months. At least 3,500 workers will be trained by the time the courses are ended on Dec. 31, according to Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator for the board of education, who is assisting Supt. William H. Johnson with the work.

Purpose of the program is to prepare an "army in overalls" which would be able to run the nation's factories in an emergency. The state employment bureau will suply the students. They will be either men who have actually worked in factories or boys who have completed four years of technical high school study.

Classes Start at 4:30.

Classes will run from 4:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the regular classes in the schools are ended, on weekdays, and from 8 o'clock on Saturday. Subjects to be taught are automobiles, aviation, electricity, forge, foundry, machine drawing, machine shop, sheet metal, welding, and woodworking. All of it will be taught in the shop.

Day and evening classes have been conducted at Crane, Lane, Harrison, Schurz, and Tilden High schools during the summer. The new schedule will begin early next month. All expenses, including 134 teachers' and supervisors' salaries, communications, printing, equipment, repairs, supplies, and other necessities, will be borne by the government as part of the $15,000,000 defense appropriation recently announced by J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education in Washington, D. C.

Trade Classes Continue.

Mr. McNamee said that the Washburne Evening Trade school would continue its classes for journeymen workers as usual. They are receiving advanced training under the Smith-Hughes law. Other local schools may participate in the defense program later, he added.

Century Ride Will Be Loop This Season

This year's 100 mile trail ride, annual test of horsemanship sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America, will start and end at Onwentsia Country club on each of its three days—Oct. 4, 5, and 6.

This was announced last week by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the horse and mule association, who is head of the committee on arrangements for the ride, now in its third year.

Previous rides have ended many miles from their start, in order that the riders might traverse as many miles of the Cook county and Du Page county forest preserve trails as possible. The "cloverleaf plan," whereby the three day ride is made in daily loops, is intended primarily to acquaint the riders with the extensive private trail system in Lake county.

Forty Miles in Seven Hours.

The itinerary of the cross-country ride will dip far south into Cook county on the first and second days, on each of which 40 miles will be covered, the officials said. On the third day only 20 miles will be ridden.

Riders will be required to finish the 40 mile legs in seven hours each and will be allowed three hours for the final 20 miles. Motorized units will accompany the horsemen and horsewomen, carrying water and feed for the mounts, luncheon for the riders, and the judges, handlers, and other necessary staff members.

Several advantages are claimed for the cloverleaf method of conducting the ride.

One is that it simplifies arrangements for stabling. In previous years it was a problem to find adequate barn accommodations for the close of the first and second days.

Another is that riders are freed of the necessity of having their horse-carrying trailers and other equipment moved while they ride to a distant finish line, and can more conveniently arrange hotel accommodations.

$10 Entry Fee.

The entry fee of $10 includes feed and stabling for the horse for three days, and luncheons for the rider.

Entries already are being received by members of the committee, Dinsmore said. These members include Dinsmore; J. M. Fitzgerald of the Town and Country association; Robert Mann, maintenance superintendent for the forest preserves; Elmer J. Holdorf, stable owner; Mrs. Helen M. L. Hall, riding instructor, and Jesse F. Burt.

A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride

This drawing shows a rider in good form in the canter, a rocking gait that on most horses is easy to ride. Its speed can be regulated to suit the desire of the equestrian. The horse is shown at the instant all four feet are off the ground.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Next in order in my riding series came the canter, a rocking motion of the horse that is really a slow gallop. It is an easier gait to ride to than the trot, because it is more rhythmical, but this varies with the horse.

My teacher, Elmer J. Holdorf, has insisted from the start of this lesson series that horses differ as widely as riders. My own brief experience bears this out.

Take, for example, my first mount, Brownie, a docile mount whose laziness makes her ideal as a school horse. Then there was Sergeant Pat, rather hard-mouthed and slow, but possessed of a beautiful slow trot that is extremely easy on the rider.

Ranger, on the other hand, has a more choppy trot, but a canter as smooth as rippling meadow, which he always precedes with a disdainful toss of his head.

Head Up for Canter.

Getting a horse to canter requires "collecting" him under you This is accomplished by bringing his head up and his nose back with the reins, at the same time applying the calves or heels decisively to his sides to urge him forward.

If he should merely trot, or canter for a few steps and break back to the trot, he should be returned to the walk and started over. The canter should always start from the walk, never from the trot, I was told.

In the canter, as in the trot, I was instructed to stay with the saddle; that is, to avoid letting daylight show between my seat and the saddle. To do this requires good equilibrium, with some assistance from the thighs, knees and toes.

I was still having some trouble in keeping my knees in, but I was able to overcome this almost completely with the aid of a procedure Holdorf showed me.

Knee Grip Improves.

He told me to keep my foot against the inner side of the stirrup iron, with the inner side of the foot lower than the outer side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. I found this was an easy position to maintain, and was gratified to see that it helped keep my heels down—and thus helped give ce a feeling of security and confidence.

I noticed that when I was properly seated on a moving horse the inner sides of my knees felt a bit exercised. My instructor said this was an excellent sign. Chafed knees indicate a new rider is getting a natural knee grip, Holdorf said.

One tendency that gave me trouble was leaning forward too far during the canter. This took weight off my seat and caused me to bump up and down with the horse's motion. This bumping ceased instantly when I straightened up, lifted my chin and threw my shoulders back, to get the "hollow back" my tutor keeps counseling.

In keeping my horse's head high while cantering, I saw that the backward pull of the reins tended to slow him so he broke back into a trot. I was advised to apply the leg aids as I reined, to let the horse know I didn't want him to change gait.

That worked like a top. I discovered I could slow the canter down to the speed of a walk, merely by applying the forward [foot] and backward [rein] aids at the same time.

SUMMIT TO NOTE 50TH BIRTHDAY

GARBAGE CANS INCREASE; RATS FEEL THE PINCH

City Aims to Starve Out the Pests.

Eleven months ago there were 96,129 buildings in the city that were provided with garbage cans. The rats loved it. Today there are only 36,629 without refuse cans, and the rats are beginning to feel the pinch of hunger.

This drastic reduction in the short space of 11 months has been a result of the city's vigorous campaign to provide refuse receptacles for all of the 385,659 dwellings in Chicago. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and 50 ward superintendents have been the leaders in the fight to starve out the rats.

Last September the city embarked on the campaign to provide garbage cans for every building as a public health measure, and urged that householders refrain from throwing refuse in alleys and vacant lots. This had been such a frequent practice that virtual feeding lots for rats had grown up everywhere, and the rat population grew to an estimated 5,000,000.

Up to Superintendents.

The main responsibility for the success of the battle was placed in the hands of the 50 ward street superintendents. In the beginning, not a single ward in the city had 100 per cent of its buildings supplied. However, thru the effort of the ward superintendents and the coöperation of various clubs and improvement organizations, thousands of new garbage cans have been placed and there are now nine wards which are batting 100 per cent. They have garbage cans provided for every building where the city collects garbage.

According to the law, each householder must provide his building with refuse receptacles. But the drive to inforce this was made more of an appeal to civic pride than a threat. As a result, the response from the people has been much greater than could have been expected.

Nine Wards Win Praise.

The nine wards that drew the praise of Commissioner Hewitt are the 5th, 6th, 32d, 33d, 34th, 39th, 48th, 49th, and 50th. These had every building supplied with garbage cans.

Other wards that were creditably mentioned were the 2d, 15th, 17th, 18th, and 41st, which had obtained cans for 12,531 buildings during the campaign, or an average of 2,506 per ward. Only three wards have receptacles for less than 70 per cent of the buildings, the 2d, 13th, and 25th.

In spite of the satisfactory results already obtained, the city is determined that every residential building in Chicago will eventually be provided with refuse receptacles that will make garbage collection easier and more effective and that an end will be put to the carelessness that results in offering disease carrying rats "three squares" a day.

To hurry the extermination of the pests the city council finance committee has set aside $3,000 to purchase rat poison that will be distributed thruout the 50 wards.

On Southwest Side.

On record of the southwest side wards and the names of the superintendents are as follows:

9th ward—Edwin Watson; 13,669 buildings served; 2,776 without cans—76.9 per cent.

11th ward—James J. Mitchell; 8,326 buildings served; 1,625 without cans—79.6 per cent.

12th ward—Michael English; 10,955 buildings served; 1,085 without cans—89.8 per cent.

13th ward—Thomas Carney; 13,397 buildings served; 4,387 without cans—66.5 per cent.

14th ward—Chris Keane; 7,932 buildings served; 1,855 without cans—76.3 per cent.

15th ward—Frank Micek; 10,246 buildings served; 1,512 without cans—82.9 per cent.

16th ward—Edward J. Petlak; 9,732 buildings served; 324 without cans—96.6 per cent.

17th ward—Rudolph Woerner; 7,309 buildings served; 1,740 without cans—75.9 per cent.

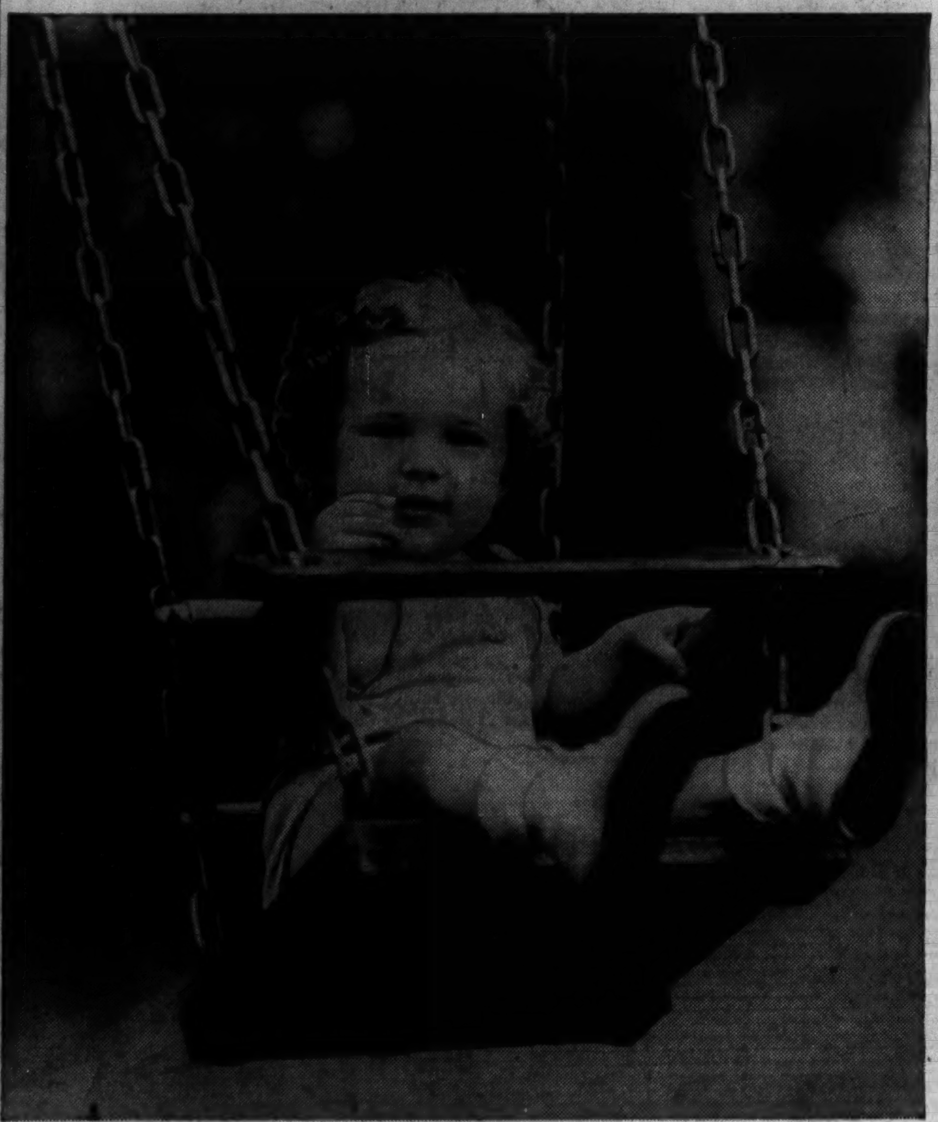
18th ward—Peter Kearney; 10,531 buildings served; 76 without cans—99.9 per cent.

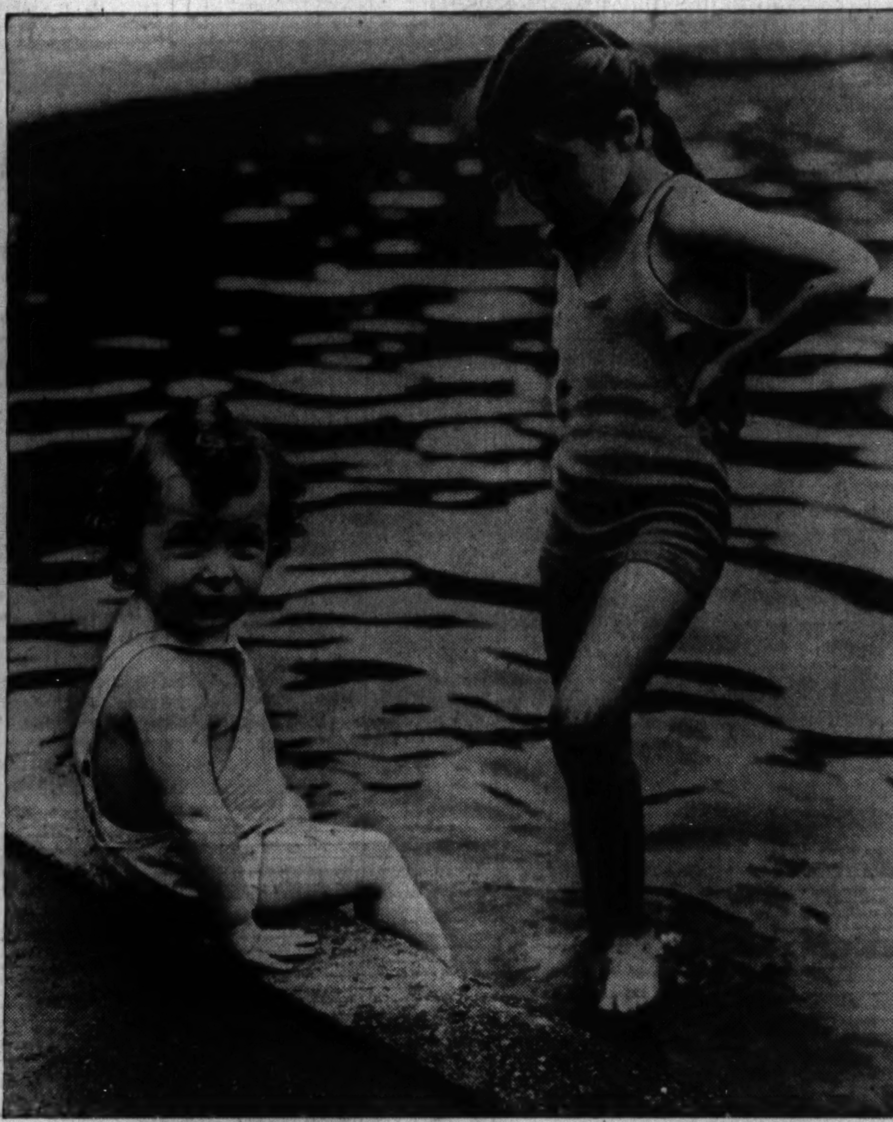
19th ward—Michael O'Malley; 13,194 buildings served; 1,522 without cans—87.9 per cent.

HI-LI CONTEST WILL BE STAGED AT OGDEN PARK

Ogden park, 67th street and Racine avenue, will be the scene of one of the three district hi-li contests on Sept. 14. Boys and girls, 15 years of age and under, are taking part in weekly contests held at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoons in the 136 units of the Chicago park district. Winners in weekly tilts receive hi-li sets. A week from Friday, each unit will stage a tournament for a local champion. The champions will compete in the district meets, and boy and girl winners there will receive bicycles and an opportunity to play for the grand championships on Sept. 21. Winner of the big event will get an all-expense trip to the New York World's Fair, accompanied by one parent.

Enjoy Summer Playtime at Davis Square Park





"How do we like to go up in a swing? We think it's a fine thing on a summer's day, a fine thing," Robert Serouska might say if he said anything much. At 1 year old, Robert isn't too conversational. However, he "looks" his enjoyment of the swing in Davis Square park, 45th street and Marshfield avenue, where he and hundreds of other back o' the yards youngsters enjoy many hours of playtime thruout these warm days. Robert lives at 4527 South Wood street. Emily Ann Smith, 18 months old, and Jeanette Agnew, a big girl of 5, prefer a splash party to a trip in a swing. Emily's address is 4416 South Hermitage avenue, and Jeanette lives at 4514 South Marshfield avenue. The park supervisor is Joseph Meegan. Boys and girls at Davis square are enrolled in C. Y. O. summer school classes. Lessons over, they make use of the many park facilities, or they read in the library branch in the fieldhouse.

Let Tradition Guide You in Riding Apparel

BY REA SEEGER.

Any attempt at rugged individualism is quietly nipped in the bud if you are shopping for riding apparel. It's much safer to string along with tradition. Headgear, for instance, correct hats of fine felt designed to fit down over the skull, are designed that way for the simple idea of comfort and assurance that, once on the head, playful breezes cannot whisk them away. So, also, the shallow brims, just wide enough to shadow the eyes, not to drop down when you need a good eye range.

Gloves are also standard and classic. String affairs for casual summer outfits, of sturdy cotton twills or gabardines, strong, long wearing supple pigskins to wear with wool outfits, ridged on each finger for a firm yet easy grip. Combinations of pigskin with chamois provide a third choice if you insist upon something a bit different.

"Darbies" Cork Lined.

The derbies or "darbies," as you prefer, are cork lined, an exceedingly comforting assurance to the equestrian pessimistically fearing a tumble. But if you wear a derby it must not be any other color than coal black; if you wear a derby you must wear a stock [collar to the walkers].

Derbies are correct toppers for dress riding. The shallow brimmed hats that fit down so securely over the head are correct for the casual round the town riding of an average city and suburbs. Such felts come in unassuming colors, subdued shades of blue, beige, russet, and brown with a few gray's, each model a classic of simplicity and fit.

Riding shirts are without frills or extras, they're as smartly masculine as tho you selected them at the haberdasher that serves your dad or brothers. White broadcloth, impeccably detailed, seamed and cut, promises comfort and the right contrast. Collars stay buttoned snugly high around the neckline with ties of dark, discreet colorings, no pins, clips or other cluttering jewelry.

Tights of Wool.

Underneath everything are tights of fine English wool sufficiently long to reach the top of the shoes. For long hours in the saddle, you are advised to wear or buy tights without seams, thus banishing all hazards of skin welts.

This riding underwear is soft, absorbent, thin and designed to fit with unwrinkled smoothness. The more expensive stuff of the same thin wool, same cut and design and without seaming, is priced higher because of the lack of seams and because it is imported . . . but it's worth every additional penny.

Correct riding outfits are of sturdy wool for fall and winter; fine, strong cottons and palm beach materials for summertime. All breeches, jodhpurs, jackets, or coats are marvels of fine tailoring, flawless fitting. Nothing irritates the critics more than sloppy riding clothes. Every cent you spend on meticulously tailored and superfitted jackets, breeches, or jodhpurs is justified. Such selections outlast, infinitely outsmart anything of less carefully cut designs.

Good looking and correct jodhpurs or breeches are usually of brown, russet, dark or light beige, or chestnut with a very few oxford grays and lighter gray colors. Jackets are always cut long enough to conceal the widest spread of the hips, seamed cut and fitted to make the most of the figure line.

And while the knowing equestrian has her jackets and outfits made to her particular requirements, some extremely well designed jackets can be selected from the available large ready to wear assortments.

Are Preferred Patterns.

Small blurred checks, indeterminate plaids, and chevron diagonals are the preferred patterns with the colors always to repeat, blend, or harmonize with the color of the breeches or jodhpurs. Strong yet flexible cavalry twill is the best fabric for these garments, with reinforced sections of the same fabric or harmonizing suede of light weight. Every inch of the seaming, fitting, and cutting is executed to assure super comfort and smart streamlines.

Pockets in the jackets are expertly placed and tailored as are the collars, sleeves, and other details. Smooth woolens, together with slightly rough or restrained fleecy tweeds in handsome sporty patterns, are plentiful in heather shades or rich glowing colors of fall foliage.

Summer jackets are made of cotton gabardine in small checks, and plaids carefully copied from the fabric designs in wool . . . hound's tooth checks, blurred plaids, and diagonals. Colors are also copied from the wools, the one exception being the beautifully tailored, cool, long fitted jackets of creamy white palm beach material with a self-design in small chevron diagonal.

Summer jodhpurs are made of strong cotton twill or gabardine, in russet, tan, beige, or summer whites in sturdy, long wearing materials that tailor with the same swank as wool.

Waistcoats are optional with either winter or summer outfits. You'll find large assortments of these plain or patterned waistcoats as well as the finest examples of correct riding clothes and accessories in many well known Chicago sports shops and in the equally well selected showings featured in other Chicago stores.

Toy Lending Centers Are Popular

Toys can be training for real life occupations. Lorraine Seehoffer, left, 4238 Wentworth avenue, and Leonard Zylo, 444 West 45th street, do a store scene at Fuller park by way of enjoying a play period. Leonard is a milkman delivering the store's supply, and Lorraine checks the delivery as she receives it. Yes, the milk bottles and the eggs back there on the shelf are definitely unbreakable. All summer time play at Fuller park takes place outside. The regular inside playroom is used as a toy lending office. Table games of checkers, puzzles, and anagrams are on the toy list as well as the usual blocks, trucks, and trains.

ST. BRENDAN'S PARISH TO MARK GOLDEN JUBILEE

Committees have been chosen to plan the golden anniversary celebration of St. Brendan's parish, which will open with a dance and card party at the Palmer House on Sept. 20. Old timers in the parish will take part in the program.

Frank R. McGarr, 1259 West Marquette road, is general chairman. Committee members are: John J. Kelly, Mrs. Arthur Freyer, John McCarthy, Mrs. Eleanor Luedtke, Judge William V. Daly, and Mrs. John Tyrrell.

John Mullane, 1411 West 73d street, is secretary of the event.

Citizens Foot $150,000 Bill Due to Litter

Southwest side taxpayers could save a good share of the $20,000 they pay out annually to have their park areas cleaned simply by refraining from leaving litter about. The $20,000 is the cost of employing men to gather up the old newspapers and candy wrappers that mark the spots where men, women, and children unburden themselves of trash, not bothering to look for a refuse box. The figure is released by George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, in announcing an anti-litter campaign. The cost for the entire city is $150,000.

R. J. Dunham, president of the park district, has often stressed the need of vigorous effort to keep the city parks clean and has been planning the present movement.

The campaign has been organized in a series of staff meetings and at divisional meetings in the city's different sections. Employés have been instructed to set good examples by neatness and to take appropriate action when they observe violations of the ordinance prohibiting litter.

Employés Told Duties.

Park users have an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the exact provisions for keeping the property clean. They are being handed small cards by park employés, the cards reading: "Kindly put trash in containers. Help keep Chicago parks clean. They're the best in the world. Now let's make them the cleanest."

Then, in small type at the bottom of the card, is the warning that the "General ordinances of the Chicago park district prohibit littering of parks and boulevards. Offenders are subject to a fine of $5 or more."

Mr. Donoghue hopes to enlist the children, chief users of the parks, in the campaign. He says that since they are the "most intensive users of park property, it is only just that they should be called upon to help keep their parks clean—and perhaps to set an example which their elders will be ashamed not to emulate."

Boys and Girls To Aid.

As a step in this direction, each park district fieldhouse will be the center of an Anti-Litter club. Boys and girls will be asked to sign pledges that they will conduct themselves so as to keep parks free from litter and assist the employés in the cleanup drive.

Mr. Donoghue points out that the citywide park rubbish clearing for 1939 amounted to 8,000 truck loads, a total of 540,000 cubic feet. This, he says, is enough material to cover 12 acres of land a foot deep. The work of picking it up and hauling it away required 320 men and 28 trucks.

Mayor Kelly's Help Beautify Chicago committee will assist in the movement. Karl Eitel is general chairman.

Mrs. James J. Sharpe, 1406 West 82d street, director of District 25, Parent-Teacher association, and Harvey Ellerd, 9368 Longwood drive, are among those active in promoting the antilitter work. Harry Cullen, John Hourihan, Al Carlstrom, and John Lundgren are among general foremen who will supervise work on the south side of the city.

G. O. P. IN 15TH WARD WILL PICNIC TODAY AT SANTA FE PARK

Michael A. Ruddy.
[Moffett Photo.]

Republicans of the 15th ward regular organization will hold their annual picnic today at Santa Fe park in Tiedtville, near Willow Springs. The special guest will be State Rep. Michael A. Ruddy [4th] and ward committeeman. C. Wayland Brooks and Judge Oscar Nelson are expected to be among the speakers.

Walter McAvoy, 5941 South Damen avenue, and Fred R. Zickfeld, 1916 West Garfield boulevard, are co-chairmen of the picnic. Committee workers include: Richard Ninnemann, Jerry Taubr, Edward Vanasek, Carl Reidell, Anton Rada, Anthony B. Mazurk, Fred Muehlhausen, Herbert Wetzel, Ernest Geissler, William Geissinger, James Tomsovic, Robert Schulze and Barney Thieme.

Buses will begin operating at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue until the crowd has been accommodated. Service will be from the following points: 47th street and Damen avenue; 51st and Kedzie; 51st and Hermitage; 51st and Maplewood; 55th and Mozart; 55th and Damen; 59th and Albany; 59th and Maplewood; 63d and Fairfield; 63d and Hoyne, and 47th and Ashland.

MUSIC PROJECT UNITS TO GIVE THREE CONCERTS

Units of the Illinois music project will play three concerts in Chicago's southwest district this week. The Columbia Concert band, directed by Norman Black, will play in Raymond Chapel church, 816 West 31st street, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The same musicians will give a concert at Fernwood park, 10438 Lowe avenue, at 7:30 o'clock the following evening. Another Wednesday concert will take place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at Davis square, 45th street and Marshfield avenue. The Illinois Philharmonic choir, led by Walter Aschenbrenner, will present the program.

BRIGHTON PARK CLUB PREPARES SEASON PROGRAM

Members of the Brighton Park Woman's club, 4th district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, are rapidly completing the 1940-'41 plans.

The American home department will be in charge of the Jan. 14 program. Mrs. Charles Callewaert, 2739 West 37th place, chairman, announces that the members will see a full length film, "Mr. Hamlet Goes to Town."

Men's night is set for Jan. 28, and George Fleming of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee will lecture. He will illustrate his talk with the film, "Safe on the Highway."

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

DR. LEON M. STERN of 7100 South Shore drive, who has been looking over soldiers' teeth for the last two weeks, will end his period of active duty Saturday. A major in the dental reserves, Dr. Stern was assigned as assistant division dental surgeon to the 33d division's surgeon's office for the 2d army's maneuvers at Camp McCoy, Wis. The experience is not new to Dr. Stern, who has seen service on the Mexican border and as dental surgeon in the last world war. A certificate of capacity as lieutenant colonel was issued to Dr. Stern in 1936.

ONE of the youngest graduates at the University of Chicago graduation exercises last week was Norman Bruce Sigband, 5800 South Albany avenue, who is 20 years old. Norman completed the four year course in the history department in three years, without attending summer school. Under the Chicago plan he could take examinations without class preparation. He held one job at school and one job outside school during his three years and was active in freshman baseball, intramural athletics, the Hillel league, social clubs, and other organizations.

STILLMAN FRANKLAND, 5107 Blackstone avenue, will leave this week to attend the Golden Gate International exposition in San Francisco. Mr. Frankland will make the trip in his official capacity as a member of the exposition commission for Illinois, to which he was appointed recently by Gov. Horner. He will be honored with special ceremonies at the Illinois building on Treasure Island, site of the fair. While there Mr. Frankland will attempt to arrange an exhibition in Chicago of all paintings by Illinois artists now on view in the contemporary art section of the exposition.

Stillman Frankland.

TWO 60th anniversaries were celebrated by Our Towners recently. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schlegel, 7245 Paxton avenue, observed the event at "Villa Francis," located on Higgins lake, in northern Michigan. The Schlegels were born and raised on the south side and have lived at their present address for 24 years. They have four daughters, Mrs. Loretta Bosch, 929 East 46th street; Mrs. William D. Hawkins, 7807 East End avenue; Mrs. Benjamin Bright, 7149 Constance avenue, and Grace, who resides at home; two sons, Le Roy, 1704 East 77th street, and Elmer, 1964 East 72d place; nine grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sparger's celebration was attended by their son, his wife, 14 grandchildren, and 22 great-grandchildren, in Grant park. Earlier in the year their daughter-in-law's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Blanke of Grant Park, observed their 55th anniversary.

Louis Martens, 1240 East 83d street, and three Boy Scouts from Troop 558 are expected to return to the city today and tell the neighbors what it feels like to cook your own meals outdoors, sleep under the stars, and do a bit of hiking. For the last two weeks they have been on a "gypsy hike" in northern Wisconsin. The boys are Roger Matthews, 6349 Dorchester avenue; Alvin Rasmussen, 7014 Dorchester avenue, and Bill Covington, 6108 Ellis avenue. The troop is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at 6111 Kenwood avenue.

SOUTHWEST SIDE BOY LEADS THE CITADEL FIRST YEAR CLASS

Joseph P. Roth of 6052 South Richmond street ranked first in his class of 501 freshmen at The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina, according to a recent announcement in the college's official register for the 1939-'40 session. Roth made a straight A record and a conduct mark of 4.01 out of a possible 5. Second ranking cadet in the class is also an Illinois boy, J. C. Flowers of Bondville in Champaign county. Flowers trailed Roth by just .01 of a point in conduct. He, too, made a straight A record. Four other Chicago boys and two Evanston boys were included in the scholarship honor lists of the school.

TOWN ON CANAL PLANS PARADE AND EXERCISES

Young Bedford Park to Take Part.

A golden anniversary and a dedication will be celebrated simultaneously over the Labor day week-end at Summit and Bedford Park. Summit will observe its 50th birthday. Bedford Park will be dedicated as a newly organized village, one of the richest little towns in the United States since its annexation of the $21,000,000 Clearing Industrial district a week ago.

Summit was settled, originally, by Irish workers who selected the spot when they were busy digging the old Illinois and Michigan canal. When the ditch was finished they came back toward Chicago and took up land in the Summit area. Bedford Park, which is located along Archer avenue just south of the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal tracks, was settled in the early 1900s. It was not incorporated, however, until last May.

Many members of Bedford Park's 106 families are employed at the Corn Products company, also located in the village.

It's Double Celebration.

Chester J. Alger, president of the Argo State bank, is chairman of the golden jubilee, which also will be a celebration of the opening of the Archer avenue underpass at the B. & O. Chicago Terminal tracks as well as observance of the "birth of Bedford Park."

Costumes of 50 years ago and vehicles of that era will be featured in a Summit parade. The first day of the celebration, Saturday, will be Bedford Park day, however. Since the village is a young incorporated community, a "Kiddies' Parade" will start at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Archer avenue-B. & O. underpass and proceed two blocks south to 64th street and Archer.

The children may dress as they please, come on bicycles, tricycles, or afoot, and bring their pets or hobbies. There'll be prizes for the most outstanding entries.

Band to Entertain.

Dedication of the new village, including the recently added Clearing strip, three miles long and one-half mile wide, will take place at 10 o'clock on the carnival grounds on 64th street. A band will be on hand for the ceremonies, and there'll be speeches by Mayor Henry Wahl of Bedford Park, James J. Hynes, president of the Bedford Park park district; W. T. Brady, manager of the Argo plant of the Corn Products company, and others.

A street dance at 62d street and Archer avenue from 8 o'clock until midnight will close Bedford Park day. High point of the evening will be the selection of a carnival queen.

Among queen candidates registered now are Marianna Jaques, Dorothy Jones, Anne Makowsky, Olga Pagni, Gertrude Paul, Dolly Shanahan, Delores Strader, Shirley Swanson, Ruth Zimmers, and Patricia Pechnick.

Old Settlers' Day.

Next Sunday will be Old Settlers' day, with E. H. Wilson, mayor of Summit, leading a go-to-church program. Neighborhood pastors will preach sermons based on the anniversary celebration. One service, that of the Argo Congregational church, will be built on the topic, "Launching Into the Second 50 Years."

The Chicago Postoffice band will play at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon and at 7 o'clock in the evening. On Labor day festivities will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. This time a longer parade will lead off the day. The cavalcade will include the popularity queen, fire departments from Bedford Park, Summit, Justice, Lemont, Lockport, Lyons, Berwyn, Riverside, and Willow Springs.

Summit's golden anniversary will be the theme of this parade, and paraphernalia of the nineties will be used to make parade units. Starting from Harlem and Archer avenues the procession will march south on Archer to 71st street.

Exercises at Underpass.

Anniversary exercises will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the underpass.

Committee chairmen are: Clarence Wrenn, athletics; Charles E. Wingo, bands; Frank P. Zurn, beauty contest; the Rev. John Briece, churches; Tom Greenwood, dancing; W. E. Brown, decorations; Mayor Wahl, finance and carnival; Boy Scouts under Michael Yerkovich, first aid; William Altier, floats; Mayor Wilson, Old Settlers; M. J. Viebrock, parade direction; Leo F. Kennedy, parade participants; Frank Poeton, publicity; William T. Brady, reception; Christ L. Dineff, singers; J. W. Ramsden, souvenirs; Frank A. Brodnicki, mayor of Justice, speakers; W. W. Daley, speakers' stand, and Sam Herzog, traffic.

By way of dressing up for the celebration, Archer avenue will have new lights. The Argo business district, leading into the underpass, will be illuminated by lamps mounted on new octagonal poles. Other light installations are in the underpass and on 63d street east to 76th avenue. The lamps are designed to give light without glare.

Voice of the Southwest Side

A PARENT REPLIES.

I agree with Halsted street driver who wrote to your paper last week and complained about children playing in the highways. I'm a Halsted street resident. In fact, I'm a Halsted street parent, and I'm one of the culprits Halsted street driver took to task. In other words, my youngsters play in the street, every chance they get. I've seen them escape being run over by a hair's breadth. I've scolded and I've resorted to more severe punishments. But my neighbors' youngsters practically live in the streets. They start a ball game, and my youngsters want to get in and play. They're often teased about the "curb limit" my wife and I try to enforce. But we'll go right on trying, and we'll keep hoping that our neighbors will do the same. If parents were as vigilant about keeping children off the streets as drivers are about avoiding them—there wouldn't be the kind of accidents we read about every day.

ELI.

PROBLEMS OF DRIVING.

Nearly every week your metropolitan section has some kind of report about improved motoring conditions in this section. I suppose they're all true. But as a southwest side driver, I still find getting around this territory pretty much of a headache. Our thru streets running east and west are nearly all too narrow for two lanes of cars, especially when there are parked cars to boot, and there always are. Our north and south streets usually have street cars and trucks for the driver of a private car to dodge. And there are few thru north-south streets. They all run into the stockyards fence! If I want to go north, and I frequently do, I have to take a cross-country tour. I must drive east to the Outer drive or go west to Harlem avenue or fight my way up Western. When are southwest siders going to have a thorofare or two?

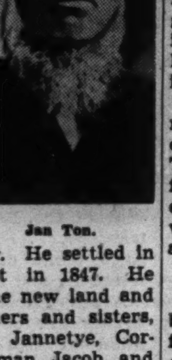
TONS TO GATHER FOR A WEIGHTY FAMILY SESSION

Will Recall Patriarch at Outing Thursday.

The Tons, long ones, short ones, old, young, middle aged, fat, and thin ones will come rolling into Wicker park in Lake county, Ind., Thursday for their 45th annual reunion. They'll take part in games and races, eat a big picnic lunch, and the older Tons will tell younger Tons family history.



Jan Ton.

They'll recount once more the family story relating that Jan Ton, born in the Netherlands in 1826, was the first to come to this country. He settled in the Calumet district in 1847. He wrote home about the new land and over came his brothers and sisters, Dirk, Tryntye, Sija, Jannetye, Cornelia, Cornelius, Herman, Jacob, and Sophia. They all settled in Calumet, and they all married and reared large families.

Branch on West Coast.

Now there are 700 to 800 Tons in Chicago and suburbs. There are more than 1,600 in the country. So many have settled in California that there is a Pacific coast branch of the family. These Tons hold a reunion on the same day that the Chicago Tons do. They meet in Los Angeles.

Family records show that there have been nine marriages, 18 births, and seven deaths since the 1939 reunion. Of the original family, Jannetye Ton, who married Gerrit Eenigenburg, has more descendants than any other. There are 295 Tons who trace themselves to that union. The American Tons have kept in touch with the Holland branch of the family, also. Their records, telling of deaths and births and marriages, designate the principals according to "branches."

Leaders of Local Group.

Mrs. H. R. DeYoung is honorary president of the local group. Active officers are: Henry Bult, president; Peter Van Weelden, vice president; Mrs. M. J. Bovenkerk, secretary; John G. Koster, treasurer; Mrs. F. W. Jansen, historian, and David H. Ton, assistant historian. The original Tons were truck gardeners from North Holland. Wicker park, setting of the reunion, is between Lansing and Gary.

OBSOLETE HOME CONVERTED INTO SIX APARTMENTS

Mansion Easily Adapted to Modern Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Sober, ageing structures can be a problem. Their intrinsic worth is undeniable, but if they are fast becoming obsolete there is the question of how they can best be reclaimed and converted into definite financial assets.

At 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago, there stands a handsome six apartment building. It is as interesting as it is good looking for it has a "past." For many years it was a beautiful, 18 room home, with high ceilings, great hallways, baths aplenty, and lovely grained woodwork and floors. It was a home which had always been well maintained and while it was in no state of deterioration it had reached the state which might be called obsolete.

The question of what to do with the house became acute and the decision was made to change its entire purpose in life. The firm of Cook and Jackson, property management, 161 East Erie street, called in Frederic B. Schmidt, Chicago architect, and plans were drawn and arrangements made for the remodeling.

Retain Floors and Trim.

As Everett Cook said to me the day I visited the apartments: "We decided from the first to keep the changes down to a minimum, since such a minimum is essential to all successful remodeling projects."

Mr. Cook called attention to the fact that it had not been necessary to change or add stairways or fire escapes. It also had been possible to reuse all the floors, which were of excellent hardwood, and all the trim, hardware, and the heating plant. New plumbing, of course, was installed thruout, new bath fixtures, kitchen, wiring, and light fixtures.

Mr. Cook is vitally interested in the reclamation of obsolete structures. "There are so many buildings and houses," he told me as we drove thru many miles of city streets, "which are sound structurally but obsolete; financial liabilities instead of assets. Sometimes all that is needed is a coat of paint or a new entrance, a new picket fence, perhaps, and some attractive painting."

Stone Porch Removed.

But to get back to 1507 North Dearborn parkway. Here the alteration is as practical as it is fascinating.

The old house had walls of limestone and these walls were sandblasted smooth. A rough stone front porch was ripped off and a new entrance built on the ground floor level. The interior entrance hall stands where once was a "grand hall," and over the new outside door the Gothic motif of the old dormers was repeated.

The entrance hall was a wainscoting of knotty pine, with a spirited green toned wall fabric above. There is a gorgeous crystal lighting fixture here which once belonged in the living room of the home.

One of the apartment building's most attractive suites stands in place of the former living room and study. The living room of this suite is 30x16 feet, with a great bay window with concealed lighting. There is an ivory wainscot around the room, with walls above painted a deep chocolate brown.

Large Living Rooms.

The original corner fireplace has been kept, and in the bedroom, 14x16 feet, there is a second fireplace. This one is of exquisite marble, in dusty pink tones which blend with the deep red roses in the wall paper pattern. Both the bath and kitchen are entirely modern, and so is the dinette.

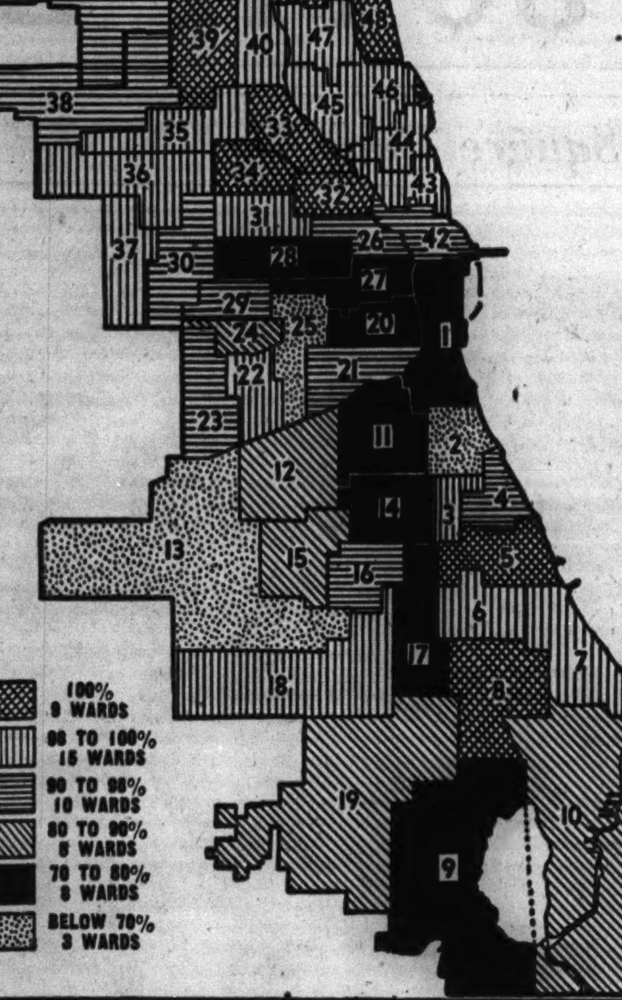
It may be noted here that the living rooms in all the apartments are very spacious, as spacious indeed, as the living rooms of many a large suburban home. Each apartment has an inner hallway of its own. Sufficient space was taken from the large central hallways of the old home to make this possible. Each apartment also has generous, well planned closet space. This extra closet room was made possible by taking space from the old original bathrooms, all of which were unusually large.

Air Kept Circulating.

The day we entered the apartment building the temperature outside was close to 100 degrees. But as soon as we entered any of the suites, air was stirring and the difference in temperature and comfort was considerable. A giant cooling fan was installed in the upper ceiling of the hallway which reaches to the third floor. In the daytime, air was kept constantly in motion in every apartment, and at night cool air was sent thru all the rooms.

Another feature to contribute to summer comfort was the screening. Every window was screened with a new type of sun resisting screen, designed like a miniature Venetian blind, as a help to keep out the direct rays of the sun.

Where Garbage Cans Are Needed



As a result of an 11 month campaign by the city, many garbage cans have been placed in buildings where previously the rats had free access to the refuse and thrived on it. A report from Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, shows that the 50 city wards have been active in placing receptacles in buildings served by the city. The wards fall into six different percentage classifications based on the number of buildings served in the ward, and the number of those buildings without cans. Nine wards hit an average of 100 per cent, meaning that all buildings in the ward have cans, and three wards fall below 70 per cent.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 26.

There is nothing quite as satisfying as a number of small fruit plants on the home grounds—a few currant bushes, a goseberry or two, raspberries or blackberries, and, if a strawberry bed can be planted the luscious fresh fruits will be greatly appreciated.

There still is time to plant a strawberry bed. It is best to buy pot plants that are grown for the purpose. Pot plants already are established, they start growth immediately, and will be in condition to stand the winter without serious injury if protected with straw or other material. Ask the nurseryman for suitable varieties—both staminate and pistillate varieties must be used—and there should be no difficulty in growing a fine crop.

Overgrown clumps of phlox should be dug and divided now. Give phlox plenty of space and avoid shade. Cut off the tops of old clumps and burn them to eliminate any disease that may be present.

Tuesday, Aug. 27.

There still is time to divide and replant iris or to plant new ones. Large clumps that are badly in need of dividing furnish only a few flowers. Order a few of the newer sorts to add variety and interest to the garden.

Old lily-of-the-valley beds that have ceased to flower abundantly should be divided and replanted now. Plant about two inches deep and four to five inches apart. Replace old worn out soil with new and dig in plenty of plant food or decayed manure.

Wednesday, Aug. 28.

For a shady border on the north side of the house use a few low growing ground cover plant with hardy ferns in the background. The bunchberry [Cornus canadensis] grows four to five inches high and has white flowers in spring followed by red berries in clusters.

Trailing arbutus is a pretty plant with fragrant flowers of pink and white. Wintergreen is desirable ground cover with green and bronze leaves and bright red, edible fruit in winter. Other kinds that could be used are galax, partridgeberry, creeping phlox, or Japanese spurge. Grave myrtle is a fine plant that is largely used.

Covering banks is frequently a problem, but if plants like the pendant goldenbell, matrimony vine, and other of similar type and habit are used they soon form a cover that is delightfully effective.

Thursday, Aug. 29.

Wild flowers transplanted this fall will flower this spring. Why not naturalize clumps of trilliums, hepaticas, Virginia bluebells, and others where they give a good effect and do not interfere with the more formal and elegant parts of the ground? Semishady places where sod is difficult to maintain will be a good place for these plants and they will be much appreciated before many other kinds come into flower. There are firms dealing in them and their cost is small.

Seeds also can be purchased of many kinds and most of them can be fall sown. Save the small bulbils when the gladiolas are dug for they will bloom in from two to three years.

Friday, Aug. 30.

Be sure to get in the order for bulbs, for many kinds—such as tulips are certain the be scarce due to the situation in Holland. Some stocks are available but they are likely to be so depleted that only those who order early will receive what they want.

If the lawn has not been renovated or the new one constructed it is time to start. Remember that the first soil preparation is essential for a long lasting turf, which means the incorporation of copious amounts of decayed manure into the soil where it is available. If the soil is very poor it should be entirely removed to a depth of five to eight inches and replaced with good soil. It may merely lack humus which may be supplied in the form of peat or decayed manure.

Saturday, Aug. 31.

After the soil is prepared rake it to as fine a seedbed as possible; remove all lumps and either bury them in a corner or cart them off the place. Buy a high grade seed mixture. Ask the dealer for a mixture that will do best in sun, or, if it is to be sown in a shady yard, use a mixture that contains the kind of grass that will do best in shade.

Never be satisfied with a mixture because it is cheap in price for there may be a lot of chaff in it. The fall made lawn, or newly sown grass seed, germinate readily at this season and has time to become well established before severe weather.

Weeds do not grow as rapidly in fall as they do during spring and summer, so the grass has a chance to develop without interference. Make the lawn now in preference to spring.

NO. 1 SOUTH SIDE DANGER CORNER HAS 77 MISHAPS

36 Persons Hurt at 63d and Cottage Grove.

[This is the second in a series of articles describing the most dangerous street intersections on the south side.]

[Another story describing the south side's second most dangerous intersection will be printed in an early issue of the Metropolitan section.]

The south side's most dangerous street intersection, 63d and Cottage Grove avenue, has been the scene of 77 accidents in the last year and a half, a survey by the Chicago Motor club revealed last week.

"During this period there have been 77 accidents which have resulted in 36 injuries," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, pointed out. "Thirty-five of the accidents involved pedestrians and 78 per cent of all accidents were a combination of the pedestrian casualty and the rear end collision type. Nearly three-fourths of all collisions involved north or south bound vehicles using Cottage Grove."

Mr. Hayes said that a large number of accidents can be attributed to elevated pillars on 63d street. They obstruct motorists' view of traffic lights and block their view of pedestrians attempting to cross both of the streets, he said. This is particularly true of motorists making a right or left turn off of Cottage Grove.

Signals Partly Hidden.

The high percentage of rear end collisions is believed to result from sudden stops by motorists on Cottage Grove, forced to that action when they have no chance to signal that they have suddenly sighted pedestrians who had been obscured by the elevated structure. Suddenly applying their brakes, they are often struck by cars behind them. The same situation is likely to result when motorists suddenly spot a partly-hidden traffic signal.

Since 48 per cent of the accidents during the period under study were found to have occurred at night, inadequate lighting may be a factor in accident occurrence here. Elevated stairs at all four corners of the intersection may also contribute to the screening of traffic lights.

Motor club engineers noted that only one pedestrian island, on Cottage Grove south of 63d, is raised above the street level. Others are merely painted zones on the pavement. To afford pedestrians additional protection, the zone on Cottage Grove north of 63d should be made the island type, they say.

Heavy Foot Traffic.

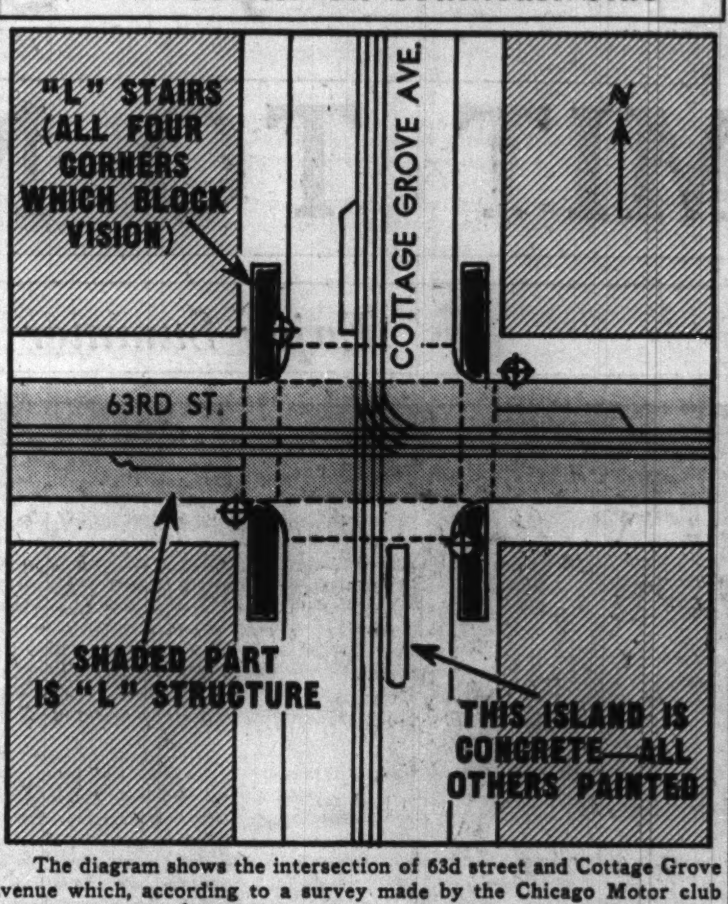
The motor club urges motorists to abide strictly by traffic lights at this point and not to jump the amber, in order to allow pedestrians as much time as possible to reach the curb. Because this district is popular as a shopping center, pedestrian traffic is abnormally heavy at all hours.

It is well for pedestrians to be as alert as possible in crossing this intersection. They should stay strictly in pedestrian lanes and walk only on the green light. They should be particularly careful not to start across the street on the amber light.

Wins Championship.

Victory Squadron, No. 168, Sons of the American Legion, of Hammond, won the state championship in the Sons of the Legion drum corps competition at the American Legion convention in Gary last week.

Worst Corner on Southeast Side



The diagram shows the intersection of 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue which, according to a survey made by the Chicago Motor club covering the last year and a half, is the most dangerous corner on the southeast side. Seventy-seven accidents occurred there in 18 months.

NAME STATIONS AND HOURS FOR ALIEN LISTING

All to Be Registered Before Dec. 26.

Stations for the registration of aliens living on the south and southwest sides were announced last week. Under the alien registration act, every alien in the United States is required to be registered and finger printed between next Tuesday and Dec. 26, 1940.

Aliens 14 years old or older must register themselves and aliens under 14 must be registered by parents or guardians. Maximum penalty for failure to comply with the law is a fine of $1,000, imprisonment for six months, or both. Registration is free.

Stations on List.

Beginning Tuesday, postoffice stations will be available for registration by south and southwest siders at the following time: Auburn Park station, 7914 South Racine avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Chicago Lawn, 3053 West 63d street, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Clearing, 6451 South Central avenue, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Eladon, 4822 South Kedzie avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Englewood, 611 West 63d street, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Grand Crossing, 7748 Cottage Grove avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Hegewisch, 13256 Baltimore avenue, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Hyde Park, 4601 Cottage Grove avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Jackson Park, 6313 Langley avenue, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Morgan Park, 1805 Monterey avenue, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

MUSEBECK HEALTH SPOT SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

THE HEALTH SPOT SHOEMAKER SAYS:

Perhaps if we had to walk in the other fellow's shoes, we wouldn't criticize him. Walking unnaturally or limping is often the result of wrong shoes that do not support the body weight properly, placing stress and strain on sensitive areas. In Health Spot Shoes body weight is evenly balanced over the three main weight-bearing parts of the foot. This means freedom from stress and strain . . . and comfort. Once you wear a pair of Health Spot Shoes you will always want to wear them. Write for catalog! Mail orders solicited.

HAMILTON PARK CLUB TO SPONSOR BENEFIT PARTY

Dessert Bridge Planned Tuesday Afternoon.

A dessert bridge party for the benefit of the book circle will take place at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Lassman, 7047 South Union avenue.

Mrs. W. E. Baker, 8848 Indiana avenue, is chairman of the event. Her assistants are: Mrs. Frank Healy, 8044 South Green street; Mrs. C. A. Biehl, 7954 Maryland avenue; Mrs. Bert G. Congreve, 6536 South Paulina street, and Mrs. David Smith, 6727 South Wolcott avenue.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Morgan Park's black and silver yearbook is off the press and ready for distribution. Mrs. C. S. Macnair, 11303 Bell avenue, and her committee have published a book covering the activities of the club including art, civics, drama, education, literature, and music. Reports, by-laws, committees, and the membership roll are in special sections. "Who's Who on Our Program" is the designation given to descriptive matter included with announcements. Mrs. Macnair's committee members are: Mrs. Clyde S. Stow, president; Mrs. Harold F. Wood, vice president; Mrs. Harold Sims, and Mrs. H. S. Campbell.

Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

Mrs. A. C. Stevesson, 3225 West 65th place, well known to third district club groups for her work as district chairman, will head the Chicago Lawn Woman's club as president this year. Besides being press chairman for the third district, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Stevesson has served the Chicago Lawn group as publicity chairman, first vice president, program chairman, and education department chairman. Mrs. Stevesson's Chicago Lawn scrapbook has won first place in its division of the district contest for the last two years.

Mrs. Bert Davies is Chicago Lawn luncheon chairman this year. She has reorganized the plan of work and will have a chairman for each luncheon day. She plans her service in cafeteria style. Her committee members are: Mrs. L. V. Anderson, Mrs. A. J. Berger, Mrs. Harold Bourne, Mrs. George Coltman, Mrs. F. R. Crawford, Mrs. J. A. Fagerstrom, Mrs. A. B. Folsom, Mrs. F. H. Shannon, Mrs. J. A. Simpson, Mrs. George Spears, Mrs. Harry Preston, and Mrs. David Wyburne.

Col. Philip Fox, former director of the Museum of Science and Industry, will be the speaker at the education department meeting on Nov. 5. His lecture will be "Science and Industry." Announcement of the program comes from Mrs. B. F. Costello, chairman of the education department. Mrs. Sidney Hand, past president of Chicago Lawn Woman's club and now third district education chairman, will be a guest.

Tinley Park Woman's Club.

Officers of the Tinley Park Woman's club for the 1940-'41 season are: Mrs. Frank Baldwin, president; Mrs. Harry Beggs, 1st vice president; Mrs. Harry Dean, 2d vice president; Mrs. Edmond Moss, treasurer; Mrs. E. B. Campbell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Irvin Stover, secretary.

Chairmen are: Mrs. W. B. Combs, program; Mrs. Charles Christ, garden; Mrs. Lester Hesbol, music; Mrs. E. J. Hoeppner, Park Ridge School for Girls; Mrs. William Shellhase, law observance; Mrs. John Swisher, international relations; Mrs. Herman Freitag, legislation; Mrs. John Fay, education; Mrs. Dean, radio; Mrs. Roy Hannum, literature; Mrs. L. G. Bruder, motion pictures; Mrs. Douglas Brown, American citizenship; Mrs. William Semmler, press and publicity.

Mrs. Charles Wallin, American home; Mrs. Malcolm Hargraves, art; Mrs. Omar Ebenhack, Indian welfare; Mrs. A. A. Wagner, public welfare; Mrs. Charles Neilsen, dean; Mrs. Harry Mager and Mrs. W. W. Kester, revisions; Mrs. J. A. Watson, Federation News; Mrs. Albert C. Koehler and Mrs. William Wannemacher, auditing; Mrs. George Curlin and Mrs. Herman Freitag, delegates at large; Mrs. E. J. Cross and Mrs. J. A. Watson, alternate delegates.

Third District Juniors.

The new third district junior Woman's club chairman, Mrs. James Mason of Beverly Hills, has been chosen to serve on the credentials and election committee for the 1941 Illinois state convention.

Mrs. Mason's district officers for the coming season are: Miss Madolyn Bohling of Calumet City, vice chairman; Miss Eleanore Taylor, Clearing, secretary, and Mrs. John Shaber, Clearing, treasurer.

Department chairmen are: Miss Athid Nelson, American citizenship; Miss Louise Grosse, American home; Miss Virginia Reichel, art; Miss Lucille Zimmerlin, club institute; Miss Julia King, drama; Miss Dorothy Hartnoll, literature; Miss Annabelle Cochran, motion pictures and radio; Miss Grace Johnson, music; Miss Helen Fetterly, press and publicity, and Miss Lillian Sellgren, public welfare.

As the opening of the 1940-'41 woman's club season approaches club leaders are putting last touches on the year's plans. One busy leader is Mrs. A. C. Stevesson, 3228 West 65th place, who will serve her club, the Chicago Lawn group, as president. Mrs. Stevesson has been publicity chairman and she has also done publicity work for the 3d district. Mrs. C. S. Macnair, 11303 Bell avenue, is calendar chairman of the Morgan Park Woman's club. She and her committee have just completed the club yearbook.

87 CADETS TAKE SUMMER COURSE AT TILDEN HIGH

Shooting Foremost in Students' Minds.

R. O. T. C. activities have been carried on this summer at Tilden High school where 87 cadets were enrolled from Du Sable, Harper, and Harrison High schools.

The students took part in an eight week session which included instruction in first aid, rifle marksmanship, scouting and patroling, musketry, and map reading, under the guidance of Sergt. George H. Bastnagel, military instructor from Harrison High school.

Shooting was foremost in the cadets' minds so a detailed practical course was taken up. Instruction was given in care and cleaning of the rifle, its nomenclature, sling adjustments, position exercises, and sighting and aiming.

Takes High Honors.

Sergt. Laddie Svarc from Harrison took high honors with a score of 330 out of a possible 400 points.

In addition to rifle work the first year cadets received theoretical instructions in sanitation and first aid, discipline, and courtesy and customs of the service. The second year cadets were instructed in the national defense act and scouting. Third year cadets also had map reading, patroling, and musketry.

See Ball Game.

The group made one trip during the year, to the Cubs' ball park. At the graduation exercises a color detail and 20 ushers were used.

Cornell Square to Have Water Carnival Friday

A water carnival along with vaudeville acts and musical interludes will take place at Cornell Square, 51st and Wood streets, at 7 o'clock Friday evening. Events will include diving acts, greased watermelon scramble, canoe tilting, nightgown races and life saving demonstration. Among entries registered now are: Joe Mesiac, Wally Mrowjski, Ed Bzepko, George Anton, Joe Novak, Adam Dominski, Charles Zazecki, Ed Harp, John Kolo, Henry Tomczyk, Ike Rodochonski, Esther Lucas, Beatrice Lenbardt, Catherine Barcella, Mary Stenka, Mary Sporchnski, and Mary Sherry.

BEVERLY HILLS BOYS TO RACE IN SOAPBOX DERBY

Beverly boys are salvaging packing boxes and hunting four wheels that match in preparing for the seventh annual soapbox Derby at 10 o'clock Friday morning on Lothair avenue hill.

Fifty entries are expected and there will be prizes for appearance as well as speed. William Buff, Beverly Y. M. C. A., 11055 Homewood avenue, is in charge of the race.

Other activities sponsored by the Beverly "Y" include the recent swimming tests in Kennedy park tank. Five boys passed. They are: Norman Carlson, Charles Pigott, Charles Sommerville, Gregory Loots and Donald Bell.

GLIDER EXPERT GRADUATES FROM MODEL BUILDING

Misses Silver C Thru a Mistake in Time.

Loyal Judson took to making model airplanes at the age of 14 "because the model automobile building field was crowded." And now at 27, Judson is still air-minded, but he's transferred from model planes to gliders, those graceful, motorless ships that may look a bit like models but are actually capable of keeping pilots in the air hours at a stretch.

The gliding enthusiast, who lives at 6919 Yale avenue, was graduated from Parker High school in 1931. He won a scholarship at the Central Y. M. C. A. college and went there a year. Since then, he has worked and gone up in the air when he could. He says he took a course of "self instruction" in flying in 1935 and 1936 which included a little airplane time.

He began gliding several years ago when he and Galen Asher, a school mate at Parker high, organized a glider club. There are 10 others in the club, but Asher and Judson are the only ones still active.

They're Building Glider.

Since then, Judson has been interested in several glider groups. He works with Asher two evenings a week at 7722 South Carpenter street where they're building a ship in the basement of an apartment building. Asher has been working on the ship for 18 months. Judson began helping the first of the year. Judson is a working partner.

Judson and a group of other enthusiasts have had the thrill of building and flying a glider. They bought one on the installment, or kit form, plan. They finished it two days before the meet in Frankfort, Mich., last August, named it Nimbus and went off to the meet to stay up in the air for $100 worth of prize money.

The Nimbus cost approximately $575. Judson stayed up an hour and three quarters at Frankfort. His companions, George Hall and John Bradisse, stayed up longer. Hall did three hours and 20 minutes, Bradisse, two hours and 45 minutes.

Hoped for Certificate.

Judson went to a meet in Benton Harbor in mid-November and hoped to make a five hour record in order to get a Silver C glider pilot's certificate.

He went up in the air on Chicago time. He swooped down after a long, long sit in the blue to ask the time. The folks at the Benton Harbor gliding field told him the hour in Benton Harbor, which is in the Eastern time belt.

So Judson soared for a while longer and finally descended, thinking he'd been in the air five and one-half hours. He missed his guess by an hour, because of the time difference, and his Silver C by half an hour.

Form Gage Club.

Bradisse, Judson and Hall are now formed into what they call the Gage club. Previously they belonged to the Gage Park club and in this group they had flying instructions in the summers of 1936, 1937, and 1938.

The men go in for altitude flying now and then. Judson attained 1,600 feet in the Glen Ellyn district. He'd like to get up in the air more often, but his regular job as a correspondent for Carnegie Illinois Steel company keeps him pretty much down to earth right now.

Grundy County Fair Will Open at Mazon on Friday

Grundy county's 35th annual fair will open Friday at Mazon and continue thru Labor day. Educational exhibits, stock and poultry competitions, and special entertainment novelties will be assembled for the four days and nights of the event.

In National Soaring Meet

Loyal Judson, 6919 Yale avenue, is part owner of this glider. His partner, George Hall, 4943 North Oakley avenue, is climbing into the cockpit while Hall's brother, Julian, holds the cowl cover which must be adjusted after the pilot is seated. This ship was built by Judson, Hall, and John Bradisse, a resident of the southwest side, from a factory kit. Hall is flying it in the national soaring meet.

FENGER HIGH P.-T. BOARD TO DRAFT YEAR'S PROGRAM

Luncheon Will Precede Session Sept. 4.

Fenger Parent-Teacher association board members will meet Sept. 4 at the home of the president, Mrs. Harold Kenworthy, 10917 Vernon avenue. A 1 o'clock luncheon will precede the session. The business of the meeting will be the final approval of plans and projects for the year.

Officers for the year, besides Mrs. Kenworthy, are: Mrs. Warren Wilner, 1st vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Lawrence Buckley, 2d vice president and social chairman; James Smith, Fenger principal, 3d vice president; Mrs. Norman Heimann, recording secretary and chairman of the budget and finance committee assisted by Mrs. August Ulrich; Miss Alice Cavanaugh, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Elmer Lanell, treasurer.

Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Palmer Magliocco are delegates to the state, district, and council conferences. Alternates are Mrs. Ora Selby and Mrs. L. J. Dailey.

Departmental chairmen are: Mrs. Arthur Rausher, auditing; Miss Edna Marlin, exhibits and posters; Mrs. Everett Boughen, hospitality; Mrs. Robert Melillo, health and the study of alcohol and narcotics; Mrs. Harry Johnson, legislation and juvenile protection; Mrs. Henry Borchardt, membership; Mrs. Ralph E. CALUMET CITY CLUB SPONSORS FLORAL EXHIBIT

The first floral exhibit of the Calumet City Home and Garden club will take place Tuesday at the Lake Hills Country club. Members may have as many entries as they wish. Each piece is to represent the title of a popular song or book, and each design is to be worked out in flowers, fruit, or vegetables. Prizes will go to the most artistic entry and to the most ingenious.

A morning round of golf, 1 o'clock luncheon in the clubhouse, judging of entries and then bridge make up the day's program plans.

The club was organized in May. Mrs. Walter I. Rauh of Calumet City is president, and Mrs. Ernest A. Remesch, also of Calumet City, is program chairman.

BEDFORD PARK BEGINS WORK ON NEW PLAY SPOT

Well-drilling last week in the Bedford Park park property initiated the $28,000 building and improvement project which park directors hope to have completed this fall. The park is a 10 acre tract between 66th place and 67th street, the W. W. Walker school, and Indiana Harbor Belt railroad.

The immediate plans are financed by a bond issue authorized by a referendum late last month. Park board members hope that the full development of the area will be a $140,000 project to be completed in the next 10 years. However, budgets are made up a year at a time.

After the well is completed the WPA workmen will go on to building three tennis courts, a baseball diamond with bleachers, two softball diamonds ,and a 70x108 foot wading pool. A piping system for watering the shrubbery is to be installed.

A gift to winter sports will be the sunken garden which is to be flooded for a skating rink in cold weather. Playground equipment is already in place. More items are to be added to the slides and teeters already in use.

The park facilities really make up the school playground so that equipment serves a dual purpose, that of schoolyard apparatus as well as park improvement. James J. Hynes is president of the park board, which was set up nearly two years ago.*

FIND WILLKIE'S RADIO VOICE IS FULL OF PROMISE

Listeners Say It Shows His Personality.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Wendell Willkie's radio voice and manner match his vigorous, earthy midwestern personality. His voice has real potentialities in his campaign for the Presidency. That is the opinion expressed by several speech experts and lay listeners last week.

These conclusions were reached by listeners after his formal acceptance address. Some of those who had heard him in his informal interviews and on the Town Meeting of the Air, in which he made a hit, were in a measure disappointed with his first long address on the air. They were quick to add, however, that the terrible heat, combined with the ordeal of having to address the tremendous Elwood throng as well as radio listeners probably conspired to handicap him.

In his earlier radio broadcasts Willkie showed a pronounced gift for repartee and listeners remarked about his warm friendliness, his bluff, hearty confident air that seemed in keeping with his character as they had learned about it thru the newspapers.

During his acceptance address they heard another Willkie. He was in dead earnest, challenging and forceful but not fiery. He appeared during the middle portion of the speech to be somewhat tired, his voice breaking several times. At times listeners became aware that he was reading. Toward the end there was a great improvement. He finished with great effectiveness.

Here are some of the comments of listeners:

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator and secretary of the Council on Foreign Relations: "Mr. Willkie fumbled at Elwood. But perhaps that was to be expected under the circumstances. He is at his best when he is engaged in informal discussion, when he can ad lib. In an open debate he would lick President Roosevelt. He has real possibilities at the microphone because of his direct, downright sincerity and his close to the soil manner. I think there is a little reaction today to the over finished radio speaker. In my opinion he should use only a skeleton manuscript or notes and allow himself a substantial cushion for extemporaneous remarks."

William A. Bacher, W-G-N program and production chief: "Willkie's voice has definite possibilities. He is sure of himself; he has a good resonant voice. At Elwood he was at his best in the narrative portion of his address when he was telling about his forbears. A little more 'heart to heart' manner is what he needs. He should let himself go more. With a little coaching he will be a real surprise."

Parker Wheatley, radio director and instructor at Northwestern university: "Mr. Willkie at Elwood displayed a vigorous fighting voice, sometimes hoarse, and heavily flavored with a characteristic Hoosier drawl and firmness that matches the simplicity and directness of his speech."

Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna: "Mr. Willkie sounds just like a real American, typical of the midwest. His voice is unpolished, but it's down to earth, with a quality of great sincerity about it."

A lay observer said: "It lacks the excessive graces in speech that we have become accustomed to in the last seven years in a Presidential voice, but it's good to hear."

Sherman Dryer, radio director of the University of Chicago: "Willkie should take a lesson for the future from Elwood. He should develop a technique of talking directly to the people. He should talk from studios, not outdoors before great numbers of persons. When he speaks to an intimate group he is fluid, easy, spontaneous, but not when he addresses a multitude."

Listeners commented on Willkie's typical midwestern pronunciation. He doesn't always enunciate clearly, they noted. He said "Pres'dent" for President; "wanna" for want to; "r'ligion" for religion; "arr" for our; "four'n" for foreign, and something like "pao-er" for power.

Guest Singer

Jarmila Novotna, the noted Czech soprano, will be guest artist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. Mme. Novotna, acclaimed enthusiastically by New York critics, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera last January in "La Boheme."

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS NOVOTNA AND ABRAVANEL

Noted Soprano, Conductor on W-G-N Tonight.

Maurice De Abravanel, celebrated conductor of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, and Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest artists on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian Broadcasting system network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick last week returned from a trip to Plattsburg, N. Y., where he observed United States army maneuvers.

Mr. Abravanel, who will be with the Chicago Opera as a conductor this season, will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in the absence of Henry Weber, who is on vacation. Madame Novotna will sing in place of Marion Claire, regular soloist on the Symphonic Hour, who is vacationing with her husband, Mr. Weber.

Three Solos by Novotna.

Mr. Abravanel and the symphony orchestra will open the program with Jean Sibelius' stirring "Finlandia."

Madame Novotna will present three solos—an aria from "Louise," by Charpentier, and two other numbers of her selection.

The orchestra will play two numbers by Johann Strauss—"Perpetuum Mobile" and "Radetzky March"—as well as Jacques Offenbach's "Overture Orpheus." The chorus will join the orchestra in Carl Weber's "Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Frieschutz, and themes from Friedrich von Flotow's "Martha," the evening finale.

The complete program:

"Finlandia" ..... Sibelius
Chorus and orchestra.
Aria from "Louise" ..... Charpentier
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Perpetuum Mobile" ..... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
"Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Freischutz" ..... Weber
Male chorus and orchestra.
Address ..... Col. Robert R. McCormick
"Overture Orpheus" ..... Offenbach
Orchestra.
"O, While I Sleep" ..... Liszt
"Velia," from "The Merry Widow" ..... Lahar
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Radetzky March" ..... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
Themes from "Martha" ..... Von Flotow
Chorus and orchestra.

Daughter of a Czech banker, Madame Novotna made her American debut at the Metropolitan last January in "La Boheme." She was wildly acclaimed by New York critics for her voice, beauty, and dramatic ability. Her rôle as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan was pronounced the finest performance in two decades.

Made Debut in Prague.

Madame Novotna sang her first opera rôle at the Prague National Opera when she was 17. After appearances in operas in Vienna, Paris, Warsaw, and Salzburg, Madame Novotna was starred in a number of European motion pictures.

Born of Portuguese parentage at Saloniki, Greece, Mr. Abravanel studied as a youth under Edmond Allegra and Kurt Weill. He has conducted in the Berlin State Opera house, the Paris Symphony and l'Opera orchestras with Bruno Walter, and has directed concert and broadcasting orchestras in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Abravanel is coming from Toronto for his guest engagement with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

Musical commentary for the Symphonic Hour is written by Cecil Smith of the Chicago Tribune music and drama department. The program is produced by William A. Bacher.

WEST PULLMAN HOMECOMING TO BEGIN SUNDAY

Two Day Program Will Include Dog Show.

West Pullman's 36th annual homecoming and Labor day celebration will begin next Sunday, opening a two day program of races, games, contests, dancing, fireworks displays, and a dog show. Preparations are being made to entertain 25,000 in West Pullman park at 123d street and Stewart avenue. The event is sponsored by the West Pullman Civic club in coöperation with the Chicago park district.

First event of the festival will be an eight team softball tournament from 1 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Top teams of West Pullman park and the International Harvester Industrial league will compete.

Pedigrees Don't Count.

A dog show will run simultaneously with the softball games. Pedigrees and breeds will not matter in this event. Prizes will be awarded in the following classes: Best informed owner, taking in essentials of grooming and general knowledge of dogs and pets; best groomed dog with reference to condition of hair, skin, toenails, eyes, ears, and teeth; best trick dog, judged on the number of tricks and facility of performances; best behaved dog and the best pet combination, that is, the understanding between dog and owner. Charles Humphrey is in charge of this event.

Outdoor dancing will begin at 8 o'clock on both evenings. Carnival booths, set up on 124th street between Princeton and Eggleston avenues, will operate thruout the period.

Labor day program will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the morning with all the best community horseshoe pitchers on hand for a tournament. Such veteran champions as William Budd, Wayne Moore, and Albert Carlson will take part in the competition. A series of races for children 6 to 17 years old will begin at 10 o'clock.

Ball Game Scheduled.

The Greater Pullman team and St. Solomea nine will meet in a baseball game at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Novelty events will start two hours later and will include a sack race, three-legged race, pie eating contest, cigar smoking contest, and other events. As soon as darkness falls the finale of the homecoming, a fireworks display, will take place.

The personnel of committees follows: Ways and means, W. G. Davis, chairman; Guy Castle, Vernon Knudson, and Forrest Lull; program, John Woodward, chairman; Charles Watts, Anthony Jaksa, Frank Kiss, Martin J. O'Donnell, and Ray Borst; reception, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell, Sheldon W. Govier, clerk of Appellate court, and John C. Fiddelke; police, Capt. Mark Boyle, Sergt. Arthur Judson, and Arthur Mehnke; concessions, Charles Novak Jr., chairman; W. W. Budd, W. H. Steubing, Wayne Moore, Frank Ernst.

Publicity, G. F. Roberts, chairman; Charles C. Kirk, Ray Singleman, James Crane, Frank Kartzke, Roy Roberts; first aid, Dr. Charles H. Hibbs; dancing, Iver L. I. Stone, chairman, and Harry Green; arrangements, Edward Flynn, chairman; Grace Ryan, Elizabeth Kelly, Henry Appel, Elmer Calhoun; properties, William Cholewa, chairman; Edward Gryczewski, Charles Chmielewski, and John Politigo.

Flying Cadets' Story to Be Told Over WMAQ

The colorful story of Uncle Sam's flying cadets will be dramatized during the Wings Over America program, at 11:30 a. m. today over WMAQ. The program will trace the steps taken by young men before they become army fliers.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels
with herb laxative combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

M'NARY ADDRESS SCHEDULED ON W-G-N TUESDAY

Senator Charles L. McNary's acceptance speech for the Republican Vice Presidency nomination will be heard over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., Tuesday.

Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, will introduce the nominee. The broadcast will originate at the Fair Grounds at Salem, Ore., and will be heard thru the facilities of Mutual's Don Lee affiliate, KHJ.

PLOT TO DISRUPT LATIN ACCORD IN 'WINGS' EPISODE

A gigantic scheme to disrupt United States-Latin American accord thru the distribution of large amounts of counterfeit money will be portrayed on "Wings for America" from 7 to 7:30 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The spy drama, written and produced by Blair Walliser, co-stars Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes of stage and screen fame.

Lorna Carroll, Chicago Tribune girl reporter played by Miss Landi, and Riley Davis, Mutual network news commentator, stumble onto the fifth column plot to sabotage Pan-American friendship thru an exconvict who tells them of some counterfeit hundred dollar bills he picked up in a poker game. Lorna and Riley are merely suspicious of the high denomination of the bills at first and are unaware of the scope and nature of the plot.

Members of the Advance Front, mythical fifth column group engineering the scheme, also try to put the lid on Riley's antiespionage efforts by 'framing' him with some of the counterfeit money. The bad bills and engraving plates for manufacturing them are planted in Riley's office by a girl who fakes a story about being pursued by fifth columnists.

Meanwhile, Lorna, angry with Riley, accepts a job with a Latin American export cartel headed by a mysterious Sir Benedict Cavil. While preparing to leave for South America Lorna hears that Riley has been arrested for passing counterfeit money.

The rescue of Riley and the uncovering of the counterfeit money plot bring the story to a surprise ending.

ALL-STAR GAME ON W-G-N—MBS NEXT THURSDAY

The College All Stars'-Green Bay Packers' football game will be broadcast by W-G-N-Mutual starting at 8:30 p. m. next Thursday from Soldiers' field.

Assisted by a battery of coaches, Bob Elson, a veteran All-Star game broadcaster, will report this year's contest. Ceremonies in connection with the game will be described by Guy Savage from a special post on the field behind the Packers' bench.

The broadcast will open with a description of the impressive ceremony during which the leading All-Star players are introduced. In addition, Savage will provide listening fans with a panoramic picture of the crowd at Soldiers' field.

After the pregame ceremonies Elson will take over the mike up in the broadcasting booth for the description of the game. Between halves the experts and coaches assisting Elson will analyze the game for listeners.

Spiritual Issues of War to Be Discussed Today

Spiritual issues of the war, current series of addresses by leading churchmen of Great Britain, will be heard at 12:30 p. m. today, when the Rev. Dr. James J. Forgan, moderator of the Assembly of the Church of Scotland, speaks to the American people from London over WCFL.

TRADE STUDIES TO BE CONTINUED AS DEFENSE AID

Seven Schools Will Offer Factory Courses.

The vocational education defense program will continue this fall in seven Chicago public high schools, it was decided last week by government and board of education officials. Two schools—Lindblom and Phillips—will be added to the five which have been operating under a day and evening schedule for the last two months. At least 3,500 workers will be trained by the time the courses are ended on Dec. 31, according to Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator for the board of education, who is assisting Supt. William H. Johnson with the work.

Purpose of the program is to prepare an "army in overalls" which would be able to run the nation's factories in an emergency. The state employment bureau will suply the students. They will be either men who have actually worked in factories or boys who have completed four years of technical high school study.

Classes Start at 4:30.

Classes will run from 4:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the regular classes in the schools are ended, on weekdays, and from 8 o'clock on Saturday. Subjects to be taught are automobiles, aviation, electricity, forge, foundry, machine drawing, machine shop, sheet metal, welding, and woodworking. All of it will be taught in the shop.

Day and evening classes have been conducted at Crane, Lane, Harrison, Schurz, and Tilden High schools during the summer. The new schedule will begin early next month. All expenses, including 134 teachers' and supervisors' salaries, communications, printing, equipment, repairs, supplies, and other necessities, will be borne by the government as part of the $15,000,000 defense appropriation recently announced by J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education in Washington, D. C.

Trade Classes Continue.

Mr. McNamee said that the Washburne Evening Trade school would continue its classes for journeymen workers as usual. They are receiving advanced training under the Smith-Hughes law. Other local schools may participate in the defense program later, he added.

Century Ride Will Be Loop This Season

This year's 100 mile trail ride, annual test of horsemanship sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America, will start and end at Onwentsia Country club on each of its three days—Oct. 4, 5, and 6.

This was announced last week by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the horse and mule association, who is head of the committee on arrangements for the ride, now in its third year.

Previous rides have ended many miles from their start, in order that the riders might traverse as many miles of the Cook county and Du Page county forest preserve trails as possible. The "cloverleaf plan," whereby the three day ride is made in daily loops, is intended primarily to acquaint the riders with the extensive private trail system in Lake county.

Forty Miles in Seven Hours.

The itinerary of the cross-country ride will dip far south into Cook county on the first and second days, on each of which 40 miles will be covered, the officials said. On the third day only 20 miles will be ridden.

Riders will be required to finish the 40 mile legs in seven hours each and will be allowed three hours for the final 20 miles. Motorized units will accompany the horsemen and horsewomen, carrying water and feed for the mounts, luncheon for the riders, and the judges, handlers, and other necessary staff members.

Several advantages are claimed for the cloverleaf method of conducting the ride.

One is that it simplifies arrangements for stabling. In previous years it was a problem to find adequate barn accommodations for the close of the first and second days.

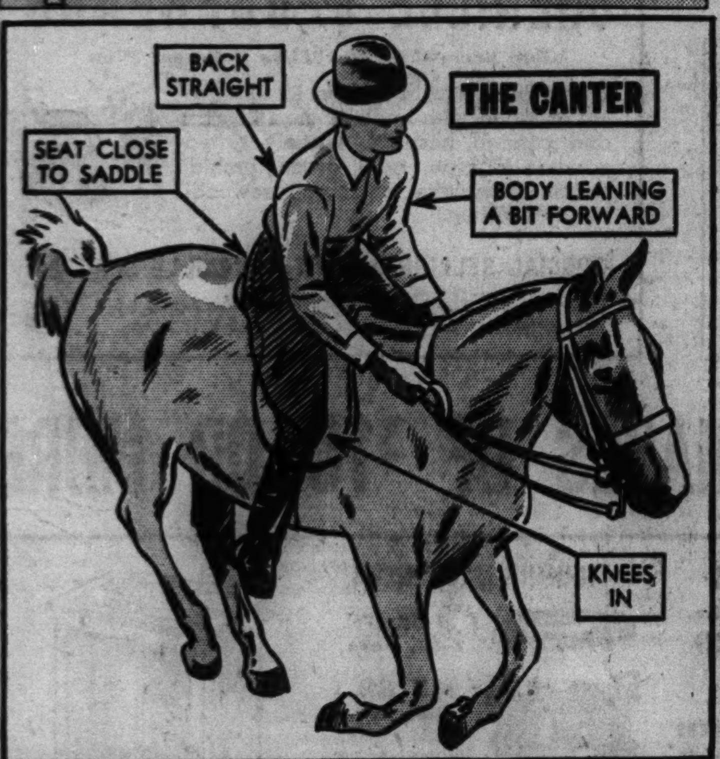
Another is that riders are freed of the necessity of having their horse-carrying trailers and other equipment moved while they ride to a distant finish line, and can more conveniently arrange hotel accommodations.

$10 Entry Fee.

The entry fee of $10 includes feed and stabling for the horse for three days, and luncheons for the rider.

Entries already are being received by members of the committee, Dinsmore said. These members include Dinsmore; J. M. Fitzgerald of the Town and Country association; Robert Mann, maintenance superintendent for the forest preserves; Elmer J. Holdorf, stable owner; Mrs. Helen M. L. Hall, riding instructor, and Jesse F. Burt.

A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride



This drawing shows a rider in good form in the canter, a rocking gait that on most horses is easy to ride. Its speed can be regulated to suit the desire of the equestrian. The horse is shown at the instant all four feet are off the ground.

This is the sixth in a series of stories describing a course in elementary riding instruction.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Next in order in my riding series came the canter, a rocking motion of the horse that is really a slow gallop. It is an easier gait to ride to than the trot, because it is more rhythmical, but this varies with the horse.

My teacher, Elmer J. Holdorf, has insisted from the start of this lesson series that horses differ as widely as riders. My own brief experience bears this out.

Take, for example, my first mount, Brownie, a docile mount whose laziness makes her ideal as a school horse. Then there was Sergeant Pat, rather hard-mouthed and slow, but possessed of a beautiful slow trot that is extremely easy on the rider.

Ranger, on the other hand, has a more choppy trot, but a canter as smooth as rippling meadow, which he always precedes with a disdainful toss of his head.

Head Up for Canter.

Getting a horse to canter requires "collecting" him under you This is accomplished by bringing his head up and his nose back with the reins, at the same time applying the calves or heels decisively to his sides to urge him forward.

If he should merely trot, or canter for a few steps and break back to the trot, he should be returned to the walk and started over. The canter should always start from the walk, never from the trot, I was told.

In the canter, as in the trot, I was instructed to stay with the saddle; that is, to avoid letting daylight show between my seat and the saddle. To do this requires good equilibrium, with some assistance from the thighs, knees and toes.

I was still having some trouble in keeping my knees in, but I was able to overcome this almost completely with the aid of a procedure Holdort showed me.

Knee Grip Improves.

He told me to keep my foot against the inner side of the stirrup iron, with the inner side of the foot lower than the outer side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. I found this was an easy position to maintain, and was gratified to see that it helped keep my heels down—and thus helped give ce a feeling of security and confidence.

I noticed that when I was properly seated on a moving horse the inner sides of my knees felt a bit exercised. My instructor said this was an excellent sign. Chafed knees indicate a new rider is getting a natural knee grip, Holdorf said.

One tendency that gave me trouble was leaning forward too far during the canter. This took weight off my seat and caused me to bump up and down with the horse's motion. This bumping ceased instantly when I straightened up, lifted my chin and threw my shoulders back, to get the "hollow back" my tutor keeps counseling.

In keeping my horse's head high while cantering, I saw that the backward pull of the reins tended to slow him so he broke back into a trot. I was advised to apply the leg aids as I reined, to let the horse know I didn't want him to change gait.

That worked like a top. I discovered I could slow the canter down to the speed of a walk, merely by applying the forward [foot] and backward [rein] aids at the same time.

TRADE STUDIES TO BE CONTINUED AS DEFENSE AID

Seven Schools Will Offer Factory Courses.

The vocational education defense program will continue this fall in seven Chicago public high schools, it was decided last week by government and board of education officials. Two schools—Lindblom and Phillips—will be added to the five which have been operating under a day and evening schedule for the last two months. At least 3,500 workers will be trained by the time the courses are ended on Dec. 31, according to Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator for the board of education, who is assisting Supt. William H. Johnson with the work.

Purpose of the program is to prepare an "army in overalls" which would be able to run the nation's factories in an emergency. The state employment bureau will suply the students. They will be either men who have actually worked in factories or boys who have completed four years of technical high school study.

Classes Start at 4:30.

Classes will run from 4:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the regular classes in the schools are ended, on weekdays, and from 8 o'clock on Saturday. Subjects to be taught are automobiles, aviation, electricity, forge, foundry, machine drawing, machine shop, sheet metal, welding, and woodworking. All of it will be taught in the shop.

Day and evening classes have been conducted at Crane, Lane, Harrison, Schurz, and Tilden High schools during the summer. The new schedule will begin early next month. All expenses, including 134 teachers' and supervisors' salaries, communications, printing, equipment, repairs, supplies, and other necessities, will be borne by the government as part of the $15,000,000 defense appropriation recently announced by J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education in Washington, D. C.

Trade Classes Continue.

Mr. McNamee said that the Washburne Evening Trade school would continue its classes for journeymen workers as usual. They are receiving advanced training under the Smith-Hughes law. Other local schools may participate in the defense program later, he added.

Century Ride Will Be Loop This Season

This year's 100 mile trail ride, annual test of horsemanship sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America, will start and end at Onwentsia Country club on each of its three days—Oct. 4, 5, and 6.

This was announced last week by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the horse and mule association, who is head of the committee on arrangements for the ride, now in its third year.

Previous rides have ended many miles from their start, in order that the riders might traverse as many miles of the Cook county and Du Page county forest preserve trails as possible. The "cloverleaf plan," whereby the three day ride is made in daily loops, is intended primarily to acquaint the riders with the extensive private trail system in Lake county.

Forty Miles in Seven Hours.

The itinerary of the cross-country ride will dip far south into Cook county on the first and second days, on each of which 40 miles will be covered, the officials said. On the third day only 20 miles will be ridden.

Riders will be required to finish the 40 mile legs in seven hours each and will be allowed three hours for the final 20 miles. Motorized units will accompany the horsemen and horsewomen, carrying water and feed for the mounts, luncheon for the riders, and the judges, handlers, and other necessary staff members.

Several advantages are claimed for the cloverleaf method of conducting the ride.

One is that it simplifies arrangements for stabling. In previous years it was a problem to find adequate barn accommodations for the close of the first and second days.

Another is that riders are freed of the necessity of having their horse-carrying trailers and other equipment moved while they ride to a distant finish line, and can more conveniently arrange hotel accommodations.

$10 Entry Fee.

The entry fee of $10 includes feed and stabling for the horse for three days, and luncheons for the rider.

Entries already are being received by members of the committee, Dinsmore said. These members include Dinsmore; J. M. Fitzgerald of the Town and Country association; Robert Mann, maintenance superintendent for the forest preserves; Elmer J. Holdorf, stable owner; Mrs. Helen M. L. Hall, riding instructor, and Jesse F. Burt.

A Tenderfoot Learns to Ride

This drawing shows a rider in good form in the canter, a rocking gait that on most horses is easy to ride. Its speed can be regulated to suit the desire of the equestrian. The horse is shown at the instant all four feet are off the ground.

This is the sixth in a series of stories describing a course in elementary riding instruction.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Next in order in my riding series came the canter, a rocking motion of the horse that is really a slow gallop. It is an easier gait to ride to than the trot, because it is more rhythmical, but this varies with the horse.

My teacher, Elmer J. Holdorf, has insisted from the start of this lesson series that horses differ as widely as riders. My own brief experience bears this out.

Take, for example, my first mount, Brownie, a docile mount whose laziness makes her ideal as a school horse. Then there was Sergeant Pat, rather hard-mouthed and slow, but possessed of a beautiful slow trot that is extremely easy on the rider.

Ranger, on the other hand, has a more choppy trot, but a canter as smooth as rippling meadow, which he always precedes with a disdainful toss of his head.

Head Up for Canter.

Getting a horse to canter requires "collecting" him under you. This is accomplished by bringing his head up and his nose back with the reins, at the same time applying the calves or heels decisively to his sides to urge him forward.

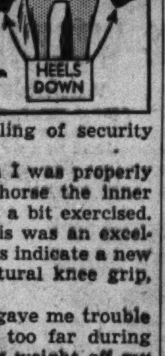
If he should merely trot, or canter for a few steps and break back to the trot, he should be returned to the walk and started over. The canter should always start from the walk, never from the trot, I was told.

In the canter, as in the trot, I was instructed to stay with the saddle; that is, to avoid letting daylight show between my seat and the saddle. To do this requires good equilibrium, with some assistance from the thighs, knees and toes.

I was still having some trouble in keeping my knees in, but I was able to overcome this almost completely with the aid of a procedure Holdorf showed me.

Knee Grip Improves.

He told me to keep my foot against the inner side of the stirrup iron, with the inner side of the foot lower than the outer side, as shown in the accompanying illustration. I found this was an easy position to maintain, and was gratified to see that it helped keep my heels down—and thus helped give ce a feeling of security and confidence.



I noticed that when I was properly seated on a moving horse the inner sides of my knees felt a bit exercised. My instructor said this was an excellent sign. Châfed knees indicate a new rider is getting a natural knee grip, Holdorf said.

One tendency that gave me trouble was leaning forward too far during the canter. This took weight off my seat and caused me to bump up and down with the horse's motion. This bumping ceased instantly when I straightened up, lifted my chin and threw my shoulders back, to get the "hollow back" my tutor keeps counseling.

In keeping my horse's head high while cantering, I saw that the backward pull of the reins tended to slow him so he broke back into a trot. I was advised to apply the leg aids as I reined, to let the horse know I didn't want him to change gait.

That worked like a top. I discovered I could slow the canter down to the speed of a walk, merely by applying the forward [foot] and backward [rein] aids at the same time.

OBSOLETE HOME CONVERTED INTO SIX APARTMENTS

Mansion Easily Adapted to Modern Living.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Sober, ageing structures can be a problem. Their intrinsic worth is undeniable, but if they are fast becoming obsolete there is the question of how they can best be reclaimed and converted into definite financial assets.

At 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago, there stands a handsome six apartment building. It is as interesting as it is good looking for it has a "past." For many years it was a beautiful, 18 room home, with high ceilings, great hallways, baths aplenty, and lovely grained woodwork and floors. It was a home which had always been well maintained and while it was in no state of deterioration it had reached the state which might be called obsolete.

The question of what to do with the house became acute and the decision was made to change its entire purpose in life. The firm of Cook and Jackson, property management, 161 East Erie street, called in Frederic B. Schmidt, Chicago architect, and plans were drawn and arrangements made for the remodeling.

Retain Floors and Trim.

As Everett Cook said to me the day I visited the apartments: "We decided from the first to keep the changes down to a minimum, since such a minimum is essential to all successful remodeling projects."

Mr. Cook called attention to the fact that it had not been necessary to change or add stairways or fire escapes. It also had been possible to reuse all the floors, which were of excellent hardwood, and all the trim, hardware, and the heating plant. New plumbing, of course, was installed thruout, new bath fixtures, kitchen, wiring, and light fixtures.

Mr. Cook is vitally interested in the reclamation of obsolete structures. "There are so many buildings and houses," he told me as we drove thru many miles of city streets, "which are sound structurally but obsolete; financial liabilities instead of assets. Sometimes all that is needed is a coat of paint or a new entrance, a new picket fence, perhaps, and some attractive painting."

Stone Porch Removed.

But to get back to 1507 North Dearborn parkway. Here the alteration is as practical as it is fascinating.

The old house had walls of limestone and these walls were sandblasted smooth. A rough stone front porch was ripped off and a new entrance built on the ground floor level. The interior entrance hall stands where once was a "grand hall," and over the new outside door the Gothic motif of the old dormers was repeated.

The entrance hall was a wainscoting of knotty pine, with a spirited green toned wall fabric above. There is a gorgeous crystal lighting fixture here which once belonged in the living room of the home.

One of the apartment building's most attractive suites stands in place of the former living room and study. The living room of this suite is 30x16 feet, with a great bay window with concealed lighting. There is an ivory wainscot around the room, with walls above painted a deep chocolate brown.

Large Living Rooms.

The original corner fireplace has been kept, and in the bedroom, 14x16 feet, there is a second fireplace. This one is of exquisite marble, in dusty pink tones which blend with the deep red roses in the wall paper pattern. Both the bath and kitchen are entirely modern, and so is the dinette.

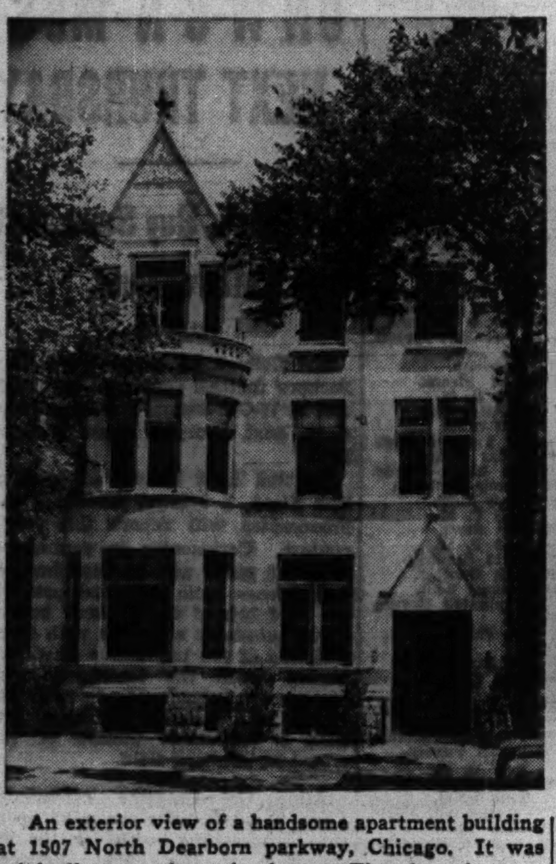
It may be noted here that the living rooms in all the apartments are very spacious, as spacious indeed, as the living rooms of many a large suburban home. Each apartment has an inner hallway of its own. Sufficient space was taken from the large central hallways of the old home to make this possible. Each apartment also has generous, well planned closet space. This extra closet room was made possible by taking space from the old original bathrooms, all of which were unusually large.

Air Kept Circulating.

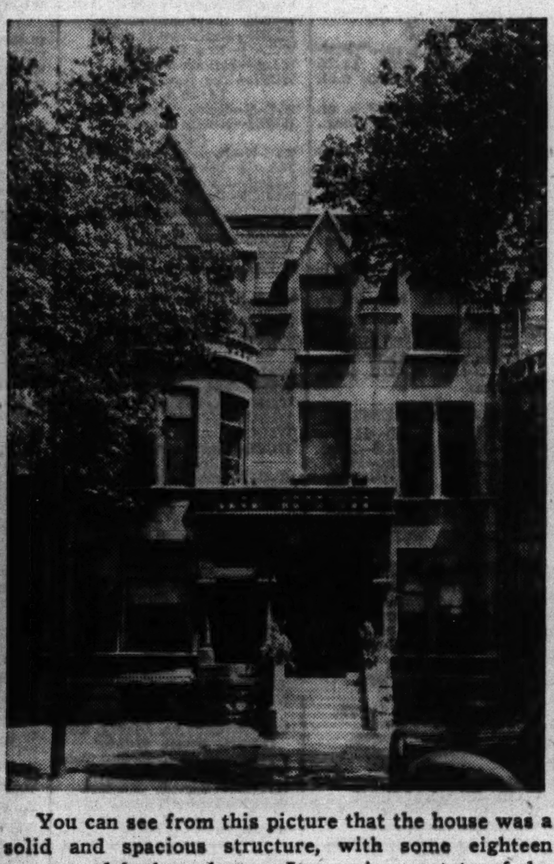
The day we entered the apartment building the temperature outside was close to 100 degrees. But as soon as we entered any of the suites, air was stirring and the difference in temperature and comfort was considerable. A giant cooling fan was installed in the upper ceiling of the hallway which reaches to the third floor. In the daytime, air was kept constantly in motion in every apartment, and at night cool air was sent thru all the rooms.

Another feature to contribute to summer comfort was the screening. Every window was screened with a new type of sun resisting screen, designed like a miniature Venetian blind, as a help to keep out the direct rays of the sun.

Old Home Has New Utility



An exterior view of a handsome apartment building at 1507 North Dearborn parkway, Chicago. It was originally a spacious city home. The alteration was effected with a minimum of structural changes.



You can see from this picture that the house was a solid and spacious structure, with some eighteen rooms and baths aplenty. It was in no state of deterioration, but suffered rather from obsolescence.

LET TRADITION GUIDE YOU IN RIDING APPAREL

or breeches are usually of brown, russet, dark or light beige, or chestnut with a very few oxford grays and lighter gray colors. Jackets are always cut long enough to conceal the widest spread of the hips, seamed cut and fitted to make the most of the figure line.

And while the knowing equestrian has her jackets and outfits made to her particular requirements, some extremely well designed jackets can be selected from the available large ready to wear assortments.

Are Preferred Patterns.

Small blurred checks, indeterminate plaids, and chevron diagonals are the preferred patterns with the colors always to repeat, blend, or harmonize with the color of the breeches or jodhpurs. Strong yet flexible cavalry twill is the best fabric for these garments, with reinforced sections of the same fabric or harmonizing suede of light weight. Every inch of the seaming, fitting, and cutting is executed to assure super comfort and smart streamlines.

Pockets in the jackets are expertly placed and tailored as are the collars, sleeves, and other details. Smooth woolens, together with slightly rough or restrained fleecy tweeds in handsome sporty patterns, are plentiful in heather shades or rich glowing colors of fall foliage.

Summer jackets are made of cotton gabardine in small checks, and plaids carefully copied from the fabric designs in wool . . . hound's tooth checks, blurred plaids, and diagonals. Colors are also copied from the wools, the one exception being the beautifully tailored, cool, long fitted jackets of creamy white palm beach material with a self-design in small chevron diagonal.

Summer jodhpurs are made of strong cotton twill or gabardine, in russet, tan, beige, or summer whites in sturdy, long wearing materials that tailor with the same swank as wool.

Waistcoats are optional with either winter or summer outfits. You'll find large assortments of these plain or patterned waistcoats as well as the finest examples of correct riding clothes and accessories in many well known Chicago sports shops and in the equally well selected showings featured in other Chicago stores.

CALUMET CITY CLUB SPONSORS FLORAL EXHIBIT

The first floral exhibit of the Calumet City Home and Garden club will take place Tuesday at the Lake Hills Country club. Members may have as many entries as they wish. Each piece is to represent the title of a popular song or book, and each design is to be worked out in flowers, fruit, or vegetables. Prizes will go to the most artistic entry and to the most ingenious.

A morning round of golf, 1 o'clock luncheon in the clubhouse, judging of entries and then bridge make up the day's program plans.

The club was organized in May. Mrs. Walter I. Rauh of Calumet City is president, and Mrs. Ernest A. Remesch, also of Calumet City, is program chairman.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Aug. 26.

There is nothing quite as satisfying as a number of small fruit plants on the home grounds—a few currant bushes, a goseberry or two, raspberries or blackberries, and, if a strawberry bed can be planted the luscious fresh fruits will be greatly appreciated.

There still is time to plant a strawberry bed. It is best to buy pot plants that are grown for the purpose. Pot plants already are established, they start growth immediately, and will be in condition to stand the winter without serious injury if protected with straw or other material. Ask the nurseryman for suitable varieties—both staminate and pistillate varieties must be used—and there should be no difficulty in growing a fine crop.

Overgrown clumps of phlox should be dug and divided now. Give phlox plenty of space and avoid shade. Cut off the tops of old clumps and burn them to eliminate any disease that may be present.

Tuesday, Aug. 27.

There still is time to divide and replant iris or to plant new ones. Large clumps that are badly in need of dividing furnish only a few flowers. Order a few of the newer sorts to add variety and interest to the garden.

Old lily-of-the-valley beds that have ceased to flower abundantly should be divided and replanted now. Plant about two inches deep and four to five inches apart. Replace old worn out soil with new and dig in plenty of plant food or decayed manure.

Wednesday, Aug. 28.

For a shady border on the north side of the house use a few low growing ground cover plant with hardy ferns in the background. The bunchberry [Cornus canadensis] grows four to five inches high and has white flowers in spring followed by red berries in clusters.

Trailing arbutus is a pretty plant with fragrant flowers of pink and white. Wintergreen is desirable ground cover with green and bronze leaves and bright red, edible fruit in winter. Other kinds that could be used are galax, partridgeberry, creeping phlox, or Japanese spurge. Grave myrtle is a fine plant that is largely used.

Covering banks is frequently a problem, but if plants like the pendant goldenbell, matrimony vine, and other of similar type and habit are used they soon form a cover that is delightfully effective.

Thursday, Aug. 29.

Wild flowers transplanted this fall will flower this spring. Why not naturalize clumps of trilliums, hepaticas, Virginia bluebells, and others where they give a good effect and do not interfere with the more formal and elegant parts of the ground? Semishady places where sod is difficult to maintain will be a good place for these plants and they will be much appreciated before many other kinds come into flower. There are firms dealing in them and their cost is small.

Seeds also can be purchased of many kinds and most of them can be fall sown. Save the small bulbils when the gladiolas are dug for they will bloom in from two to three years.

Friday, Aug. 30.

Be sure to get in the order for bulbs, for many kinds—such as tulips are certain the be scarce due to the situation in Holland. Some stocks are available but they are likely to be so depleted that only those who order early will receive what they want.

It is unnecessary to dig and replant tulips as long as they continue flowering well, and especially the Darwins, which are among the most satisfactory types. There is such a long list of varieties that unusually attractive combinations can be arranged. Order plenty of the small bulbous plants for naturalizing for they soon grow into great masses.

Saturday, Aug. 31.

If the lawn has not been renovated or the new one constructed it is time to start. Remember that the first soil preparation is essential for a long lasting turf, which means the incorporation of copious amounts of decayed manure into the soil where it is available. If the soil is very poor it should be entirely removed to a depth of five to eight inches and replaced with good soil. It may merely lack humus which may be supplied in the form of peat or decayed manure.

After the soil is prepared rake it to as fine a seedbed as possible; remove all lumps and either bury them in a corner or cart them off the place. Buy a high grade seed mixture. Ask the dealer for a mixture that will do best in sun, or, if it is to be sown in a shady yard, use a mixture that contains the kind of grass that will do best in shade.

Never be satisfied with a mixture because it is cheap in price for there may be a lot of chaff in it. The fall made lawn, or newly sown grass seed, germinate readily at this season and has time to become well established before severe weather.

Weeds do not grow as rapidly in fall as they do during spring and summer, so the grass has a chance to develop without interference. Make the lawn now in preference to spring.

BEDFORD PARK BEGINS WORK ON NEW PLAY SPOT

Well-drilling last week in the Bedford Park park property initiated the $28,000 building and improvement project which park directors hope to have completed this fall. The park is a 10 acre tract between 66th place and 67th street, the W. W. Walker school, and Indiana Harbor Belt railroad.

The immediate plans are financed by a bond issue authorized by a referendum late last month. Park board members hope that the full development of the area will be a $140,000 project to be completed in the next 10 years. However, budgets are made up a year at a time.

After the well is completed the WPA workmen will go on to building three tennis courts, a baseball diamond with bleachers, two softball diamonds ,and a 70x108 foot wading pool. A piping system for watering the shrubbery is to be installed.

A gift to winter sports will be the sunken garden which is to be flooded for a skating rink in cold weather. Playground equipment is already in place. More items are to be added to the slides and teeters already in use.

The park facilities really make up the school playground so that equipment serves a dual purpose, that of schoolyard apparatus as well as park improvement. James J. Hynes is president of the park board, which was set up nearly two years ago.

87 CADETS TAKE SUMMER COURSE AT TILDEN HIGH

Shooting Foremost in Students' Minds.

R. O. T. C. activities have been carried on this summer at Tilden High school where 87 cadets were enrolled from Du Sable, Harper, and Harrison High schools.

The students took part in an eight week session which included instruction in first aid, rifle marksmanship, scouting and patroling, musketry, and map reading, under the guidance of Sergt. George H. Bastnagel, military instructor from Harrison High school.

Shooting was foremost in the cadets' minds so a detailed practical course was taken up. Instruction was given in care and cleaning of the rifle, its nomenclature, sling adjustments, position exercises, and sighting and aiming.

Sergt. Laddie Svarc from Harrison took high honors with a score of 330 out of a possible 400 points.

In addition to rifle work the first year cadets received theoretical instructions in sanitation and first aid, discipline, and courtesy and customs of the service. The second year cadets were instructed in the national defense act and scouting. Third year cadets also had map reading, patroling, and musketry.

HEALTH SPOT SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

THE HEALTH SPOT SHOEMAKER SAYS:

Perhaps if we had to walk in the other fellow's shoes, we wouldn't criticize him. Walking unnaturally or limping is often the result of wrong shoes that do not support the body weight properly, placing stress and strain on sensitive areas. In Health Spot Shoes body weight is evenly balanced over the three main weight-bearing parts of the foot. This means freedom from stress and strain . . . and comfort. Once you wear a pair of Health Spot Shoes you will always want to wear them. Write for catalog! Mail orders solicited.

Most styles $8.50 to $12.50

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels
with herb laxative combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

FIND WILLKIE'S RADIO VOICE IS FULL OF PROMISE

Listeners Say It Shows His Personality.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Wendell Willkie's radio voice and manner match his vigorous, earthy midwestern personality. His voice has real potentialities in his campaign for the Presidency. That is the opinion expressed by several speech experts and lay listeners last week.

These conclusions were reached by listeners after his formal acceptance address. Some of those who had heard him in his informal interviews and on the Town Meeting of the Air, in which he made a hit, were in a measure disappointed with his first long address on the air. They were quick to add, however, that the terrible heat, combined with the ordeal of having to address the tremendous Elwood throng as well as radio listeners probably conspired to handicap him.

In his earlier radio broadcasts Willkie showed a pronounced gift for repartee and listeners remarked about his warm friendliness, his bluff, hearty confident air that seemed in keeping with his character as they had learned about it thru the newspapers.

During his acceptance address they heard another Willkie. He was in dead earnest, challenging and forceful but not fiery. He appeared during the middle portion of the speech to be somewhat tired, his voice breaking several times. At times listeners became aware that he was reading. Toward the end there was a great improvement. He finished with great effectiveness.

Here are some of the comments of listeners:

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator and secretary of the Council on Foreign Relations: "Mr. Willkie fumbled at Elwood. But perhaps that was to be expected under the circumstances. He is at his best when he is engaged in informal discussion, when he can ad lib. In an open debate he would lick President Roosevelt. He has real possibilities at the microphone because of his direct, downright sincerity and his close to the soil manner. I think there is a little reaction today to the over finished radio speaker. In my opinion he should use only a skeleton manuscript or notes and allow himself a substantial cushion for extemporaneous remarks."

William A. Bacher, W-G-N program and production chief: "Willkie's voice has definite possibilities. He is sure of himself; he has a good resonant voice. At Elwood he was at his best in the narrative portion of his address when he was telling about his forbears. A little more 'heart to heart' manner is what he needs. He should let himself go more. With a little coaching he will be a real surprise."

Parker Wheatley, radio director and instructor at Northwestern university: "Mr. Willkie at Elwood displayed a vigorous fighting voice, sometimes hoarse, and heavily flavored with a characteristic Hoosier drawl and firmness that matches the simplicity and directness of his speech."

Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna: "Mr. Willkie sounds just like a real American, typical of the midwest. His voice is unpolished, but it's down to earth, with a quality of great sincerity about it."

A lay observer said: "It lacks the excessive graces in speech that we have become accustomed to in the last seven years in a Presidential voice, but it's good to hear."

Sherman Dryer, radio director of the University of Chicago: "Willkie should take a lesson for the future from Elwood. He should develop a technique of talking directly to the people. He should talk from studios, not outdoors before great numbers of persons. When he speaks to an intimate group he is fluid, easy, spontaneous, but not when he addresses a multitude."

Listeners commented on Willkie's typical midwestern pronunciation. He doesn't always enunciate clearly, they noted. He said "Pres'dent" for President; "wanna" for want to; "r'ligion" for religion; "arr" for our; "four'n" for foreign, and something like "pao-er" for power.

CASH AND SEATS TO SYMPHONIES TO I. Q. WINNERS

Cash and main floor seats to an early concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra are the awards made to senders of questions on music used in the quiz program, "Your Music I. Q." heard from 8:30 to 9 each Monday evening on W-G-N.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, which opens its golden jubilee season on Oct. 10, presents the program, with outstanding music personalities as the "experts." Tomorrow Pauline Manchester, concert pianist who last year appeared with the orchestra; Ludlow White, well known baritone; Gordon Campbell, pianist and teacher, and Jolly Franzl, entertainer at Old Heidelberg, will be heard.

Popular music as well as classical music are included in the questions on the program. One dollar goes to the sender of every question used. If the question is not answered correctly by the experts the sender receives two Orchestra hall seats.

Guest Singer

Jarmila Novotna, the noted Czech soprano, will be guest artist on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. Mme. Novotna, acclaimed enthusiastically by New York critics, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera last January in "La Boheme."

PLOT TO DISRUPT LATIN ACCORD IN 'WINGS' EPISODE

A gigantic scheme to disrupt United States-Latin American accord thru the distribution of large amounts of counterfeit money will be portrayed on "Wings for America" from 7 to 7:30 p. m. next Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. The spy drama, written and produced by Blair Walliser, co-stars Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes of stage and screen fame.

Lorna Carroll, Chicago Tribune girl reporter played by Miss Landi, and Riley Davis, Mutual network news commentator, stumble onto the fifth column plot to sabotage Pan-American friendship thru an exconvict who tells them of some counterfeit hundred dollar bills he picked up in a poker game. Lorna and Riley are merely suspicious of the high denomination of the bills at first and are unaware of the scope and nature of the plot.

Members of the Advance Front, mythical fifth column group engineering the scheme, also try to put the lid on Riley's antiespionage efforts by 'framing' him with some of the counterfeit money. The bad bills and engraving plates for manufacturing them are planted in Riley's office by a girl who fakes a story about being pursued by fifth columnists.

Meanwhile, Lorna, angry with Riley, accepts a job with a Latin American export cartel headed by a mysterious Sir Benedict Cavil. While preparing to leave for South America Lorna hears that Riley has been arrested for passing counterfeit money.

The rescue of Riley and the uncovering of the counterfeit money plot bring the story to a surprise ending.

The supporting cast for this episode includes Arthur van Slyke, Sherman Marks, John Walsh and Sallie Smith.

Louis J. Taber Will Speak on Safety Hour

Louis J. Taber, soprano, and Hentional Grange, will warn against farm accidents, which are especially prevalent during the harvest season, when he is guest speaker on the Listen and Live broadcast, at noon today over WENR. Richard Thrush, assistant national director of the Home and Farm Accident Prevention service of the American Red Cross, will also speak.

Miniature F-M Transmitter Is Feature of New Studios

A miniature frequency modulation transmitter is one of the features of the new E. H. Scott Radio laboratories' new studios at 737 North Michigan avenue. The studios will be opened to the public tomorrow. Using this F-M transmitter, studio attendants can demonstrate by use of records and sound effects the advantages of this new high fidelity, staticless radio broadcasting technique.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS NOVOTNA AND ABRAVANEL

Noted Soprano, Conductor on W-G-N Tonight.

Maurice De Abravanel, celebrated conductor of the Metropolitan Opera orchestra, and Jarmila Novotna, Metropolitan soprano, will be guest artists on the Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian Broadcasting system network.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker of the evening. Col. McCormick last week returned from a trip to Plattsburg, N. Y., where he observed United States army maneuvers.

Mr. Abravanel, who will be with the Chicago Opera as a conductor this season, will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra in the absence of Henry Weber, who is on vacation. Madame Novotna will sing in place of Marion Claire, regular soloist on the Symphonic Hour, who is vacationing with her husband, Mr. Weber.

Three Solos by Novotna.

Mr. Abravanel and the symphony orchestra will open the program with Jean Sibelius' stirring "Finlandia."

Madame Novotna will present three solos—an aria from "Louise," by Charpentier, and two other numbers of her selection.

The orchestra will play two numbers by Johann Strauss—"Perpetuum Mobile" and "Radetzky March"—as well as Jacques Offenbach's "Overture Orpheus." The chorus will join the orchestra in Carl Weber's "Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Frieschutz," and themes from Friedrich von Flotow's "Martha," the evening finale.

The complete program:

"Finlandia" .... Sibelius
Chorus and orchestra.
Aria from "Louise" .... Charpentier
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Perpetuum Mobile" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
"Joy of the Hunters" from "Der Freischutz" .... Weber
Male chorus and orchestra.
Address .... Col. Robert R. McCormick
"Overture Orpheus" .... Offenbach
Orchestra.
"O, While I Sleep" .... Liszt
"Velia," from "The Merry Widow" .... Lahar
Jarmila Novotna and orchestra.
"Radetzky March" .... J. Strauss
Orchestra.
Themes from "Martha" .... Von Flotow
Chorus and orchestra.

Daughter of a Czech banker, Madame Novotna made her American debut at the Metropolitan last January in "La Boheme." She was wildly acclaimed by New York critics for her voice, beauty, and dramatic ability. Her rôle as Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Metropolitan was pronounced the finest performance in two decades.

Made Debut in Prague.

Madame Novotna sang her first opera rôle at the Prague National Opera when she was 17. After appearances in operas in Vienna, Paris, Warsaw, and Salzburg, Madame Novotna was starred in a number of European motion pictures.

Born of Portuguese parentage at Saloniki, Greece, Mr. Abravanel studied as a youth under Edmond Allegra and Kurt Weill. He has conducted in the Berlin State Opera house, the Paris Symphony and l'Opera orchestras with Bruno Walter, and has directed concert and broadcasting orchestras in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Abravanel is coming from Toronto for his guest engagement with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

Musical commentary for the Symphonic Hour is written by Cecil Smith of the Chicago Tribune music and drama department. The program is produced by William A. Bacher.

OLD FAVORITES TO BE PRESENTED BY NORTHERNERS

Old favorite songs by noted composers will be presented on the Northerners program from 9:30 to 10 p. m. next Tuesday over W-G-N. The Northerners' program is under the direction of Harry S. Walsh.

Irene Verner, soprano, the octet, and the string ensemble will be featured on the program, packed full this week with 10 musical numbers.

Miss Verner will sing "Love in the Springtime," by Arditi. The octet will present the "Bell Chorus," from "Stradella," by Von Flotow, "A Prayer for Purification," by Tschaikowsky, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Ringwald-Waring, and "The Ride of the Cossacks," by Rachmaninoff.

Lecuona's "Andalucia," will be played by the string ensemble. The entire ensemble including octet and soloists, will open the program with selections from "Connecticut Yankee"—"I Feel at Home With You," "Thou Swell," and "My Heart Stood Still"—and also will present the evening finale, "There's a Hill Beyond a Hill," by Kern.

ALL-STAR GAME ON W-G-N-MBS NEXT THURSDAY

Bob Elson, Guy Savage at Microphone.

The College All Stars'-Green Bay Packers' football game will be broadcast by W-G-N-Mutual starting at 8:30 p. m. next Thursday from Soldiers' field.

Assisted by a battery of coaches, Bob Elson, a veteran All-Star game broadcaster, will report this year's contest. Ceremonies in connection with the game will be described by Guy Savage from a special post on the field behind the Packers' bench.

The broadcast will open with a description of the impressive ceremony during which the leading All-Star players are introduced. In addition, Savage will provide listening fans with a panoramic picture of the crowd at Soldiers' field.

After the pregame ceremonies Elson will take over the mike up in the broadcasting booth for the description of the game. Between halves the experts and coaches assisting Elson will analyze the game for listeners.

For the last week the squad of 69 All-Stars has been drilling at Northwestern university's Dyche stadium under the tutelage of Head Coach Eddie Anderson of the University of Iowa.

Assisting Head Coach Anderson are Tad Wieman of Princeton, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Don Faurot of Missouri, and Lowell Dawson of Tulane.

The Green Bay Packers, professional champions last season, five times holders of the title, are in training at Green Bay, Wis. Curley Lambeau is the head coach.

YEAR OPENS OCT. 1 FOR WOODSHORE WOMAN'S CLUB

Guest Night Will Start Season's Activity.

The 1940-'41 program of the Woodshore Woman's club has been completed by the committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard H. Merrick, 7700 Kingston avenue. Her assistants include Mrs. Chester A. Williams, Mrs. Trueman T. Miller, Miss Ethelyn Ahern, Mrs. Hugh Dunlop, Mrs. R. C. Wolf, Mrs. Daniel J. Portley, Mrs. Watson Perry, Mrs. Fred Henneman, and Mrs. Miles Lamphiear. Mrs. Perry has been chosen to succeed Mrs. Merrick who resigned after the program was prepared. Mrs. Merrick is moving from the south side to suburban Itasca.

First meeting of the club will be at 8:15 o'clock on the evening of Oct. 1. This occasion, according to tradition, will be open house and guest night. Mrs. Lamphiear, president, will head the receiving line of board members. Mrs. Ivan Henderson, 2d district second vice president, will be on the program. The Emerson Ensemble Octette, directed by Catherine Manz, will sing and Mrs. Harold E. Spitzer, will give readings. Mrs. Perry will announce program events.

Mrs. Williams will take charge of the Oct. 16 program. Mrs. Truman F. Creager, former northern region vice president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will discuss the topic, "She's a Good Club Member." Miss Helen Spottswood, pianist, will appear also, and Mrs. C. Rosenberg Foster will talk about "Trashcraft."

Among others scheduled to appear on Woodshore programs in the 1940-'41 season are: Mrs. C. G. Goodwin, state parliamentarian; Mrs. George W. Webb, composer and accompanist; Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss, state finance chairman; Mrs. Thomas Bondus, 2d district legislation chairman; Mrs. W. G. Suthers, state legislation chairman.

Arche Woman's Club.

Mrs. Carl Victor Wisner, 1319 East 50th street, president of the Arche club, heads the Arche delegates to the Conference of Club Presidents which meets every other Thursday in Fullerton hall, Art Institute.

Other delegates are: Mrs. Le Roy John Zorn, vice president; Mrs. Gerald R. McDowell, music chairman; Mrs. Edward Heinz Jr., art; Mrs. Byron T. Wherry, literature; Mrs. Griffith Starr Bixby, public welfare; Mrs. John Harding, conservation; Mrs. Charles H. Boothroyd, radio; Mrs. Clare H. Green, gardens; Miss Kathryn Yost Sloan, motion pictures.

Mrs. McDowell, Mrs. Heinz, Mrs. Wherry, and Mrs. Bixby will be Arche delegates to the 2d district from their respective departments.

Mrs. George H. White who won a prize last year for her regular attendance at American speech committee meetings and her reports of them will be Arche's representative to that organization again this season. Mrs. Joseph A. Jerger will be delegate to the Municipal Art league; Mrs. Adele S. Martin, delegate to the South Side Art association; Mrs. Pickett L. Warren, Drama league; Mrs. Burt T. Lock, Friends of American Writers. Voting delegates to the 2d district are: Mrs. Martin W. McDermott, Miss Marie Groot, and Mrs. C. C. Lively.

Third District Juniors.

The new third district junior Woman's club chairman, Mrs. James Mason of Beverly Hills, has been chosen to serve on the credentials and elections committee for the 1941 Illinois state convention.

Mrs. Mason's district officers for the coming season are: Miss Madolyn Bohling of Calumet City, vice chairman; Miss Eleanore Taylor, Clearing, secretary, and Mrs. John Shaber, Clearing, treasurer.

Department chairmen are: Miss Athid Nelson, American citizenship; Miss Louise Grosse, American home; Miss Virginia Reichel, art; Miss Lucille Zimmerlin, club institute; Miss Julia King, drama; Miss Dorothy Hartnoll, literature; Miss Annabelle Cochran, motion pictures and radio; Miss Grace Johnson, music; Miss Helen Fetterly, press and publicity, and Miss Lillian Sellgren, public welfare.

Plan Annual Garden Show

Sing a song of harvest—squashes, potatoes, cabbages, and onions, too. Miss Pauline Heller, 7826 Eberhart avenue, gathers a basket of garden provender for a trial arrangement for an entry in the fourth annual flower and garden show at the Hamilton park fieldhouse on Sept. 7, 8, and 9. The event will be sponsored by the Chicago Garden club and the Central State Dahlia society. Mrs. C. C. Rehbein, 7201 Prairie avenue, is president of the Chicago Garden club, and Fred Trouth, 8429 South Elizabeth street, is regional director of the dahlia group.

CATHOLIC ACTION SUMMER SCHOOL IS DUE TO OPEN

Ten residents of the south side are committee chairmen for the Summer School of Catholic Action which will begin tomorrow at the Morrison hotel and continue for six days. More than 2,000 Catholic clergymen, members of religious orders and young persons will attend sessions dealing with leadership, practical religion, organization, liturgy, Catholic literature, Catholic democracy, coöperatives, study clubs, and modern social problems.

The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., national organizer of the Sodality of Our Lady and general director of the summer school, will conduct the institute, the sixth to be held in Chicago, with the aid of a faculty of 15 teachers. Hosts for the convention will be Cisca, Chicago interstudent Catholic action group, Cisca alumni, and the Chicago Parish Sodality union.

PARK DISTRICT TO OPEN DRIVE AGAINST LITTER

In a drive to make Chicago's parks clean, antilitter clubs will be formed in all the park district fieldhouses in the city this week. Boys and girls will be asked to sign pledges that they will conduct themselves in such a way as to keep their parks free from litter and to help employés in their drive against violations of the general ordinance prohibiting the littering of parks and boulevards.

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the district, points out that the work of cleaning up the parks, beaches and boulevards annually costs taxpayers about $150,000. The cost for the south side, he said, is approximately $40,000. Last year such work in the city required a force of 320 men and a fleet of 28 trucks.

Services of the Help Beautify Chicago committee, of which Mayor Kelly is honorary chairman, and Karl Eitel is general chairman, have been enlisted for the cleaner parks campaign. Active in the movement on the south side are Roy Steffen, Bismarck hotel; Mrs. Lorado Taft, 6016 Ingleside avenue; Frank Bering, Sherman hotel; John Palendoch, 7617 Phillips avenue; Mrs. Walter S. Anderson, 6727 Euclid avenue; Mrs. C. C. Rehbein, 7201 Prairie avenue, and Walter Gregory, Palmer House.

BLAMES GLIDER MISHAPS ON TWO MAJOR FACTORS

Tyros and Inferior Ships Cited by Flyer.

The only thing Galen Asher has against the American public is its habit of automatically associating the words "crack-up" and "gliding." Mr. Asher, who lives at 1110 East 82d street and considers gliding the "nearest thing to heaven," thinks it's about time most of the people in this country realized that gliders are as safe as the big air liners flying across country today.

"The sport is not intrinsically dangerous," he points out, "because of the ships' slow speed and light weight. I have been actively engaged in the sport since 1935 and all the accidents I've seen or heard about have been due either to inferior gliders or pilots lacking sufficient instruction and supervision."

First Flight a Failure.

As the perfect example of his theory Mr. Asher offers his first experience in a glider. Five years ago, keenly interested in gliding but ignorant of its principles, he bought an old primary glider—entirely "unairworthy"—for $60. Each wing was warped so that as soon as the rope was released he tried to make a turn, stalled the ship, fell into a partial spin, and dropped himself into a cornfield. The ship, and his pants, were ruined.

"Like a lot of boys who are starting today," he says, "I foolishly thought I could teach myself all about the sport simply by gliding. I knew nothing about it. With this handicap, trying to fly a ship whose warping caused it to spin, I couldn't help but crack up."

Such a fate, he maintains, would befall any one who tried to pilot a power plane under the same conditions. Yet most of the public still imagines that such accidents are everyday occurrences at flying fields.

No Crashes to Photo.

"Recently," he explains, for illustration, "a number of us went to a glider contest at an airport in this area. When the competition had been going on for some time we began noticing a man with a big camera walking around but not taking any shots. Finally, after another hour or so, when he still hadn't taken any pictures, one of my friends walked over and asked him if he intended to.

"'Oh,' said the man, who represented a commercial photography company, 'I was sent here just to get the crashes.' Well, as we expected, he didn't get any that day, but it has been considered a good joke with us ever since."

In short, accidents in gliding are neither as numerous nor as serious as most of the public think, he says.

The Soaring Society of America, he believes, has come a long way in discouraging tyros from thinking they can fly without lessons. This is possible because of the comparatively large number of good glider pilots now who are willing to teach the newcomers.

Study the Terrain.

"From now on," he predicts, "the public's accident complex in regard to gliding will gradually diminish. I think it is already noticeable during the last year. As a matter of fact, a good glider pilot is safer on a long trip than a private power plane pilot, since he must know meteorology, and most glider pilots never make a cross-country flight over ground they know they can't make a forced landing on."

Mr. Asher was born in Harbor Beach, Mich., and can't remember when he wasn't fascinated by airplanes. After he'd grown up and moved to Chicago, he met two boys who had built a glider at Gage park. They had no funds to buy a tow car, so he supplied it and became a third partner. Since then he has been a member of five glider clubs. He has a difficult time expressing how much he likes the hobby.

"It's just like having an incurable disease," he laughs. "I couldn't get rid of it if I tried. It's like being in a different world, when I'm up there floating around. There's no vibration, no engine roar—it's about the most peaceful thing I can imagine."

Wants a Helper.

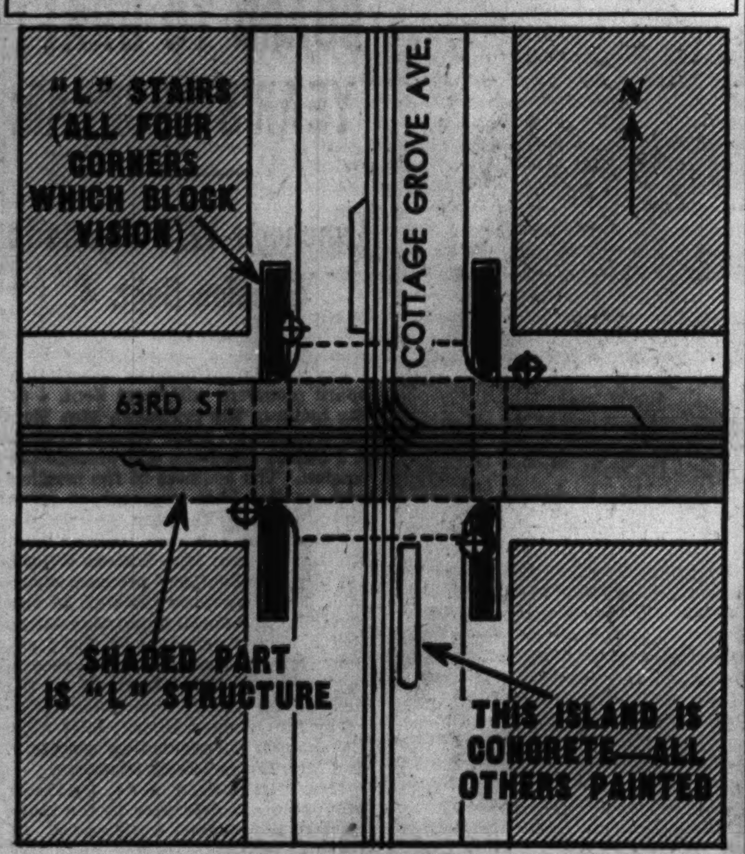
His main concern now is how he is going to finish a glider he and three others began building a year ago. Two of the boys found they couldn't devote much of their time to it and last month the third, Chester Baker, 7722 Carpenter street, left town. Plans for the plane, which will be an all-wood, two place Gappengen-2 with a 48 foot wing spread, came from Germany, center of much gliding progress.

"I have one helper—Loyal Judson of 6917 Yale avenue," he says, "and I'd like at least one more—some one who loves gliding and isn't afraid to work. My telephone number is Saginaw 5014."

Wins Championship.

Victory Squadron, No. 168, Sons of the American Legion, of Hammond, won the state championship in the Sons of the Legion drum corps competition at the American Legion convention in Gary last week.

Worst Corner on Southeast Side



The diagram shows the intersection of 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue which, according to a survey made by the Chicago Motor club covering the last year and a half, is the most dangerous corner on the southeast side. Seventy-seven accidents occurred there in 18 months.

NO. 1 SOUTH SIDE DANGER CORNER HAS 77 MISHAPS

36 Are Injured at 63d and Cottage Grove.

[This is the second in a series of articles describing the most dangerous street intersections on the south side.]

[Another story describing the south side's second most dangerous intersection will be printed in an early issue of the Metropolitan section.]

The south side's most dangerous street intersection, 63d and Cottage Grove avenue, has been the scene of 77 accidents in the last year and a half, a survey by the Chicago Motor club revealed last week.

"During this period there have been 77 accidents which have resulted in 36 injuries," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, pointed out. "Thirty-five of the accidents involved pedestrians and 78 per cent of all accidents were a combination of the pedestrian casualty and the rear end collision type. Nearly three-fourths of all collisions involved north or south bound vehicles using Cottage Grove."

Mr. Hayes said that a large number of accidents can be attributed to elevated pillars on 63d street. They obstruct motorists' view of traffic lights and block their view of pedestrians attempting to cross both of the streets, he said. This is particularly true of motorists making a right or left turn off of Cottage Grove.

Signals Partly Hidden.

The high percentage of rear end collisions is believed to result from sudden stops by motorists on Cottage Grove, forced to that action when they have no chance to signal that they have suddenly sighted pedestrians who had been obscured by the elevated structure. Suddenly applying their brakes, they are often struck by cars behind them. The same situation is likely to result when motorists suddenly spot a partly-hidden traffic signal.

Since 48 per cent of the accidents during the period under study were found to have occurred at night, inadequate lighting may be a factor in accident occurrence here. Elevated stairs at all four corners of the intersection may also contribute to the screening of traffic lights.

Motor club engineers noted that only one pedestrian island, on Cottage Grove south of 63d, is raised above the street level. Others are merely painted zones on the pavement. To afford pedestrians additional protection, the zone on Cottage Grove north of 63d should be made the island type, they say.

Heavy Foot Traffic.

The motor club urges motorists to abide strictly by traffic lights at this point and not to jump the amber, in order to allow pedestrians as much time as possible to reach the curb. Because this district is popular as a shopping center, pedestrian traffic is abnormally heavy at all hours.

Fenger Alumni Will Take Moonlight Cruise on Lake

Fenger Alumni association members will embark on the steamer Roosevelt Wednesday evening for their second annual moonlight cruise. The boat will leave Navy pier at 9:30 o'clock and return at midnight. Alumni are invited to bring friends.

Chapel Wedding

The wedding of Miss Aldona V. Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Peters, 10719 Prairie avenue, and William A. Torok, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Torok, 11712 Lowe avenue, took place in the University of Chicago chapel. Mr. and Mrs. Torok went to California on their wedding trip. Mrs. Torok is a graduate of Fenger High school. Her husband was graduated from Englewood and is studying law at John Marshall.

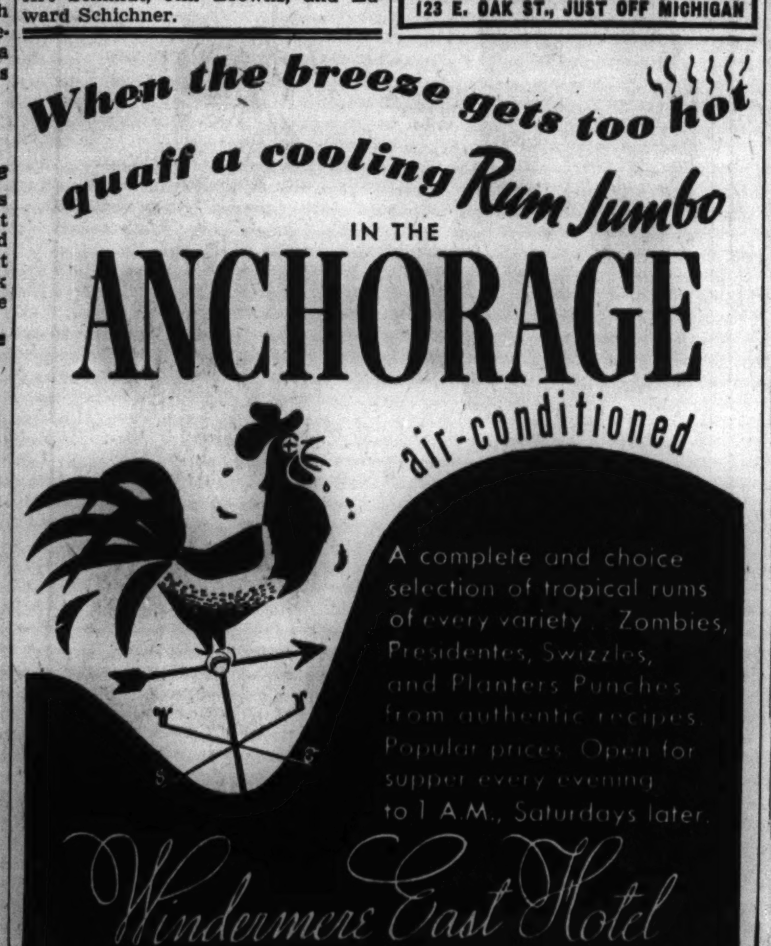
SOUTH CHICAGO Y. M. C. A. BOYS WILL HOLD FAIR

South Chicago Y. M. C. A. boys will hold their annual summer fair in the "Y" building, 3039 East 91st street, on the evenings of Sept. 28 and 29. The boys will show their parents what a "Y" program is like and will entertain them with a country carnival festival.

Youthful tumblers, boxers, and gymnasts will headline the "gym sho," which will be part of the program on the first evening. Supervising the gymnastic exhibition will be August Keune, Charles Wilhelmy, Nick Petrovich, Harold Fehse, Edward Smith, Bill Gallagher, and Santos Escobeda.

A water carnival on the second night will demonstrate swimming talent. The assistant instructors taking leadership rôles in the carnival are Tom Tratar, Charles Pritchard, Art Schmidt, Jim Browns, and Edward Schichner.



PARK DISTRICT HI-LI PLAYERS VIE FOR PRIZES

Nearly all of Chicago's 136 parks are holding hi-li contests for boys and girls not over 15 years old at 4 o'clock each Friday afternoon. Winners in each weekly contest will receive hi-li sets and on Friday, Sept. 6, they will play to determine a local boy and girl champion.

Winners in these local contests will be brought together in competition with qualifiers from the board of education playgrounds and each playground under control of the bureau of parks in one of three districts to be held at Ogden, Garfield and Independence parks on Sept. 14.

The girl and boy champions of each district contest will be presented with bicycles and on Sept. 21 they will compete in the grand championships. The winner will be awarded an all-expense trip to the New York World's Fair, accompanied by one parent.

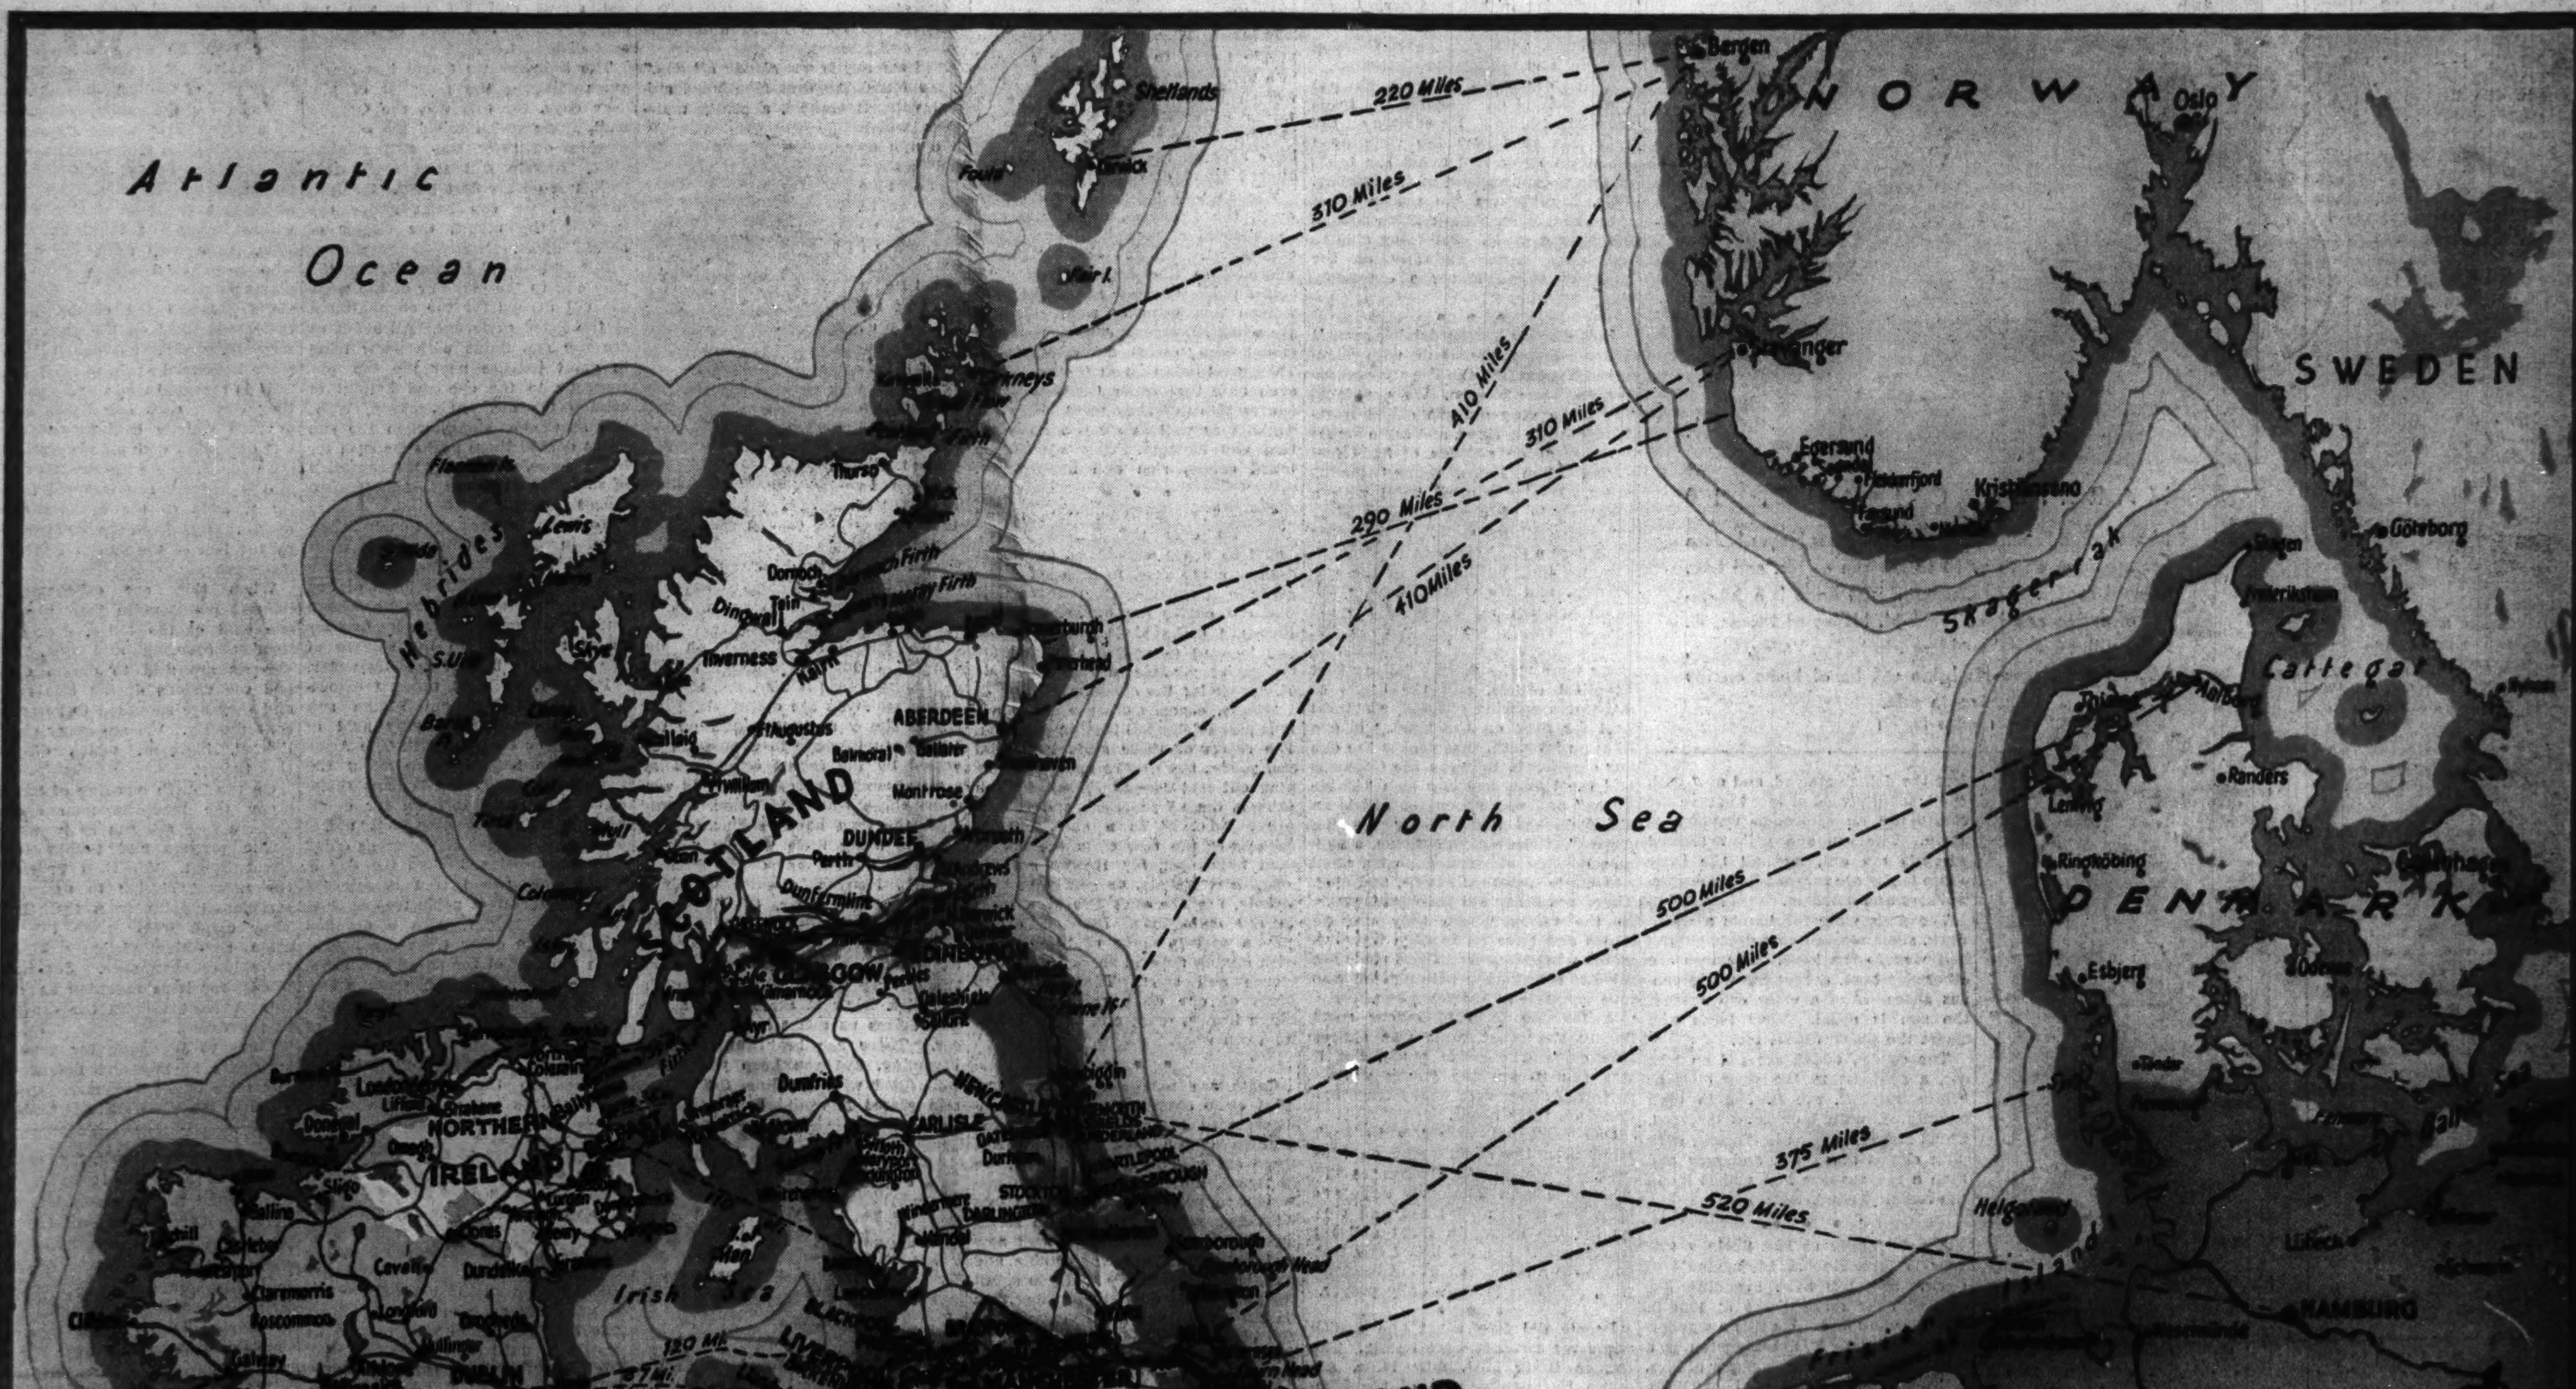
A New War Map of the British Isles



Presented here is another of the series of multicolored maps designed as aids to the reader in following the progress of the war in Europe. This map shows in what a hazardous position England has been placed as a result of the German conquests of France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Norway, and Denmark. It shows by air line distances how closely lies the German danger to the shores of the British Isles. Chief industrial and residential regions of the British Isles are indicated, as well as the main railways and waterways and the primary defense zone.

Two hundred to 250 army transports would be required by Germany to land a fully equipped force of 100,000 men in England, according to estimates from British sources. Stores, ammunition, and fighting equipment, including guns, motorcycles, and tanks, would constitute a large part of the tonnage.

The Rains Came at Hot Springs —for 7 Days

By Cousin Eve.

Rain is no longer news in these mountains. But when it falls for seven days and seven nights with monotonous insistence, drubbing on the roofs like distant drums, streaming in the gutters, and swaying the hemlocks in the urge of its fury, one mentions it. There was something biblical in this rain, and we were marooned in The Homestead like Noah in his ark. They called it the tail of a hurricane, but it seemed like our private typhoon, one of those big rains in the orient that go on and on.

HOT SPRINGS, VA.

Mrs. George Ellis, down in the valley behind the little white story book farmhouse of Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Jr., was having a luncheon on Friday, but she was obliged to call it off. Nobody could drive in, as there was water four feet deep under her porte cochère, and her whole estate of hundreds of acres was awash. Black rain clouds settled low over the mountains, and all the brooks and rivers were swelling monstrously, while small cascades turned into roaring Niagaras.

The most persistent golfers gave up. The home course was under water and the nearby Cascades course was an impasse. There is a third golf course here for the use of the hotel personnel, and also a tennis court. And for this personnel of 750 two large hotels are maintained in the village.

But the days went nicely during the storm because there was everything under the roof and excellent shopping. When money burned one's pocket there was a sort of little Broadway with a brokerage office, haberdashery, woman's dress shop, jeweler, florist, book shop, linen store, and a large lounge with radio. The main lounge, with its white pillars, its two huge chimneys with blazing logs, and its many cane-seated armchairs, is also lined with backgammon tables, always in use day and night. Alongside the overstuffed elegance of the Greenbrier this foyer is plain indeed, but most attractive. During the deluge guests kept arriving and none had a warmer welcome than the famous "Ma" Williams of Washington, D. C., mother of Mrs. Joseph Leiter. There is a doughty and courageous personality who runs several businesses in the national capital, and is hard onto four score years.

People who are taking cures at the spa had no hindrance because of the covered passage, carpeted and lined with palms, that leads across to the bathhouse. The devotees of the pool at Warm Springs, however, had to give up their daily "dunk." Nobody but ducks could have been cured there with any comfort in the downpour. And the first day after the great rains the historic, ancient men's pool where Washington, Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe dunked in their day was invaded by a boys' camp and headmaster. There were 20 boys who leaped at once into the warm pool, full of gouty New York and Philadelphia clubmen. They churned up its sulphuric waters until one of the curists said later that it was an inferno à la Dante.

Each night our movies were packed full. The favorite show in such a horsey community as northwest Virginia was "Maryland," an epic of the horse world.

On Sunday nights there are two forms of indoor sport, a contract tournament and bingo. This is merely the lotto of our nursery days done in a big way, with a pile of money in the "kitty." From 80 to 100 players sit around the green baize tables, many with hankies on their heads to woo Lady Luck. An auction precedes the bridge tournament, and the best players are bid up high. The usual pool in this game is over $500, which is divided among the winning teams and their backers. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ingalls are the best bridge team on the premises, and Charles Loughridge, the noted New York bridge expert, is here with his wife, taking part in all the bridge rites and ceremonies.

The next excitement is a golfing one, an auction for the players who take part in the Fairacre Challenge Golf tournament, which runs from Aug. 31 over Labor Day. Men are already arriving by the dozen for the event.

There is always a grand dinner in the Crystal ballroom when the star golfers are auctioned off, and this year the silver trophy is given by George H. Warrington of Cincinnati, and there will be a great influx of onlookers from all over the country.

An interesting St. Louis matron who has been coming to Hot Springs all her life and has many a fascinating reminiscence is Mrs. Charles M. Clark. She remembers The Homestead when it was made of wood, long before the 10 story million dollar tower was built, on the site of the lovely old oval southern ballroom with its white pillars and many mirrors.

MARRIED ON AUG. 10

Mrs. George Felsenthal was Miss Frances Hayes before her marriage on Aug. 10 to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Felsenthal of Chicago. The bride is a daughter of Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Hayes of Morris, Ill. After a three weeks' wedding trip to Sun Valley, Idaho, Mr. Felsenthal and his bride will be at home on the south side.

[Koehne Photo.]

WED ON AUG. 4.

Mrs. Gerald F. Marco, the former Helen Florine Rosenthal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rosenthal. Her marriage to Mr. Marco took place on Aug. 4. After touring the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Marco will be at home at the Surf hotel.

It was a horsey place then as it is now, with the Ingalls family, children of the late Melville Ingalls, always in the lead. Gladys Ingalls, now Lady Thompson of London, founded the Community House, the excellent local hospital down in the village. Mrs. Fay Ingalls is M. F. H. of the Hot Springs Hunt, which goes into action before long with cooler weather. She also owns and manages Hobby Horse Farm, back in the country, where she breeds and raises animals for the hunt.

Mrs. Clark herself is a great sportswoman, educated in France, and in her younger days a follower of the chasse in and around Senlis, in the forests of Hallati, Compiegne, and Chantilly. It made us homesick talking about it. Mrs. Clark gave the trophy this year in the skeet shoot which is a form of clay pigeon shooting.

Her daughter, just arrived with her handsome boy and girl, Leonore and Ricardo, is one of the beauties of Hot Springs this season. She was formerly Marchesa Carignani of Naples, where her husband was aide to the crown prince of Italy. She has taken back her maiden name, Mrs. Denman Clark, and is a delightful figure on the tennis courts; her gold red hair, with black eyes and white skin are uniquely lovely.

The tennis tournament began before the deluge started, and now with the blissful period of fair weather the courts are an afternoon rendezvous again. The red and yellow striped parasols are out, and all the little white tables are surrounded by needleworkers and smokers.

The girls wear for tennis a white duck, short sleeved coat dress ending half way to the knee. The legs are otherwise bare, except for white canvas shoes. And a visor cap against the sun is usual. Very fresh and smart the players look, too.

The courts, which are red en tout cas, a contrast to the gray ones at White Sulphur, are framed in high mountains, with blue gaps between. Cloud scenery begins in August, with pink clouds at sunset, and now and then a red autumn leaf whirls by in the romping wind.

A new family at Hot Springs this year is Mrs. Robert Livingston's of Paris. She has been spending her summers for many years at Pau in the Pyrenees and finds this a wonderful substitute. Mrs. Livingston is a tall, handsome woman, a sister of Mrs. I. Townsend Burden of New York. She has two sons with her and a subdeb daughter.

Parents say the nice part of bringing children here is two-fold—they can't go sailing; they can't go night clubbing and be out till dawn.

The wild party of the week is the Saturday night Champagne ball, which sounds more exciting than it is. The young set flutters into the ballroom after the movie is over, when the big space is filled with tables, and they are ringed with contestants. The professional dancers do some turns to the music of the orchestra, and then the man selects a girl, and the girl dancer chooses a male partner. They dance. After a dozen men and as many girls have been taken out by the professionals, the dancers are appraised by the audience, which applauds loud or soft according to its taste. Both winners are provided with a bottle of champagne, after which dancing becomes general.

The sight is charming; fluffy tulle skirts are usual, and many of the girls are beautiful. The prettiest girl from New York is Joan Thorne, a young orphan heiress here with her aunt, Mrs. Richard Sperry. Joan is a tall, healthy young Juno with regular features, ash blonde hair, and luminous dark eyes. Excessive slimness seems to be out, as far as the present crowd of girls are concerned. They ride and swim all morning, play tennis and golf after lunch, and dance heartily after a good dinner.

During the hot "spell" which antedated the wet period there was an easy way of having a change of scenery, minus expense, and with no trouble. The Homestead runs a bus trailer every hour to "the Cascades," a beautiful golf course in another valley! There is a comfortable clubhouse, and patrons may lunch there, on a golfer's lunch to be sure, but excellent. There are seats out under the trees and the lay of the course is so open that one can watch the play over the last five holes and see an entirely new setup of mountains.

There also is a famous stroll along a trail in the Cascades woods that is highly recommended for people who like walking in hot weather. There are, in fact, many trails across these mountains, with sign posts showing the way and telling the distances.

Addison Stillwell, however, has put a wet blanket on following the trails for women hikers. He advises all the petticoats to follow the wide open mountain roads and avoid the trails at this season because of the rattlers. This, it seems, is the season when these snakes shed their skins and go blind for a while. Not being able to see, they strike instantly at the slightest sound and are extremely dangerous.

Last Sunday I went driving around Warm Spring mountain with Mahmond Hassan Bey, the Egyptian minister, and Mme. Hassan. We were looking for a very old spa called Rockbridge Alum springs, and came across another at an altitude of 3,000 feet called Alum baths, unused for 30 years. It was a brick hotel with a great circle of brick cottages after the old southern style. A half mile away was a CCC camp with perfectly new log huts built right in the wilderness, and we wondered why the camp had not made use of the old spa, all ready, waiting and to let. Coming home by way of the Cascades there were many golfers dotting that beautiful course, and the heads of swimmers popping out of the natural pool far over on the right. If one likes an icy bath, that pool is the one par excellence. Between the Cascades and the Homestead is a sign "Three Trees," and way up on the hill is an old fashioned mansion for "paying guests." Here Mary Johnston, a popular novelist of years gone by, lived and wrote historical novels, and died. There are other old fashioned places in the valley where they use oil lamps and have no modern improvements whatever. And these ruins are filled to overflowing with patrons who love the style of 100 years ago.

A favorite form of indoor sport during the great rains was eating. One couldn't exercise much, but it was fun to see the young waiters sprinting along with heavy trays balanced on their heads.

One can't get very low in one's mind with the menu going on high gear. The mountain blueberries this year have been fabulously large and blue, the watermelons red and ripe. As for the mountain trout and the froglegs, and the hot bread boy trotting with a tin basket of hot breads—well, prudence is one's daily prayer.

People did lose heart and vanish while the torrents were falling. The former Betty Hitt, now Mme. Andorde Hertelendy, wife of the Hungarian envoy to Paris, left with her children and retinue to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hitt. And Buzzy Hewes vanished, too; he never wastes a minute, that lad! I wouldn't wonder if he turned up at Nassau, being a pal of the new governor of the Bahamas, lo these many years.

But there are men arriving: Howell Erminger Jr. of Chicago and Michel Bouvier of New York. Michel is one of the tallest, best built, handsomest lads at Hot Springs, a son of Emma Louise Stone, once of Prairie avenue, Chicago, and the late W. Sargent Bouvier of New York. Michel has many, in fact a regiment, of Chicago cousins, and a great-grandmother who was a society queen of Chicago long ago, the late Mrs. H. O. Stone.

Dorothy Anne Reimer Is to Be Bride This Evening

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Anne Reimer, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Reimer, to Lester L. Goldstein is to take place this evening at the North End club. Miss Reimer was graduated from the University of Chicago, where she also took graduate work. Mr. Goldstein obtained his undergraduate and graduate degree from the John Marshall Law school.

Fashions Lose Frivolity, as Befits Period

By Bettina Bedwell.

Once again, as I've seen it happen for years now, the front page steps in to modify and even drastically alter the conception of current fashions. Since May, when the American people began to be defense minded in a more or less hostile world, when women started to think of life in terms of service to the American ideal of democracy, the fashion folks have adapted their wares to fit this altered trend of thought.

Women will not see, nor do they want, the frivolous, often silly and complicated clothes, hats, and other accessories, things they "simply adored" in the seasons past. Designer pulse feelers say that what our women folk want to wear this fall are slim-line, simple clothes that are casual, easy to wear, and comfortable. They want hats that fit the head, and even hats that cover the ears when winter sets in. They want shoes for walking as well as shoes for decoration and dancing. They want deep toned colors, rich and unobtrusive.

"They" means you, women and girls, all over the United States. You'll be doing something, our dress designers are sure, to help solve the gigantic problems of preparedness that our nation has undertaken, and they are doing their best to make you look as charming, chic and appealing as possible in your new rôle of worker for the common good.

Simple, casual suits are an important part of this fall fashion program. The skirts of these suits look slim and young, but they're made for stepping out and around. The very full skirt is not so practical, and is definitely "dated" as a past fashion. Jackets of the new suits are longer than hip-length, but they're not too long. Box jackets, or gently molded jackets, are the ones I've seen most in fall collections. Blended colors play a part in many of these suits, with mixing done in shades of jacket, blouse and skirt. There are also loads of one color suits in black, conga brown, gray, and subtle colors for town wear.

Coats are narrower looking, too. Most cloth coats for town are semifitted, with easy skirts having some fullness at the back or front. But there are many straight coats, made of tweed, camel's hair and such materials to pair off with suits. Coats with bloused waists and slim skirts are dressmaker items that look new and smart, and are comfortable and practical. I've already told you about fur jackets and coats. One thing that makes many coats more versatile for the coming season is the removable linings that they have, so they're adjusted to varying weathers.

The dress situation is met by designers with a regular banquet of models. Soft wool dresses with more natural shoulder lines, and easy skirts that are wide but slim looking, are shown everywhere, and in all the most beautiful colors. The black dress is to have an enormous run, I hear. It will be paired with colored and fur coats, and have subdued but colorful accessories and jewels. Many dressy frocks will be draped.

Evening dresses, too, come in for slimming, as I've stated many times before this. There are a few needleslender dresses around, but most of them have skirts wide enough for dancing, altho they don't look it. There are sleeves, either long or short, in many of the new evening gowns, but at the same time the necklines are rather low-cut, at least over the bosom. Soft drapery around the hipline is a feature of some of the most enchanting fall frocks.

Considered a perfect autumn dinner dress is one made of black Lyons velvet. This model has the new lowfront neckline with a pair of glittering rose rhinestone clips set in the corners, and it has a draped sash around the hipline, caught under a flat panel at the back of the skirt. Rhinestone-set black buttons fasten the dress down the back.

When Chicago Was Young

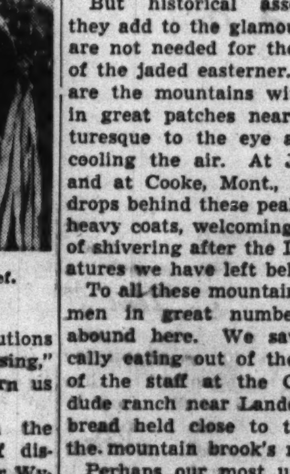
By Herma Clark

Lander, Wyo., Aug. 19, 1940.

Dear "When Chicago Was Young" friends: The editor of this column being on vacation in the west, this communication bears a current date, rather than that of the '90s, commonly found here. Your correspondent is writing from the land

"Where the deer and the antelope play;
Where seldom is heard a discouraging word
And the sky is not cloudy all day."

We found the first mentioned animal without trouble, a pretty muledeer which bounded away into the forest at the approach of our car; while a herd of antelope, quite unafraid, crossed the road in front of us at another point. So common is the sight of this graceful creature, that a sign on the highway cautions the motorist "Antelope Crossing," just as Lincoln park signs warn us of "Equestrian Crossing."



An Arapahoe chief. Crandall photo.

The line from "Home on the Range" about the scarcity of discouraging words is true, too, for Wyoming residents are optimistic. Their sky is sunny as they reflect on the 1 per cent increase in population revealed by the recent census. They are anxious for new citizens and welcome those who have come, mainly from the dust bowl regions. These farmers bring little worldly wealth, but have the stamina of the pioneer.

L. L. Newton, veteran Wyoming editor, whose paper, the Wyoming State Journal, published at Lander, is ranked high by the National Editorial association, is our guide in the Wind River valley, while his daughter, Mrs. Blair C. Stouffer of Riverton, drives us about in the Stouffer car. There are beautiful roads in Wyoming, but you keep your tank well filled with gasoline, for in certain places it would be possible to be stalled 25 miles from a town or a gas station, and far from a ranch house where help or a telephone might be obtained. Yet our hosts make nothing of long motor trips. They have told us to buy tickets to Rawlins, 130 miles from Lander, and they will meet us, just as casually as a Chicagoan might say: "Get off at 63d street and I'll pick you up there." They are used to magnificent distances.

The highway we travel has markers reminding the motorist of pioneer days, for this was the Oregon trail, along which tolled the covered wagons on their way still further west. Buffalo Bill sped along this trail, too, on his fleet pony. So that, listening, we can hear, above the purr of the motor, the clatter of horses' hoofs.

But historical associations, tho they add to the glamour of the west are not needed for the enchantment of the jaded easterner. All about us are the mountains with snow lying in great patches near the top, picturesque to the eye and helpful in cooling the air. At Jackson, Wyo., and at Cooke, Mont., when the sun drops behind these peaks we rush for heavy coats, welcoming the sensation of shivering after the Illinois temperatures we have left behind.

To all these mountains come fishermen in great numbers, for trout abound here. We saw fish practically eating out of the hand of one of the staff at the Charles Moore dude ranch near Lander, leaping for bread held close to the surface of the mountain brook's rushing water.

Perhaps our most unusual experience is the Shoshoni Indian sun dance, a ceremony usually held in late July or early August. The Arapahoes also hold a dance about the same time. Only the Indians themselves know the formula for determining the exact date, but moon, weather, and state of the crops enter into the decision. When the day is set, a cottonwood tree is selected from the forest—a noble tree at least 15 feet in height, with a pronged top. Twelve other trees are cut to form the roof of the dance enclosure. To the center pole is fastened a buffalo head, the buffalo being almost sacred to the Indian, as a source of food and clothing supply in earlier days. Blue and white cloth is also attached to the center pole and black stripes are painted on it, all these having a symbolic meaning in the ceremony.

When we saw the dance one evening there were 49 dancers in the group, the youngest being a lad of 15, whose relatives had tried in vain to dissuade him from entering the contest, feeling he had not sufficient strength. He carried on thru the long period and doubtless won his spurs by the next morning. Like the older men, he wore a beaded belt with a blanket fastened around the lower part of the body like a skirt.

Music for the dance is furnished by a group of men who sit near the entrance to the lodge beating drums and singing. Seated about this small orchestra and keeping time to the music is a group of women shaking willow wands and chanting. At the sound of a high note, the dancers, who have been standing in their places by the wall of the enclosure, shuffle toward the center, keeping their eyes fixed on the pole. When they have almost reached it they move backward again to their places. This is repeated again and again. As they dance, each one blows a bone or reed whistle held in the mouth and decorated with a downy plume at the end. Blowing the whistle is part of the Indian's self inflicted torture, for it adds to the dryness of the mouth. Dust from the furrows worn by the feet of the dancer add to the discomfort.

When they are exhausted the dancers lie down in their places by the wall of the lodge, draw up a blanket covering and rest. Many dancers are said to dream dreams and see visions during this respite, and they are supposed to be praying continuously. We see many cigarets lighted, however, which discounts this theory.

On the fourth morning of the ceremony the medicine man and his dancers face the sun as it rises, offering prayers and thanks to the Great Spirit. All then proceed to the nearest stream to remove the ceremonial paint from their bodies. They drink freely from the river, often becoming violently ill, after their long abstinence. But no one minds, for it is regarded as healthful. A feast follows the conclusion of the dance.

Come to Wyoming for your next summer's holiday and find a world you have never known.

YOUR FRIEND, HERMA CLARK.

Bride's Duty to Pen Thanks for Her Gifts

How should a guest be introduced to a roomful of people? The correct way to make introductions is told in the leaflet, "The Etiquet of Introductions," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

The price that must be paid by the bride for the thrill and excitement of receiving wedding gifts that pour in is the chore of writing all the thank-you notes. The more presents, the more thrill. And the more thrill, the more letters of acknowledgment. There may be other prices to pay, such as hanging Aunt Mary's gift picture where she will be sure to see it when she comes in, but emergencies such as that are not covered in the etiquet books!

The letters should be written just as promptly as possible, altho it is true that the actual writing may be postponed until after the wedding if the bride finds that she hasn't the time before then. But even tho she doesn't write the letters before the wedding takes place, she should think about the problem and organize a plan to take care of the gifts as they arrive and keep tab on them in order to avoid the confusion and embarrassment of not knowing who sent what. It would be an unforgivable error to thank Mrs. Smith for a silver tray when what she actually sent was a lamp.

Here's a plan. Let the bride keep a little notebook. Then, when the wedding presents arrive, and she opens them, she may record in a systematic fashion such information as she needs to know. For instance, she should record the article itself, the name and address of the sender [to avoid scurrying around for addresses later], the date received, the date the thank-you letter was written and, perhaps, the name of the store in which the article was purchased, in case it may be necessary to exchange it. That may sound complicated, but such a registration will be extremely helpful to the bride in writing her acknowledgments promptly and satisfactorily, and will reduce the possibility of making mistakes such as forgetting to write to one, writing duplicate letters to another, or thanking a friend for something she didn't send.

All the gifts should be acknowledged by a personal note. Telephoning the message will not suffice, nor will a verbal "thank you, Mrs. Howard," as she goes down the receiving line. And don't send printed cards signed by the bride. Personal notes on plain, simple stationery, written by the bride herself, are the only answer. They need not be long letters, but just a simple, sincere expression of appreciation.

Polo, Tennis Tourneys Will Enliven Week

By Judith Cass.

The coming week will be a bit livelier than the usual dull as dishwater pre-Labor day period. A polo tournament, some weddings, and various golf and tennis tournaments, with a round of parties for the principals of each, will do much to fill the calendars of those who have not gone away on an August holiday.

Lake Forest will be especially gay because of the polo matches which will be played today, Wednesday, and next Sunday at the Onwentsia. The tournament, the first at the club in many years, will be between the Onwentsia, the Oakbrook, and the Twin Cities Polo clubs. The Lester Armours, the Frank Wilhelms, and the W. Roy Carneys will be hosts to the Minneapolis team, which is composed of Thomas L. Daniels, his sons, John and Forrest; David Williams, and Maj. Landon Lockett of Fort Snelling.

The Onwentsia will be represented by Bill Carney, who played for Princeton last year; David Wilhelm, captain elect of the Yale varsity polo team; Bill Fergus, and S. Prentice Porter. James A. Hannah is captain of the Oakbrook team.

Mrs. John Coleman will present the trophies to the winners of this afternoon's match between the Twin Cities and the Onwentsia teams, which will play at 3:30 o'clock. The Twin Cities will meet Oakbrook at 5:30 o'clock on Wednesday; Oakbrook and Onwentsia will play the final game. The matches are open to the public at a low admission price of 40 cents per person.

With a new daughter to bring him luck, Lefens Porter may well retain the title of golf champion at the Lake Geneva Country club this year. The annual tournament is to be played next Saturday, and will be followed by dinner and dancing. The weekly dancing parties at the various clubs in the Chicago area do much to brighten midsummer evenings for their members. The Thursday night parties at the Onwentsia have become quite dressy this year in contrast to past summers when the most informal clothes have been worn.

The Tavern's Friday night dinner-dances bring out a crowd that is about evenly divided between formality and informality in dress. Fridays are dance nights at the Glen View club.

Two weddings in Winnetka on Saturday will make that village a center of attraction along the north shore. Miss Sally Bull will become the bride of Joseph W. Fall Jr. at 4:30 o'clock in the Christ church chapel. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Richard Sutton Bull.

The children's chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church will be the setting for the marriage at 8:30 o'clock of Miss Beth Bryson and Edward Angus Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Franklin Powell of Richmond, Va. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs A. Earl Bryson, will give a reception at the Shawnee Country club after the ceremony.

Highland Park also will have a wedding Saturday night when Miss Ann Mills becomes the bride of Robert Alexander Gosling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gosling of Honolulu. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock in Trinity Episcopal church and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawrence Mills.

Still another wedding which is to take place on Saturday is that of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Wood, daughter of the Walter Guy Woods of Springfield, Mass., and Miller Slocum Pflager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Pflager of Evanston. This ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the Hope Congregational church in Springfield.

Alumnae of the Sacred Heart convent, students, and their friends will gather at the tennis courts of the school at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon to watch the finals in the Alumnae association's eighth annual tennis tournament. Among the members of the committee, who also will participate in the matches, are Miss Barbara McVoy, Miss Philomene Coleman, Miss Mary McCall, Miss Joan Caron, Miss Nancy Foster, and Miss Mary Slattery. Tea will be served after the games.

Tomorrow will be the most important day of the year for the girls who have spent the last few weeks at the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children. About 125 guests will attend a luncheon, given by the board of directors of the camp.

Mrs. Prentice Gives Concert in Berkshires

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice [Alta Rockefeller] this afternoon gave at Elm Tree House, Mount Hope farm, Williamstown, the third in a series of five concerts which constitute her major entertainments of the season. H. Archer Bibson of New York again was organist. He assisted the hostess in shaping the program, which never is published in advance. The 150 guests looked down from the music room upon an entrancing scene of acres of garden and lawn.

Elm Tree House, built of red brick with white marble trim, is the largest private residence in the Berkshires. The organ is one of the largest in a private home in America.

Plans for the house, of Georgian design, were drawn by James Gamble Rogers, architect of the famous Yale quadrangle. Located upon an upland the house is reached after a two mile drive from the Green River state highway. The beauty of this road has been enhanced thru Mrs. Prentice's roadside floral planting.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Holloway of Evanston arrived at Tamarack in Tyringham today for a two weeks' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cyrus Holloway. Mrs. Holloway poured at a tea given by Mrs. John Stewart McLennan, who with Mr. McLennan opened their house for the first time to the public at an allied relief fund benefit. This house, 170 by 130 feet in size with massive ionic columns, was built in 1911 by the late Robb De Peyster Tytus, Yale graduate and explorer of Egyptian royal tombs.

Mr. and Mrs. George Allen Holloway of New York and Pittsfield are spending two weeks at Nantucket.

At Wakefield, R. I., with Mme. Giovanni Cardelli [Ruth Lamson] of Lake Shore drive is Mrs. William Felton Barrett of New York, who entertained Mme. Cardelli at Sky farm, North Egremont, over the music festival.

Miss Helen Dillon returned to Chicago today following a visit with Mrs. Warren Salisbury at Tor Court, Pittsfield.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz have had as their guest this week at Fernbrook, Lenox, Mrs. Anna Boal Wickes, formerly of Chicago, whose Virginia estate adjoins Mount Vernon. She is a descendant of Enos Ayres, Chicago pioneer.

Mrs. Walter Forbes of Rockford, Ill., who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wait Talcott at Rolloway farm, North Egremont, was the honored guest at a luncheon given by Mrs. Aubrey T. Barnes at Greystones.

Mrs. John S. Barnes of Rockford was in a house party given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. De Gersdorff, who entertained at Orchard Hill, Stockbridge, in honor of Sir Louis and Lady Beale of London.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton of Lake Forest, who were with Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson at Court Hill, Pittsfield, for the music festival, are now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence of Hubbard Woods at Upper St. Regis lake in the Adirondacks.

Arriving on Monday at Court Hill will be Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard, Miss Deborah S. and Frederick W. Shepard, who will be en route to Geneva, N. Y., from Little Compton, R. I. Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs are working out a canning problem in connection with the harvest of several acres of vegetables on Berkshire estates, including Court Hill, for the world war famine relief fund.

Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett [Margaret W. Kendrick] is having an "agricultural meeting" Tuesday of Great Barrington Garden club of which she is president.

Insists Clubs Can Get City Woman Judge

By Betty Browning.

Chicago won't have a woman judge until the women's organizations demand one.

Dr. Helen Gregory MacGill.

Canada's only woman judge, Dr. Helen Gregory MacGill, dropped in at Tribune Tower last week with this hint to Chicago women lawyers who want to have one of their number on the bench. She had read a Tribune interview with Marian Lee Marshall describing activities of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois toward this end.

The keen eyed, brisk little judge had another suggestion. "Your woman judge had better be cautious about cocktails," she remarked crisply. "She might lose good support, the W. C. T. U. for instance. Those women are magnificent campaigners. Once they start something they never give up."

Dr. MacGill has presided over the Juvenile court of Vancouver, B. C., for 18 years. She was the first woman to graduate from Trinity university, now part of the University of Toronto. She has been a newspaper correspondent in the far east and a Sunday supplement feature writer in San Francisco. She has campaigned successfully for the reform of state institutions in Minnesota and for the improvement of laws affecting women and children in Canada.

• • •

She sat on Canada's first minimum wage board. Her published works on the Canadian juvenile courts and related subjects have been reprinted in several languages, including Japanese. Two years ago she became the first woman to receive an honorary LL.D. degree from the University of British Columbia, hence the "Dr."

It was not ability, however, that brought her to the bench, Dr. MacGill insists.

"Women's organizations put me in, not my own ability," she says emphatically.

Women's organizations, too, helped to keep her in. Judge MacGill was appointed to the juvenile court by the lieutenant governor in council. There was every expectation that it would be a lifetime appointment, in accordance with Canadian tradition. Then, after 12 years, as Judge MacGill tells it, "there was a sudden flareup." Another woman replaced Judge MacGill.

"The minute my appointment was terminated," she relates, "I called all the women's organizations together. I asked them, 'What shall we do?' They said 'Fight.' All three newspapers of Vancouver, representing every party, objected on principle to the dismissal of a judge. Four years later I was reappointed."

There is a valid appeal, apart from the feminist one, to be made to women's organizations in behalf of a woman judge, Judge MacGill contends. Women judges, she argues, in the nature of things have more insight than most men into the problems of women and girls. They are keener judges of their own sex, hence are less likely to be hoodwinked by women offenders.

"Women and girls," she concludes decisively "have the right to be judged by their peers who, after all, are women."

But what she describes as a courtesy arrangement, Judge MacGill handles most of the cases involving girl delinquents, and her masculine colleague takes the boys' cases. Frequently they exchange cases, and sometimes they sit together on cases involving adults.

The Vancouver juvenile court is entirely separate from any other court, with its own building and two judges appointed to that court alone, not transferred to it in rotation from other courts, as in Chicago.

By her own confession, Judge MacGill is something of a feminist. She stands between two generations of remarkable women. Her mother she speaks of with feeling as "a very able woman." At 15 her daughter was working beside her in suffrage campaigns. It was thru studying the legal arguments with which a conscientious suffragist had to equip herself that the future judge first became interested in law.

In the third generation is Miss Elsie MacGill, one of Judge MacGill's daughters, who was the first woman aeronautical engineer on the North American continent. Her planes, designed for a Canadian manufacturer, now are in war service.

Dr. Helen MacGill Hughes, the other daughter, is a sociologist and an author, and is the wife of Everett C. Hughes, assistant professor of sociology at the University of Chicago. Judge MacGill came to Chicago to see this daughter and son-in-law and their baby. It is her first visit here, and she is remaining until the end of the week. The judge also has two sons.

Helen Gregory MacGill is the first woman lawyer in her family, but by no means the first lawyer. Her grandfather was Canada's last master in chancery. Her late husband, whom she met in her university days and married after the death of her first husband, was a lawyer. Judge MacGill

When she is not occupied with court problems and study, the judge enjoys reading a good book. This reading covers a wide range, for her taste, as she says, is catholic. She has a little cabin "hideaway" deep in the woods.

Her interests also include membership in a number of organizations. She is province director of Phi Delta Delta, international women lawyers' association; is a former president of the University Women's club in Vancouver; and is active in the National and International Councils of Women and the International Association of Juvenile Court Judges.

ENGAGED

Miss Catherine Elizabeth Herbolsheimer, whose engagement to Paul Henry Oppmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Oppmann of Lakewood, O., has been announced by her mother, Mrs. George L. Herbolsheimer of Peru, Ill. The bride-to-be, daughter of the late Mr. Herbolsheimer, was graduated from the University of Chicago. Her fiance is a graduate of Western Reserve university and Western Reserve Law school.

Two New Shows Loom Large at Art Institute

By Eleanor Jewett.

It is amusing at times to look ahead. A quick peak into the immediate future of the Art institute reveals two new shows looming large. The first of these to open this fall will be the exhibit of miniature American rooms, the work of Mrs. James Ward Thorne. This exhibition will run from Oct. 17 to Jan. 19, 1941. Mrs. Thorne's miniature rooms have been one of the greatest attractions the institute has offered these last few years.; they are perfectly fascinating and have drawn thousands of visitors, not one of whom has turned away disappointed. Her new American rooms will undoubtedly be a highlight of the fall.

The look into the future yields the promise of another exhibit which should be worth seeing at the Art institute: The 51st annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture. This will be on view in the east wing galleries from Nov. 14 to Jan. 5, 1941.

Behind the scene glimpses into the practical difficulties which confront the Art institute suggest that there is more to a museum than its shows. For instance, this summer the institute is carrying out various extraordinary repairs which simply MUST be made. The roofs—how many of us stop to think of the museum roofs? Charles H. Burkholder, director of finance and operation, reveals in his annual report "that $44,340.01 was spent for roof repairs in 1939. A contract for $52,967 has been let for the replacement of the roofs over Gunsaulus hall in 1940." . . . This work is now being carried out.

A rebound on the popularity of a show is exposed in the institute story that during the Italian masterpieces exhibition so many telephone calls came in as a result of inquiries from radio programs and requests for information about the paintings that the telephone switchboard was found to be far below capacity for the load put on it and the switchboard today is practically worn out. In fact it is so far gone that a new switchboard is being installed and an addition is being built above the main offices to house it.

In connection with the switchboard fiasco one wonders if the Italian masterpieces had been shown THIS fall, would they have met with the warm reception they did last. How differently situated is Italy now in regard to the war than she was then! One remembers lunching with the Italian government officials who were in charge of the exhibit and being told by them in all earnestness that Italy would not go to war; one remembers their arguments against the various activities of Hitler; one remembers, and then reads the headlines and wonders what 1941 will bring to pass besides the two exhibitions promised at the Art institute.

Sometimes the writer of a weekly column is up against curious obstacles, time not the least of them. This art comment is written 10 days before it is published and occasionally we dare to pass some sort of judgment on an exhibit before we have actually seen it. We did this a few weeks ago at the opening of the Art institute summer shows, when it seemed entirely safe to say a few pleasant things about the print exhibit which was about to be installed.

As things turned out, nothing could have been less safe; the print exhibit is a complete fizzle from an American point of view and entirely too prejudiced in favor of the moderns to be an honest representation of the years it is supposed to cover. The Art institute news letter of Aug. 10 quotes a comment that should have been true, given the kind of show that could have been arranged by a man with a broad vision; as the exhibit hangs, the comment is absurd. The summer show of prints is purely a modern affair, with foreign artists, modernists, playing the major rôle. Had the Chicago Society of Etchers been invited to select the prints, the exhibition would have been far different and most effective. The current affair is depressing, dated, and extremely unfortunate in selection. It is, we expect, a good museum show, but a layman will find etchings more to his taste at the Roullier gallery, Ackermann's, the Findlay galleries, or the O'Brien galleries. Etchings should be every man's dish, but the institute in this show is serving only the specialist.

A new exhibition of ceramics has just been opened in gallery G-II. in Gunsaulus wing of the Art institute. These contemporary ceramics are from the Rockwood pottery, Cincinnati, and the exhibition commemorates the 60th anniversary of the founding of the pottery. Interest in the exhibit centers on the development of fine glazes and the underglaze decoration which has been left in the hands of artists working practically independently. The decorators are both men and women and are drawn chiefly from the Art academy of Cincinnati. The current showing of pottery was assembled and arranged by David Seyler, a student of the Art institute school who worked as a designer at the pottery.

Summer news of vacations is still trickling in: Walter J. Sherwood, director of publicity of the Chicago Art institute, is enjoying a carefree August, and from Rockport, Mass., comes an enthusiastic note from Nina K. Griffin, Chicago painter, about the beauties of the coast and the inspiration given to student artists by the various older painters who haunt the New England shore in summer. Mrs. Griffin mentions particularly Anthony Thieme, whose magnificent landscapes are well known in Chicago; Stanley Woodward, the marine painter, and Emile Gruppé.

Outdoor Tea at Nantucket Aids Hospital

NANTUCKET, MASS.

The summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Black of Lake Shore drive was one of six historic Nantucket houses opened for the benefit of the Cottage hospital during the institution's recent drive for funds. The Black residence is one of the three famous Starbuck houses which were built a century ago by Joseph Starbuck, a whaling merchant, as wedding presents for his three daughters-in-law. As a special feature of the open house, Mrs. Black was hostess at an afternoon tea in her attractive garden.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell III., the former Margaret Mitchell, of Chicago, was a bridesmaid at the recent wedding in Nantucket of her cousin, Miss Sidney Mitchell Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Todd of Malba, Long Island, to Arthur James Moxham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Moxham of Great Neck, Long Island. The bridemaids wore gowns of pink marquisette and carried bouquets of blue and white bachelor's buttons.

Nantucket's summer stock company, the Players, will present the final play of the current series, "Ah, Wilderness," at the Yacht club theater tonight, Monday, and Tuesday. On Wednesday evening, the Apprentice group, which has been associated with the Players all summer and has been under the direction of Frank Callender of the Goodman Theater school, will produce its own program of three one-act plays.

Late August finds a host of social and sports events competing for the time and interest of members of the vacation colony. Among the leading activities planned for the week ahead are the annual cruise of the Rainbow fleet on Monday, a lawn party for the benefit of the historic Coffin school the following day, and the Western Hemisphere ball at the 'Sconset Casino on Wednesday evening. Thruout the week Nantucket's first open tennis tournament will be held at the Gordon Folger hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman J. Sexton, William C. Sexton, and the Misses Alice and Shirley Sexton of Lake Shore drive are vacationing at the White Elephant. Guests at The Breakers include Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Hough, Thomas Jr., and Mary K. Hough of Winnetka.

Younger members of the dancing set are looking forward to the Yacht club's annual junior costume party which will be held on Thursday evening.

George N. Winn of Chicago is a guest at the Ships inn and Mr. and Mrs. William W. Sykes of Flossmoor, Ill., are staying at the Gordon Folger.

Two hundred and fifty years ago the famous Coffin-Gardner feud which had split the Island for 50 years came to an end when Jethro Coffin married Mary, beautiful daughter of the rival clan, and the young couple went to live in a new house atop lonely Sunset hill. One dark winter's night the young bride, alone in her home a mile from the town, heard a rustling noise in the attic, and a moment later a giant Indian crashed thru the ceiling into her bedroom. While the intruder was picking himself up, the terrified girl jumped out of bed, dashed down the stairs, and set out across the moors for her father's house in Sherburne.

The badly shaken Indian started down the stairs after her, tripped on the famous fifth step, which is a bit longer than the rest, and was knocked unconscious by his second fall. A few minutes later Mary's father and brothers arrived and took charge of the limp redskin at the foot of the stairs, who pleaded "heap too much firewater" when arraigned in court the next day. Among the recent visitors to what is now the oldest house was Mrs. Helen Taylor of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Mosher of 1205 Sherwin avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to E. B. Rasmessen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmessen of Santa Monica, Cal. Miss Mosher attended the University of Illinois and was graduated from the school of the Goodman theater. Her fiancé is a graduate of the University of Illinois. The wedding will take place in the fall.

New Hampshire Sale Will Aid Red Cross Unit

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.

Mrs. William A. Yager, who has spent several weeks at the Mount Washington, Bretton Woods, will go to the Drake in New York on Thursday, where she will be joined by her son and daughter-in-law of Beverly Hills, Cal., for a visit. She plans to go early to Palm Beach, Fla., where she again has taken a suite at the Everglades club for the season. Her nephew, Guy A. Thomas of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Thomas take a house there to be near her.

Also at the Mount Washington this week are F. W. W. Woodruff of Joliet, Mr. and Mrs. David K. Cochrane, who are touring the mountains, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Staley Jr. of Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Poole are full of plans for the coming auction at Franconia for the benefit of the new Franconia chapter of the Red Cross, of which Mrs. Pool is chairman and Mrs. Hill Griffith, a former Chicagoan, is vice chairman. It will be held at the Franconia workroom next Friday, and Miss Bette Davis, cinema star, who is spending three months there, has consented to model gowns which will be sold at auction. Auctioneers will conduct the sale and junior workers will sell refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bryson of Chicago are at Gray's inn, Jackson, and at Idlewild, Intervale, are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Hopp and Miss Cynthia Hopp of Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. John Elkins of Chicago are spending a fortnight at the Ravine house in Randolph for mountain climbing. Most visitors here join the Randolph Mountain club, which holds several weekly trips to the summits of mountains within the White mountains area. This week they are climbing peaks of the Sandwich range at Passaconnaway and Wonalancet.

Many pleasant hospitalities are being extended Mrs. William James of the Chocorua cottage colony and her sisters, Mrs. Albert A. Jackson of Philadelphia and Mrs. Robert I. Jenks of New York. They are daughters of the late John Sumner Runnels of Chicago, and spent their girlhood summers at Chocorua at the beautiful Runnels estate on Chocorua lake. Prof. James is the son of the late distinguished Prof. William James of Harvard university.

Mrs. John T. Pirie of Lake Forest has arrived at Whitefield to visit Mrs. Frank H. Parsons at Spalding inn.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Casselis and Misses Doris and Marjorie Casselis of Evanston are late arrivals at the Mount Washington, Bretton Woods.

Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. of Lake Shore drive arrived this week at Eastern Slopes inn, North Conway, on a mountain tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Williams of Highland Park, who are at the Sunset Hill house, Sugar Hill, were noted at the weekly putting match on Monday.

Chapins' Home a Symphony in Vivid Greens

By Rose Cour.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

A symphony in greens in the twilight is the large green residence, great stretches of lawn, shrubs, and trees of Flowerside farm, the Simeon B. Chapins' home in Lake Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapin also have a charming new modernistic winter home, Youpon Dunes, at Myrtle Beach, S. C. Built of steel and architectural concrete with flat roof, deck terraces, white walls, and great expanses of metal framed windows, Youpon Dunes is as utterly unlike Flowerside farm as can be imagined. Incidentally, Youpon is the name of a shrub with leaf and red berry resembling holly, but much smaller. And while the new home undoubtedly has great charm, nothing could exceed the mellow beauty of the vine-clad walls, the stony brook, the lovely old gardens and utter serenity of the Lake Geneva home.

The house and grounds of Flowerside, while extensive, were not lonely this summer, as the Chapins had with them their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin Jr., and their three small daughters, Claire, Marietta, and Elsa, who live in Greenwich, Conn.; also their daughter, Virginia, and her husband, the Rev. and Mrs. Francis A. Drake, and daughter, Daphne. The Drakes live at the Parsonage, North Hadley, Mass. Both of these marriages were culminations of Lake Geneva romances, as young Mrs. Chapin was Elsa Bartholomay, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, have a summer home at Black Point, across the lake. Mr. Drake is the son of Mrs. Tracy C. Drake and the late Mr. Drake, whose country home was Aloha lodge on the south shore of the lake.

The senior Chapins arrived at the lake in time for the graduation exercises at the Northwestern Military and Naval academy. One of the annual events is the cutter race for the handsome Chapin trophy, which this year was presented to the winning team by Mr. Chapin.

Flowerside farm is only one of the five Chapin farms, which comprise the largest holdings around the lake, the Chapin land ranging from Lake Geneva to the shores of Lake Como. Both Flowerside and Summit farms are devoted largely to the raising of beautiful brown Swiss cattle. Poland China hogs are the specialty of Como farm, while Allerton farm raises young cattle and feeding crops.

A great change is taking place this year in the fifth Chapin farm, which has been known as Brookdale farm. The flocks of sheep have been removed and roads are being built thru pasture and woods. Aside from Flowerside, Brookdale is the only farm property with frontage on Lake Geneva, having 1,200 feet of shore, making it unusually valuable farm land, so valuable, in fact, that Brookdale farm recently has become Brookdale estates.

During the 35 years that the annual Lake Geneva Flower show has been held the Chapin farms have been taking a large share of the blue ribbons. One of the stories told of the fair of 1905 concerns a tray of prize winning fruit from the Chapin gardens which was purchased at the show's auction for $100 by Richard T. Crane I. Last year the Chapins brought home prizes not only in the flower and fruit divisions but in such homely commodities as carrots and cabbages, alfalfa and oats. And, while certain rare species of Chapin gladioli carried off blue ribbons, probably Mr. Chapin's greatest pride was a prize winning cornstalk some 15 feet high.

Flowerside farm was built in 1898 by Architects Wilson and Marshall of Chicago, and their conservative blending of American and English country house types resulted in a dignified, attractive style that is ageless. The house is unusually spacious, with high ceilings and large rooms, the living room alone measuring more than 75 feet in length and 30 feet in width, exclusive of the alcove at one end that houses the great pipe organ. Flowerside was the first summer home built at Lake Geneva featuring a large living room and furnished in truly summer style. The big room seems almost a part of the garden with its green carpet and seemingly endless variety of exquisitely delicate color. The paneled walls are done in soft warm shades of gray, forming a pleasing background for the veritable rainbow of hues depicted in cushions, draperies, upholstery, and furniture. The hand of an artist is readily discernible here, as with all the tints displayed, they are so perfectly blended, creamy yellows with palest rose, pearly blues with silvery greens, as to form a most harmonious whole.

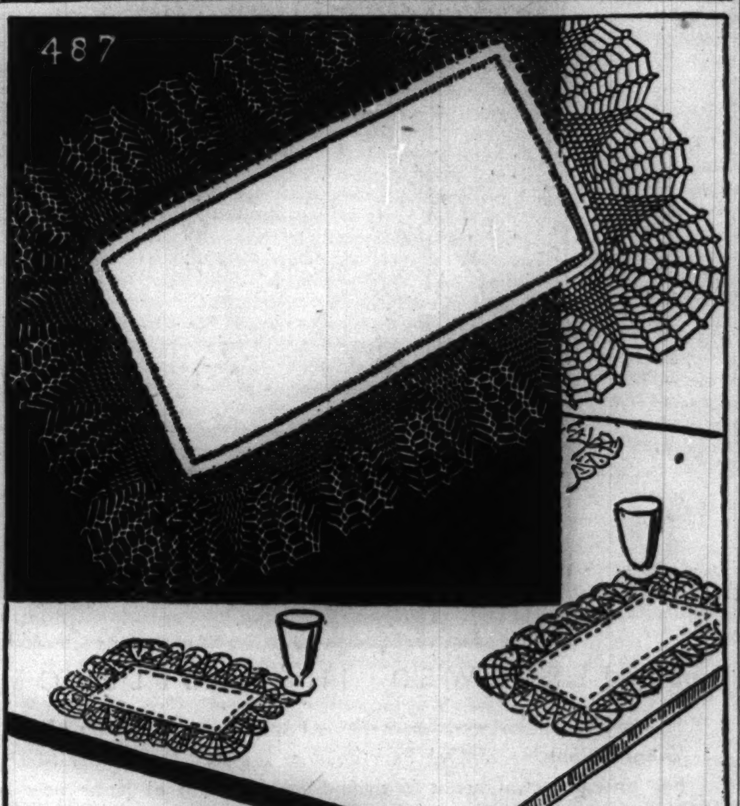
Most rooms would be dwarfed by the massive carved stone fireplace that rises to the living room ceiling with a cavernous opening almost large enough to roast an ox, but both the fireplace and the pipe organ, with its impressive array of giant brass tubes, add to the interest of the room. Thru the years the organ concerts in the hospitable Chapin home have been enjoyed not only by the lake shore neighbors but by enumerable groups of Boy and Girl Scouts, of children from Holiday home and adult guests from the George Williams college camp, Eleanor club camp, the Geneva Lake Summer Science school, and many others, in all of which undertakings Mr. Chapin is actively interested.

In fact it would be difficult to find any local civic or lake shore project planned for the betterment of the lake and its communities in which Mr. Chapin is not concerned. From the beginning of the century, when many problems confronted the summer home owners at Lake Geneva, he has been one of the first to devise ways and means of solving them, whether it was the winding snake road around the lake, built and maintained for more than 30 years by the lake shore group [mostly Chicagoans], the lake level control, or the actual protection of life and property around the lake. Mr. Chapin was the founder of the Lake Geneva water safety patrol with its efficient corps of life guards and motorized craft, and he was instrumental in establishing the automobile police service on the lake roads which protects so quietly that it never obtrudes itself upon residents or visitors until it is needed, yet it is always there, with two way radio to the sheriff's office!

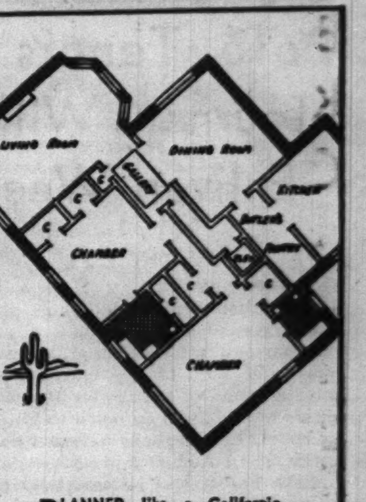
Dainty Luncheon Ensemble



By Ellen Bruce.

This dainty, crocheted luncheon set has open and lacey edging around fine white linen. It is easy to do and adds definite distinction to any table service. The instructions include detailed information, as well as an illustration of stitches.

For instructions in crocheting the luncheon set with the linen insets, No. X-487, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.



PLANNED like a California Ranch house with the bedrooms and their gaily colored baths on the cool shady side and the living rooms facing the sun, this 5-room Narragansett apartment will give you the impression of a house until you look out of the window 14 floors high to see Lake Michigan—the drive winding its way towards the Loop. The parquet floors—the modern kitchen equipment and the private entrance are a few of the things you will not find in other apartments. It is priced at $165.00 per month and Mrs. Eve M. Walch, resident manager, will gladly show it at any time.

Beverly Colony Kept Busy with Outdoor Events

A week made bright with notable events on the out-of-door calendar will be brought to a close this afternoon with the annual show of the North Shore Kennel club, benched on the famous polo field of the Myopia Hunt club in Hamilton. With the largest entry list in years the show brought exhibitors from all the New England states and many from New York.

BEVERLY, MASS.

Summer residents were represented in the best of owners and there were dogs in the show from owners whose winter homes are in far distant states. Today also is highlighted by the finals in the women's invitational four ball golf tournament at the Myopia Hunt club.

To complete the week there was tennis at the Essex Country club and yacht races at Marblehead, Beverly, Manchester, Annisquam, and Gloucester. The north shore takes its out-of-door activities with zest, and this season has been notable for the general interest in sports.

If one believes that everything is for the sport lovers a glance over the engagement books of Chicago summer visitors would prove that there are many other attractions to make life on the wind swept coast enjoyable. The summer theaters at Marblehead, Bass Rocks, East Gloucester, and Magnolia offer stage and screen stars in their plays. Many summer folks were given an opportunity to play in supporting rôles. Artists and art lovers have much to interest them with the galleries at Marblehead, East Gloucester, and Gloucester containing exhibitions.

Glories of north shore gardens at their late season best were shown this week at the annual flower show of the North Shore Horticultural society, held at the society hall in Manchester. Among the largest winners was Mrs. William H. Moore of Chicago, who had a wonderfully interesting display from her Rockmarge Gardens. Others among the winners were Mrs. Randolph Grew, Mrs. F. S. Mosley, Mrs. B. Preston Cutler, Mrs. Standish Backus, Mrs. Boyer Miller, Mrs. Charles E. Cotting, Mrs. Richard Curtis, Mrs. Thomas Barbour, and Robert S. Bradley.

William Phillips, United States ambassador to Italy, with Mrs. Phillips and their daughters, Miss Beatrice S. Phillips and Miss Anne C. Phillips, are at Lobster Lake, Me., for a late season stay. The ambassador, after his visit to Washington, D. C., where he reported on conditions in Italy to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, returned to Highover, the Phillips estate on the shores of Wenham lake at North Beverly and then left with his family for Maine. It is the first real vacation the American ambassador has had in two years. Miss Beatrice Phillips had some interesting experiences while serving with the American Red Cross in France.

Mrs. Augustus F. Goodwin opened the Mansion House at her Brakenside estate at Hamilton on Monday for a benefit show for Beverly hospital. Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman Jr., Mrs. Francis B. Lothrop, Miss Elizabeth Chalifoux, and Miss Nancy Leiter were among those coöperating.

Another event of interest this week was the annual field day held Wednesday at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage Jr. in Ipswich to aid the Ascension Memorial church in Ipswich. One of the features was the horse show in charge of Major James W. Appleton and in which many Myopians participated.

An engagement of Chicago interest is that of Miss Katherine Winthrop, one of the ranking tennis players of the country, to Alessandro Cagiati of Dover, Mass. Miss Winthrop is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Winthrop of Manchester and is a sister of Nathaniel Winthrop of Manchester, Robert O. Winthrop of Westbury, N. Y., Frederick Winthrop of Hamilton, and Mrs. Standish Bradford also of Hamilton.

She attended the Winsor and Foxcroft schools and is a Vincent club member. Mr. Cagiati is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Cagiati of Gstaad, Switzerland, and was educated at Ampleforth and Christ college, Oxford. No date has been announced for the wedding.

Miss Alice Marble, tennis star, was the guest this week of Miss Winthrop at her Manchester home. Miss Helen Jacobs was with Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Winthrop, Miss Dorothy Bundy with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pope, and Miss Mary Arnold with Mrs. Kirk A. Neale of Manchester.

The tennis players took part in the tournament at the Essex County club, which was won by Miss Marble.

Ruth Chatterton is starring in "Pygmalion," the attraction at the Bass Rocks theater next week.

J. Pierpont Morgan has returned to New York after a cruise along the coast and a visit to Manchester in his new yacht, the Inishowen V. For many summers Mr. Morgan visited the north shore in his famous yacht, the Corsair. This yacht was recently sold to the British government for war duty and is now in English waters.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of Chicago has returned to Sunset Hill at Beverly Cove from Stockbridge where she went for the concert at Tanglewood for the benefit of the allied relief fund. Mrs. Carpenter served as a member of the north shore committee for the Berkshire concert.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Robinson [Florence Crane] are enjoying a cruise to the Pacific in the clipper ship, the Swift. The craft was built in the Robinson yards at Ipswich. Mrs. Robinson is the daughter of Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago and Castle Hills, Ipswich.

The wedding of Miss Anne Proctor Ayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Ledyard farm, Wenham, and Edward F. MacNichol Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. MacNichol of the Ledges, Wenham, is to take place in the First Congregational church, Wenham, Sept. 7, and will be one of the notable weddings of the season. Miss Ayer graduated from the Spence school in New York and from Miss Nixon's school in Florence, Italy. She is a Vincent club and Junior league member. Mr. MacNichol graduated from the Brooks school and is a member of the class of 1941 at Princeton. Mr. MacNichol and his bride will live at Princeton, N. J., where he will complete his studies.

Mrs. Charles H. Bender has returned to her home in Grand Rapids, Mich., after a visit with Mrs. Clay H. Hollister of Chicago at her Magnolia summer home.

Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge of Indianapolis is at Selwood, her summer home at Beverly Farms, for a late season stay. Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge Jr. of Indianapolis is with her for a north shore visit.

Mrs. Albion Headburg has returned to her home in Chicago after a sojourn at the Oceanside in Magnolia. Mrs. Francis Dorman of Chicago has returned home after a north shore stay at Hawthorne inn in Gloucester.

After a sojourn on the north shore, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hurley have returned to their home. They visited Miss Mary Hurley at her Ipswich home.

Miss Helen C. Frick of New York and Eagle Rock, Pride's Crossing, is to provide a home for 12 refugees at the lodge at her estate. Miss Frick last year had the mansion house on the estate remodeled and has been spending several weeks here. The lodge is of stone and is located just across the street. It is in the garden of the estate and is provided with every comfort and is adapted for taking care of a number of guests. Miss Frick has for years maintained a vacation home for working girls at her Wenham estate.

MARRIED ON JUNE 30.

Mrs. Harold H. Bloomfield is the former Dorothy Jane Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Klein of 2228 Pine Grove avenue. Her marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bloomfield of 426 Surf street took place on June 30 at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Ursula D. Wahlstrom Is Bride of S. C. Sparkman

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wahlstrom of Estes avenue announce the marriage on Aug. 17 of their daughter, Ursula Daggett, to Simeon C. Sparkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Sparkman of Plant City, Fla. The wedding took place at 3 o'clock in the Howes Memorial chapel on the campus of Northwestern university. The bride is a graduate of the Francis Parker school and of Carleton college. After a short wedding trip, Mr. Sparkman and his bride will be at home in Plant City, where he is engaged in business.

Convention of B'nai B'rith Juniors Slated

Labor day week-end will bring some 1,000 B'nai B'rith juniors from Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Ontario to the fourth annual convention of district 6 at the Congress hotel. Miss Dorothy Schimel of Chicago, president of the district junior council, will conduct the opening business session Saturday evening. A reception and a series of progressive parties will follow.

Sunday's program will open with volley ball and tennis contests. A luncheon with Miss Ann Zamek, convention chairman, and her co-chairmen as special guests; oratorical, essay, and poetry contests, and a banquet and dance also are scheduled. Philip Klutznik of Omaha, Neb., president of the Men's District Grand lodge, will speak at the banquet, and awards will be presented to contest winners.

Officers will be elected Monday. Mrs. Aaron Osri of Chicago, president of the Women's District Grand lodge, will install the officers at a luncheon, and there will be a final business session that afternoon.

Organized six years ago with 35 members, today district 6 of Junior B'nai B'rith numbers 2,000 members. Athletics, cultural, social, and philanthropic activities, religion, and Americanism are included in the district's program.

Funds for blood transfusions at the Leo N. Levi hospital and the National Jewish hospital in Denver are provided by the juniors, who also contribute to the children's libraries at the hospitals, and at the Cleveland orphan home, the Hillel foundations, and the anti-Defamation league. The juniors help refugee students to complete their education, and otherwise assist in emergency situations.

Lakeside Big Attraction to U. of C. Staff

By Lolita Linn.

LAKESIDE, MICH.

Lakeside has a story to tell of the University of Chicago. It is a quiet, unpretentious tale—one not likely to be thought of next year when the grand stories of adventure and achievement are told on the university's 50th birthday.

Yet, Lakeside's story deserves to be told. Thru the years, this dunes and forest country has granted to faculty members of the university the beauty and solitude which tired minds crave. And they, in turn, have marked Lakeside as a university community to which those of kindred spirit have been, and are now, drawn.

The pioneering spirit which brought eminent teachers to the University of Chicago when it was little more than an architect's drawing and a vision in the minds of a few men brought them, likewise, to the deep forests and untamed dunes of the southeastern shore of Lake Michigan.

Among the early members of the Lakeside summer community were several whose names appeared on the first faculty register of the university. There were Clarence F. Castle, teacher of Greek; Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, assistant to Alonzo A. Stagg in the department of physical culture; William D. MacClintock, teacher of English literature, who declined a college presidency to come to the infant university; Charles Chandler and Frank J. Miller of the Latin department.

Ferdinand Schevill, who was listed on the first faculty register as an assistant in history and German, and who later became professor of modern history, has his all-year home at Duneland Beach, Ind., south of Lakeside. He and Mrs. Schevill used to walk along the shore all the way from Miller, Ind., to St. Joseph, Mich., pausing at Lakeside to see their university friends. They often made the journey during the spring vacation, when the ice was on the lake and in the tiny creeks.

One Lakesider still remembers with pleasure the evening when Ferdinand Schevill, Robert Herrick, and Robert Morss Lovett happened to meet at his fireplace. Almost any student of the university would give a good bit to have been present on that occasion, or to have been a passenger on the old Pere Marquette train which, each Friday night, brought a goodly company of university scholars to Lakeside.

Mr. Schevill's home is built on the top of a high dune. Only his tiny flower garden and croquet course have been permitted to alter the wildness of its woodland setting. And only a weed which is unsporting enough to encroach on his flower beds is ever disturbed. In his beautifully designed workroom and library, which would be the fierce envy of any writing man, is an altar-like fireplace, above which hangs a pastel portrait of his wife, Clara Schevill, who for many years before her death was the chapel soloist of the University of Chicago.

Lakeside was not overlooked by the pioneering women of the university. Miss Myra Reynolds, who became a member of the English faculty in the university's second year and was the first head of Foster Hall, pitched her tent at Lakeside for several summers. With her was her friend, Miss Elizabeth Langley, of the department of education. Lakesiders love to take you to see "Windybrow," the house which literally grew from Miss Reynolds's tent.

Among the well known university names which creep into almost any conversation out here are those of James H. Breasted, who built the Oriental institute and who could make the beauty box of an Egyptian queen who lived 4,000 years before Christ as fascinating a subject as the newest whim of a modern movie queen; Mrs. Charles Scribner Eaton, daughter of William Rainey Harper, first president of the University of Chicago; Mrs. George Goodspeed, formerly head of Ida Noyes Hall; F. M. Blanchard and William Gorsuch, of the department of public speaking.

This summer, a very creditable university faculty might be recruited from those vacationing along the southeastern shore of Lake Michigan. Trevor Arnett, who was the first auditor of the university, has a summer home at Grand Beach. Formerly president of the General Education board, Mr. Arnett is now a trustee of the university. Frederic Woodward, vice president emeritus of the university and director of the 50th anniversary celebration, has spent several weekends at Lakeside. John F. Moulds, secretary of the board of trustees, has a picturesque chalet home at Birchwood Beach, just beyond the Prairie club. Across the ravine from the Moulds' home live Otto F. Bond chairman of French and Spanish languages in the university, and Ernest J. Chave, associate professor of religious education.

On the Sawyer road is the new home of Dr. Charles B. Huggins, professor of surgery; the homes of Wellington D. Jones, geographer, and of Leon Marshall, the first dean of the school of commerce and administration. George G. Bogert, professor of law, and one of the foremost authorities on the law of trust and trustees, has a farm and vineyard three miles south of Sawyer.

Dr. Emmet B. Bay, associate dean of the biological sciences, is at Lakeside this summer. William D. Harkins, noted chemist, is a long time resident of the community.

There are few families at Lakeside with a stronger University of Chicago tradition than the Paul S. Russells. "Pete" Russell, who is an alumnus trustee of the university, was captain of the 1915 football team. Mrs. Russell, formerly Carroll Mason, was the first student to attend the university from the kindergarten to a bachelor's degree. Their eldest daughter, Carroll, will be a freshman at the university this fall.

The Russell's close neighbor is Harold H. Swift, first alumnus of the university to be made a trustee and chairman of the board of trustees since 1923. Mr. Swift's country home is the pride of Lakeside—but that is another story.

Old West Is No More; New One Open to Guests

LANDER, WYO.

Touring thru Wyoming is a fascinating experience. Here is a gorgeous vacation land, now quite accessible. Many know Yellowstone park, but few seem to realize the magnificence of the Teton mountains and the Wind river range to the south of that playground. Here, as almost everywhere in the state, the gorgeous colorings and fantastic shapes of the rocks, the grand forests, and the blue sky delight the eye.

At Thermopolis we enjoyed bathing in the warm waters whose sulphur springs are said to help many invalids. "Big Medicine Water," as the Indians called this hot spring, has a larger flow than all other similar springs in the United States combined, we are told. Originally the property of the Indians, who believed it to be the home of healing spirits, it is now owned by the state of Wyoming, and modern bathhouses cater to visitors. Fishing and hunting are near at hand, so that health seekers have much to attract them.

"Switzerland is not more beautiful," we had to admit, looking up at the Wind river range from Lander, one of the older towns in the state.

Our host, L. L. Newton, editor of the Wyoming State Journal, tells us that his state, like Switzerland, has many lakes.

"If you have thought of Wyoming as an arid part of the country, you must revise your ideas, for we have, in the Washakie National forest alone, more than 300 lakes which have been mapped. Some are hidden and small. Others are quite large.

"Our state is the sportsman's paradise," he continues, "and easterners find keen delight in our game. The Jackson's Hole region is famous for this. Here bands of elk, moose, and other wild animals come down from the mountains at nightfall to drink of the placid waters. Mountain sheep, deer, antelope, and grizzly, black, and brown bear also haunt the mountains."

Wyoming is the natural habitat of the dude ranch. Years ago the word "dude" was one of contempt. The cowboy of the range so designated the city man from the east, whom he regarded as a fop. But the term has lost its former significance and is now expressive of good will only.

The dude is a cherished institution, often a real friend. He takes part, if he wishes, in the everyday operations of the ranch and is made to feel thoroly at home.

No more wholesome vacation for a growing boy or girl could be desired. The young people see real cowboys, in chaps and spurs, riding among the herds. They learn to emulate western courage and resourcefulness. This form of entertaining visitors has become so popular that in normal times there is hardly one of these ranches whose accommodations have not been engaged in advance.

The slang of the dude ranch is new to you. You see a "packrat" getting the outfit ready for the trail. The host is known as the "dude rancher" and the guide is the "dude wrangler," while the help about the place—cooks, waiters, and so on—are called "savages." And there is a feminine for "dude"—"dudeen." Somehow this slang adds tang to the vacation. You return to the city refreshed by your contact with a hearty life such as your own pioneer grandfathers might have felt at home in.

The cowboy of the old days has passed. In parts of Wyoming he has been succeeded by the sheepherder, a much less picturesque individual. His life is monotonous and has little of adventure in it. He is apt, you are told, to be a lover of "hard likker." His employer prefers to take supplies out to him on the range rather than let him come into town, where he is likely to dissipate his earnings.

To us, one of the most interesting sights out here is a great herd of sheep being driven from one range to another.

"How many in that herd?" we ask idly.

"O, about . . . eleven . . . no, there are twelve hundred."

Has our informant really counted them, in that swift glance, or is he kidding the "dudeen"? But we understand when he tells us that one black sheep is placed in every herd for each hundred whites, as a counter. And here are twelve black ones.

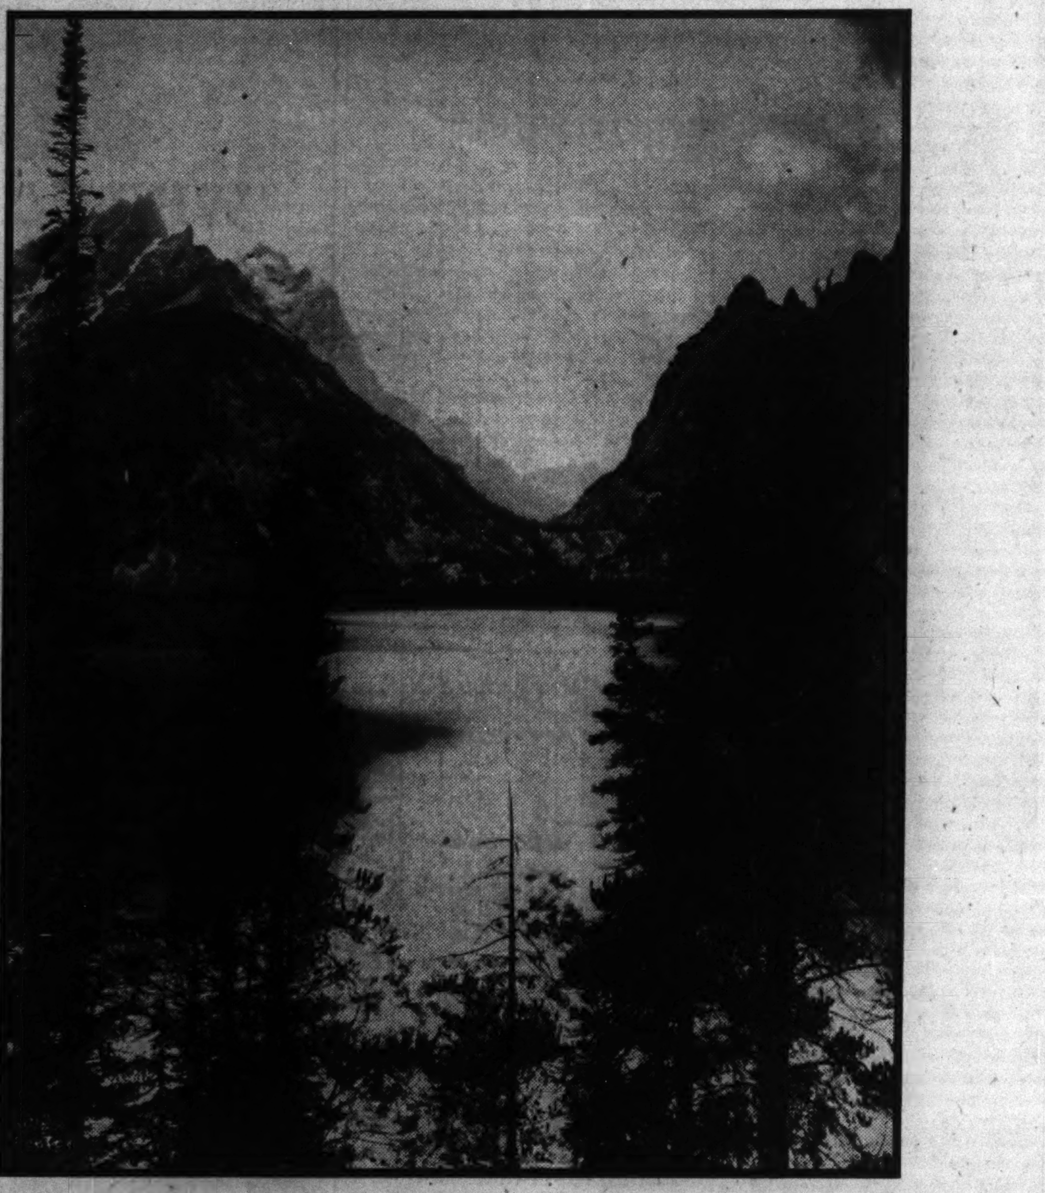
Visiting the Wind River Indian reservation, we find the Arapahoes and Shoshones, once deadly foes, living in peace together. The Indian cemetery here is an intriguing sight. Many a grave has had placed above it the most prized possession of its late owner—a metal bed. His relatives reason that, as he loved it in life, it will be a melancholy satisfaction to him to have it near in death. Visitors note that the deceased was a man of property. The custom seems to be a survival of the ancient habit of burying a brave's weapons with him, that he might be prepared for the next world.

In this cemetery near Lander is the grave of Sacajawea, heroic Indian woman who guided the Lewis and Clark expedition to the west. As we stand near the spot we remember a verse by Edna Dean Proctor:

Some day, in the lovely upland,
where the snow-fed streams divide,
A-foam for the far Atlantic; a-foam for Pacific's tide;
There, by the mighty captains, whose glory will never dim,
While the sun goes down to the Asian sea, and the stars in ether swim;
She will stand in bronze as richly brown as the hue of her girlish cheek,
With broidered robe and braided hair, and lips just curved to speak;
And the mountain winds will murmur, as they linger along the crest:
"Shoshone, Sacajawea, who led the way to the west."



TOWERING ABOVE A WESTERN WILDERNESS

The Teton mountains, in northwestern Wyoming, are regarded by many globetrotters as among the world's most majestic.

Hawaii Getting Tourist Crowds

HONOLULU, T. H.—Late summer holidays in Hawaii are proving attractive to an unusually large numbers of visitors because of the closing of travel routes in other parts of the world.

Sept. 1 is a territorial holiday, when the islanders celebrate regatta day, founded by the last reigning Polynesian monarch of Hawaii, King Kalakaua. There will be outrigger canoe races, outboard motor boat races, surf races, and sailboat races at America's naval base in Pearl harbor.

Indians Return to "Sky City" for a Festival

SANTA FE, N. M.—More than a 1,000 Indians will return to their old tribal home on St. Stephen's day, Sept. 2, to dance and celebrate fiesta.

From their farms, from jobs on the railroad and other places, the Acomas will stream up the narrow, rocky trail to their "Sky City" in western New Mexico.

Altho Old Acoma, which perches atop a sheer-sided mesa rising abruptly 400 feet from the surrounding plain, is nearly deserted now. Many Indians retain apartments at the ancient tribal home for this celebration.

Most of the Acomas now live at Acomita, a new pueblo 12 miles north of the Rock of Acoma. There they are closer to their fields and flocks, for they have been a sedentary and agrarian people since long before the coming of the white men.

When Francisco Vasquez de Coronado came to New Mexico in 1540, he found a village of 200 homes, ranging from two to four stories high, atop Acoma mesa. The conquistador was given a friendly welcome to the rocky citadel, but less than 60 years later these Indians staged a furious revolt against the Spaniards.

Acoma, said by many historians to be the oldest inhabited village in the United States, today ranks as one of New Mexico's best tourist attractions. Several members of the tribe remain at the pueblo to act as guides for visitors.

Perhaps the most unusual spectacle in the "Sky City" is the Mission church, built in 1629. This massive structure was hauled, piece by piece, from the plains below on the backs of patient Indians. It is the largest of the Franciscan missions in the southwest.

Found: A Cave That Hasn't a Single Legend!

By Alden Powell.

BLUE MOUNDS, WIS.

Horse thieves never used it for a hideaway. Bank robbers never made it a cache for their booty. No bear ever denned up in it for the winter. Indians never made it a base for ambush. As a matter of fact, not even the bats were in on the secret.

Such is Wisconsin's most recently discovered underground cavern. Its distinction in the family of caverns—a cave wholly without legend, romance, or invented adventure—is explained simply. Until a few months ago, when 5,000 tons of limestone were blasted from the quarry wall near here, no one even suspected the cavern existed.

Because it is on the C. I. Brigham farm and near Blue Mounds, it is named Brigham's Cave of the Mounds.

They were blasting to break out a new supply of stone for Dane county roads, and, when the dust of the blast had cleared away two black holes were revealed in the cliffside. Now more than 2,000 feet of vaults and passageways have been explored by geologists. One room is 350 feet long, with a 30 foot ceiling. A second level, 50 feet below the first, has been found and explored.

The cave was dissolved out of the rock formation [Galena limestone of the Silurian period] by many centuries of water action. Dripping water has made thousands of stalactites and their uprising counterparts, stalagmites.

One of the sights is a glistening onyx "waterfall." From a small hole in the wall near the ceiling several ribbons of black and white stone ripple down the wall—a formation reputed to be found nowhere else nearer than in Iceland.

The Cave of the Mounds—visited by more than 3,000 persons this summer—is easy to explore. There are board walks, railed stairways, electric lights. The temperature is constant the year round at 46.

Visitors like to drive to the top of nearby Blue Mounds, highest point in southern Wisconsin. From it there are magnificent views in all directions. Picnic facilities are here, and a swimming pool. A few miles east is Little Norway, the museum village on the site of Wisconsin's first Norwegian farm.

Blue Mounds is 25 miles west of Madison.

WHEN CITY FOLK TAKE TO THE HILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Guthrie of Chicago set out for a ride at a dude ranch near Livingston, Mont.

Trout Season Will Close on Labor Day

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Hard shell trout fishermen in Michigan are making their plans for Labor day, the last day of the season.

Those who have fished the Michigan streams for years say the sport has been better this year than in any of the last ten years.

Even tho the season is about to close, there are a number of specially designated lakes and streams in which one may go after trout until Dec. 1.

Lake Charlevoix is open for steelhead fishing until late fall.

Train-Automobile Service

• This newest boon to the vacation traveler eliminates long distance driving. You order the service when you buy your railroad ticket. A representative of the service will meet you at your destination when your train arrives and turn over the keys to a current model car which is entirely conventional in appearance, has no identifying signs of any kind. He hands you maps of the territory you want to motor thru, and you are on your way. In this way, you have a maximum number of days for motoring in your favorite part of the country. And you come home again without the tedium and strain of a long, hard drive. Train-Automobile Travel Service is becoming increasingly popular this summer.

• Consult the advertisments in the Travelers' Guide today, or let the Chicago Tribune Travel Bureau help you plan a combination rail and auto tour. This department of the Tribune Public Service Office can supply you with information about steamship, railroad, bus and plane travel, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours to any part of the world which interests you. Services are free. The Tribune Travel Bureau sells no tickets—gets no fee or commission from the sale of tickets. So feel free to call in person, write or telephone.

College Room Must Be Smart, but Practical

By Edith Weigle.

August sees a parade of fashions for college girls and this season a number of model rooms, planned especially for undergraduates, have been added to the style shows.

These rooms are, first of all, practical. They have the type of furniture, draperies, and bedspreads that can take it. There's nothing fussy or too feminine about them. They are smart, comfortable, and convenient.

If a small outlay is preferred unpainted pieces of furniture may be chosen. Those made of birch will give excellent service. Then, they may be done in any color to carry out any scheme desired. Or they can be finished in the light, natural tones of the wood.

Maple is always a favorite, in the finished types of furniture, for it is so sturdy and good looking. One attractive model room we saw recently was furnished in early American maple. Besides the bed there were a kneehole desk, a comfortable, upholstered chair, a chest of drawers and dressing table, and one or two side chairs.

On the floor was a particularly well chosen rug. It was reversible, an excellent feature, and it was woven of a mixture of linen and wool in such a way that it is almost impossible to injure it. Even dropping a lighted cigaret on it won't damage it. It was a tweedy brown in tone. The same make of rug is also available in dull blue and gray mixture and in beiges.

One of the clever tricks used in decorating this room was a little bulletin board hung on the wall near the desk, where the college girl could pin up her snapshots, or newspaper or magazine clippings, or whatever.

We also liked the bedspread of deep blue of a washable material similar to a heavy sheeting. It was trimmed in scarlet and was decorated with a large monogram in the center. Other color choices in the spread are combinations of brown and coral, and maroon and white. At the windows were draperies of the same material.

This room's slogan was "major in monogramania." There were monograms on just about everything: towels, garment bags, the bedspread, etc.

Another room on view was all done in light beige toned maple in the modern style. A huge white leatherette pouf or hassock served instead of a bench at the dressing table. Striped chintz made the draperies and bedspread.

A tried and true fabric, one that's been used for years by college girls and that is always enjoyed because it looks so well and wears so well, is natural colored monk's cloth. Bedspreads and couch covers made of monk's cloth will take four years' punishment without a murmur.

The photograph today shows a college room which is furnished in metal. The chest and desk are carried out in two colors: blue and mist gray. As both these tones are on the cold side, a third hue, a warm rose-pink, completes the color scheme and is to be found in the wallpaper, the chenille bedspread, and the oval rugs.

The draperies are a charming floral chintz, the pattern being in rose on a cream white ground. Ruffled white net curtains and white Venetian blinds complete the window treatment. The studio couch-bed is well supplied with pillows and makes a comfortable lounging place during the day.

Another college room equipped with enameled metal furniture has a regular bed instead of a studio couch. The chest of drawers is interesting and practical, because instead of the two top drawers there is simply an open space for books. There are four drawers beneath this open compartment and a simple, unframed mirror is hung on the wall above.

A plaid wallpaper is used in this room; the bedspread is chenille, and the draperies of tufted dot marquisette are hung under a swag valance.

Still another practical arrangement uses metal furniture made to look exactly like maple. The bed is of the popular spool type and a large table desk has book shelves at one end.

AT HOME IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Stewart G. Anderson, the former Marguerite Giraud, has come to Chicago as the bride of the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. Bernard Anderson of Chicago. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo George Giraud of Paris, France, and attended Dana Hall and the Katherine Gibbs school. Her marriage to Mr. Anderson, a graduate of Dartmouth and of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, took place this summer in San Francisco, Cal.

Concert Will Feature Week at Bar Harbor

The social highlight of the coming week is a benefit concert which Mme. Karin Branzell, Metropolitan opera contralto, will present at the Criterion theater Tuesday afternoon.

BAR HARBOR, ME.

Dr. Walter Damrosch, the noted dramatist-composer, will accompany the opera star. Eugene R. List, famed west coast pianist, will play several selections. Proceeds of the concert will go to the Bar Harbor branch of the American Red Cross. The patronesses for the affair include Mrs. Vance McCormick and Mrs. Potter Palmer, both of the Chicago colony. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller also is a patroness.

A large group of the summer colony of Mount Desert Island attended a nautical ball costume party which was held at the Bar Harbor club last night for the benefit of British relief. The affair was the outstanding social event of the Bar Harbor regatta, which was held this week-end. A large group of the Chicago summer colony took part.

The annual water sports carnival of the Bar Harbor club will be held next Saturday. A varied program of swimming and diving events are on the schedule. Mrs. Potter Palmer is a member of the committee for the event.

Mrs. Robert H. McCormick of Chicago arrived this week-end to be the house guest of Mrs. Harold A. Howard at Mossley Hall. Mrs. Howard is giving a dinner in her honor next week. Jarvis Hunt Jr., who is visiting Maj. George G. McMurtry at Bayview, participated in the annual men's tournament of the Kebo Valley Golf club this week. Mr. Hunt carded an 82 in the qualifying round, which was held Wednesday.

Baymeath, the estate of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, was among the many summer homes opened to the public this week-end for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Chauncey McCormick of Chicago and Seal Harbor, Mrs. Robert Hooper Stevenson of Boston, and George A. Garrett of Washington judged the prizes of the annual fancy dress ball which was held at the Bar Harbor club last week for the benefit of the Mount Desert Island hospital.

Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Bowen Blair, and Mrs. George R. Dean are visiting Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen at Baymeath. Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson entertained a large group at dinner recently.

Illinois Section of Woman's Party Lays Foundations

The Illinois division of the National Woman's party, which elected Mrs. Lorraine L. Blair chairman at an organization meeting Monday at Mandel Brothers store, already has laid the foundations for its campaign to gain congressional and popular support of the equal rights amendment.

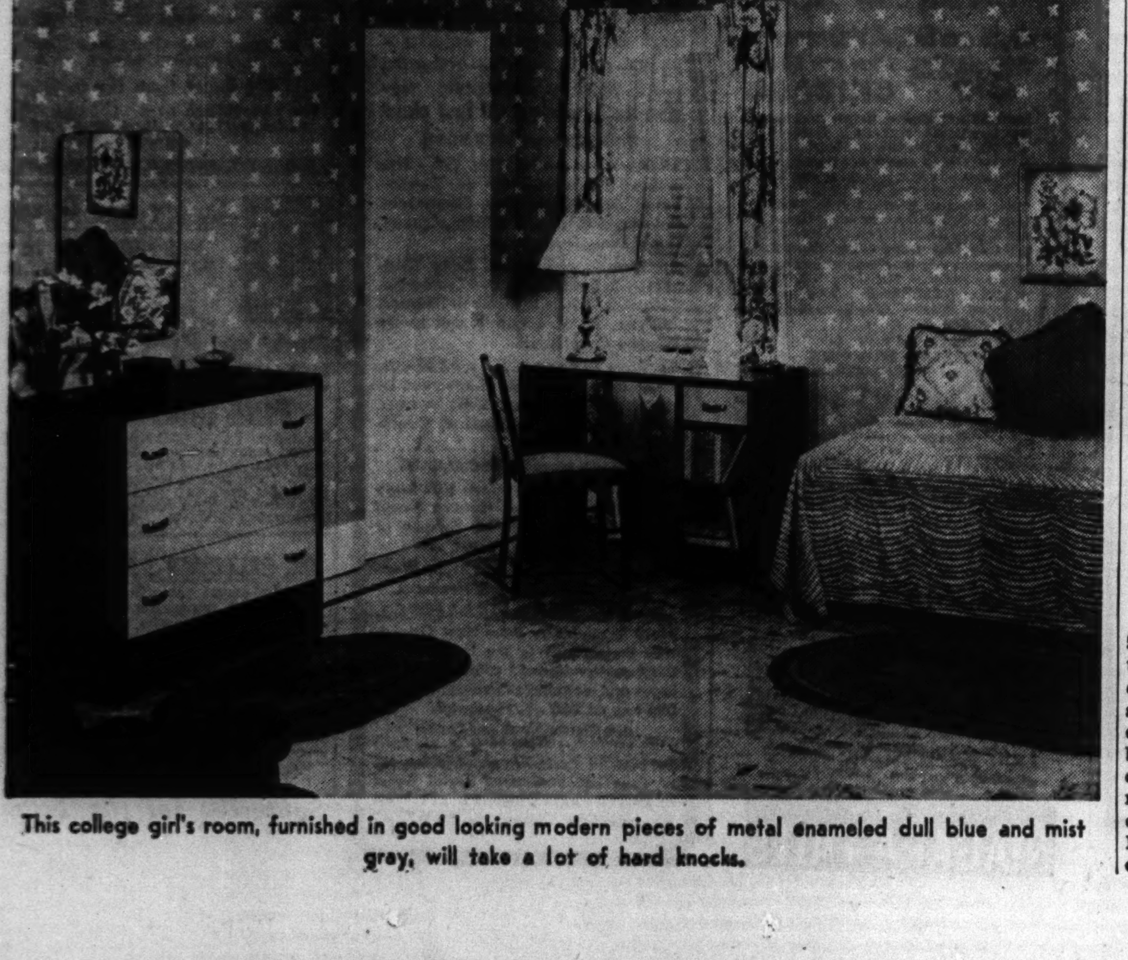
[Moffett Photo.]

Appointments to a number of key offices already have been made by Mrs. Blair, an insurance woman, who founded the Woman's Finance forum. Advisory committees of prominent men and women are in process of formation.

Mrs. Florence Juul, vice president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Chicago, has been appointed vice chairman. Mrs. Martha Laura Hughes of the Chicago Woman's Ideal club and the Edgemere Woman's club is recording secretary, and Mrs. Mark Wilson, president of the Chicago Office Supervisors' club, corresponding secretary.

Others appointed are Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen, medical advisor; Mrs. Cora E. Wright, president of the Oak Park real estate board and president of the West Area Business and Professional Women's club, public affairs; Mrs. Clara M. Kelley, former district director, Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Charles S. Robbins, organization contacts; Miss Maude E. Gray, insurance women contacts; Dr. Myrtle S. Farnsworth, president, Women's Finance forum, hospitality; Mrs. Helen E. Sunderland, head medical technologist, Cook County hospital, press.



This college girl's room, furnished in good looking modern pieces of metal enameled dull blue and mist gray, will take a lot of hard knocks.

Calendar Full of Cape Cod Social Events

By Mera Galloway.

CAPE COD, MASS.

The end of summer usually brings us a certain sad nostalgia for sunny, carefree days. There is some compensation in the finis of vacation time for summer colonists at Wianno and at the neighboring resorts on Cape Cod because the most eagerly anticipated social affairs of the season are crowded into these last two weeks. After the mid-August doldrums during which time every one's interest is centered in being able to slash down their serves on the tennis courts and whittle down their scores on the golf links rather than in strictly social occasions, the calendar for the next week fairly blossoms with more effete events.

Prominent Chicago names appear on the patroness list for the fashion show presented each year at the Wianno club for the benefit of local charities by Mrs. Gould Newell of Boston. This year the affair will be held on Thursday evening at 9 o'clock in the spacious club ballroom overlooking Nantucket sound. It will be preceded by a number of dinner parties at the club and a featured entertainment of the evening will be a recital by Miss Barbara Horne, soloist of the Philadelphia Opera company.

Among the Chicagoans assisting Mrs. Newell are Mrs. Duncan H. Brown, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, and Mrs. Eugene Kimbark's daughter, Mrs. Norman A. MacColl of Providence, R. I. Mrs. MacColl and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Kimbark, have been spending much of their time on the Wianno club tennis courts recently, playing in the annual club championship tournament. The David Dangler's daughter, Nancy, has been coming over from their summer home at Oyster Harbors for this event and other participants have been Betty Vilas and Mary Motter of Chicago.

The J. Robertson MacColls have returned to their Wianno residence for the rest of the summer after a trip to the west coast. A visit at Coronado replaced their intended sojourn at Honolulu after Mr. MacColl had to undergo an appendectomy in Los Angeles.

Golf has been as popular as tennis at Wianno these last few weeks and the Wianno club women's championship was won recently by Miss Caroline Crossett, daughter of the Edward C. Crossetts. Miss Crossett also won low medal play with a score of 81. Another of the Crossetts' daughters, Mrs. Edward S. French, and her little boys, "Biff" and "Bang," are at a ranch in Wyoming after a visit here. The Frenches spent last year at Crossett, Ark., but they will be back with their Chicago friends this winter, for they have taken a house in Wheaton.

The first important event on this week's full schedule at Wianno is the opening night performance Tuesday evening of the popular comedy "spring dance" which is being given by some of the younger members of the Cape summer set for the benefit of the American Red Cross and other local charities. Herbert Cameron Morris Jr. is directing the play and for the leading rôles he has chosen Miss Barbara Walker and Sandy Ellis. The production also will be presented Wednesday and Thursday at the Mary Young theater in Centerville. Mr. and Mrs. Crossett and Mrs. Robert M. Roloson are the Chicago names on the roster of patrons and patronesses for this affair.

Because of the play, the final dancing contest climaxing those held at every midweek party thruout the summer has been postponed from its usual date on the Wednesday before Labor day to Friday evening. Entrants in this grand contest will be the winners of previous contests this year. Trying her skill at one of the rhumba contests recently was Mrs. Wheeler, wearing a stunning black gown encrusted with white shell flowers. In the same party was Mrs. Vilas, in a regal gown of purple lace, and Mrs. Kimbark.

For the last few days the Wheelers have been with the Wentworth P. MacKenzies, who recently gave a dinner party at the Wianno club for the Duncan Brownes. Another dinner party hostess that evening was Mrs. Charles C. Adsit, who is vacationing at East Bay Lodge in Wianno.

The colony at Hyannisport is missing Mrs. William France Anderson for two weeks while she visits friends on the north shore of Boston. Last week she was the guest of Mrs. Joseph Leiter at Beverly Farms and this week she is with the Boyer Millers at South Hamilton. Miss Harriet McLaughlin, who with her mother, Mrs. George McLaughlin, is summering at Hyannisport, recently entertained Mrs. John Elliott, the former Janet Pauling, who is staying at Pocassett.

The largest and most anticipated dance of the season is the fancy dress ball which will be held at the Wianno club next Saturday night, traditionally on the last Saturday before Labor day. This year—observing the strong trend toward Americanism sweeping all customs, costumes and courses of life in this country—the ball will be called "America First." The decorations will follow the patriotic motif and the fancy dresses will be inspired by American history.

Paul Kruger's Home Recalls Great Career

By Mason Warner.

PRETORIA, TRANSVAAL, SOUTH AFRICA.

The 45 mile motor drive from Johannesburg to Pretoria was one of pleasure unalloyed. It seemed unbelievable that all the trees and shrubbery that lined the highway were planted less than 50 years ago on what was formerly barren wasteland. The road was bordered on both sides by alternating rows of pine, eucalyptus, oak, palm, and gorgeous jacaranda trees.

Pretoria is one of the three capitals of the Union of South Africa. The parliament meets at Cape Town to make laws for the nation; the high, or supreme, court sits at Bloemfontein for final decision in judicial affairs, while the seat of administrative government is here.

The government buildings, with extensive three storied wings, have a grand setting, backed up against a handsome and gracious hill, with the residential section lying before and below it. The grounds are gracefully and bonnily landscaped. The buildings are erected in a semicircle, and so well proportioned that their immense measurements are lost in the ensemble. The view from the front terrace yields a satisfying panorama of the city, and on distant kopjes can be discerned remnants of the chain of 12 forts that encircled and protected Pretoria in the days when it was the capital of the Boer Transvaal.

We have enjoyed every hour of our brief stay. Aside from the government buildings there are the railway station, Church square, the city hall, museums, and markets that are out of the ordinary.

The residence of the governor general of the union is possibly the finest mansion occupied by any such official of the British empire the world over. The entrance to the front lawn is like that to a public park, but the house, while large, is simple and elegant rather than magnificent.

The mint was a disappointment. Here was the money making factory of the greatest gold producing country in the world, but the coin stamping machines were idle. Instead the printing presses were running full blast, turning out paper currency.

Paul Kruger's home is now a museum. No question about it, Oom Paul was one of the world's great men. From the time he was elected president of the South African republic in 1883 until he went to the Netherlands at the close of the Boer war in 1900, he was a national leader. When he died in Switzerland in 1904, the republics, kingdoms, and empires of the world marked his passing in a fitting way. In his old house today are displayed gold, silver, and bronze funeral wreaths and plaques from Europe, Asia, and the Americas, expressing the esteem in which he was held.

Kruger designed and built the house and conducted his affairs and the affairs of state from there. It has been a museum since 1935. It was looted by British soldiers at the end of the Boer war, but a world-wide appeal was made for the return of furnishings, relics, and mementoes, and seldom a week passes that no items are received in response to that appeal. It seems odd to hear the curator say, "We just got this two weeks ago," or "This was returned a month ago from England," or Amsterdam, or Rome, as the case might be. Oom Paul's pipes and Bibles, his razors, and even his top hats and shirts are there, with the furniture and utensils used in former days.

Kruger was a mighty hunter. He shot his first lion when he was only 14 years old. He killed rhinos, elephants, buffalo, and leopards [called tigers in Africa] by the score. Once his gun exploded while hunting, and he amputated his own thumb because septic poison threatened his hand. The knife with which he did it is here in the museum. The wound took six months to heal, but he was out in the field again long before it healed.

Oom Paul received official visitors, held court, and dispensed justice seated on his front "stoep" or porch ina highbacked chair, top hat on his head, long pipe in hand. His simple dignity was never ruffled.

He had a caustic wit. A story is told of a rich farmer who was trying to get a good government job for his son. "Too bad," said Oom Paul, "all the higher posts are filled—and your son is not clever enough to be a clerk."

In a recent motion picture depicting the history of South Africa there is a scene that illustrates his Solomon-like wisdom when acting as a magistrate. Before him seated on his stoep at 6 a. m.—a favorite hour of his for holding audiences—appeared two young farmers who had a dispute as to the division of the farm which their father had left them.

The farmer had stipulated that the elder son should divide the property, giving an equal share to each. The younger one contended that, while the shares were alike in acreage, the elder one's half had all the water and the part allotted to him was of little value.

Suddenly Kruger asked which brother was the elder. Piet said he was. "Good," said the president. "Go now both back to your farm. And you, Piet, make the division—and give your brother first choice of the portion he will take."

In spite of the fact that the number of anglers on Quebec's lakes and streams increases each year, the fish population in French Canada keeps growing. Government hatcheries keep the waters well stocked.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcome. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

THE READERS' EXCHANGE.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 19.—To the Travel Editor: Last February I wrote you to ask if any of your readers could advise me about a proposed trip to Alaska. It was marvelous the way the readers responded.

I left Des Moines last June, drove to Seattle, and then went via the liner Princess Alice to Skagway. Thanks to those who told me that the best side trip was the one to Ben-My-Chree, I made that journey, and it was wonderful.

I don't feel I can adequately describe what I saw up north. I wish up I could think of nice words to write, but I don't seem to be any good at that sort of thing. It was a grand strip—thanks to the many suggestions I received.

Now I read in "The Voice of the Traveler" that Mrs. W. K. of Park Ridge, Ill., wishes information on a similar trip. Please tell her that if she'll write me at 1513 Dean avenue, Des Moines, I'll be glad to pass on to her what I saw and enjoyed—the things your readers told me to see and do.

MARGARET C. WITHERELL.

ANOTHER OFFER.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—To the Travel Editor: I have made the Alaska trip, and might be able to give Mrs. W. K. the information she seeks. She can write me at 53 North avenue. MRS. C. A. FELT.

NO MORE SUFFERING.

Waterloo, Ia., Aug. 19.—To the Travel Editor: Several weeks ago you published the name of A. J. Fisher, Detention hospital, Waterloo, in your shut-in list, and he received many beautiful cards and letters.

Please advise those who so kindly responded, and any others who might be interested, that Mr. Fisher has since passed away.

[MRS.] FREDA MCCORMICK.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Travelers and other Tribune readers are invited to send cards or letters to persons unable to share in the wonders of travel. These requests were received last week:

Mrs. Louise Koster, 3129 North Christiana avenue, Chicago. [Ill for 20 years, Mrs. Koster is now confined to her wheel chair, and is alone all day. She is 68 years old. Her special interests are religious pictures and postcards.]

Hazel Rand, 2914 Mildred avenue, Chicago. [Miss Rand is a victim of arthritis.]

Mrs. Helen Livingston, Municipal sanitarium, Rockford, Ill. [The mother of three children, Mrs. Livingston makes a hobby of collecting all kinds of postcards.]

Nita Altenbein, Municipal sanitarium, Rockford, Ill. [Miss Altenbein, 25 years old, would like to receive picture postcards and "anything of interest in regard to travel."]

Helena Kasey, J. O. Parramore hospital, Crown Point, Ind. [Miss Kasey would like to hear from travelers and from any one else who might care to write her.]

Mrs. Jessie Nelson, 6638 Stewart avenue, Chicago. [Mrs. Nelson, hopelessly crippled with arthritis, has been confined to her bed for two years. She is unable to answer letters, as she cannot use her hands.]

Mrs. Emily Randal, R. F. D. No. 1, McComb, O. [Mrs. Randal, 88 years old, has been laid up for the last two years as a result of a broken hip.]

Bad News for Moose.

Canadian ruling that bona fide American tourists can take their hunting gear to the dominion this fall is bad news for Quebec's moose. Earlier reports were that firearms would be forgotten this year, but that order has been rescinded, and it is expected that sportsmen will again invade the province in large numbers.

Life Is Casual in Wisconsin's North Woods

By Anson Brown.

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, WIS.

A far cry from the Caribbean, this—with palm trees superseded by fir and cedar, with the heat of the day now gone and the coolness of the north in its stead, with the brilliance of the stars faded by the nightly display of northern lights. A far cry, yes, but it is more like a restful song. There's a wind in the pines; there's a peacefulness in the calm of the many lakes.

North the trail has led me and my aging car. It rained at Lake Geneva, there was a dead possum on the road beyond Madison, and before I arrived at Wausau there was a sign near an intersection: "Danger, Men Working." Some one had crossed out the "Danger" and replaced it with "Hurrah." Then I began to notice the odor of pine, and the whiteness of the birches like tall picket fences.

It's a clean country, this Wisconsin. There's something about the air that makes you want to let the beard grow. The life is casual once more. So are the clothes, the conversations, and the people. Did some one mention something about a war? Somewhere I did hear about that, but it's almost forgotten now.

Yesterday I stole in [for 15 cents] to the Indian pow-wow held nightly here on the Flambeau reservation. I saw flaming torches, and a fire in the center of the council ring. The older squaws in their fatness shuffled easily to the beat of the tomtoms. The young braves, some chewing gum, one smoking a cigaret, had a bit more "swing" to their tribal dances than their forefathers must have had.

Our amphitheater was among towering virgin timber. The shadows from the figures danced up the trees until they were lost in the high branches. The drums beat ceaselessly for two hours. We visitors from the pavements thrilled to the ceremonies which the Indians had used many years ago, when Wisconsin was their country, and high test gasoline was still buried beneath the plains of Oklahoma.

There is always something to do up here, something a bit different from what one finds in the normal run of life. One day it was muskie fishing on Boulton lake, another day a camping trip by canoe to Strawberry point. But there was one experience which I'll never get over. That was shooting some 20 miles of rapids by canoe from Turtle dam to Park Falls.

Johnny Foster, one of the dancers in the pow-wow at Lac du Flambeau, Wis.

Bill and Butch talked me into it. We drove 28 miles to the Flambeau flowage, with the canoe on the top of my groaning car. One of the Indian boys took the auto, to meet us hours later at Park Falls.

I hadn't dared to bring my camera, for we expected to capsize at least twice before the day was finished. We had only two canteens, and a few sandwiches sealed in a tin. The spot where we put in was as desolate as any part of the bayou swamps of Louisiana, for Turtle dam had made a lake of forests and there were great stumps of trees projecting from the murky water all around us. We were to follow the current for an hour until we spotted an eagle's nest. The dam would then be not far to our right.

All went well as we pushed thru the rotted forest. We saw two blue herons. The haunting cry of the loon echoed every few minutes. Often, tho, there would be an eerie silence. Only the splash of the two paddles rippling thru the dank water told us that this was not from some strange dream.

Then we came to the steep dam and portaged to the roaring waters far below. Things began to happen after that. We hadn't been in the turbulent water thirty seconds before we hit our first rapids. Quickly we were picked up and with a roar shot ahead at about 15 miles an hour. Bill steered frantically in the stern while I guarded the bow for any boulders or "deadheads" [floating logs]. One contact with either of these and our canoe would be in shreds. We were almost lifted ahead. We went like a bullet over a ledge of rock and dropped two feet into more roaring torrents. The water poured in as the bow momentarily went completely under.

After that first shock it became more like a picnic. Butch was sitting on the bottom of the canoe amidships, with water lapping around his knees. Our tin of food floated around him. At the first calm we pushed ashore and dumped the water. To no avail. Another drop a few minutes later, with water shooting in over the bow. This time even my hair got soaked.

Fear at this point would be an idiotic reaction. The shore on both sides of us was only a few feet away. Bill began to sing "Shadrach" at the top of his off-key lungs. We tore past huge lumps of rock, following and fighting with the current, making split second decisions as to which eddy, which torrent to follow.

We had a glimpse of a beaver dam in a side stream. There were huge flocks of wild ducks around every other bend. They rose with great whirrs as we almost ran them down. We saw a baldheaded eagle settle down in a tall dead pine. A doe and a buck crashed into the wilderness as our race brought us upon them.

In three hours it was all over. We hadn't capsized, but each of us was dripping as we floated past a busy sawmill into Park Falls. The canoe was still intact. So were we.

This Wisconsin country has something!

Modern Tempo Hasn't Yet Hit Ancient Capital

By Rutherford Charlton.

Merida, Yucatan's ancient capital, is a pleasing discovery for those who seek forgotten corners of the world where strange old customs still exist and where the modern tempo does not yet hold sway.

Our wanderings thru this quaint city were like miniature voyages of exploration on strange seas. The sun was usually slanting over the flat roofs at an acute angle as we left the hotel; it was claiming the western side of the street for its own. It was our custom to remain on this side to get the benefit of the ultra violet, beating a retreat to the shady side after the elapse of about five minutes, when the violet became too "ultra"—as was its custom.

The cool side of the street was always the busiest, and, as 9 a. m. found most of the populace deep in the comings and goings of their daily routine, we never lacked company and diversion.

Preceding us by a few paces, a man walked companionably with a large hog. Another man hustled along with a big pile of green leaved laurel branches resting on his head and sagging down over his shoulders, so that he resembled a migratory shade tree. These laurel leaves, we were told, would be used as a wrapping for bread to be baked over a charcoal fire.

Women passed with stately gait, bearing on their heads baskets of fruits and coconuts, trays of cakes, and pans of tortilla dough. Small boys dashed here and there, petitioning every one to buy state and national lottery tickets, which they presented to prospective customers in long green and yellow streamers.

Along the street flowed the usual high tide of vehicles, more noisy than colorful—that is, except for that group of miracle men known as the pan dulce boys.

This pan dulce [cookies and rolls] is delivered about town in great round tin containers, three feet across at the bottom and 18 inches deep, with a tall conical cover, by boys on bicycles. The boys carry their entire stock in trade on their heads, with no other equipment than a remarkable sense of balance. Starting out, one of them mounts his bicycle, places the receptacle on his head, and, using one hand to steer and the other to steady the load, gives a gentle shove with his foot, and is off. Moving out into the heavy traffic, he devotes both hands to the bars—or even rides "no hands"—pedalling rapidly down the street, a perfect example of equanimity and aplomb.

One morning one had happened to be gilding the lily by carrying an additional burden of two trussed turkeys around his neck.

On the way to the central plaze we paused frequently at the open doorways of the numerous small shops. Most of these places served a triple duty: the workers lived in the back rooms, manufactured their product in the shop in front, and finally retailed it from showcases in the doorway. Every one looked busy, and singularly happy and carefree, as they talked and sang at their work, with the sun streaming in the open door.

The Plaza Grande in midmorning was always pleasantly alive with leisurely activity. Usually at least one medicine show, well attended, could be seen somewhere about the square. The enterprise was baited with a smooth talking spieler giving a performance in magic and comedy, often with the aid of a Negro stooge who grimaced, gesticulated, and chattered Spanish almost as well as his master. On the benches under the big old ramone and laurel trees scores of citizens gathered daily to talk, read their papers, transact business, or merely to gaze benignly on the rest of the world passing by in the bright sunshine.

In all this multitude of resting gentry some must have been unemployed; yet neither dirt nor untidiness was to be seen. All were clean and presentable in their white pajama-like suits, large sombreros, and sandals.

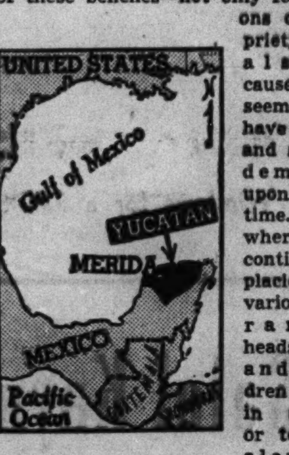
The women seldom lounged on any of these benches—not only for reasons of propriety, but also because they seemed to have more and sterner demands upon their time. Everywhere they continued placidly on various errands, heads laden, and children slung in scarves or toddling along at their sides, seemingly unmindful of the sharp contrast between their lot and that of the men.



Droves of bootblacks plied their trade thru the square. All were well patronized, for having one's shoes shined assumes the proportions of a minor outdoor sport here. Momentary occupation of a bench is enough to cause the convergence of a great number of the alert little fellows, and, even tho your shoes have been done only five minutes before and glitter like diamonds, the boys will still solicit your business.

Most of them spoke no English, but one or two could say: "Hollow, meester—shine?—makum berry white —fine—g o o d—goodby." Sometimes they would get goodby mixed up with hello, but at any rate they used their English for all it was worth. Most of the people were surprisingly good natured in the face of this constant petitioning and seldom showed annoyance. But as time wore on it became increasingly easy to see why so many of the more economical gentlemen who sat much in the plazas wore sandals.

With the approach of noon a lull crept over the city. Many of the shops and offices closed their doors, and the majority of employés prepared to go home for lunch and siesta, which would last until 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In fact, some of the help in the more conservative houses had already been gone an hour. So the blazing eye of the midday sun saw only a few stragglers of the throng that had but lately crowded the thorofares.

Under the multiple arches of the government building the heavily armed sentries continued to pace the stretch in front of the doorway. But the tempo of their tread on the stone concourse grew slower and slower, and the pause at each about face grew longer and longer. The somnolent spell of siesta time had fallen upon the city. Even the carruajes, those busy little Spanish hansom cabs, came under the spell. As the sun focused its perpendicular attention on the streets, most of the carriages could be seen lined up in the deep shade of the ramone trees around the Little Plaza, drivers recumbent on the high seats, feet on dashboards, and sombreros tipped over their eyes. Nearly everybody was dozing away the noontide.

At this point, laden with the results of a morning in the market, we made haste to hail one of the carruajes still in action, tell the driver the name of the hotel, and settle back to jog comfortably, thru the bright streets, to the inviting coolness of the hotel patio.

IN THE CENTRAL AMERICAN HIGHLANDS

It's many a mile across Lake Atitlan to the nearest market, where these Guatemalan Indians will try to sell their handmade goods.

Tempo Increases Around Traverse

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—As crickets tune up their fall fiddles and the heavy dews of late August presage the end of another summer season, the tempo of Grand Traverse vacation spots grows faster.

Among other activities is trolling for Mackinaw trout in Grand Traverse bay. Regardless of weather, every day sees the reefs of the bay dotted with boats. The big lake trout, true to form, are more willing to frolic with the fishermen after the "dog days" are gone, and more and bigger ones are being caught than at any time earlier in the season.

Another type of recreation is canoeing on the streams of the region. The trips from Frederic down the Big Manistee and from the Forks of the Boardman are popular. One may shorten the Manistee river trip by putting in at the M-66 crossing, or even Walton, and going down to Baxter or Sherman.

Donald Duck, Native Drivers Put on a Show

By Frederic Babcock.

PANAJACHEL, GUATEMALA.

Dusk is settling over Lake Atitlan. The lights in the toy villages along the shore are beginning to come on. The wind, which whips up the waves each afternoon, has died down. The scene, as we view it from our window at the Hotel Tzanjuyu, is one of unworldly beauty.

A knock on the door snaps us out of our reverie. A barefooted Indian youth enters. He is the same one who has been serving us in the dining room. Here, it appears, the waiters are also the chambermaids. He speaks one word, "flitta," and proceeds to spray the room against the possible encroaching of mosquitoes.

We go down to dinner. On the veranda we encounter the hotel manager and his tame duck. The duck—named, of course, "Donald"—follows him around like Mary's lamb. The manager sits down to the piano in the main lounge, pounds out a tune, and Donald quacks something that might resemble that tune. If anybody else approaches, the duck waddles away. He is loyal to the manager only.

We are told that Donald was not always that way. In his youth he was wild, and given to roaming. He flew up here to the highlands all the way from the Pacific lowlands. But, once here, he decided to settle down for life. [For which you can hardly blame him.] He gets plenty of food, and he has a good home. Each morning he flies out onto the lake and catches his quota of fish. Each evening he is ready to join in the hilarity.

This hilarity begins immediately after dinner—served in a glass-enclosed room overhanging the lake. The duck and his boss put on another duet at the piano, and then the drivers, who have brought in the day's supply of tourists, move in. The trip over the mountains from Chichicastenango or Antigua or Guatemala City has been long and a trifle nerve-wracking, and so the drivers relax. They do it by singing and dancing and cavorting until along about midnight. That is their idea of taking it easy.

Native songs, the words of which can only be guessed at, come out in a surprising flow of harmony. Native dances, esthetic and otherwise, are put on with real showmanship. The guests shout for more. They want particularly to hear the songs with which they are more or less familiar. "Rancho Grande" is the current favorite. No night club back in Chicago was ever like this.

We leave the lounge and stroll thru the hotel's front yard. The whole yard, along the waterfront, is a mass of flowers and tropical plants and ancient arches. They look ghostly in the moonlight. The three volcanoes across the lake are still to be seen, but everything else is lost in the darkness. The village lights have long since been extinguished.

The music indoors gives way to the noises of the night outdoors. Bullfrogs croak; insects buzz; strange, tiny creatures in bushes and trees join in the symphony. The surf is pounding in a subdued way. Two Indian fishermen, long overdue in the home port, glide by noiselessly in a homemade, crude looking canoe.

Such is an evening in this Central American paradise.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

When does the New York World's Fair close? R. K. A.

Oct. 27.

How long will the hotels and lodges in Yellowstone National park remain open? A. S. M.

They usually close about the middle of September.

Is it true that Canada has a city named London and that it's on the Thames river? E. Y.

Yes. The city of 75,000 is situated in Middlesex county, Ontario. It has a Queen's park, a Victoria park, and a Thames park.

What can you tell me about the salmon Derby held at Astoria, Ore.? J. G.

The Derby is held annually at the mouth of the Columbia river, called the world's greatest Royal Chinook salmon stream. Each day the contestant who boats the biggest fish walks away with a $100 bill, and the one who catches the biggest specimen in the course of the week is awarded a new auto. Last year 300 boats participated. This year's dates are Aug. 27 to Sept. 2, inclusive. Those wishing to enter the contest may obtain further information by writing the travel department of the state highway commission at Salem, Ore.

Is it still possible to fly from this country to the British Isles? If so, over what route? —S. K.

Yes. Pan-American planes leave New York for Lisbon, Portugal, where passengers board British Overseas Airways planes for an unannounced terminal in England. The British company, successor to Imperial Airways, is not accepting trans-Atlantic bookings at this time. The American Export Airlines is starting a service between New York and Lisbon.

What is the longest regular Pullman car run in this country?—A. J.

From San Francisco to New Orleans, a distance of 2,492 miles.

Make-Them-Yourself Styles Good Lesson in Living Within a Budget

By CAROLYN RAMEY

IN JUST ABOUT the time it takes to flick a page in the nearest textbook another campus year will monopolize the calendar for the younger set. The greatest problem is not which curriculum but which clothes! Today's assortment of make-them-yourself modes is varied, as is college life itself.

No. T-8669, slim as a whistle, for "dates" or classroom, the princess of any wardrobe, with high pockets and button front, designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8687, a "smoothie" of a pocket frock that will win masculine approval from all sides. It's feminine and sophisticated and designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8657 has soft shirring in the right places and lends a sleek and lovely line. It's a perfect background frock and is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8685 follows the fashion lead and adopts the new "sidesaddle" drapery effect. This pretty "date" dress is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8677 goes in for bright color, the young girl's prerogative, and it swathes her beautiful tresses in an attached hood. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8666 unites a one-piece dress with a contrasting jacket, achieving at once tailored simplicity and semiformal dressiness. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8644, at the far left, offers a jerkin of leather or wool for your sweaters and blouses, and a debonair pork pie hat. For requirements see pattern envelope.

No. T-8662 makes a school wardrobe complete. This sophisticated jumper frock has side buttoning and a huge pocket. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8659 suggests two shades of one color for a classic shirtwaist dress every professor will approve for its unobtrusiveness. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8668 is another shirtwaist frock, this time with smart fly-front closing and an efficient, trim appearance. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8643 is a "shorty" coat, hooded, with mittens to match the lining, and is virtually indispensable for campus winters. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8642 creates an extra skirt which will make a difference in your budget. A shirt blouse pattern is included, too. Designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. T-8637 is a two-piece suit that promotes the plaid woolen fashion. This costume fits superbly, and is it practical! Sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 bust measurements.

No. T-8683, in one convenient, adaptable head size, fashions three smart hats: A pompadour pillbox, an off-the-face beret, and a casual "beanie" for your sport things.

Each pattern costs 15 cents.

Musical Comedy Will Open Fall Drama Season Sept. 2

5 Productions Scheduled for Loop Theaters

By Cecil Smith.

For the moment the loop legitimate theater is right back where it was in June—with "Life with Father" smashing along triumphantly at the Blackstone theater, and not a single other house lighted in the downtown sector.

But this state of affairs obtains only during this coming week. The fall season is virtually upon us. "Too Many Girls," one of the three or four top ranking musicals of last season in New York, takes over the Grand Opera house [vacated by Al Jolson's departure last night] on Monday, Sept. 2. A week later "The Male Animal," a gay and slightly wacky comedy by James Thurber and Elliott Nugent, comes to the Selwyn, a theater which has been untenanted since Tallulah Bankhead in "The Little Foxes" closed its run on June 1. And by the first of October, from all present indications, at least five shows ought to be in town.

George Abbott, who produced "Too Many Girls," believes in youth and freshness and speed. He dislikes all that is hammy and bromidic in stage entertainment. No Abbott show that has ever visited Chicago has been dull or tedious or routined. Accordingly, altho I have not seen "Too Many Girls," I feel justified in hailing its impending advent as a cheerful and promising occasion.

Two young women, both known to Chicago, play leading parts in the musical comedy. One, Marcy Wescott, darted off to New York and stardom [most notably in "The Boys from Syracuse," which did not tour], almost before her charm of voice and person had been discovered by those who heard her in the studio of her aunt, Mme. Hanna Butler, prominent Chicago vocal teacher. The other, Mary Jane Walsh, appeared here in night clubs and over W-G-N before the Sam H. Harris office found her and cast her in George M. Cohan's "I'd Rather Be Right." [She did not come here in it: her rôle was taken by Marie Nash, who has subsequently attained feature billing as a replacement for Marta Eggert in "Higher and Higher."]

Another of the important stars of "Too Many Girls" is Hal LeRoy. If you are compiling a list of the best dancers in the American theater you must include Ray Bolger and Fred Astaire and Paul Draper and Paul Haakon and Bill Robinson, but you must not omit the name of Hal LeRoy. Chicago saw him first as a gangling but infinitely gifted 18 year old in the "Ziegfeld Follies" of 1931, when his name was already billed just under those of Harry Richman and Helen Morgan. In the last few years he has divided his time between vaudeville and motion pictures, having appeared in some two dozen films. Like Ray Bolger, he is a natural and instinctive dancer. He claims never to have taken a dancing lesson in his life.

For all his infectious vitality, Hal LeRoy is scarcely the glamor boy type. This more decorative function is performed in "Too Many Girls" by Desi Arnaz, a young Cuban with a conga drum, who evidently provides the customers with something more satisfactory than mere surface beauty. Desi, whose real name is Desiderio, is the son of the one time mayor of Santiago, Cuba—who may, for all I know, be mayor again now, considering the rapidity of political change on the strong-minded island. The young dancer and drummer came to Miami five years ago with his family when a shift in party power in Cuba forced the senior Arnaz to leave the country. Within less than five years Desi Arnaz, on the strength of his singing, dancing, and drumming, has worked his way up thru the haunts of Manhattan café society to the musical stage.

These are some of the people who kept "Too Many Girls" in New York from October to May. They, and their associates, are provided with costumes by Raoul Pène du Bois, dance routines by Robert Alton, and songs by Rodgers and Hart—all top craftsmen of the present day musical comedy field.

"Life with Father" is in its seventh month at the Blackstone theater now. The opening date was Feb. 19, in case you had forgotten. With her injured foot restored to its normal state, Virgilia Chew is back in her rôle of Cousin Cora. Margaret Randall, her understudy, has returned to the part of Annie, the first maid.

Baltimore, Md., will entertain its third company of "Life with Father" when the Boston company—with Dorothy Gish as Vinnie and Stanley Ridges as Father Day—tries out there during the week of Sept. 23. Both the original New York company and the Chicago cast played out of town weeks there before their metropolitan openings. Our Chicago company, by the way, will give an extra matinée on Labor day, Monday, Sept. 2.

• • •

Present indications are that "Ladies in Retirement," the thrilling and flawlessly acted melodrama with Flora Robson and Estelle Winwood, will arrive at the Harris theater on Monday, Sept. 30. This will be the first subscription offering of the Theater Guild and American Theater society. With the brilliant New York cast unchanged, the play opened a fortnight's engagement in Los Angeles last Monday. It moves to San Francisco Sept. 2, and will remain there two weeks before moving in our direction.

The trouble with this uncertain season of the year is that predictions and promises often have to be taken back almost as soon as they are made. One recent prediction is herewith retracted. "Higher and Higher," the Dwight Deere Wiman musical with Jack Haley and Sharkey, the trained seal, will not four. Business in New York since its reopening early in August has not been encouraging.

We just can't keep John Barrymore out of this column. Now the latest word is that he will go back to Hollywood for some retakes of "The Great Profile," which needs revision after its sneak preview. But we still hear rumblings to the effect that the Profile will bring "My Dear Children" back to Chicago on or about Sept. 30—two weeks later than the original rumor indicated.

Posters advertising plays that have already closed — "dead billing," in trade parlance—are cluttering up the city and, no doubt, causing confusion in the minds of theatrical customers. Within a few hundred feet of the Harris theater, where the alley running beside the theater empties into Clark street, a three sheet still announces "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which closed June 1. Illinois Central patrons can also see this play advertised alongside the tracks; also "Springtime for Henry" [nearly washed and blown away now, since the Edward Everett Horton comedy left Chicago Jan. 6], and the circus, which was here in July, and the movie, "French Without Tears," which opened the Studio theater many weeks ago. Since the Al Jolson show closed only last night, it is too early to predict how long we shall continue to see its bills on the brick walls and fences. If it is good business to smear the urban landscape with these posters it ought also to be good business to take them down when they have outlived their usefulness. The theater managers will observe that I have not brought questions of art or civic neatness into this discussion at all.

Sil-Vara's middle European comedy, "Caprice," performed by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in 1929, is being revived tonight and tomorrow night and this afternoon at 2:30 at the Steinmann theater, 1706 East 79th street. A number of radio actors are in the cast. Mary Meagher is the director.

For some reason Philip Barry heads the list of playwrights represented in other summer theater productions this week. Three of his excellent and highly cultivated plays are listed. The Belfry Players at Williams Bay are giving "The Petrified Forest" all week. "Holiday" will be presented Wednesday and Friday at Elkhart Lake, Wis. In Oak Park on Thursday and Friday the Pastime Players finish their season with "Hotel Universe."

Two unusual plays, one new and one almost new, will be offered up north on the Door county peninsula, beyond Green Bay, Wis., this week. The Columbus Community theater, functioning at the Rockwood Outdoor theater, will stage the première on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of "Vampire Valley," a horror piece written especially for the outdoor setting by Ralph Mead, director of the theater. The Peninsula Players, at Fish Creek, Wis., will present on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday "Seven Sea Birds," by Richard Wylie Fisher, the players' director. Mr. Fisher's play was originally presented at Fish Creek in the summer of 1937.

The Michiana Shores theater, five miles east of Michigan City, gave every evidence of closing for the season a fortnight ago. Now, with startling abruptness, comes word of a postseason production which opened last night and continues nightly thru this coming Saturday. The play is a new one by Grace Hayward of Hollywood, entitled "Sweet Danger." It has already been semiprivately presented in Hollywood. Its method of production is said to embody a combination of radio technique with a more usual theatrical style. The plot presents a murder mystery and "three delightful romances brought to a satisfactory ending." [Note to press agent: What do you mean, "ending"?] Miss Hayward will appear in the cast, along with a Hollywood cast including Rosemary De Camp, Richard Le Grand, Kaye Macke, Hans Conried, Michael Kent, Joe Franz, Rolfe Sedan, and Tris Coffin.

Grace Hayward.

'TOO MANY GIRLS' STAR

When "Too Many Girls" comes to the Grand Opera house on Sept. 2 the agreeable task of singing the "sweet" portions of the Rodgers and Hart score will be entrusted to Marcy Wescott.

Vaudeville

Mitzi Green and Bert Wheeler, who were co-starred in the motion picture "Girl Crazy" nine years ago, share headline billing in the State-Lake stage show this week. Miss Green, who survived a career as a child actress to emerge an attractive and gifted young adult performer, was seen on the Chicago stage last February in the musical comedy "Three After Three." She offers a series of impersonations of famous personalities in her present State-Lake appearance. Mr. Wheeler is supported by Francetta Malloy. Others in the bill are Hank Ladd, comedian; Ted Garay, dancer; Jerry Coe and Marie Ann, novelty acrobats; Bob Evans, ventriloquist, and the Top Hatters. The film is "Queen of the Mob," with Blanche Yurka and Ralph Bellamy.

Shep Fields and his "rippling rhythm" orchestra dominate the Oriental theater stage. This is Mr. Fields' first engagement in a loop theater, tho his work is well known in night clubs here and thruout the country. The list of assisting entertainers includes Claire Nunn, singer; Hal Derwin, "whispering baritone"; Sol Goie, pianist; Caesar Mussioli, accordionist, and Danny Gay, jitterbug trumpeter. On the screen is "Private Lives," with Nancy Kelly and Robert Cummings.

Grace and Nikko, "international" dance team, share first honors in the current Chicago theater stage bill with the Rollini trio [vibraharp and chimes, guitar, and bass fiddle]. Further diversion is provided by Bob Nellor, ventriloquist; Wilkey and Dare, comedy team; Richard Gordon, tenor, and the Dorothy Hild beauty ballet. Henry Fonda is featured on the screen in "The Return of Frank James."

The Rialto theater presents the first of its fall road shows beginning next Friday. This week, as a curtain raiser, June St. Clair appears in a new revue. The movie is a Charlie Chan story, "Murder Cruise."

Martinelli Highlights Grant Park Concerts This Week

Other Artists Scheduled for Closing Series

By Edward Barry.

This last full week of the Grant park concerts [they will end the evening of Sept. 2] brings to the lake front band shell no less a person than Giovanni Martinelli. Since he is, and has been for nearly three decades, one of the best Italian tenors known to the American public, and since he has won a tremendous following in this neighborhood by his many performances both in downtown Chicago and at Ravinia, it is hoped that tomorrow evening's concert will turn out to be one of those supercolossal Grant park events. It's all up to the weather man.

Mr. Martinelli will have the support of the Chicago Opera orchestra. In general charge of the proceedings will be one of Chicago's best young conductors—Leo Kopp.

The Martinelli concert is by no means the only interesting prospect of the Grant park week. Tonight a good Polish-American soprano and a good Polish-American conductor — Valerie Glowacki and Jerzy Bojanowsky, respectively—join forces for a program which contains an astonishingly small amount of Polish music.

Tuesday evening the two winners of the 11th Chicagoland Music Festival contests will be presented in Grant park. They are Irma Cooper, Chicago soprano, and William B. Strom, Milwaukee tenor. This will not be their first experience with a mass audience, for they sang before the huge throng which packed Soldiers' field on Aug. 17.

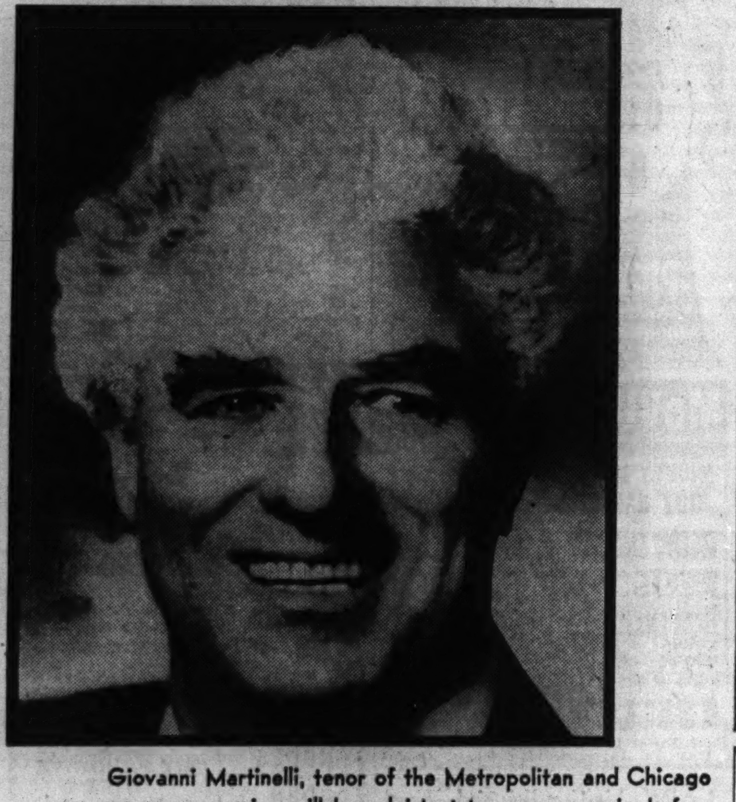
TO SING TOMORROW NIGHT



Giovanni Martinelli, tenor of the Metropolitan and Chicago opera companies, will be soloist at tomorrow evening's free Grant park concert. The orchestra will be that of the Chicago Opera. Leo Kopp is to conduct.

Popular Recordings

Two interesting records, a bit off what might be called the normal path, are offered by Columbia. Alec Templeton is presented on a popular platter in a slightly different vein from his recent satirical piano-vocal arrangements.

His "Redwoods at Bohemian Grove" is a straight piano solo, as restful and cool as the spot it describes. "Grieg's in the Groove" on the other side is well titled, as it presents the composer of the Peer Gynt suite in typical Templeton swing time rearrangement.

Altho Raymond Scott is now a night club maestro in Chicago's last major rendezvous for jitterbugs, he still ranks as a novelty in music. He follows his recent "Birdseed Special" and its more commercial companion piece, "Four Beat Shuffle" with a quintet recording of two typical Scott whimsicalities, "Bumpy Weather Over Newark" and "Peter Tambourine." Not his best record, but a worthy one.

Some good offerings that are in the best tradition of the various orchestras, without presenting any sensational bonuses to loyal fans:

COLUMBIA—Benny Goodman, who is about to come back as a club band, has two: "Dreaming Out Loud, "I can't Resist You" and Li'l Boy Love," "Nostalgia." . . . Kay Kyser contributes "Angel Child."

VARSITY—Griff Williams tops this company's list with his usually smooth and inviting style. He has "Only Forever" [Bob Kirk singing] and "That's For Me" [Buddy Moreno on the vocal]. . . . Harry James does a good job with an odd juxtaposition of titles, "A Million Dreams Ago" and "I Wouldn't Take a Million." . . . Jack Teagarden's two are "River Home," "Now I Lay Me Down to Dream" and "Wait 'Till I Catch You in My Dreams."

Plan of Broad Gains Mapped for Dentistry

By the Rev. John Evans.

The second hundred years in dentistry will see a big advance all along the line in theory, practice, and professional opportunity. A comprehensive educational program will be set up, accreditation by a central authority will be established, funds will be sought for research, and a norm for practitioners' ethics be engrained.

Dental art is the youngest of all therapeutics. Most universal of all healing practice, only a century has elapsed since it first claimed formal recognition in the field of medicine. While life from cradle to grave may be spanned without consulting either physician or surgeon, there are but few of humanity who should not at some time have had recourse to the dentist.

The centennial of dentistry coincides with the arrival in Chicago of Dr. Harlan H. Horner, for 10 years associate commissioner of education in New York state, to assume his newly appointed office as secretary of the American Dental association's council on dental education. The official observance of the 100th anniversary of modern scientific dentistry will be held at Cleveland, O., Sept. 9 to 13, when more than 10,000 members of the profession will gather for the centennial convention marking the founding of the Baltimore college of dental surgery in 1840.

To Dr. Horner is committed the immediate task of the development and administration of requirements for the establishment of an approved list of dental schools. These requirements will cover admission, curriculum, endowment, university relationship, faculty, equipment, library, laboratories, and research.

The council on dental education expects to announce its requirements before Jan. 1, 1941, and to begin visitation and inspection of schools, with a view to approval, in 1942. The council expects that all the 39 schools in the United States will seek this approval.

Dr. Horner has stated that dental students should be recruited not from the standpoint of numbers, but from a standpoint of fitness to undertake professional study on a university level.

"The prospective dental student," he said, "should not only have a sound basic education, he should also have a mental and manual aptitude for the work of the dentist, but above all he should be professionally minded with real zeal for public health service."

This "manual aptitude" which Dr. Horner mentions contributes much to the comfort of the patient in the reclining chair. When a dentist reassuringly says "It's not going to hurt!" and such actually proves true, it is not infrequently due to the operator's innate aptitude, not what but how he does it, like the inherent gift of touch in pianoforte technique.

Extensive research on the potential aptitude of prospective dentists has been carried on at the University of Iowa. Conducted by tests analogous to those devised by Carl E. Seashore for musical ability, it soon may be more nearly determined whether a student possesses those physical attributes suited to a professional career in dentistry.

Also mentioned as another qualification for the dental student is what Dr. Horner terms the "zeal for public health service." The outstanding contribution to the effectiveness of dentistry occurred at Cleveland, O., in 1909 when the Marion school was selected by Dr. W. G. Ebersole for experimental research, and 846 children participated in a program for oral prophylaxis. It was then conclusively proved that dental ills could be prevented, and that the children improved in general health and mental ability. This is now universally recognized; today 37 states include preventive dentistry in their public health activities, and over 500 cities have school dental health programs.

The dental art has inscribed many pages in the history of scientific research, notably on anesthesia. Nitrous oxide was discovered in 1844 by Horace Wells, a dentist of Hartford, Conn., and two years later another dentist, William Morton of Boston, Mass., demonstrated ether. Both these dentists are acknowledged to have made the greatest single discovery in scientific healing the most beneficial to mankind.

But research should be endowed to be effective and to add consistently to the sum of accumulated knowledge in medicine. This, it is hoped, will be brought about during this second century. Dental decay has been known since time was, scientists are devoting much time to it, but as yet but little more is known about caries than at 3,500 B. C. This is only one example of the need for continued and augmented research, and there are many other ills afflicting the masticating apparatus upon which light needs to be shed.

Notes of Music and Musicians

In connection with the 48th international Walther league convention, which will be held at the Stevens hotel this week, a 1,000 voice chorus of the Lutheran choral union is to present a concert in the Auditorium theater tonight. William B. Heyne of St. Louis, Mo., director of the Lutheran hour radio chorus and the St. Louis a cappella choir, will direct. The soloist is to be Waldemar Schroeder, baritone. The program will consist of ancient and modern sacred music from a variety of sources.

Helen Margolyne, soprano, will be soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra next Wednesday evening in the final concert of the Wilmette amphitheater series. Ralph Rose is to conduct. Miss Margolyne will sing "Mon couer ne peut changer," from Gounod's "Mireille," and "Merce, dilette amiche," from Verdi's "I Vespri Siciliani." Following are the programs purely orchestral items: Overture to "Oberon," Weber; Suite from "L'Arlesienne," Bizet; "A Night on Bald Mountain," Mussorgsky; Overture, Fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet," Tschaikowsky; Waltz, "Vienna Life," Strauss; "Dance of the Masked Devil" from the African ballet, "Poro," Holcomb.

Five works unpublished since the 17th and 18th centuries have been issued by Music Press, a newly organized New York group. The release consists of two entr'actes for orchestra by Mozart, the concerto grosso No. 4 of Giuseppe Sammartini, a string quartet in D minor by Alessandro Scarlatti, two pieces for brass ensemble by Anthony Holborne, and three fuguing themes for mixed voices by William Billings. Music Press, which will specialize in music suitable for school, college, and amateur use, is governed by an executive board which includes Richard H. Dana, Philip James, Carlton Sprague Smith, Moses Smith, and Edwin J. Stringham.

The Chicago Opera company, holding to the principle that music is an international art, has announced that its 1940 schedule will not reflect war animosities.

The Russian trio will give a concert today in the outdoor theater at Fish Creek, Wis. The program consists of trios by Chausson, Turina, Schuett, and Arbos. Members of the trio are Nina Mesirow-Minchin, pianist; Hans Muenzer, violinist, and Ennio Bolognini, cellist. The Russian trio's series next season at the Arts club will include one evening concert on Nov. 5.

By Cecil Smith.

One ill advised moment of honesty in an otherwise crooked life brings about the downfall of Dan McGinty. If you find it refreshing to discover a picture in which virtue clearly is not its own reward, "The Great McGinty" is your meat.

Unconventional in subject matter and wonderfully astute in direction, this saga of a pair of crooked politicians provides diverting and buoyant amusement. Before McGinty is finally and ruefully forced to conclude that no pig's ear ever was turned into a bona fide silk purse, he rises from the gutter into a mounting series of civic positions, as alderman, then mayor, and, for a brief day, governor. As he climbs he leaves behind him a chaos of corruption, graft, and useless pieces of expensive construction work.

Without the ever present aid of "the Boss," McGinty would have remained a perpetual patron of soup kitchens and bread lines. But there is something about McGinty's bullheaded, stubborn Irish temper that the Boss both admires and finds useful. And so together they progress triumphantly, and extremely profitably, from one dishonest election to another.

Before running for mayor, McGinty is persuaded by the Boss that a wife is just what a campaigning mayor needs most. McGinty's level headed secretary is willing to undertake so convenient a marriage, assuming that her personal interest in an unprepossessing creature named George will scarcely be disturbed by it. This being the cinema, however, it is unnatural to expect that Brian Donlevy and Muriel Angelus will continue long to maintain a mood of frigid formality toward each other. They melt, of course, and McGinty for the first time is tempted to think of his job in terms of virtue and public honesty.

Mr. Donlevy, who is big timber as an actor, turns out a magnificent characterization—consistent in style, wholly likable, and expert in its projection of the unconscious humor of so elemental a lug as McGinty. Akim Tamiroff is always at his best when he is representing somebody phony, and his part is full of clever dialog. Miss Angelus handles her part smoothly.

Drama Contest

The Berkeley, Cal., Playmakers have announced their 17th annual national one act playwriting contest. As usual the first prize will be the George Pierce Baker award, consisting of $100 and production by the Playmakers. Second and third prizes are worth $50 and $25 respectively, and there are 13 additional cash and other awards. Some of these plays also will be staged. In addition the writer of the best comedy, no matter what other prize he may get, is presented with a bonus of $25. Any one is eligible to compete, and the type of play submitted may be of any sort, but it must be original, not a translation or an adaptation. The contest will close on Oct. 31. Entrance rules are obtainable from the Plays committee, The Berkeley Playmakers, 1814 Blake street, Berkeley, Cal. Judges will be Irving Pichel, motion picture director and little theater authority; Edwin Duerr, director of the University of California Little theater; Gordon Lange, former director of dramatics at Stanford university, and George Warren, former San Francisco drama critic.

New Clare Boothe Play.

Clare Boothe's latest play is "Shoot with a Broom," which she has written with Alexander King. Gilbert Miller and Brock Pemberton will produce it in October.

"about what I'll have to do. I feel sure there will have to be a good many changes. Tomorrow I'll see Foster in New York. Dad's lawyer. I may not be back for several days, perhaps a week or more. I'm up to my eyes in the office. So . . ." he smiled with a stiff, uncertain mouth, "you won't be bothered by me. If you'd like to ask your cousin, Miss Sargent . . . or any one else . . ."

Cathryn lifted her hand, shook her head.

"You'll stay here alone?"

"Until you come back. Yes. Please." Her voice was hardly audible but it sounded sweet. His hand moved of itself, jumping from his rigid body to enclose hers that she had let fall again to her black dress and his fingers tightened almost cruelly about its cold passivity. Then he walked away. Matthew, his face blubbered, came in, turning on the lights.

"It is indeed," said Foster, holding his pince-nez in his fingers in the fashion of all lawyers, the better to watch his client, and moving his high bald head uneasily about in his stiff white collar, "a most extraordinary will."

He sat, not in his office but in the upstairs study of his own home on East 72d street, to which he had asked the son of his old friend and client. "We'll be more private, more intimate," he had said over the telephone.

Jed Understands Why Lawyer Wanted Privacy

Jed now understood why Foster had felt the need for extra privacy. Not that the old lawyer, who had known this reserved, cool youngster with more admiration than affection all his life, had ever foreseen the way Jed would take this revelation. Jed was up and down across the room and back; black and white with fury, his eyes in conflagration, as wicked and vengeful a devil, Foster thought, as he'd ever been forced to entertain. Nor did the old man blame him. No. He liked him the better for this explosion.

"Extraordinary?" Jed snarled, stopping in one of his swinging turns before Foster's chair, easy in name but not at present easy to its occupant. "It's an outrageous will, a damn, cruel, humiliating," he choked, put a hand to his throat, caught at his angry breath, "insult. It's a studied insult. He . . . he . . . my father must have been out of his mind. It . . . isn't . . . it isn't like him, sir." There was a first break on that last phrase, in voice and mood. Foster took immediate advantage of it, his old long wrinkled eyes fastened with some of a lion tamer's fixity on the tall figure now standing, half turned, hands locked down rigid at his sides.

"You must remember, Jed, that he was very fond of this girl."

"He was entirely in her power at the end, saw practically no one else. This time," Jed muttered as tho to some other companion, "she's baited her hook with something she thinks I can't refuse. Damn her." He faced the lawyer, his chin and mouth hard set, moving the stonegray lips with difficulty, "Marry her . . . for Faildyke . . . for my just inheritance! Damn her! . . . I'd rather die."

Foster waited, tapping his glasses lightly on his knee. He cleared his throat. "Come now, Jed. You're putting it too strongly. Forgive me, you're taking it too hard. It's not quite like that. Of course, I don't know the history back of this astonishing request . . . or bequest . . . but all your father has demanded of you is a gesture, an empty phrase. Your inheritance does not depend upon marrying Cathryn Keithan. By no means. It's conditional only upon asking her to be your wife. That surely is not an impossible performance. There are a dozen ways by which you can escape the consequences of what, after all, may not be . . . if you'll excuse the suggestion . . . an acceptance."

The white-faced, white-mouthed young man kept his lips in a rigid line until he was able to produce an intelligible voice.

"It's impossible. For me, sir. Frankly, I am in no mind to fulfill the terms of my father's condition." He made another striding tour of the room.

"Well, of course," Foster settled back, took up his glasses, and began to inspect the document he had, all this while, been holding on his knee, "you may be able to break the will. I see possibilities. Undue influence. Mental degeneration thru prolonged illness . . ."

Jed's face was suddenly composed, inscrutable.

"Thank you very much, sir. You've been patient. I'm afraid I've made an ugly exhibition of myself. I've a bad temper . . . not like Rufe or" his throat clicked, "or dad. Will you let me go now without any further discussion. I can't seem to . . . I mean . . . I can't think clearly yet. This was a terrible shock . . . to me. A . . . blow in the face. . . . There's something . . . very strange about it. I think there may be something back of it we neither of us know."

While speaking he had been moving toward the door, Foster followed him. "Don't come down, sir. I'll be going to Faildyke tomorrow. Cathryn is there, I believe. I'll let you know as soon as I get back . . . which will be immediately . . . what's up . . . what's the next step to take. Don't worry, Mr. Foster. I'll work it out somehow. Good-by."

Foster muttered good-by. He stood at the head of the stairs, moving his right hand thoughtfully along the polished balustrade. He had a feeling that matters were going to shape out satisfactorily according to poor Galt's wishes. It was quite obvious that one or the other of those two had been in love . . . probably this boy. Cathryn had been engaged to Rufus, but likely, Jed had cared for her.

"A pretty little thing . . . lovely voice, exquisite figure . . . she's turned him down. Old Pete wanted to force him to try his luck again. Probably knew, this time, the lady would say yes. Thought up this way to break down the boy's confounded pride and temper. Phew!" Foster, remembering the first five minutes after his reading of the will, took out a beautiful large linen handkerchief and patted carefully against his chin and forehead and all about his high bald head. This romance, he prophesied, will have a happy ending.

So little talent sometimes has a family lawyer for understanding the secret places of his clients' hearts.

Cathryn was afraid that Jed would come.

For a long day, a night, and a morning she watched, looking with a pinched pale face from this window and that, listening to the sound of distant motors, nearing and departing along the highway, while her heart trembled in her breast and cold waves of nausea went over her. She was always cold. Then, on the second afternoon, she saw him on foot up the terraces in the glare of a cloud-filmed winter sky, an hour without either sun or shadow, the house a grim wall, the lake a plaque of polished steel.

Under that glazed diffusion all the havocs of winter showed themselves; the matted silver bracken, the dry brown broken stalks, the cracked and scattered branches, merciless bones, tall apparitions, fallen skeletons. Faildyke was at its least beautiful and she was its helpless prisoner. From her bedroom window she watched Jed, darkly clad, collar turned up about his chin, broad-narrow, small-headed, predatory, mounting with an agonizingly gradual increase of size and visibility until she was able to distinguish the pale grimness of his mouth. Setting her fists, then, tight between her breasts, she ran from him, left her window, to the flight of stairs, fluttered about the house until she found a side door and followed the lane down past the kitchen garden, running, hatless, coatless, thru the still cold toward some undetermined refuge. She would hide. No one would be able to find her.

Cathryn Seeks Refuge in her Linden Tree

Jed would be forced to leave a letter for her, to go back. He'd have important business in New York, demanding his immediate return. She would be spared those dreadful eyes, that steel-sharp voice. Ah, there was her linden tree. Even without leaves, its densely twigged long branches made a difficult screen. Inside, close to the trunk, in her dark dress, she would certainly be invisible . . . Jed, who might remember this hiding place, would not come in search of her himself. He'd send Mary or Matthew, one of the servants. She was safe!

Out of all breath and shaking, she dropped down on the old packing box, surprised to find it there and a few scattered bits of doll's china, as well. Such tiny things to survive those six long anxious years. They had lasted from her childhood to her maturity, from seventeen to twenty-three.

She felt too tortured to be old but tired enough for ninety. Waiting for Jed had tired her and it was the sight of him that had lashed her back to her youth. And now, tho she had won a respite from him, she began to rehearse in her mind the explanations and defenses she had been planning ever since Foster on the long distance telephone had apprized her of the contents of John Peter's will.

Elbows on knees, an icy hand on either side of her face, lips moving, she went over it. "Believe me, Jed . . . oh, please believe me. It wasn't my fault. I didn't plan it. I didn't suggest it. I am as astonished and dismayed as you are."

There she paused for him to make some imaginary comment, dissent, agreement, then went quickly on,

Save it!

"Of course, I don't expect you to fulfill that absurd condition. We'll consider it's been done and I . . I've refused you . . . and that Faildyke and the other property are yours. Even, if you'd rather, I'll just sign a paper deeding over the estate to you and saying there could be no question of an honest offer of marriage between us because . . . because . . ."

She lost the thread of her argument and found that she was shivering violently. The air was bitterly damp under the linden, sunless, the ground beneath her light shod feet stone-hard with frost. How foolish to come out like this in her black house dress. She'd been so cold all day and night that she had forgotten that there were degrees of that sensation. Now, her teeth began to clack.

But her mind took up its activity in spite of bodily discomfort ". . . there can be no question of an honest marriage offer because . . . of course, why hadn't she thought of it immediately? . . . because of Rufus or . . . of a woman in your life. You must love some one, Jed . . ." her lips stopped their soundless moving and she looked up with all her eyes to question an imaginary listener, and saw Jed, himself, Jed in the flesh, bending down to part the branches.

"You weren't quite quick enough," he said, stopping all her pulses. "I just caught a flicker of you going around the corner of the wall. How absurd of you to run away from me. Why don't you grow up, Cathryn? You can't escape consequences by hiding under a tree with a lot of broken doll's dishes. Besides, it's much too cold. You'll get pneumonia." He stood aside, lifted a branch as tho it had been a curtain and bowed formally with his most ironic look.

"If you will permit me to follow you up to your house, I think we can talk more comfortably before your fire. It should be hospitable of you to offer me tea." He shot out his right arm and looked down at his wrist watch. "Yes, it's nearly 5 o'clock. Do you usually serve tea at Faildyke, Cathryn?"

"Jed, you must not think . . ."

"I am not thinking what you imagine," he interrupted. "I know that my father was very ill . . . out of his usual mind . . ."

The color, delicate to see but sharp to feel, stung her neck, her face up to the pale bright hair.

"No, no. You mustn't think that of him. I can't let you go on thinking that. He did it in full possession of his kind, clear mind. He did it out of his love for you, Jed. O, please don't look at him with those eyes. He did it because he thought . . . because of something I was foolish enough to say to him . . . not long before . . . not long before he died."

"Ah," the lawyer ejaculated in a tone of dry satisfaction, "you said something foolish, another word, I imagine, for 'untrue' . . . and Dad supposed that, baited with Faildyke and fortune, I'd not be too unwilling to marry you . . . at last. Certainly he knew that you would be willing to take me, if you could, at the same time, take whatever else you wanted, what you have always wanted . . . what you and your mother have always angled for . . ."

She would hide. No one would be able to find her.

Cathryn Goes Blindly About Acustomed Task

Cathryn put her hands up to her forehead, beating it gently with the heels of her palms. Then she opened the door, passed in before him, and before him walked steadily to the place about the hearth in the big room. There, already, Matthew had set up the table and service for tea, and the silver kettle was atremble with its steamy achievement.

Cathryn went blindly about the accustomed task, her small fine hands trembling so that the china and the silver clicked. The warmth of the fire seemed at first to increase her shaking. The tears came to burn her eyes and slowly strung themselves along her lashes. They never fell.

"You look ill, Cathryn." He received the cup of tea, supplied it deftly with sugar and a slice of lemon, and at once set it down on the mantel beside his shoulder. He returned to his commanding posture. "You take your feelings much too hard. I suppose you've been suffering the tortures of the damned since Foster told you the contents of Dad's will. But, if you'll forgive me, as I'm sure you won't! . . . I'd feel more respect for you if you were consistent. About six years ago, Cathryn, you declared war upon me . . . it was down under the same old tree there by the gate . . . and since then, you've outmaneuvered me consistently. You've worsted me in every engagement."

To his astonishment, Jed began to quote carefully, accurately, hands behind him, chin up, eyes half-closed. "'You are a man. You've got everything . . . money and family . . . and a home . . . everything that makes a person safe. I'm only a girl . . . but I'm going to study how to hurt you, how to spoil your life. I will, if I can, cut your heart to pieces, believe me, Jed Galt. You'll laugh and you'll forget.' . . . But that," said Jed, opening his eyes wide and sudden like a cat's, "is where you did me an injustice. I've an iron memory." He began again his bitter recitation. "'But every now and then,' you told me six years ago, Cathryn, 'you'll be reminded of me and you'll cry. And when I see your tears, I'll laugh and laugh until you know what it means to have an enemy.'"

Beneath the table Cathryn's hands were knotted tight.

"So now, Cathryn, laugh and laugh and I'l respect you. I'll take off my hat to your sincerity, to your perseverance, to your genius. For I have cried . . . I have cried bitterly . . . for the loss of a friendship, for the loss of my brother's affection and trust, for the loss of my father's confidence, for the loss of my home. You love Faildyke. And so do I. I think that I love Faildyke more than any of you have loved it. That's why I've kept away from it so much, trying to make the money to save it in the end.

"Now, my dear conquerer, it's yours. I came here to hand it over to you, with all the rest of my possessions . . . or, since that's not in my power, to set my neck under your heel in token of submission. I surrender to you, Cathryn Keithan, my fortune, my home, my . . . dead.

"There's only one thing that is not yours, never has been, never will be . . . altho you planned shrewdly enough for that final triumph and expected, I dare say, to relish it in that queer little feline heart of yours. You will not be given the supreme pleasure of seeing me crawl and beg for my possessions. I will never, so help me God, Cathryn Camilla Keithan, not for my future, not for my life, not even for . . ." he swept the beautiful room with one dark sombre hungry look . . . "for Faildyke . . . ask you to be my wife."

Jed Begins to Form a New Campaign

He came close, bent over her. "That's all I came to say. Give me your hand, mistress of Faildyke, and tell me that we're quits."

He held out his right hand and she saw his smoldering smile.

Without changing her straight, rigid pose of body or her locked hands, she looked down at the hand, then lifted her eyes again slowly, heavily to his face. For the first time they seemed to move with difficulty, they did not drift nor float with that strange liquid ease. They climbed until, tired, empty of happiness, they reached his own.

"Good-by, Jed," said Cathryn.

And she did not touch his hand.

But Jed was not thru with Faildyke nor with Cathryn Keithan. He had beaten a strategic retreat, leaving her with honors more empty than she knew, and, back in New York City, he began at once to organize a new campaign.

In this design, the world's tongue sided with him, heaping obloquy on the little nobody, the "poor relation," who had wheedled him out of his inheritance. The Galts were an old Knickerbocker family and, tho of late they had removed themselves more and more determinedly from the city, they were still sufficiently important to attract a limited publicity.

Therefore, John Peter's will made its brief sensation, and for that while Cathryn Keithan's name was an acid element in most conversational formulas; while at Faildyke she was marooned; not one of the old lake families would countenance her as its lawful mistress. Jed went his way, shrugging off questions, curious or sympathetic. There were those who let him understand they considered him a fool to turn down an estate for so frivolous an objection.

Cicily, freed at last from her difficult magnanimity for her late protegée, was Jed's informant, even against his will, as to the state of Cathryn's popularity and of his own; Cicily, who had developed a maternal ferocity for his protection and for his defense. Jed told her with emphasis that his whole mind was bent upon the increase of his private fortune, the augmenting of all his resources in money as in fame.

Unfortunately for him, this year of 1932-'33 was not an easy one for the sort of rapid advancement he craved. The members of his firm had to take a cut in salary, a greater hardship to the junior member than the rest. The small income inherited from MacKenzie dwindled. Jed was hard put to it to pay the rent of his East River apartment or even to meet the ordinary expenses of a city life.

Cicily watched, with a torn heart, the unconcealable changes in his guarded face. She made extraordinary efforts to keep in touch with him.

She was posing, that winter, for her portrait; an excellent subject for Martin Sylvester's exhaustive method, being entirely without nervous irritability and ready to sit or to stand, this way or that way, for his innumerable experimental sketches.

BLACKOUT

By Ethel Lina White

(Copyright: 1940: By Ethel Lina White.)

• The story of a young girl who enters upon the work of war time and discovers thru it the excitement of both patriotism and love.

Nearly choked by the handkerchief which was roughly forced down her throat, Christina was dragged back into the shadow.

THE blackout over London was nearly absolute. When Christina drew aside the window curtains of the sitting room, at first she could distinguish nothing. It was as tho a wall had been built up outside the glass. As her eyes grew accustomed to the darkness she saw the dimmed lights of traffic and glowworm gleams speckling the pavement, cast by the electric torches of invisible pedestrians. Her nerves were somewhat frayed, owing to lack of sleep. She went to bed late because she was afraid of a recurrent nightmare. It was always the same dream. She found herself walking down an unknown road, in absolute darkness—with the knowledge that she had a long distance to go. Suddenly she felt herself gripped by invisible hands—when the horror always shook her awake.

She was furious over this leakage of energy at a time when she needed all her reserves of strength. Recently she had the honor of a personal interview with Mr. T. P. Fry—a younger member of the firm which owned the factory. It took place in his private room, when the august man explained the facts.

"Every country in war time," he said, "is subject to the abuse of sabotage. The scum of a nation will always seize its chance to profit. To protect our interests in the factory we have organized some of our most trusted workers as counter-espionage agents."

Christina thrilled as she listened, altho his next sentence conveyed a warning.

"The work requires courage and discretion. You remain anonymous and—in your own interests—you must not try to make contacts. You should take extra precautions against accidents inside the factory and not go out in the blackout, if you can avoid it. You may be followed by malcontents. . . . No extra pay—but I hope there will be a bonus at the end of the war."

After the minimum of reflection, Christina volunteered for the special service. Instead of dull routine, she felt elevated to something in the John Buchan tradition. At first, altho she was especially zealous in the prevention of carelessness, she made no exposures. But—as tho her vigilance had been marked as inconvenient to the cause of sabotage, a few days previously she had been nearly the victim of an accident.

One of the girls had turned faint, and, in the general rush to help her, Christina had been pushed up against a machine. . . . For a terrible moment her heart felt iced, before a worker switched off the mechanism.

When she went over the incident she felt doubtful about one of the Good Samaritans who had dragged her to safety. Meta Rosenburg was a thin, attractive brunette, slant-eyed and overpainted.

Christina shared the expenses of a flat with Ida Brown—a plump, reliable girl. That evening she was looking around at the comfort of the room with its fire and softly glowing lights when the telephone bell began to ring. As she went to answer it a warning sense reminded her that ambushes were always prepared by fake invitations. Primed by her intuition, she was scarcely surprised to hear Meta's deep, husky voice at the other end of the line.

"I'm throwing a sherry party. Come over."

"No thanks," she replied. "I don't drink."

"But you must come. Montrose is here. He wants to know you."

Christina's heart beat faster, for—like all the girls at the factory—she was attracted by Montrose. He held an important position and was tall and handsome. There was also a legend about him that he had been an air ace before a smash which took mysterious toll but thoughtfully left no visible marks.

Before Christina could protest Meta rang off.

"You shouldn't keep on saying 'no,'" advised Ida Brown, who always listened to telephone conversations. "Snap out of it. Go to this sherry party."

"I don't know where she lives."

"I'll look her up in the telephone book."

"Thanks . . . I will."

Christina told herself that it was important to reassure Ida, lest—in perfect innocence—she might start the first fatal whisper. In reality, however, it was the thought of Montrose's handsome face which lured her out into the blackout.

She put on an ice blue frock and made up her face with delicate care. While she was slipping on a near white coat, Ida came into the bedroom to tell her the number of her bus.

"I've written down the address and put it in your gas mask carrier," she explained. "You get off at the terminus."

Her journey was reduced to such a simple and effortless proposition that she felt ashamed of her former hesitation. But as she stood in the doorway of the entrance hall of the mansions, waiting to accustom her eyes to the darkness, a man nearly knocked her down.

Christina Snails Along Dark Pavement

Both laughed at the encounter, but she felt exactly as tho she had bumped into the invisible man. It was with a return of her old inhibition that she snailed along the pavement.

She reached her starting point, only to realize the handicap of her poor eyesight. Other people boarded the vehicles while she remained on the pavement, running from bus to bus as fresh ones drew up at the halt. Unable to see their numbers, she always left it too late and boarded them, to be told by the conductor, "Full up."

She was thinking rather desperately of Montrose when some one flashed a torch over the face of the crowd. It cursed him as one man, altho—as the bus was stationary—there was no risk of an accident. Christina blinked at the tiny searchlight with a sense that her identity had been revealed. Her mind flooded with morbid wonder as to whether Ida were in league with Meta to lure her into a trap.

Her turn had come at last. She felt herself borne upwards to the step on a human surge and then pressed forward into a darkened interior.

"Where's the empty seat?" she appealed. "I can't see a thing."

Helpful hands passed her along the aisle and drew her down on a seat beside a stout woman who smelt strongly of cloves.

"There you are, lidy."

With the comfortable sensation of being enclosed in the safety of an ark—tossing on a stormy sea—she felt the bus move onward. From now on the driver would have the headache. She was merely another fare—his responsibility.

They journeyed on thru the black blanket, occasionally stopping with a back-breaking jerk to avoid some too optimistic pedestrian. Presently, as the stout lady continued to overlap her, Christina felt as tho she were slowly smothered by a feather bed. Her chance of release came when a semi-visible young man who sat on the opposite side—level with their seat—leaned across the aisle.

"Change places with me, mother," he urged. "I want to sit by my young lady."

"Right you are, duck," consented the lady.

Christina waited for the exchange to be made before she spoke softly to her slimmer neighbor.

"I'm afraid I must break it to you. I'm not your friend."

"I know," said the young man. "I had to take a chance on you. I saw your face when some one flashed a torch. I knew I could trust you."

Altho his voice was uneven—either pitched to a crack or blurred to thickness—his accent was educated and inspired her with confidence.

"What do you mean?" she asked distantly.

"When I tell you, you'll think me mad," he said.

"I do already. . . . Or drunk."

"Not drunk. No, I'm drugged. . . . Like a fool, I had a drink with a man. He's following me on this bus. . . . But you must see who you are backing—and use discretion."

Before she could protest he lit a cigaret. In the flame of the match she saw a face which was too charming and delicate for a man. Its oval shape—combined with fair hair and large blue eyes—suggested some universal younger brothers who needed coddling and protection.

"I seem to know your face," she said. "Are you at Fry's munition factory?"

"Yes," he replied eagerly. "I'm a draftsman there. You've probably seen me in the canteen."

Then he lowered his voice to a whisper.

"Are you one of us?" he asked.

She scented a trap in time to avoid it.

"Yes, I work there," she said coldly.

"Then you are in this, too. . . . Listen carefully. I've a letter here. It's desperately important. Secret service. I got involved—never mind how. . . . You must take it to Bengal avenue, sixth house on left. It's the second stop. The man is waiting to pounce on me when I leave the bus. But he won't suspect you."

Christina grew wretchedly uncomfortable as she listened. If she had not been enrolled for confidential service at the factory she would have been immune to suggestion. Now, however, she was susceptible, because she admitted to herself that the young man's story could be true. Stolen documents, espionage, secret agents—these were the phantasy of peace but the commonplace of war.

She struggled desperately to get free of the coils.

"Don't talk like a film," she said. "I can't swallow that melodramatic stuff from a stranger."

"But you dare not refuse." The young man's voice was stern. "It is not for myself. It is for England. . . . Do you remember the address?"

"Of course not. I don't need it."

Heedless of her refusal, he tore a leaf from his notebook, and after

NEXT SUNDAY—"BARGAIN," A SHORT STORY BY BROOKE HANLON

scrawling on it stuffed it inside her gas mask carrier.

"That's enough to remind you," he said, blinking his eyes. "My head's beginning to buzz. Thank heaven I lasted long enough to contact you. . . . Look. That man—by the door. He's waiting for me."

The vehicle was too dimly lit to distinguish faces, but straining her eyes in the gloom, Christina saw a tall man whose hard felt hat was jammed over his eyes. He was strap hanging near the door; but as the bus slackened speed he stepped out on to the platform. As he was above average height, he had to stoop slightly to scrutinize the passengers who were getting off at the stage. This crouching posture gave him an appearance of tense vigilance which made the girl think of a jungle beast on the hunt.

"I'll call the conductor," she whispered to the young man.

The words roused him out of his lethargy.

"For heaven's sake, no," he implored. "Don't start anything like that. The chap would plug him—and then us. We haven't got a chance in the dark. It's up to you. You—must——"

Suddenly his head jerked forward and then drooped, while his eyes closed. As she listened to his heavy breathing, Christina wondered what she ought to do. Self interest, as well as common sense, told her to keep out of the mess and continue on her way to the sherry party. On the other hand, in a remote lighted corner of her brain, was a reminder that Meta's invitation might be a trap. In such a case this mission—which involved her in no danger—might he a providential intervention.

There was a third consideration which outweighed the others. The youth had spoken the truth when he said that she dared not accept the responsibility of inaction, if there was the slightest chance to prevent some vital leakage.

"Your friend's having a nap," grinned the conductor as he came up the aisle.

"Not mine," she said quickly.

As she disclaimed him, the man in the felt hat was swift to seize his chance.

"That's all right, mate," he said to the conductor. "My pal and I will see him home. He's had one over the eight."

This dramatic fulfillment of the young man's fears spurred Christina to immediate action. She dared not extract the secret document from the young man's gas mask carrier, lest she should fumble and attract the attention of the nearest passenger. Such an action might look like an attempt to rob a drunken man. Snatching up the young man's gas mask carrier from the seat—in exchange for her own—she groped her way to the door, where she waited for the next stop.

Fortunately the conductor did not remember her stage, since in the blackout one girl looked much like another. He lowered her down on the pavement as tho she were a precious consignment. Then she heard the ping of his bell and the bus rolled on its way.

Darkness Seems Like Depths of Coal Mine

In contrast with the subdued lighting of the vehicle, the surrounding blackness seemed pitch black as the depths of a coal mine; but after flicking her torch about she discovered the name "Bengal avenue," printed on the corner of a wall. The bus had dropped her on the left-hand side of the road, so she had only to walk straight ahead.

It was also a very lonely locality, for as she followed long stretches of stone wall, partially revealed by light of her torch, she met no one, she heard no footsteps—no voices—no hoot of passing car.

"Every one might be dead," she thought.

For the sake of morale she told herself that there was light and life inside each blacked out exterior. Civilization still functioned, for she had only to ring at a door to get in touch with humanity again. Probably, if she cared to deliver her document personally at No. 6 — instead of dropping it into the letter box—she would meet with a welcome.

"I suppose he lives here with his family," she thought.

In order to settle ths point she scraped his identification card from a pocket of the carrier—fishing out two Yale latchkeys to get hold of it.

"Why two?" she wondered.

She knew the reason—or thought she did—after she had read the particulars about the young man in the bus, by the light of her torch. She discovered that his name was "Ivor Thomas" and that he lived in a north London suburb. Apparently No. 6 was an accommodation address, or belonged to a close friend, since he appeared to possess its key as well as his own.

She plodded on doggedly thru the darkness, altho she was beginning to wish she were not pledged to the adventure. At the back of her mind was a feeling of apprehension, while she was also teased by a sense of familiarity.

"I know this place," she thought. "But when have I been here before?"

The answer crashed from the depths of her inner consciousness. This was her nightmare. There was the same long, endless road—the utter blackness—the total loneliness. It only lacked the horror of gripping hands.

But those came later—in the dream.

She began to run—the fixity of her purpose propelling her on instead of turning back. It was panic flight which burned itself out, for when she was forced to stop her heart was leaping as much from exertion as fright. She had reached No. 6, which was also named "Elephant House" and had two roughly carved elephants surmounting its gateposts to demonstrate its claim to the title.

With the feeling that her ordeal was nearly over—for her run back to the bus stop would seem much shorter—she pushed open the heavy gate. As she groped her way up the drive the small dancing light of her torch revealed a general appearance of desertion and neglect. The front door steps were dirty and the brass knocker had not been cleaned recently.

It was no surprise, therefore, to find that the slit to the letter box was blocked.

"I must unload this darn document," she decided. "It's too jolly risky to carry it around with me."

Once again she hooked up the two Yale keys, one of which fitted the lock. It turned easily as she pushed open the door and stepped inside into that total darkness.

The precaution of shutting herself in, after she had slipped the key back in the carrier, was a test of her courage; but it was not until she felt secure from outside observation that she flashed her light around.

The next second she suppressed a scream as she stepped backward in an instinctive movement to save herself from being trampled underfoot. Towering above her—from the wall—was the head of an enormous bull elephant with gleaming tusks and upraised trunk. It dominated the most extraordinary hall she had ever seen.

It was screened with fretted woodwork and hung with the stuffed heads of wild beasts, as well as weapons.

"What a bloody place," she murmured. "The home of Anglo-Indians, I should think. Wonder if the sahibs are at home."

Flashing her torch, first low and then high, he saw a dusty Indian carpet—partially covered with drugget—and a flight of stairs leading to a landing on which was posed a black marble statue. Beyond was a shorter flight of steps, the top of which was wiped out by shadows.

"Hullo. Any one there?"

Christina's hail was weak and tremulous, revealing that she was afraid of the empty house.

There was no answer to her call. Feeling that she had fulfilled her duty in England, she listened to the warning voice which told her to get out of the house and rush back to safety.

"Run—run."

She was about to place the document on a carved teak table when she noticed that she had torn a corner of the envelope in her extraction of the keys from the carrier. As she stared at the flimsy paper she was assailed by doubt. It looked so unofficial that she told herself that she must see the contents before she left it.

Feeling guilty of crime, she ripped open the envelope—to reveal what she had dreaded to find—tracings.

They confirmed her lightning suspicion. Ivor Thomas was a rat who was stealing the factory's secrets. The men in the bus were trailing him; but to save himself from being caught with the evidence, he had fooled them and tricked her into taking it to his hiding place.

Slipping the document into her coat pocket, she was about to rush from the house when she was startled by a noise from above. It was a heavy thud, as tho a statue had crashed down from its pedestal. With a recollection of the figure on the landing, she flashed her torch upwards.

What she saw drained the blood from her heart. . . . A stiff, white shapeless bundle—like a corpse—was rolling down the stairs.

At that moment she understood the hypnotic force of shock. She wanted to flee, but her muscles were locked so that she could not stir, altho the thing was drawing nearer to her. Bumping from step to step, it reached the landing, where it lay—formless, without face or limbs, muffled in its burial clothes.

As she stood and stared, suddenly Christina thought she detected a quiver in the object. . . . Goaded by the elemental duty to make certain whether life was really extinct, she began to mount the stairs.

Kneeling beside the human parcel, she wrenched away a fold of linen and exposed the shriveled, sunburnt face of an elderly woman with an arrogant nose. Her brave old eyes smoldered in token of an unbroken spirit as Christina first tore away the scarf over her mouth and then dragged from her blackened lips the pad with which she had been gagged.

The woman drew a deep breath, gasping like a fish.

"Thank heaven I'm a nose-breather," she gasped. "I was choking. I heard you call—and I managed to make it under my own steam."

"Who are you?" asked Christina.

"Miss Monteagle. This house belongs to my brother—the general. We were in Cornwall when war broke out and we stayed on. I came up to see the house. . . . I was attacked by thugs. Two of them."

Her face grew suddenly tense as she added, "I can hear them in the cellars. Get help at once."

"But I can't leave you——"

"Quick. No time to loosen knots. If you can't make it, hide. Watch your chance to escape. . . . Cover my face."

Altho Christina lacked Miss Monteagle's uncanny faculty of hearing, she realized the urgency. After winding the corner of the sheet around the elder woman's head she rushed down the stairs. The hall was clear, but before she could reach the door a series of knocks on the wood told her that Ivor Thomas was outside.

Darts Behind Velvet Curtain Covering Door

She was caught between two fires. The thugs had heard the summons and the sound of their footsteps in the distance was audible to her. Desperately flashing her torch around, she darted behind the velvet curtain which muffled a door—praying the while that the men would not come that way.

Her petition was mercifully granted, for the men entered thru a low door at the rear. Altho she could see nothing, Christina guessed that they carried a lamp from the faint glow which sprayed around the corner of the portière. Then she heard the catch withdrawn and some one entered the house.

"Has the girl left the plans?" asked Ivor Thomas—his voice cracking with excitement.

Without waiting for a reply, he dashed to the letter box.

"Hell, it's nailed up," he complained.

"Sure, we had to pick an empty house," growled one of the men. "What's this about a girl?"

It was no satisfaction to Christina to learn that her suspicions were confirmed, since she was trapped and unable to save the plans. As Thomas told his story, she realized that he was cowed by the other men and eager to justify his action.

"The girl will come back when she finds the key," he assured them. "She fell for it all right. Besides, it worked. The dicks had to let me go. The laugh was on them."

"Did they follow you?" asked a new voice.

"Hell, no. Why? They found nothing on me."

As she listened, Christina noticed the difference between the voices of the two men. One was gruff and fierce, but the other frightened her more, because of its flat, inhuman quality. It was as tho a dead man spoke from the grave.

She trembled violently as this second man made a discovery.

"I can see high heels in the dust. That girl has been here. Look around."

Even as Christina realized the horror of the situation, Miss Monteagle came into action. Risking a broken neck, she flexed her muscles in a supreme effort to distract attention. The men in the hall heard a thud from the upper darkness—outside the radius of their lamp—followed by the gruesome spectacle of a corpselike object rolling down the stairs.

As Thomas gave a high, thin scream, like a trapped rabbit, Christina recognized her signal to escape. Not daring to creep toward the entrance, lest a man should turn his head, she leaped lightly over the thick pile of the carpet. Drawing back the catch of the lock, she slipped thru the gap and drew the door softly to—fearing to shut it.

Once she was outside, she began to run, her high heels turning perilously on the slippery drive. She lost precious time in opening the heavy gate and barely reached the road before the sound of heavy footsteps in the distance told her that she was being followed.

Maddened by terror, she rushed on wildly, praying for help; but the road was as deserted as before. There was no welcome torchlight advertising an A. R. P. warden on his round—no resident returning to his home. It was useless to scream—hopeless to hide in a garden; she knew that the glimmer of her white coat was visible and that if she tore it off her ice-blue frock would betray her.

Realizing that capture was inevitable, she determined that the men should not get the drawings; and since she could be tortured into revelation of their hiding place, she must put them in a safe place.

Suddenly she remembered that—on her way to Elephant house—she had passed a pillar box. Running blindly and keeping to the outside edge of the pavement, she collided with it before she saw it. The crash of the impact winded her completely, but before she collapsed she managed to push the envelope thru the slit.

Then she felt herself gripped by unseen hands, in ghastly fulfillment of her nightmare.

After an interlude of strain and semisuffocation, when—blinded by a coat over her head, she had been bumped along thru the darkness—she realized that she was back in the hall of Elephant house. She looked around her fearfully, hardly daring to glance at a white shape doubled up at the foot of the stairs, because of its hideously unnatural posture.

With the exception of Thomas, the men had concealed their faces with dark scarves, while their eyes gleamed thru slits in the material; but she recognized their tones.

It was the dead voice that spoke to her.

"Where is that envelope? If you don't talk, I can make you."

"O, I'll talk," she said with faint triumph. "I posted it in the pillar box."

"Very clever," he sneered. "You may like to hear you've killed a man by that master stroke."

"Who? How?"

"The postman . . . If we force the box it might attract attention. We will let him unlock it for us and then make sure he won't talk."

Christina stared at him in horror.

"It's all my fault. My fault."

She sat thinking, thinking—until her brain ceased to function. She had grown dead to emotion when she was startled back to life by the sound of knocking at the front door. It was so loud and persistent that the dead voice whispered a command.

"Gag the girl. Open the door, Thomas, and stall."

Christina Closes Eyes at Sound of Shot

Nearly choked by the handkerchief which was roughly forced down her throat, Christina was dragged back into the shadow. She heard the door being opened a few inches and then Meta Rosenburg's voice.

"Where's Christina Forbes?" she demanded.

"Never heard of her," replied Ivor Thomas.

"You will . . . The police are here. Come on, boys."

At the sound of a shot, Christina closed her eyes. She kept them closed thruout the sensational fight which followed and did not open them until her gag was removed by her rescuing hero—Montrose.

Later in the evening she sat in Meta's flat. Montrose was there as well as Miss Monteagle, who smoked a cigar and drank most of the sherry. The postman had already finished his round in safety, after having delivered an unstamped envelope to the detectives from the munition factory.

"Sorry my diversion failed to let you get clear away," remarked the sporting lady to Christina. "You made a hell of a noise. I'll never take you stalking. . . . Lucky I didn't break my neck. I've broken every other bone huntin', but I'm reserving that for my last fence."

"You were wonderful," Christina assured her, altho her eyes spoke to Montrose.

"Want to know how the masterminds found you?" cut in Meta. "Thomas left your gas mask behind in the bus, since he was bound to be searched. He reckoned that when the conductor found it and took it to lost property there would be nothing to connect it with him. But an A. R. P. warden was on the bus and he spotted it and looked at your identification card. He's a bright local lad—and knows me by sight—so when he found an envelope with my address on it it seemed a good excuse to bring it around, as my flat was near."

As she stopped to refill the glasses, Montrose finished the tale.

"Meta got rattled, as you hadn't turned up, while your gas mask proved you were on the bus. Fortunately we discovered a scrap of paper stuck in your carrier with 'Bengal 6' scrawled on it. That gave us the idea where you'd got out."

"It's wonderful," repeated Christina, still looking at Montrose. "The funny part is, I suspected Meta, when really she is one of us."

Meta burst out laughing.

"Us?" she repeated. "You're too nice to be a mug. That sabotage-espionage is T. P.'s bright stunt to make the girls careful with the machinery. I know, because he's a relative of mine. Of course, the firm employs trained detectives."

"O!" Christina's mouth drooped with disappointment. "It was such a thrill to feel part of the war."

"Never mind," said Miss Monteagle. "I'm dated, so I can afford to spout Kipling, altho I can't say I'm quoting word for word . . .

"'Two things greater than all things are,
"'The first is love and the second is war,
"'And since we know not what war may prove——'"

Intercepting the message flashing between Christina and Montrose, her bass voice softened to the tones of a girl who had vanished into the past as she finished the quotation:

"'Heart of my heart, let us speak of love.'"

Kneeling beside the human parcel, she wrenched away a fold of linen and exposed the shriveled, sunburnt face of an elderly woman.

NO SURRENDER

"No, my darling. You won't die. But I can't help wishing I could leave it all to you."

INSTALMENT VIII.

CATHRYN came over and sat on the floor beside John Peter's chair. "What did Jed say in his letter?"

"That he's been admitted to the firm of Flint, Carver & Holt, which will become, I suppose, Flint, Carver & Galt. That's quite astonishing, you know, at his age."

"Jed is astonishing."

"Yes. I've found him so myself. Puzzling, too. He's very different from Rufe and me." Often John Peter forgot that Rufus belonged in another tense.

"Yes. Very different."

"He's much cleverer. More gifted. He'll go far."

"Out of sight," said Cathryn, her thrush voice and soft mouth both awry.

"We mustn't let him get out of our sight . . . even if he is a city man, an office man. You mustn't." John Peter sighed. "What will become of Faildyke?"

"O, Dad, don't." Her cheek laid itself quick and warm against him. He felt her hair and touched the dandelion silk with tenderness.

"I must, just this once, Cathie. Faildyke, under Jed, will be changed. The hunt, the horses, all Rufus' work and play . . . and mine . . . and yours . . . will go. Jimmie's been warning me. We know Jed will fire the Ameses, all three of them. He'll institute fierce economies. I dare say, he'll cut timber and farm the place, probably sell the unproductive beauty-places for homesites. He'll cut down on household expenses, dismiss all our old friends here . . . Mary and Matthew and the rest. Perhaps he'll rent . . . or lease . . . or even sell."

"Not sell," cried Cathryn, and beat her dramatic hands together. "Not sell Faildyke. I'll die. I'll die."

"No, my darling. You won't die. But, I can't help wishing I could leave it all to you."

Cathryn stood straight before him, white and vehement.

"O, no. Not that. It must be Jed's . . . all of it. Everything."

Dad smiled his fondest, softest smile, his faded eyes were misted. "I used to want Jed to marry you. Your mother wanted that, too. We never told you. I thought it would be Jed, rather than Rufe. Rufe was always running after the little Ranger girl. But Jed . . . I don't know who or what he's been running after . . ."

"Certainly not me," said Cathryn, swimming up and down the long room like a small queen of the tyrannic sort, Elizabeth or Russian Catherine.

Cathryn a Changeful, Exciting Companion

John Peter watched her, smiling. She was an amusing child, a changeful, exciting companion. "Why do you dislike my son, Jed, Cathryn Camilla Keithan? And why, if you please, does he dislike you?"

She stopped in the middle of the floor and her chin went up. Her arms were held behind her back. She always dressed for dinner, which they ate at a little table set up before this fire. Tonight her frock was a favorite of his, periwinkle blue lace with a sidelong wisp of train. She had the look of a field flower, a look both wild and prim.

"Dad, what makes you think . . .?"

"Darling Cathie, I have eyes, and ears, and a nervous system."

"But you're wrong. Jed doesn't hate me, Jed," said Cathryn speaking suddenly in a loud defiant voice, like that of a child telling a noisy lie, so that the words went ringing down the room, "Jed is in love with me. He's always been in love with me. . . . Hopelessly, desperately, romantically, till death do part . . ."

John Peter was incapable of sudden gestures, but he lifted his head forward from the pillow. His face and voice were both hollow with amazement.

"In love . . . with you. . . . In love?" He dropped back. He had accepted her extravagant fabrication. "Well, perhaps, that does explain it. And . . . you can't . . . you couldn't possibly love him?"

Cathryn Puts on Her Act for John Peter

Cathryn was already out of countenance, twisting her hands, looking down, moving this way and that in quick irresolute tackings.

"O, Dad. Forget I said it. Jed would rather die than say he loves me. If I were the last woman in the world . . . or the first . . . he'd never ask me to be his wife . . . he'd be torn to pieces rather . . ."

"Because of Rufe?"

"O, no. . . . Let's don't talk about it. At least, I mean . . . it was always . . . it was before. . . . His pride . . . Dad, he's so angry, and proud . . . and mean . . . and hateful."

"Come here a moment, Cath. I think you're putting on an act for my evening's entertainment. Come close and let me look at you. No . . . you don't look a bit like yourself. Your eyes are wild. Now be honest with me, my dear. Tell me the truth. You'd not marry Jed . . . supposing that is, he really cared for you?"

Cried Cathryn airily, spreading out her hands as tho to bestow largesse, "For you . . . because he is a Galt . . . for Faildyke . . ."

John Peter let go the hand he had managed to capture as it moved. Now she stood, obedient, ashamed, but still wild-eyed, beside him. Her breath moved fast with rapid breathing. John Peter shook his head. "My poor little hungry orphan," said he, "you love Faildyke . . . you would give your body to be burned for Faildyke. . . . And its future master will turn you out of its doors. I am afraid I know Jed better than you do, Cathie dear."

Cathryn sat down abruptly all in one piece on the footstool at his elbow. She put her face between her hands and pretended to be staring into the fire. She didn't want him to see her in tears . . . tears of anger and of shame . . . tears of dreadful sorrow. She had humiliated herself before this truest friend . . . and she had humiliated Jed. It wasn't true that he loved her or had ever loved her. And what she felt for him was such an iron band about her heart as tortured heretics had worn, cursing the Inquisition, a hooked, spiked band from which neither shrinking nor violent struggle could release her. Anger and hate and pain. Hate and anger and pain . . .

After a while she rose and went toward the desk. There lay the letter that began: "Dear Jed . . . I think you should come to see your father . . ."

She could not finish it . . . tonight. She glanced at Jed's father uneasily. He seemed to be asleep, his chin down on his chest, but presently he said, "No reading tonight, Cathie?" and she went over to him.

It was a week later, and the message to Jed had not been written, when John Peter died.

The few old friends that returned from the cemetery and lingered for some sad, inarticulate minutes on the Faildyke steps now left and Jed walked in, closed the massive door, and found himself alone.

Faithful to one of his dead master's wishes, old Matthew had left the quiet house to its unlighted dusk. But this was gray, leafless December and in the windows hung no tapestry of blossoms nor of small green leaves, but a cold, fading sky, lemon into gray, scarred with the cabalistic austerity of naked branches. The rooms were almost dark. Jed moved instinctively out of the empty hall toward the remnants of an open fire, ashes on coals. And there stood John Peter's chair, its pillow neatly plumped, its blanket folded.

Grief Bites at Jed's Heart and Throat

Jed stopped beside it. One of those fanged intensities of grief bit at his heart and throat. The too-sweet, gentle smile and look, the timid, beseeching gesture were not there, would not be there. Jed was blinded by a conviction of irremediable and guilty loss. Why had he resisted, why had he stiffened his pride? Why had he never surrendered to that patient tenderness. Surely there had been something evil in the stony rejection, the . . . the contempt. Jed put his hand across his eyes to shut out not only the memory of John Peter's patience, but the revelation of his own deformity.

He heard something that was less than a movement in the room, let fall his hand, turned himself about. Standing beside one of the long, deep windows, her face paper-white above her black dress, Cathryn Keithan had been watching him. A long silence, an immense distance stretched like dark water between them. Across it their eyes groped, were doubtful, lost each other. Slowly he came toward her, as tho the air had a half-translucent density, until he was able to speak softly and to see her eyes. They had fastened upon him, he knew by instinct, undeviatingly since his entrance, but with a crystal emptiness of feeling. They were eyes without love and without enmity, and they were waiting.

"Cathryn," he said. "Why did you keep me from him? Why didn't you send for me . . . in time?"

She said, in a voice muffled by the distance that in spite of physical nearness stretched interminably between them, "I tried . . ."

He weighed this, in another long and sombre stillness.

"You mean . . . there's something in your mind, your heart that wants to keep me out . . ."

"No . . . no."

". . . from any place where you are . . . where you want to be . . . from any heart. You are exclusive, Cathryn."

He moved back from her a step and seemed to pull all his nerves and muscles together so that he stood very tall. He bowed. "After all, we have nothing to discuss. I hope you'll stay on here, for as long as you please now and as often as you like always. I haven't had time to think . . ." He ran his hand back from forehead to nape across the sleek, hawk head,

What Has Gone Before

Seventeen-year-old Cathryn Keithan overhears Jed and Rufus Galt discussing the wish of their father, John Peter Galt, and her mother that Cathryn marry one of them. Jed says he refuses to be baited by Mrs. Keithan's hook. Cathryn, outraged and humiliated, goes to Perry Collen, stable boy on the Galt estate, Faildyke, and begs him to elope with her. Jed stops the elopement and, kissing Cathryn, tells her she is more in love with him than Perry. She slaps him and swears revenge. A few years later, after her mother has died, Cathryn goes to New York and gets a job as social scretary to Mrs. Ranger, whose daughter, Cicily, is engaged to Rufus. Jed is a member of a law firm in New York. Cathryn has turned from a weedy adolescent into a flaming beauty, and Rufus falls in love with her. Not knowing of his engagement to Cicily, she says she loves him. Jed accuses her of disloyalty and greediness, and when he tries to break up their romance Cathryn becomes more determined than ever to marry Rufus. They agree to wait a year to save Cicily's feelings. When the year is up the family gathers at Faildyke for the wedding. Jed kisses Cathryn passionately, and when she responds he taunts her by calling her unfaithful. On her wedding eve Rufus is thrown from a horse and killed. Jed suspects Ames, the Faildyke superintendent, whom he accused of cheating the estate, of fixing the horse's bridle so that the rider would be killed. It was Jed who was to ride the horse, but Rufus took his place. Cathryn stays on at Faildyke, taking care of John Peter. Jed warns her about Ames cheating the estate, but she refuses to heed. Jed sees a portrait of Cathryn painted by Sylvester and buys it. Later Cathryn goes to Sylvester's studio and sees one of Jed and buys that, neither knowing of the other's purchase.

Drama Critic's Spirit Is Restored by a Trip to Maine

He Sees Fair, Twins, Straw Hat Theater

By Burns Mantle.

Lakewood, Me. [Special].—It seems to me that it was perfectly fitting that we began to sing "God Bless America" with a little more gusto as we got into Maine. Both because the Irving Berlin anthem was the newest tune in our funny repertory and because the Maine experience is always more thrilling than any other to New Yorkers who have been a long time away from contact with these honest natives.

Maine is a great vacation state, but more than that there is something about its rocks and rills and templed hills that restores the spirit. Restoring the spirit is what vacations are for. You can stay home and hire a physical trainer to build up the body, but the spirit is likely to go sour.

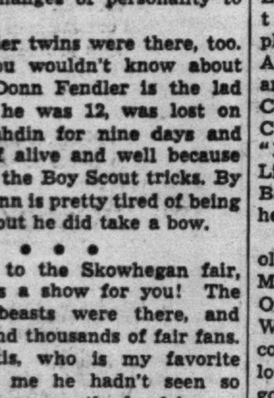
Maine folk are war conscious to a degree, but they don't talk much about war. Europe's pathetic fate is a dreadful puzzle to them. They just can't understand how people can act that way. They wonder a little what might happen to America if the war should spread. They have fantastic notions of a possible invasion from the north or the south. But they are as confident of the enduring friendship of Canada as they are of that of their own people, and Mexico and South America are too far away to cause them uneasiness.

They are politically minded, too. Completely sold on Wendell Willkie and his promise to restore business. But they do not talk much politics. Not with strangers. That is their instinctive native politeness.

We got in a day before the twins. It was the third annual Maine twin party. They began arriving at Lakewood as early as 8 in the morning. Wherever you looked you couldn't help seeing double. Two little ones in blue poke bonnets. Two in checked playsuits. Two tall ones in black and white turbans. Two in pink, two in stripes, two in rompers, two wearing black suspenders.

By noon, when they formed for the parade, there were 120 pairs in line. It was hot, and the little ones were pretty tired by that time, but they stuck it out. When they faltered, proud parents lifted and carried them.

Harry Carey, the film actor; Phil Dunning, the playwright, and Burns Mantle, your visiting correspondent, were the judges. God had taken care of the contests of the oldest and the youngest, the fattest, and the tallest. But we three had to decide which were the cutest, and the handsomest, and the shapeliest as bathing girls. We did our best.



Harry Carey.

There was one set of triplets, 20 months old, from across the lake. They were barred, tho our family statistician figured they might have been entered two at a time and added six changes of personality to the count.

The Fendler twins were there, too. Probably you wouldn't know about them, but Donn Fendler is the lad who, when he was 12, was lost on Mount Katahdin for nine days and kept himself alive and well because he knew all the Boy Scout tricks. By this time Donn is pretty tired of being a celebrity, but he did take a bow.

We went to the Skowhegan fair, too. There's a show for you! The birds and beasts were there, and thousands and thousands of fair fans. Sewell Curtis, who is my favorite native, told me he hadn't seen so many old timers on the hoof in one spot before in 10 years.

A Skowhegan fair is something more than the old time display of beef and jellies, hogs and jams, potatoes and washing machines. They still have hoss racin' and cattle judgin', fortune tellers, and what are called games of chance. But when the racin' is over for the day they clear the track in front of the grandstand and set up a stage that must measure at least 40 by 50 feet, back it with a full set of good looking stage scenery, and give a night show that wouldn't shame any theater in any town anywhere.

Mostly it is a good vaudeville show, with the best of circus acts. The high wire Wallendens were there, for example, and La Tosca, the little lady of the bounding rope who can turn you a double somersault off the rope without the aid of a pole or the protection of a net and land back astride the rope with her personality intact. It's good vaudeville, with the best part of a circus thrown in.

The ensemble numbers are taken care of by 24 likely looking precision dancers from the Roxy theater in New York, and there are a singing octet and a master of ceremonies to give the whole thing a sophisticated city night club atmosphere. Also a fireworks display bigger and more exciting than that of the world's fair.

We came on down to Walter Hartwig's place at Ogunquit, probably the most progressively professional of the summer theater camps. Violet Heming was there, guest starring as the unconventional heroine Lynn Fontanne played with Alfred Lunt and Noel Coward in Coward's "Design for Living." Bramwell Fletcher and Barry Sullivan were playing opposite her. Very good performances, too.

Violet Heming.

Recently Diana Barrymore, John's oldest daughter, had played with Madge Evans and Betty Furness in Ogunquit in "The Greeks Had a Word for It." The Hartwigs are convinced Diana, who is getting a lot of summer stock experience, is going to prove the greatest Barrymore of them all, if she sets her mind on a stage career. Which, she tells me, is her intention. Her mother, Michael Strange, is with her, and doing a bit of playing on her own when opportunity offers. She was the Alkmena in a revival of "Amphytrion 38" at Ogunquit a couple of weeks ago.

SINGER OF NOBLE TUNES

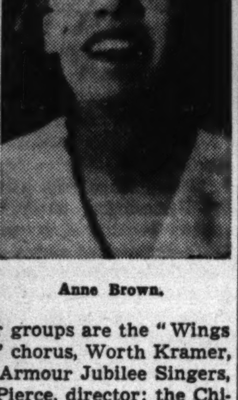
The accent in the Empire room is on Ray Noble's music, but little Janolee comes in for a good share of attention from Palmer House patrons when she sings the Noble tunes.

Current Music News

The National Association of Negro Musicians, Mary Cardwell Dawson, president, has just concluded its 20th annual convention, held in Chicago under the chairmanship of J. Wesley Jones. The association is an organization of 2,000 persons which has done a great deal to stimulate the study and practice of music among the colored population of the United States. Some of the avowed purposes of the association are as follows: To encourage the use of Negro folk themes as a basis of a modern school of Negro composition. To resist the desecration of Negro spirituals. To encourage the establishment of fully equipped musical departments in connection with schools and colleges. To develop higher professional standards among Negro musicians thru lectures, conferences, and conventions. To promote the exchange of ideas and the spirit of fellowship among all musicians. To create wider opportunities for Negro artists and musicians. To encourage and assist in the cultivation of musical gifts among talented, deserving Negro youth.

This is the day of the giant American Negro Spiritual festival at Soldiers' field, which is given by the colored people of Chicago for the benefit of Red Cross war relief. Members of all races are expected to take advantage of the low ticket prices. Four first rate soloists and a variety of large and small choral groups will participate. The program, which begins at 3, will include both sacred and secular music.

The soloists are Anne Brown, soprano; Louis Burge, contralto; Roland Hayes, tenor, and Todd Duncan, baritone. Miss Brown and Mr. Duncan, who starred in "Porgy and Bess," will be heard in excerpts from that work. The principal chorus will be J. Wesley Jones' aggregation of 1,000. Other smaller groups are the "Wings Over Jordan" chorus, Worth Kramer, director; the Armour Jubilee Singers, Cornelius A. Pierce, director; the Chicago Urban league's "Sharps and Flats" chorus, Maurice McGehee, director, and the quartet, the "Southernaires."



Anne Brown.

Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, whose wife, Marva, is general chairman of the festival, will be present today and will have 5,000 poor children, both white and colored, as his guests.

A highly important double debut will take place in the studios of W-G-N tonight when Jarmila Novotna, Czech soprano, and Maurice Abravanel, French conductor, make their first Chicago appearances as soloist and director, respectively, of the W-G-N Symphonic hour. Audiences and critics in New York, where Mme. Novotna made her Metropolitan debut last January, were deeply impressed by the beauty of her singing and by her radiant personal charm. She will sing with the Chicago Opera company this fall. Mr. Abravanel, who has a wide European and New York background, also is scheduled to appear with the opera here during the 1940 season.

Hermann Zilcher, director of the annual Mozart festivals at Wurzburg, Germany, has undertaken the heavy task of writing music for "A Midsummer Night's Dream" which shall take the place of Mendelssohn's. The works of the latter composer are under the Nazi ban. Zilcher's work will be performed in Cologne. The date has not been announced.

Coleman, New Show Coming to Chez Paree

By Will Davidson.

A show that crackles with possibilities has been conjured up by Chez Paree to herald the first Chicago appearance of Emil Coleman's orchestra, a debut which will take place Friday night amid the glitter and the creaking of the café carriage trade.

Kitty Carlisle of the films and the stage has at last been enticed onto a café floor, and will experience her first attack of night club opening night jitters here in Chicago. This lovely singing star will have plenty of company, however, when it comes to making a debut at the Chez, for of the supporting cast only bright eyed Gloria Day, the tap dancer, is a veteran of Fairbanks court entertainments. Danny Kaye, a newly acclaimed comedian; Bobby May, the juggler, and the Cole dancers are novitiates there. So, of course, is Coleman, the veteran darling of several crops of the east's flossiest debutantes. This element of novelty, combined with the known talent of the troupe, makes this show look promising indeed.

Bon Air's experiment of allowing a run of only two weeks for what has been generally regarded as the best show of its career did not quite click. The new revue is good, but lacks the unity and spark of its predecessor. This is not particularly the fault of any individual act. Russell Swann, a rare magician who is as entertaining when his illusions go on a sitdown strike as when they go off according to plan, gives the show an admirable amount of readily digestible comedy. His solicitous and stentorian attention to a surprised ringsider who until then had not been aware of his own deafness; his difficulties with the redhead minded rabbit; his flash paper and pestiferous pencils are classics of the café world. He's a smart entertainer and a capable master of ceremonies. Altho Jane Froman continues to command the adulation of Bon Air crowds, the laurels this week must go to two sprightly young ladies, the Readinger twins. Masters of choreography, they are blessed with wit and imagination, and their dancing becomes at once an artistic delight and an amusing diversion. This is interpretive ballet of a high order. The team dancing of the Lathrop brothers and Virginia Lee seems a little pale by comparison. The Belles of Bon Air offer three production numbers, and Abe Lyman continues to be master of ingratiating showmanship. Dan Stirling's Dukes and Duchess play for intermission dancing.

Ray Noble, whose sincerity and talent are constantly pleasing to Palmer House patrons in the Empire room, demonstrates his ability as an arranger in today's Graphic Section. Taking the familiar "None But the Lonely Heart," he has deftly converted it into a modern hit tune, in a unique but not too difficult piano arrangement.

The Bismarck has gone western, at least in what used to be the Bier Stube. Redecorated in a conservatively dude ranch motif, the room now echoes to the range-rhythms of Ding Bell and his three "Chuckwagon Boys." Ding used to help Jack Chapman grind out his superannuated swing, but with a perfect hoedown personality is more at home in this entertaining little group. Star of the show is Lucia Garcia, resplendent in Spanish caballero costume, and singing his lively and colorful Latin songs. Gaye Matthews, singer of sweet songs; Dottie Edan, tapster; Hank the Mule, and Shorty Carson, crooning guitarist of the Chuckwagon boys, offer specialties fitting the decor. Eddie Fritz, accordionist, and Ken Carbonel, bass player, are the other Chuckwagoners.

The new show at Villa Moderne finally veers away from the circus motif. The Martels, an adagio team seen on stage and screen here; The Three Moods, a fast-improving sister singing team; and Lester Ohman, with his marionettes, join Tony Cabot's band and singers in the nightly revues.

Scheduled openings for this weekend include Phil Levant in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel, Sacasas and his Latin music at the Colony club, The Four Inkspots and Dick Shelton at the Blackhawk.

Ted Weems has a new member in his troupe of musician-entertainers, now performing on the Beach Walk of the Edgewater Beach hotel. He is Ormond Downs, a very agitated young man with a pair of drum sticks. In the supporting floor show are Harris, Claire and Shannon, an adagio-ballroom team of unusual ability, and the Dorothy Dorben dancers in two attractive production numbers. One novelty is especially commendable—a whimsical thing involving a dozen miniature pianos.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Griff Williams returns on Oct. 19 to the Stevens hotel's Continental room, which will introduce Eddy Oliver, west coast maestro, to Chicago on Sept. 14. . . . Duke Ellington, who opens in the Panther room Sept. 6, will be followed probably on Oct. 11 by Benny Goodman and his new orchestra. . . . Aragon and Trianon ballrooms will hold three Labor day week-end parties, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights. Dick Jurgens is in full swing at the Aragon and Baron Elliott continues his popular run at the Trianon. Lawrence Welk will be back at the latter spot Sept. 4. . . . Jerry Shelton, the "squeezebox" maestro of the Pump room, has a new novelty: a musical impression of how "Frenchy," the ever popular maitre, mixes his famous salad dressings. It's a unique bit of musical tomfoolery that turns out to be a pretty genuine bit of arranging. Shelton is going to tackle crêpes suzette next. . . . Harry's New Yorker, now closed, will reopen probably about Sept. 19. It will have a new dining balcony, new Gotham-motif murals, and a device to elevate the stage, the bandstand, and, it is to be hoped, the quality of the masters of ceremonies.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I was entering the club my friend Brown was on his way out. His normally pleasant face bore a deep frown and tho I make no claim toward clairvoyance, I would have risked a small wager that a tantalizing pastime called contract was responsible for his woe. However, I had to say something, so fell back on the bromide "How's your luck?"

His response was more succinct than elegant. "Lousy!"

"Bad cards, or partner trouble?" I asked sympathetically.

"Cards. I didn't have an opening bid in four rubbers. And by actual count I held three perfect Yarboroughs."

I must have a strong preaching instinct, because this last remark made me lose all sight of the sympathy angle and started my mind working in a new direction.

"Speaking of Yarboroughs," I said, "has it ever occurred to you that even a hand without a face card, or a possible trick, may take some playing?"

He glared at me.

"I'll go further," I continued, ignoring his glare. [I'm used to them.] "One of the most beautiful plays I've ever heard about was made by an unfortunate fellow like you, who had a hand with no higher card than an eight spot. It's written up in a book by Travis White. Would you like to read it?"

"Not particularly."

"Well then, I'll send it to you. It's bound to be good for your morale, if nothing else."

"Never mind my morale—it's aces and kings I need!"

"That's what everybody says," was my parting shot, "but just for the good of your soul, take a look at the page I'm going to mark in that book."

And that is not bad advice for you, and you, and you, dear reader. Here it is:

"There is a rule known to almost everybody that you should not discard all your cards of one suit [except of course in preparation for a ruff] because the first lead of the suit will then expose your partner's holding and lay him open to a finesse. An excellent rule—that is, if you don't say 'never.'

"Quite often the declarer finds himself in a position where he must make a losing card good by leading a long suit and forcing the adversaries to discard. It's likely to be a nerve racking process for the defense. But suppose you haven't a card in your hand which can take a trick, and you can laugh in your sleeve at the declarer because discarding doesn't embarrass you in the least. Suppose you discard at random, and your partner, who holds winning cards in more than one suit but finds it necessary to throw something away, is forced to make a blind guess and guesses wrong.

"When you are in such a situation remember that you have a partner, and that the discarding is hard on him even if it doesn't worry you. Throw away an entire suit, so that your partner can count that suit. And give him the information as quickly as you can, in case his protection is deep and the suit to hold must be selected promptly. If you have only one or two cards left in one suit you can generally give the information by discarding that suit first and then beginning to discard another. Make your discards in proper order. It is then much easier for your partner to remember them and he is less likely to 'lose' a card thru a slip of memory; besides, a gap in the series may tell him exactly what he wants to know. Take this hand for instance:

NORTH
♥ J 9 4
♦ J 10 9
♣ Q J 10 4 2

WEST
♠ J 10 9
♥ A K Q 2
♦ Q 7 6
♣ K 9 3

EAST

♦ 8 5 3 2
♣ 8 7 6 5

SOUTH
♠ A K Q 8 5 2
♥ 10 6 3
♦ A K 4
♣ A

"South was playing this hand at spades, and West took in his three heart tricks and then led the jack of trumps. South proceeded to lead out all his trumps in the hope that the adversary who held the queen of diamonds would unguard it—a good chance if the same player held the king of clubs.

"East has a perfectly hopeless hand; he can never by any chance take a trick. If he plays on the assumption that his discards are immaterial, West is likely to unguard the diamond rather than the club on the theory that a king is a more probable trick taker than a queen. Even if dummy's discarding gives West a clue, he is still obliged to guess whether dummy's discards are made to deceive him, and he may guess wrong.

"If East is a good enough player to throw away an entire suit, but happens to select clubs as the suit to throw, West is not helped, because he will not get the information in time. West has two safe discards, a heart and a club; but when the last trump is led East will still have the eight of clubs and West has to select his discard first. He is quite likely to choose the diamond in the belief that East has been discarding his shortest suit and is now out of clubs.

"East, however, was not only good enough to discard an entire suit, but he was good enough to choose the diamonds for his purpose. His reason was that his clubs were all in sequence, but his diamonds were not; and when West, in watching East's discards saw a break in sequence, he would know the missing card was in the closed hand if he did not happen to hold it himself.

"West received the needed information just in time. East discarded the deuce, trey, and five of diamonds, the five falling on the fifth lead of trumps. When the last trump was led West knew that declarer had the four of diamonds and protection for the queen must be held.

"A beginner will probably object that West still could not know that South had no losing clubs. He did know, however, because if East had either the ace or the king of diamonds he would have echoed in that suit—'Partner, I can stop the diamonds; you look out for the clubs.' Since East had played the deuce, trey, and five of diamonds in that order, West knew that declarer had the ace, king, and four spot. There could be only one club in the closed hand—obviously the ace.

"Don't give up because you hold a 'bust.' You have a partner across the table. Carry on!"

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

South's contract is three no trump. West opens the spade six. Can the contract be made against the best defense? If so, how?

Solution: The contract can be made against the best defense, but South must make a very "cute" play. He must win the first trick with the spade queen, then immediately cash the spade ace and discard his ace of hearts! Now he picks up East's club king on repeated finesses, after which he leads his nine of hearts toward the queen. The very best East can do is win with the king and throw dummy on lead with the heart queen. In this way West will take the last three tricks, but declarer's nine tricks are safely home.

Swiss Army Music

One of the oddities of the current season in Switzerland is "La Gloire Qui Chante," a military musical production staged for the promotion of the Swiss National fund and the Swiss Red Cross. The work stems from the previous war, having a text by Consague de Reynolds and music by Emile Lauber. Supplementary numbers have been written by Joseph Lauber and Volkmar Andreae. It is not presented by a professional cast, but by soldiers of the French speaking Swiss Jura. The amateur vocalists, musicians, actors, directors, and painters of this organization who have produced the work have managed to create a popular link between the army and civilian population of the country with it.

"La Gloire Qui Chante" has an explanatory subtitle, "Songs of Swiss Soldiers Thru the Ages." "The prelude is reminiscent of historic Swiss events, such as the victory at Sempach and the defeat at Marignano. The first scene shows the famed Swiss Guard at the Court of France before the French revolution, and the second depicts their death in the assault on the Tuileries. There follows a Beresina song in memory of the Russian drive by Napoleon and the "Roulez, tambours," reminiscent of Neuchâtel's liberation from Prussia. The closing episode, concerned with an exaltation of the vitally important St. Gotthard pass, effects a connection with present day events.

So. African Fete

Johannesburg, S. A., witnessed its 15th annual music festival not long ago. The South African Broadcasting corporation and the Johannesburg Philharmonic society collaborated on the many presentations and events under the general direction of John Connell. The schedule offered three operas—"Aïda," "Rigoletto," and "Hansel and Gretel"—four orchestra programs, Bach's Passion According to St. Matthew, three ballets—"The Seasons," "The Sleeping Princess," and Elgar's "Wand of Youth" suites—and two special concerts featuring vocal soloists.

"Penthouse" Drama.

The "Margin for Error" company that played in Chicago a couple of months back recently acted out the play in the boxing ring of the Long Beach, N. Y., stadium. The audience was seated on all four sides of the ring, props were changed in full view of the audience and the players entered and made their exits on inclined runways placed at the four corners of the ring. Other companies, following the "Margin for Error" one, used or will use this so-called "penthouse" technique, which was developed by Prof. Glenn Hughes of the University of Washington. It has been tried out by little theaters thru out the country with varying success.

Magic Fingers Have Designed New Fur Coats

By Rea Seeger.

Fur coat makers have designed, with magic fingers, coats, jackets, and capes of unusual distinction. Swagger coats top the list of attractions as the all-purpose, general wear model needed in every wardrobe. They are the real swaggers, classic in outline, smart in streamline, and ending just enough above the hemline of a dress or skirt to keep them smart looking and young.

Sleeves this season have been knowingly emphasized. While more skins are used for these high fashion sleeves than in the past few years, this additional bulk is anything but unwieldy. Its fullness, area, or what-you-may-call-it is used as smoothly as in luxury fabrics, such as wool or velvet. Swirled effects, bishop's sleeves, gathered affairs ending in precise, narrow band cuffs, all are flattering and skilfully worked to maintain an easy, supple outline.

Flare is expertly introduced at the backlines, any fullness smoothed down flatly at the back with a clever yoke that accentuates the snap of the lower flare, and collars are all small, snug, and narrow.

Pockets of all sizes and outlines are high fashion det ils. Huge swing affairs are attached at the hipline. Deeply slanted pockets are concealed both on the hiplines and thru the side seams and on the chest. Waistlines are decisively defined with belts of contrasting material sewed into the fur, or by extra belts of the fur or suede. Contrasting band trim, in skirt, blouse, or sleeves, is a successful new trim idea featured in smart fur collections in all 1940 fall and winter showings.

Shoulder capes are decidedly new, in mink and dark furs for daytime and in beautiful ermine and white fox pelts and caracul for evening wear. Some drip with thick fringe, others are comparatively small in area, while still others are dramatic affairs to be wrapped around the figure. The old triangle shapes are revived for those who intuitively know how to wrap a shawl properly and provocatively around the shoulders.

There are plenty of short jackets featured for small and short silhouettes, with modest price marks agreeably easy on limited budgets. From boleros to extremely short hip-clearing models, they come in fluffy furs and the smoother, shorter haired skins. All the short jackets are simple in design, with loose, easy to slide into sleeves, tuxedo necklines, and seldom collared. Diagonal closing effects are new and slenderizing.

Persian lamb still is first choice of discriminating shoppers as the selection for an all-purpose winter coat. Sealskin in brown comes along about even to contend for popularity, and gray furs of all shades are staging a telling fashion comeback. After all, a good gray has almost the same background value with suit dresses and evening gowns as has black or dark brown.

Luxury furs still are handsome. Dark mink, sable, silver and blue fox are breath-taking beauties wherever you see them. The fox skins likewise spell glamor in long or short coats, and the flattery of silvery sheared beaver still is unmatched by any other skins.

More dye magic is featured in every showing. Sable-dyed martin, fitch, and raccoon look unbelievably luxurious, and the price marks still are incredibly modest for the beauty of color and design in the coats using these dyed pelts. It's a year of outstanding values, in styles, new blending and working of skins, in suppleness and slenderizing silhouettes. August special prices still impress the exacting shoppers, and the extra time available during a summer lull assures the careful execution of individual coats expressly fashioned for the individual.

Sketched are six new models from a brand new showing of high fashion furs. Further information available by calling Superior 0200.

Six Versions of Season's Fur Modes

A... New fur shawl, copied from triangles of grandmother's day, in dark mink with brown fringe or white ermine with white fringe. ● B... Dress parade jacket of pale tobacco brown dyed fitch. Tuxedo collarline hides pockets near the edge. ● C... Utmost in flattery, a long, boxy swagger of blue fox pelts, with simple straight sleeves blending with long vertical lines of skins. ● D... Inky black Persian lamb in daytime coat cut with wide flare to short skirt, and a defined waistline. Swirled sleeves are high fashion detail. ● E... Classic swagger for general wear of sable-dyed raccoon. ● F... Silky sheared beaver with smart shallow yoke at back neckline to accent flare of the coat.

Harshness to Child Causes Alienation

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

For fathers only.

Or should I say that today's article is only for fathers who are like the father of this young girl who has written to me?

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I am 14 years old and going to high school. Don't you think that I should have friends, and go places with the other girls? When they come to my house to ask my father if I can go anywhere he says 'No' and I have to stay home. When I walk in the street with him and see boys that I know, I'm afraid to speak to them, as he may hit me. I have told him that I must have friends like my other friends have, but he said that they will ruin me.

"When my girl friends come to the house he starts talking about me. When they are gone I cry and he hits me for it. I can't even turn on the radio to listen to anything. If I turn it on he turns it off and starts fussing.

"Please put this in the paper, so such fathers will see it."

The letters I receive from young people do not always describe such an extreme case as this one, but many of the letters do show fathers to be almost as far off the sensible track as this one, in regard to their daughters' going out or away from home.

While this father is harsh and unreasonable and uncontroled, he has, I believe, one thing in common with those other fathers who are what we might call just unnecessarily "strict." The thing these fathers have in common is usually fear.

Their fear is that if they allow their daughters any freedom at all they will form undesirable friendships, get into undesirable habits, and may encounter boys and girls who are what they think of as "immoral." So, altho they do it in a tyrannical way, they are trying to protect their girls.

But how unwise this way is! Unless a girl has a lot of judgment his way may eventually drive her, in a sort of young desperation, to defy her father openly or, what is worse, to deceive him and meet other boys and girls away from home.

Naturally, the neighborhood a family lives in, and the young people who may be available as companions, are a consideration. But looking at the whole picture, these following few things are fundamentally wise, and practical, too, for fathers to do and be:

A. A father should win his daughter's friendship. Every girl responds to this, and a father's pleasure and pride will grow as he makes this effort.

B. A father must make his daughter's friends welcome. Her home is the best place for her to be with them. In this way, too, he can come to know them.

C. He should have and show faith in his daughter. Parents must supervise their teen age children's hours and pleasures, but they must have confidence in them, too.

Last, these young people should not be allowed to grow up without a wholesome knowledge of the facts and beauty of sex and reproduction; a training in reserve and fastidiousness; and enough knowledge of the world as it is to serve as a protection to them.

Of course, the ideal thing is for all of this upbringing and training to be given to them gradually over a period of years, from the time they first begin to ask questions, and by that I mean questions of all the many kinds which children ask. For these are days of more freedom for young people. These are days when they hear more and see more of life, on the good side and the bad side and all sides, than most of their parents ever did when young. So we must help them to understand the world they see and hear and meet. We can do this by being their friend, and by having a fine relationship which makes it possible for us to talk easily with them of many things.

For a number of years now I have seen a great deal of young people of all ages, and their parents, and I know these kind and friendly ways are the wise ways. They work. They help you and your young sons and daughters to enjoy as well as understand each other.

All this, even with its mutual friendship and confidence, won't mean that they will want to spend all their time at home and with you. It is quite normal for youth to be absorbed in the many new aspects of life and the interests that open up for it as adolescence comes on. It won't mean, either, that you'll never have "pulls" or disagreements, but it will mean something so different from the father-and-daughter relationship described in today's letter that it is, for both of you, like living in a different world. And it will bring you and your boys and girls thru the years of adolescence into young manhood and womanhood with flying colors.

For parents of teen age children the following reading is very helpful:

[1] "Understanding the Adolescent," a fully written booklet. Requirement, a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

[2] "Sex Education," a booklet of reading references for all ages. Requirement, a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

[3] "Mothers' and Fathers' Litany," a leaflet especially printed on durable paper for permanence, summing up our aims as parents. Requirement: Your name, address, and postage. No envelope, please.

For any of these, address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, Ill.

Late Doctor's Discovery For Stomach Pains

Thousands are paying tribute to the memory of a famous doctor whose discovery has brought them relief from acid stomach pains. He discovered that coating the stomach lining with bismuth would protect the sensitive parts against the irritating action of foods and digestve secretions. Udga Tablets contain bismuth and other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udga for relief of stomach pains, indigeston, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udga Tablets are safe to use and must help or your money refunded.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

A special 3 cent stamp will commemorate the 400th anniversary of the expedition of Francisco Vasquez de Coronado thru the southwestern states.

The new stamp, which will be purple in color, printed by the rotary process and issued in sheets of 50, will be placed on sale for the first time at the Albuquerque, N. M., postoffice on Sept. 7, and it will be available at other postoffices thruout the country as soon thereafter as distribution will permit. The design is horizontal and measures 1 44/100 by 84/100 inches.

The central motif of the new stamp which is to be arranged in the form of an oval, will be a reproduction of the painting "Coronado and His Captains," by Gerald Cassidy, the title of which is shown in white Gothic lettering in a narrow panel with solid background at the base of the picture. In a horizontal panel with dark ground at the lower edge of the stamp is the wording "1540—Coronado Cuarto Centennial—1940" in white architectural Roman lettering. In a similar arrangement at the top of the stamp, partly obscured by the central design, is the wording "U. S. Postage" at the left and "Three Cents" at the right. In the space below these inscriptions are white shields ornamented by laurel branches. The shield at the left contains the denomination "3c" in the color and the one at the right incorporates the Coronado coat of arms.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of the new stamp on Sept. 7 may send a limited number of addressed covers, not to exceed 10, to the postmaster, Albuquerque, N. M., with a cash or postal money order remittance to cover only the cost of stamps required for affixing. Postage stamps will not be accepted in payment.

Collectors who wish unused stamps for their collection may order these from the Philatelic agency, where they will go on sale Sept. 8.

A recent decision of the Universal Postal union modifies a regulation so that hereafter postcards which do not fulfill conditions laid down for that class of mail are to be treated as letters, except, however, that postcards on which the irregularity consists solely of the application of the stamps on the back, are to be treated as unpaid.

This ruling will hamper collectors of "maximum cards," that is, view cards bearing a stamp on the view side of the card which shows the same scene as pictured on the card itself and postmarked with a legible cancellation of the town where the scene is laid.

If actually treated as unpaid the stamps on the view side of the card would not be canceled, and unless addressed to foreign countries would be returned for postage, or sent to the dead letter office or destroyed if no return address were given.

The fact that there are famous Saint Gaudens statues of Abraham Lincoln in both Lincoln park and Grant park is confusing to some philatelic writers and correspondents. The Lincoln park statue, or rather a plaster cast of that statue, was long considered the source of the portrait on the Lincoln commemorative stamp of 1909. When Grant park was beautified and a long hidden statue of Lincoln brought out of hiding and set up south of the Art institute it was discovered by a local collector-photographer that this was the portrait used for the stamp. For several years this correct solution of the source of the portrait has been unquestioned. Now comes a correspondent of Linn's Weekly Stamp News saying that a reference to Saint Gaudens' famous Lincoln in Grant park is erroneous, and that Lincoln park should have been mentioned. This is all very confusing to beginners, and it is suggested that the correspondent, who is a Chicagoan, take a walk in Grant park and see the equally famous seated Lincoln by Augustus Saint Gaudens.

George C. Hahn, specialist in the current Presidential series and conductor of United States topics in the International Stamp Review, calls attention to the fact that electric eye plates have been made for the 3 cent booklet stamps. Plates 22434 and 22435 were the first plates made, and these were sent to press on May 10. Collectors should be on the lookout for panes bearing a legible portion of these numbers, altho their release to the public is not expected for several months.

Several collectors are making specialized collections of cancellations on Presidential stamps. An attempt is made to obtain the entire series of 32 values showing each type of postmark or killer. In such a collection one page would show the familiar wavy line machine mark, another page would show colored cancels, oval killers with numerals or letters, registry marks, etc. Altogether such a collection would fill a large album and would require considerable work in examining quantities of stamps before it showed a semblance of completeness.

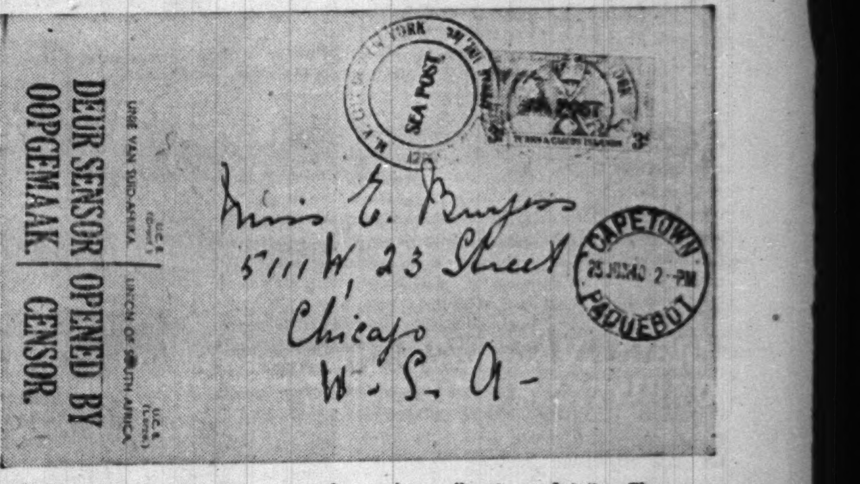
F. Roth, 3627 South 61st avenue, Cicero, will sponsor a cachet for Labor day, Sept. 2. Do not send covers, but send only the stamp you wish used together with 1 cent additional for forwarding. Commemorative stamps on wrappers appreciated.

Loring W. Stannard, 1 Holbrook place, and William Luria, 120 South Cliff street, Ansonia, Conn., will cosponsor a Navy day cachet on Oct. 27. Mailings will be from 25 destroyers in the neutrality patrol. Send as many covers as desired to reach either sponsor by Oct. 5, and enclose 1 cent forwarding fee for each cachet ordered. A list of ships to be covered will be supplied to any one sending in a postal card with the request.

The American Export Lines have announced that their two new boats, the S. S. Exemplar and the S. S. Exhibitor, will commence their maiden voyage in the New York-India service via Cape of Good Hope on Sept. 5 and Sept. 20, respectively. These round trip voyages will take something under 100 days and are among the longest maiden voyages in point of time and mileage made by any regular cargo steamer service.

To commemorate these voyages the company has prepared a pictorial or printed cacheted cover showing the map of the world and a view of the steamer with the routes and ports of call. It is planned to frank the covers with the new pictorial stamps of Ceylon. If interested, communicate with American Export Lines Philatelic agent, 31 Park row, New York City.

The 20th anniversary of the first coast to coast airway will be celebrated on Sept. 8, and on the same day the hangars and administration building of Portland, Ore., superairport will be dedicated. A single air mail cachet will commemorate both events. Mail envelopes properly stamped with postage at air mail rates, and properly addressed to M. F. McCamley, catchet director, United Air Lines, 625 Southwest Morrison street, Portland, Ore., before Sept. 2. Covers will be routed via New York City on the present route by Mainliner.



This interesting war cover is from the collection of Miss Eleanor Burgess. The letter was written on board the motor vessel City of New York by Lady Lukin, widow of the late commander of the South African forces, while en route from New York to Cape Town. The letter was franked with a Turks and Caicos Islands stamp, posted on the ship and received a Cape Town Paquebot mark when it passed thru that office. The bilingual censor labels were applied at Cape Town.

Your Stars Today
By WYNN

Sunday, Aug. 25.

Today's vibrations are the kind we would do well to glide over as gracefully and effortlessly as possible; relax; wait for better opportunities. Week ahead improves in latter half, so don't make long distance commitments too soon.

Psychological Walls.

Ancient cities built walls to keep out invaders. Not one of them ever succeeded for long. The invader always bottled up the city by means of the very means that at first looked like defense. Psychologically it is the same: if we build mental walls about us to keep others out, we have at the same time erected barriers that will keep us in and prevent our normal expansion. Result: defeat.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today your birthday offers more opportunity from mid-November, so push ambitions, especially old ones, and those connected with distance, home folks, education, elders. Danger: Jan. 1-9; May 6-20, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Routine; pay attention to long distance effects of present causes.

Fresh Fruits Combine Well in Many Salads

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Summertime is fruit salad time. Fresh fruits find their way even into meat salads these days. Fruits and chicken are one of the best of the meat and fruit combinations.

It's hard to go wrong on a fruit combination, or on a fruit and chicken combination. Almost anything goes, just so it's very cold and very fresh. Dressings for fruit salads should be fresh and cold, too.

Here are a few fruity ideas for August and early September salads and salad dressings.

CHICKEN FRUIT SALAD.
[Serves Eight.]

3 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup diced banana
1 cup diced apple
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup blanched almonds
French dressing, mayonnaise
Watercress

Combine chicken with fruit and celery and chill in French dressing to moisten, for an hour. Drain excess dressing, add almonds, and mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on watercress and garnish with celery curls.

AVOCADO AND CANTALOUPE SALAD.

Arrange slices of chilled melon and chilled avocado together on crisp chicory and serve with a lemon French dressing. A few watermelon balls are pretty as a garnish. Scattered fresh berries may be used as garnish, too, altho the salad really needs none.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD PLATTER.
[Serves four.]

2 large, fresh peaches, peeled and halved
French dressing
2 large pears, peeled, quartered, and cored
1 banana
4 large plums, halved and pitted
4 small clusters white grapes
4 small clusters sweet purple grapes
Chicory, watercress

Dip the halved peaches into French dressing and arrange them on watercress at points on the plate, dividing the arrangement into fourths. On either side of each peach half arrange a quarter of a pear. Make a bed of chicory in the center of the plate, and arrange plum halves and quartered banana on it. Fill in open spaces in the arrangement with the grape clusters. Serve a honey French dressing or creamy dressing separately. All salad ingredients should be cold.

A wine and honey French dressing is delicious with any fresh fruit salad, and seems especially good with the one just described.

CLARET AND HONEY FRENCH DRESSING.

⅔ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lemon juice
6 tablespoons claret wine
¼ cup honey
⅛ cup olive oil

Shake or beat ingredients together and serve. Extra dressing may be kept in a corked bottle or covered jar in the refrigerator.

Wine may be used in a creamy mayonnaise type dressing for a fruit salad, too. Try this combination some time soon.

WINE FRUIT SALAD DRESSING.

¾ cup good mayonnaise
½ tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons Tokay wine
¼ cup heavy cream, whipped

Add lemon juice and wine to mayonnaise, and fold in whipped cream.

CHICKEN, GRAPE, AND TOASTED ALMOND SALAD.
[Serves eight.]

4 cups cubed cooked chicken
2 cups seedless grapes
1 cup sliced toasted almonds
Mayonnaise
Cantaloupe rings
Watercress

Combine chicken, grapes and toasted almonds with mayonnaise to moisten and serve in melon rings on watercress. Garnish with more toasted almonds.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD.
[Serves six.]

1 cup diced fresh peaches
1 cup diced pineapple
½ cup cut celery
½ cup chopped toasted almonds
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Mix fruit with celery and almonds. Fold mayonnaise into whipped cream and combine with fruit. Freeze several hours in refrigerator tray. Slice and serve on greens.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

The college girl values beautiful nails, kept that way on a budget. So a manicure kit heads the list of necessities for a year away at school. One new one, created especially for her, is a case of bright, gay, plaid serge that contains everything she needs for maintaining a high standard of nail grooming.

Watching the schoolgirls as they flock into the shops for their wardrobes, we're thrilled to find them such an articulate group. They know exactly what they want, and their wants are sensible. Curfew has rung on the silly season for the college girls. Even the regional fads have a grain of sense to them.

The girls like box coats, flat heeled shoes, sweaters and skirts, the very minimum of junk jewelry, and simple, sane beauty aids.

They use less makeup than almost any other group, and good grooming is a fetish with them.

They value a good complexion, shiny hair, and beautifully kept hands. Their beauty equipment is fairly light.

In this equipment manicure aids are important. Every collegienne has her own nail kit, partly because the schoolgirl's budget usually doesn't permit a professional manicure very often, but mostly because nails need constant attention to be beautiful, and beautiful hands are a point of pride with every girl.

Demand has created the supply of efficient, inexpensive nail kits that have been brought out especially for the girl going off to school. Looking over the field of these, some youngsters we know gave a figurative blue ribbon award to one done up in bright plaids. They liked its looks [plaids are a campus favorite], they liked its contents, and they thought the amazingly low price was "divine."

Here's what it contains: Nail enamel, a famous brand and a good one, in any shade the schoolgirl favors; an oily, nonacid remover; a cuticle lotion that keeps the nail base soft and trim; a file, an orangewood stick and emery boards. It's one of those compact kits that takes up practically no room in the schoolgirl's trappings. Each item in it has its own snug little niche.

This is a bargain. And, for the girl who wants more manicure implements, there are similar good buys. One thing of which you can be certain is that a manicure kit always is a hit as a gift. The girls like them, need them, and use them.

For information telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0200. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for written reply.

Captures Parachutist in Front Yard; Given Medal

King George VI. has awarded the medal of the Order of the British Empire to Mrs. Nora Cardwell, who with "great pluck and presence of mind" captured a German aviator who recently parachuted from his disabled plane into her front yard.

The Lady of the House

August is the scratchiest month of the whole year for me. I can develop more itches and allergies in the dog days than in any other equal span of time the whole year round. What's your main dog days trouble?

This morning heavy lightning and a great growl of thunder—old Jupe Pluvius' own "blitzkrieg"—woke me. In the midst of all the sound and fury a wren blithely sang from the lilac and from somewhere near a jolly robin and an oriole joined in the matins. Made me think of a little couplet of my childhood:

All summer long beside my door,
The little bird sang evermore.

That's what I like about wrens. They sing all summer—long after the other birds have become silent or flown away.

I remember the first wren I ever met. He and his Jennie had a nest in a knothole in a corner post of what we proudly called the "carriage shed," the "carriage" being a shiny black top buggy. There was a flower embroidered lap robe to keep the dust off our Sunday clothes, and a tasseled, fringed fly net for old Bessie, the horse.

A neighbor has a beautiful canary. She puts him out on the porch on bright days and he does the most dramatic arias for the whole block. A regular male coloratura—or is there any such thing? Anyhow, he is no end cheerful these trying days and puts all the growlers to shame. If that "little bird in his gilded cage" will sing, why don't we all? So I'll tune out the quarreling sparrows and tune in the canary. He is bursting with ecstatic trills this moment.

Next door to the canary a man is trimming his hedge. Every little sprout that has started up in the world is grimly sheared away; ends and corners trimmed geometrically. That kind of hedge always has such a thwarted look to me—no chance at all for self-expression.

Some one sent me a shining bowl of wild blackberries today and I have made them into jelly. The row of oddly assorted glasses looks like a string of great uncut garnets against the light of the kitchen window. Will that jelly be good with hot biscuit! And chicken!

Rain in the Fields.

Lowering clouds ride up from the west,
pushed by a romping, rollicking wind.
Haymakers toss the cocks to the rack;
then hurry along behind.

A hush—the wind is still.
A stir—a rush, and all at once across the field comes riding a swift massed troop of lancers, with silver spears aslant.

Shafts splintered against the windrows,
the victors ride off to the east;
while from dark, sheltering mows
the vanquished haymakers see the bright washed face of the sun.

"Does that K-K baker stop here?" asked the baker boy when he brought me a loaf of his good brown bread. "My baby died and we had the funeral yesterday, and that guy goes over my route and wherever folks have my stop sign up, he goes in."

Gray hairs should bring dignity and poise, but I did see red for a second and I am afraid I said, "Why don't you bust him on the snoot next time you see him?"

I discovered a fragrant variety of goldenrod in my little wild garden the other day, and the lacy leaves of the mountain ash are all set with clusters of red-gold jewels these days. How the goldfinches love them! The little roads have much to offer now. All purple and gold with treasure. Did you miss the bouncing Bet, the heavenly blue chicory, the red chalice of the wood lily, the flame of butterfly weed? Nature's neon signs advertising her mystery and her beauty.

Cut-Outs from Oil Cloth

By Jean Macdonald.

The needleworker who wants a change and a lot of fun will do well to create these simple cut-outs made from lightweight oilcloth. The boy and girl are made from oilcloth and then stuffed, and are 9 inches tall. There is nothing more intriguing than a giraffe, and he is all yours, inexpensively, for the making. These are ideal for children as prizes, favors, curtain pulls, or automobile mascots. The pattern provides cutting charts and complete instructions.

For instructions in cutting and making the oilcloth figures, No. X-805, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Committee for Tribute to China Meeting Success

The recently organized women's committee of Tribute to China, headed by Pearl S. Buck, author and Pulitzer prize winner, already has raised more than half of its $100,000 quota for the relief of Chinese women and children.

A "Book of Hope" containing the signatures of 1,000 outstanding American women is to be drawn up as a tribute to the courageous women of China. Each signature will represent a donation of at least $100. Miss Buck has written a message of admiration and encouragement to the women of China for the book, and Martha Sawyers has contributed a painting of a Chinese mother.

All funds raised are turned over to the American Bureau of Medical Aid to China. Mrs. R. J. Raney, Mrs. Lauren J. Drake, Miss Alice L. McDougall, and Mrs. P. E. Kroehler are Chicagoans who recently have joined the committee.

That "Dressmaker Look" in a Paneled Fall Suit

By Bettina Bedwell.

If your first fall suit has that "dressmaker look" you'll be in the best fashion company, because femininity is the watch word of autumn chic. Even tho you must be tailored, you can do it with an air, and this suit is just the one to help you achieve your goal. Every line of this paneled costume accents the figure trimly. In fact, the paneling is the styling of this costume. There's a typical shirt waist collar and large buttons down the front of the neat jacket. The squared shoulders have easy sleeves that are fitted in the forearm. The skirt, while it is figure modeled at the hips, develops graceful flare.

The original of this costume is in silk faille, a ribbed fabric with dressy qualities. The outfit would be just as attractive in a sheer, woolen or some other silk. Velvet buttons are a good idea.

Style No. 5362 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders to Chicago Tribune Salon Patterns, 119 West 19th street, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Edward King, Chicago—I told the wife I'd make your column with this "help." I call for some ordinary vegetable shortening or mineral oil when I want to get stubborn paint off my hands. Either the oil or the shortening is better than turpentine, since there's no odor to get rid of.

Mrs. George Bacon, Chicago—Wouldn't it be possible to attach a chemical purifier to all motor exhaust pipes and eliminate the fumes they puff forth?

Miss Ruth Ware, St. Paul, Minn.—Here's how I keep my cook books nice and clean. [I'm the sort of cook who needs a book handy most of the time.] I use my glass bottom serving tray to place over the book, which I lay flat on work table. This tray keeps pages flat, too. If you haven't a glass bottom tray, a baking dish of clear glass will do just as well.

* *

Mrs. Donald Emory, Chicago—I keep ordinary blackboard erasers on my children's desks to be used as pen wipers. They have learned to draw the pen between the sections of thick felt, and these plain garden variety of erasers save many a splash of ink and the work of getting it off.

Motto in Cross-Stitch

By Nancy Cabot.

There is no more effective motto than this ancient truth depicted in cross-stitch. This is an ideal consolation present for those who are living away from home or for those whose home is nearest their heart. It may be embroidered on oyster white linen or cotton, Indian head, or linen crash. When completed the picture measures 14x18 inches. The pattern includes instructions and an illustrated color chart.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the cross-stitch motto, No. X-644, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Sally Closes Party Season with Regrets

By Sally Joy Brown.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Well, boys and girls, all good things must come to an end, and the summer vacation is no exception to the rule. The last day of August is close at hand, and soon the calendar will be turned to September.

Almost 1,000 boys and girls have been my guests this year, and every week produced some special treat. We've been to movies, baseball games and the circus, and had a grand time at every single party. Everywhere we went, people mentioned what a nice group of youngsters I had as my guests, and I agreed thoroly.
party, which made me feel well repaid for my efforts, because I know you've all had a good time.

And so, our party season ends for another year, but remember, I'm here all the year 'round, and you can come to me at any time, if you need help.

Good-by and good luck until next summer, boys and girls!

Here are the names of the children who have been selcted to attend our farewell party of the year. They will be my guests out at Wrigley field on Aug. 29, and will see the Chicago Cubs play Boston. Personal invitations will be mailed to each child within the next few days:

Clotilde Children's Patterns

The two children's patterns shown today are just a little "different" and we think both you and the small fry will like them. In the left hand panel is illustrated a group of hats, four distinctly separate styles, all made with the one pattern. They're grand designs for toddlers' heads and are planned to keep fashion company with school clothes. Top, a beret; next, a brimmed hat; then a "beanie," and last, a Scotch topper.

In the right hand panel is a pattern which makes "beanies" for both boy and girl, and jumper outfits, trousers for the youth, a skirt for the small miss. Woolens are the obvious choices for this pattern, with the tailored blouses in either cotton or washable silk.

Style No. 3447 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, and 10 [19, 20, 20½, 21, 21¼ inches]. Halo beret and brimmed hat each require ½ yard of 35 inch material, with ½ yard of ribbon; ¼ yard of fabric for "beanie"; ⅝ yard of fabric with 1¾ yards of ribbon for Scotch hat.

Style No. 3419 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires ⅞ yard of 54 inch material for girl's skirt and cap, with 1 yard of 39 inch for blouse; ⅞ yard for boy's trousers and cap, with 1 yard of 39 inch for blouse.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's Fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Coiffure Must Be as Becoming as "Right" Hat

How does your health affect your hair? The answer to this question and many others on the care of the hair will be found in Antoinette Donnelly's booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Deaborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents; postpaid, 7 cents.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Make your hair as becoming as your best bonnet. After all, your hair is the hat nature provided. It tops your personality even on the days when you don't go out, but nature is no milliner or stylist. It is as if she gave you the materials, the color, the textures, the curl or lack of it, and left the arrangement up to you.

You wouldn't take the makings of a hat—straw or ribbon, or felt or flowers—and just slam them on your head. No. You study fashion magazines and go to the best shop you can afford. You spend an hour or two selecting. Every time you put a hat on you are careful to tilt it at the correct and becoming angle, or at least we hope you do. When it loses its shape, you have it reblocked or discard it.

Yet how many women, especially between permanents, wear their hair in its original state? Or, worse, they flaunt it in a condition nature never intended, as a dowdy woman might cling to a year before last faded toque.

A smart haircut soon loses its contours, but the owner blithely postpones getting it "reblocked." The outdoor enthusiast permits her brown or blonde locks to grow faded and dull from exposure to the wind or sun. The thin faced woman lets her tresses grow so long and lank about her thin cheeks that she looks like an orphan. Her friends begin inquiring if she is ill.

Keep up with the hair styles and adapt them to your appearance and personality, just as you would adapt your clothes. When you are arranging a new headdress or having it arranged for you, pretend it is a new hat you are selecting. Be sure you get the most becoming lines.

Long hair may be waved to give a round rather than a long head. The curls at the nape of the neck may be longer and the side locks kept short. Feathery curls over the forehead will suggest femininity. An upward sweep "lifts" lines from an older woman's face.

Between visits to the beauty parlor, take care of your coiffure. No matter how skilfully your ringlets are set, after a few days the ends generally need to be put up at night. In that annoying stage when a permanent is half grown out, curlers are even more essential.

A vigorous daily brushing and oil treatments will keep your locks as smooth and well groomed as a hat box, hat stand and brush do your favorite hat. When you fix your hair in the morning, be sure it falls into flattering lines and tilts over your eye or off your forehead, according to the requirements of your face.

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of The Chicago Tribune.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

The wheel chair is a magic carpet to the invalid. It marks the difference between an existence spent entirely in a lonely sickroom and a chance to move about; to see more than four walls; to have a bit of fresh air and sunshine. It provides a chance for at least a little independence rather than complete helplessness.

A life of invalidism, coupled with poverty, is indeed a dreary one. Such persons have little opportunity to help themselves, and must turn to others for assistance.

A case worker in a large public hospital wrote to me recently in behalf of a patient. I am passing her letter along to readers, in the hope that some one may have an unused wheel chair on hand.

"Dear Miss Brown: Mr. X. is suffering from severe chronic arthritis which has caused him to lose the use of both legs. Before his recent admission to the hospital, he had been unable for more than a year to work or to care for himself. If we could find a wheel chair it would enable him to help himself a little. He lives in a tiny apartment on the northwest side. His wife is employed as a stenographer, but cannot afford the purchase of a chair.—Mrs. S."

A similar appeal from the south side of the city.

"Dear Miss Brown: My father recently returned home from the hospital after being in a ward for a year and a half. During that time he had two spinal operations, which have left him a semi-invalid. Since he has come home, mother has had to carry him when he was moved at all.

"Under present circumstances, with an income of $35 a month, it is impossible for us to rent or purchase a wheel chair for him, but it certainly would be a relief to both my father and mother if you could find one. Thank you for considering my letter.—E. S."

An elderly invalid writes her own request:

"Dear Miss Brown: You have helped so many. Perhaps you can help me. I need an electric heating pad. Mine burned up the other night and I can't afford another. I don't know whether you can do anything about it, but thought I would ask you. I'm 64 years old and have neuritis of the spinal cord, and have been unable to work for some time. I've used up all my funds and now am dependent upon relatives.—M. X."

From a children's agency: "One of our case workers in the northern part of the state has under her supervision a girl of 14 who presents quite a personality problem because she is large for her age and quite awkward and ungainly. She does not mix well with other children because of her self-consciousness and the worker has been trying to find some remedy. The child has expressed a great deal of interest in a guitar, and we feel that, if we can obtain one, it might be the solution to the youngster's problem."

...ON YOUR PRUDENTIAL WEEKLY-PREMIUM POLICIES WHEN YOU GET TO BE MY AGE"

"HERE'S WHAT MY PRUDENTIAL AGENT TOLD ME":

PRUDENTIAL AGENT: From now on, Mrs. Newton, your Prudential Weekly-Premium policy which you took out in 1919 will remain in full force, but you'll never have to pay another premium.

MRS. NEWTON: That's wonderful! And it's certainly going to be a big help to me.

PRUDENTIAL AGENT: Yes, The Prudential knows how difficult paying premiums may become as you grow older. And so, it has arranged all its Weekly-Premium Whole-Life policies so that they become completely paid up at a set date. On earlier policies premiums cease at age 75. On all policies issued since 1916 at ages below 60, premiums stop when you reach 70.

MRS. NEWTON: And yet I still have the full amount of insurance?

PRUDENTIAL AGENT: Yes, Mrs. Newton, and, as you know, Prudential dividends credited as paid-up extra insurance each year have considerably increased the amount of your policy.

MRS. NEWTON: It certainly pays to keep your Prudential policies in force, doesn't it?

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, yet not greasy, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations. FREE—tube of Glider. Send your name and address today. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. OG-17, Glastonbury, Conn.

Give Your Hair the

HIGHLIGHTS MEN ADMIRE!

See how one Halo Shampoo brings dancing radiance even to driest hair, leaves it soft, curlable, easy to do.

YOU won't believe, until you see for yourself, how much brighter your hair looks; how much softer it feels, after a HALO shampoo.

For Halo cleans every particle of grime and waste from each hair. Yet Halo contains no soap to leave that stubborn, sticky film on your hair. This film can give your hair a dull, dingy cast; make it feel stiff, look lusterless.

But what a thrilling difference when Halo's rich, creamy lather removes the curtain of film that clouds the color of your hair. Brunette hair shines with enchanting, deep tones. Blonde hair sparkles like streaming sunlight. Whatever the color, hair looks brighter, richer, more entrancing. And because HALO leaves no soap film, you need no lemon or vinegar rinse.

You will find Halo economical, too. Try it today, won't you?

Halo Shampoo is approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau!

For a generous bottle of Halo, send this paragraph with your name, address and 10c to Halo, Dept. N-907, Jersey City, N. J. This offer expires September 18, 1940.

A GREAT MEMORIAL NEARS COMPLETION

—and its sculptor, GUTZON BORGLUM, tells of the 13 years' work involved... the nervous strain... the many headaches...

Mount Rushmore National Memorial — heads of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt — photographed by Lincoln Borglum, son of the sculptor.

MASSIVE HEAD OF LINCOLN is over 70 feet high . . . nose alone is higher than face of Egyptian Sphinx. (above) Mr. Borglum is let down from top in harness to inspect the work. He sees each of 35 assistants every day. It's an exhausting job and the sculptor must have a clear head, steady nerves.

FINISHING WASHINGTON'S EYE, Borglum marks an area in red paint to be modeled by driller. To "carve" his memorial, Borglum used dynamite, pneumatic drills . . . found incessant drilling caused headache. "That's one reason I keep Bromo-Seltzer on hand," he says.

MANY PROBLEMS for Mr. Borglum on this giant sculpture. He solves his headache problems the way millions do. "I take Bromo-Seltzer because it gives me extra help I can't get from an ordinary pain reliever," he says. "It helps my head, stomach, nerves!"

Why BROMO-SELTZER does more for you than a simple pain reliever can... helps head, stomach, nerves

• Headache is usually a symptom of some upset in your system. If you get headaches time and again . . . or if they hang on . . . you should see your doctor. But, fortunately, most headaches are simple ones. They may be:

NERVOUS—from worry, fatigue, etc.

DIGESTIVE or MORNING-AFTER—from a bit too much to eat or drink.

For these, you want prompt relief from pain . . . help for nerves and stomach, too. Simple pain relievers can't give you all this. Bromo-Seltzer does. It acts in these important ways:

1. RELIEVES PAIN—works quickly to ease the "ache."
2. STEADIES NERVES—relaxes tension. You feel calmer.
3. SETTLES UPSET STOMACH—relieves nausea. Helps set you right.

For over 50 years, millions have relied on Bromo-Seltzer. Follow directions on label. At all drugstores, soda fountains. Keep it at home, too.

Liked more because it does more for headache

Send for this easy Ry-Krisp reducing plan

Losing weight can be a thrilling experience when you follow the Ry-Krisp plan. No drastic diet, no exhausting exercise... yet, following this plan, a normal overweight person can lose about 7 pounds a month.

3 Easy Rules to Follow

1. Enjoy 2 or 3 Ry-Krisp wafers as your bread at each meal. Important because each delicious wafer has only 20 calories yet is a source of energy and supplies bulk to help stimulate natural elimination.

2. Eat sensibly. Using the Ry-Krisp booklet as a guide, you can choose your own menus, enjoy foods you like while reducing.

3. Exercise moderately... just to help keep your skin and muscles firm.

Ry-Krisp comes in the red-and-white checkerboard box, has the name baked in every wafer. Served in restaurants, on trains and planes. Ask for it by name.

Free Reducing Booklet — Just send penny postal, stating whether booklet is for man or woman. Address Ry-Krisp, 754R Checkerboard Square, St. Louis, Mo. Offer good only in U. S.

Ry-Krisp is the unleavened whole grain wafer that looks like an airy, golden brown cracker, tastes like crisp toast.

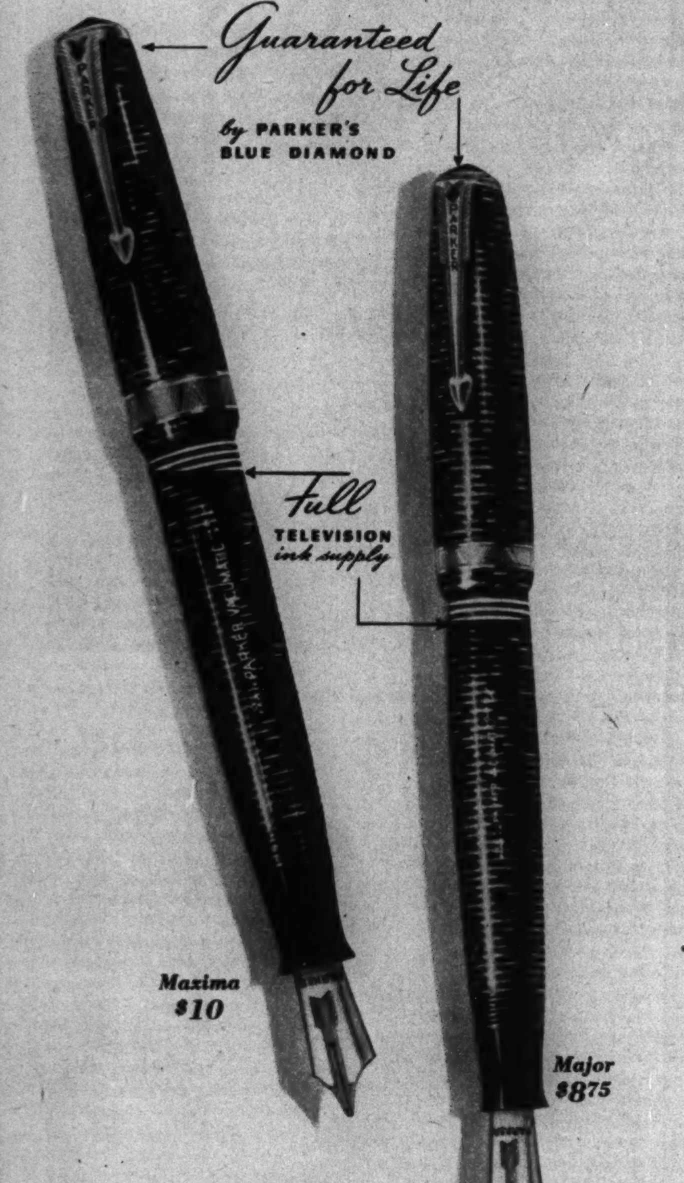
Just the Way Helium Was Found, Now Gold is Kept Pure by Parker

During the eclipse of 1868, Sir Norman Lockyer was observing the Sun's emanations with that rare instrument called the Spectrograph. Suddenly there appeared on his screen, a pattern never before seen by man, thrown off by some element unknown. It came from the Sun, in Greek called Helios, so they named it Helium.

Today, in the hands of Dr. Robert Pickus, chief Parker metallurgist, formerly of Yale, the Spectrograph unerringly detects any foreign matter in the Gold, Osmiridium, Platinum and other precious metals intended for Parker Pens, thus insuring the utter purity of those we use.

JUST AS HELIUM WAS DISCOVERED ON THE SUN

So Dr. Pickus Safeguards Parker Pen Points



Epochal advancements that mean lubricated writing—"as smooth as oil"—in the laminated Pearl Beauty Pen that holds nearly twice as much ink as our old style, and lets you SEE days ahead if it's running low!

Recently you've been hearing of the Parker "lubricated" pen Point—a fabulously resilient, non-brittle Point that takes the weight off your hand!

A point of extra fine-grained 14 K Gold, tipped with Osmiridium so hard and dense it takes a new high in polish—so uniform in crystalline structure that it won't wear scratchy as long as you live!

This remarkable writer has come into being through Parker's traditional skill in pen-making, reinforced by costly Parker research in physical metallurgy under the direction of Robert Pickus, B.S., Ph.D., chief Parker metallurgist, formerly of Yale.

Pen GUARANTEED for LIFE

by Parker's ◆ Blue Diamond

The Parker Vacumatic is the only Pen of its kind in the world—

the only one having that new, extra-resilient, non-brittle, 14 K Gold, "lubricated" Point which takes the load off your hand—writes "as smooth as oil"; that smart, exclusive, streamlined barrel of luminous Pearl and Jet rings;

that patented, One-Hand Sacless Filler—revolutionary in principle, basically better—with a Big Ink Reserve instead of a rubber ink sac; and that Television Ink Supply which shows days ahead if it's running low, so it won't run dry in passing a test, taking an order, signing a contract, catching the mail—won't miss the boat!

Refiners Amazed

Thus today America's greatest refiners of precious metals are learning from Parker secrets hitherto unknown.

At first some of them said: "We cannot understand why our osmiridium is acceptable to other pen manufacturers yet unsatisfactory to Parker."

But Dr. Pickus showed them the results of our studies including photomicrographs magnified up to 3,000 times normal size. These revealed to the naked eye the inner crystalline structures of the precious metals under varying conditions. And our revelations have inspired refiners to revolutionize their processes.

Found Only in Parker Pens

At some distant day all pen-makers may share these benefits. But as yet they're available in Parker Pens alone.

For no pen-maker we know approaches or even attempts the scientific safeguards and studies that we employ here daily.

The Parker Vacumatic is conceded by popular vote the smartest-looking, finest-performing pen in the world. Revolutionary in principle, basically better, and GUARANTEED FOR LIFE by Parker's Blue Diamond. Yet based on the Life Expectancy Tables of leading insurance companies, it costs less than poorest pens. All good pen counters are demonstrating now. See it and try it today. Laminated Pearl Pens, $5 to $13.75; Writefine Pencils to match, $3.50 to $6.
